ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

THE 'VARSITY.

With six crack men back, and an abundance of excellent new material, our outlook is indeed bright. The line is practically intact, with Lewis and Morse on ends, Jake Bingham and "Sis" Williamson tackles, and Reed left guard with "Fatty" Chichester's beaming countenance on the right. A good center is sure to be developed from some one of the class teams, in fact, Prof. Noble has already promised to lend us one of his men from the Prep. team. The back field is a little short, but with big Kirk our champion formation "buster" to lean against the line, and Tommy Lewis, general pigskin pusher and chief quarterback, and a couple of picked halves from the class teamsy there will be some peacherino, Jack Johnsonian mopping-up where mopping is good. We've got a great start for the winning team, and if you wish to boost it, come out and try for the class teams. We are going to have four top-notch, No. 1, hustling good elevens, and as many good coaches. For the College team we have one of the best coaches in the renowned "Shorty" Kern, the man who worked such great wonders with the Clinton squad. So it's up to you, fellows,; the field is ready, and the brew is good.

THE GRIDIRON.

Football, that great Titan of games, is upon you.—The game of manly men.—The game where brains, true strength, and glorious grit are locked arm in arm in one grand fight. Where grit, that little quality or attribute so fondly cherished by the Romans, more beautiful to true men than the Aurora, rises sublimely high above all. Does the call of the gridiron ring vainly in your ears? Lo! perhaps that grand old spirit of all the dead heroes, so long dormant, will come rushing through the dim ages and burst gloriously forth to demand a fighting chance to match your strength and cunning with that of your fellow man,—a chance to show the glorious stuff of which you are made, a chance to be a gridiron hero, the highest ideal of the college world. Will you take it, or will you remain forever on the side lines? Will you join the glorious few or will you always be a mere onlooker?

Some of the uninformed believe football not beneficial, but injurious, and a waster of time. But consider this: First, what normal man gives the hours from three to six to preparation of recitations? As every successful student knows nature craves and demands a certain amount of bodily exercise, and he consequently devotes to it the necessary period of time. Football as an exercise, is unparallelled; it not only exercises the whole body more thoroughly than any other game, but in the pure open air, which more than doubly enhances its value. Second, the most essential qualifications of a worldly man are those of quick-acting and thinking. These football cultivates with remarkable celerity and thoroughness. For the sluggard soon learns by necessity to hustle, if he does not, he knows he will be struck and trampled upon. To think slowly will mean to be outstripped, outclassed, and finally dropped from the team. Third, to be a man, one must be a real man; that is, both mentally and physically. When a young man is launched forth into the world he must be strongly fortified both in mind and body. College strengthens the inner man,—football the outer; the one without the other is a failure.

We care little if beauty is only skin deep, as we do not wish to swim in it, but you can have it always with you, if you will get one of Eyrich & Co.'s two dollar Brownie Cameras.

SOCIAL DEPARTMENT

COLLEGE NIGHT OBSERVED.

Enthusiastic and Instructive Occasion.

On Friday night, after the opening week a new feature was added, known as: "College Night." The student body assembled in the chapel, where they were addressed by students and professors. There was a distinctive College spirit manifested from the minute the first student entered the chapel until the last guest had departed. The ceremonies were here and there punctuated with college yells and college songs. The Whitson House Quartette rendered a few selections which were received well by the student body. Mr. Robert Jacob Bingham, from Amory, Miss., was "cheer leader," and the way he filled his position would have made the pow-wow of an Aster war dance sound as a correspondence school yell.

Mr. C. E. Johnson gave a short talk upon the "College Publications" which gave the new men an idea of how the college publications aid the various college activities. Mr. Steen explained the workings of the Honor Council, and the disposition of the students towards it. Mr. Colmar diagnosed the social situation. Dr. Hull addressed the gathering upon the Y. M. C. A., and created an enthusiasm for this important college activity. Professor Noble gave the students an idea of the athletic situation for the coming year. Brother Duke brought down the house with a vocal selection: "Love Me and Your Money is Mine," as sung by a Millsaps Co-ed.

After the program was finished the guests were ushered into the Y. M. C. A., hall, where punch was served. The new men were then given an opportunity to shake hands with each other and the old students. Every one present was labeled and the good time lasted until late in the night, when the parting was made reluctantly.

"College Night" was a distinctive success and its place in the opening week of Millsaps is permanently assured.

The Kappa Sigma Smoker.

On Saturday night, October second, the wearers of the Star and Crescent gave their first rushing party.

The smoker struck up a remarkable speed from the minute the first "duck" gave up his "arrow notch" collar as an impossibility until the guests departed with but little energy left to chew upon their "spearmint gum." With someone continually "beating the box" it seemed as if the roof would be raised; in fact, it is said that two policemen instinctively walked through the campus. If Mendelssohn could have heard the "Mendelssohn rag" tickled from the rugged side of that piano, he might have raised up for a minute, but would have fallen dead again.

The smoking room was decorated with athletic implements, here and there hanging a few pelts. The reception hall was tastefully decorated with pennants, pelts and other relics from all parts of the country. The gallery was used as a roof garden upon which was served punch in steins.

A few stunts in "scientific humbug" were pulled off, and the "bunch" howled during the entire evening. The way "When Father Went to College" was pitifully, solemnly and sympathetically sung, was masterful. When "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?' was sung, the new boys gathered in a group and wept. With a tumbler of joy in Marriage at West.

West, Miss., Oct. 1.—A delightful romance, which had its beginning in the school-room, culminated in a pretty home wedding at Auris, the home of Mr. J. L. Musselwhite, near this place. Mr. H. Grady Butler, of Smithdale, and Miss Lalla Musselwhite, of Auris, were the contracting parties, and the ceremony was said by Rev. J. S. Duke, pastor of the M. E. Church at Prairie, who was a room-mate of the groom when both attended Millsaps College.

Mr. Butler, as principal of Auris High School, met Miss Musselwhite as a pupil, and at once Dan Cupid made use of his arrows, both hearts were pierced, and the youth and fair maiden wended their way toward the altar of Hymen.

The bride is a beautiful brunette of eighteen summers, and is possessed of many rare and beautiful traits of character, and the groom is to be congratulated on having won her.

Walter E. Smith, of last year's Sophomore class, is now Principal of the West Public School.

We are glad to know that "Bish" Terrell is now serving as first assistant in the faculty of the Prentiss High School. "Bish" was always an enthusiastic college man. We predict for him a bright career as a Professor.

Mr. Butler is a young man of sterling character, and numbers his friends by his acquaintances. He is a brother of the Hon. George Butler, a prominent attorney of Jackson, and is well and favorably known over the southern part of the state.

After a brief honeymoon spent at the groom's old home, the young couple will return to Auris, where Mr. Butler will assume his duties as principal of Auris school.—Jackson Daily News.

LAMAR LITERARY SOCIETY

Oratory Freely Indulged In.

On Friday night, October the seventh, at the regular meeting hour, President Bufkin sounded the gavel, and called the house to order. The Society was led in prayer by Bishop Ramey. Then followed the roll call, and the names of Messrs. Hollifield, Cooper and McGee were replaced upon the roll.

After disposing of a few things such as the appointing of the bear slayer, Mr. Coggin, as Secretary, and the young Harriman, Mr. Collins, as Treasurer, the regular program of the evening was sounded, and none other than Mr. Grover Cleveland Clark came forth and delivered an oration that was as uplifting and inspiring as the first orations of the famous speaker, Socrates. When Mr. Clark closed his speech, the cheering was continued for some time.

The second speaker of the occasion was Mr. James Savage, of the Senior Class. Mr. Savage gave the society one of his best productions, and the simplicity of his style made his speech all the more attractive; for his oration brought honor to himself and to the society.

When all the business of the occasion was finished, the president called for some voluntary remarks by one of the old loyalists, and Bingham came forth in his usual conservative manner and discussed the importance of the society and its call for unanimous support. He was followed by one of the time honored men of the society, Judge Tindall, who discussed the process by which both new and old men may receive the greatest benefit from the society. Then Mr. Johnson, the president of the Senior class, was called forth, and in his cool, deliberate way gave his experience as a member of the society and further discussed its purpose. After which Mr. Walter Simpson Clark, of Wayne county, was elected monthly orator by acclamation.

There being no further business to come before the assembly, the president sounded the gavel and declared the house adjourned.

A large number of very promising new men were initiated into the mysteries of L. L. S. at this meeting.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Prof. A. Boyd Campbell, editor-in-chief of last year's Purple and White, and a member of the class of '10, is now Principal of the Mathiston High School. The many friends and associates of Campbell will be pleased to know that he is meeting with marked success in his chosen profession. The "Purple and White," remembering his valuable services in the past, wishes him a very bright future.

Mr. "Bob" Ruff, a very prominent man of the class of '10, was on the campus recently receiving the glad hand of his numerous friends and fratmates. He is still the same old "Red" Ruff.

We are glad to hear that A. L. Rodgers, of the class of '07, is now employed as cashier of the First National Bank of New Albany, Miss. Rogers was always noted for being a good business man while in college, and we are sure that he will succeed in his present business.

Mr. Morris Strom is now a valuable employe of Hunter & McGee's drug store in this city. He will be pleased to wait on any of his friends whenever they choose to call.

The editor-in-chief of the Purple and White is in receipt of a late communication from the Rev. Jesse Marcus Guinn, of Shuqualak, Miss. Quinn is now serving this charge as pastor. We predict that he will prove a very active and valuable member of the North Mississippi Conference.

Messrs. E. C. Brewer and J. Gann Johnson, strong members of the class of '10, are now doing post-graduate work in Vanderbilt University.

LOCALS

The Rev. Mr. James Galloway, of Crystal Springs, was on the campus on Wednesday, the 28th. He is meeting with large success, as usual, in his present field of labor.

Percy Ricketts, a recent initiate of the "can't come back" club, is now employed as cashier of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., of Drew, Miss.

Mr. Bratton, '10, is making quite a success teaching in Pascagoula this year.

F. S. Williams, '10, is near Brookhaven this year teaching the young idea to shoot.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairley, of Hazlehurst, were visitors to the college on opening day. Their son is a prominent member of the Sophomore class here.

Ask Miss Park to define a tragedy.

Can anyone explain why it is that one of our new co-eds rides to the end of Capitol street, and then walks back to her destination.

The Rev. Mr. Favre Adams has secured for the Lamar Literary Society a brilliant extemporaneous speaker.

Dr. Kern was in Clinton Saturday for the game between Mississippi College and the L. I. I. Dr. Kern had coached the Mississippi team.

Prof. Burton (musing upon Sophomore French class):
Perce jusques au fond du coeur
De ricaneures emnujenses aussi bien que simples,
Et malheureux objet d'une injuste rigeur,
Je demrure solemuel, et mon ame abattur
Sede au coup qui me tue,
Oh Dieu, l'trange peine!

Dr. Swartz will give to the college a $200 Lyceum endowment for the benefit of those students who do not care to provide for themselves the necessary tickets.

In the Free State of Jones they raise sugar-cane for seed—so says Mr. Collins.

Dr. I. W. Cooper, beloved President of our sister college in Brookhaven, honored us with his presence on opening day.

Prof. Burton says all his pupils love him.

"Spot" Mohler was shaking hands with his many friends on the campus a few days ago. Mohler was on his way to the University of Mississippi, where he enters the medical department this session.

John W. Green, of last year's Soph. class, is now pursuing a medical course at the University. A recent communication from "Long John" states that he is taking a light course of thirty-two hours this year.

Manley Cooper has been inquiring of a Junior if Pluto was not a great philosopher. The Junior's reply was that Pluto was the keeper of Sherman's definition of war.

John Burrus Kirkland, one of the leading society sports during the session of 1909-10, is now leading the simple life on his father's farm. Hurrah for J. B.!!!

The ancient order of the "Hyenas" upon its return to college was greatly pleased to behold the old dormitory made new again. The improvements are the subject of universal favorable comment and are outward and visible signs of the new energy and life that has come to our campus under the auspices of a new administration.

The college, especially the Freshmen students, are highly elated over the exceptionally large number of co-eds this session. We not only have most all of last year's co-eds with us again, but many new additions to this department have arrived. We quote the entire list as follows: Misses Hortense Smith, Lucile Bradford, Bessie Henderson, Janie Linfield, Rosa Howard, Barry Offutt, Calvin Offutt, Eleanor Lewis, Marguerite Park, Nettie Rogillio, Flora Lewis, Stella McGee, Courtnay Clingan, Anne Besse Whitson, Adele Knowles, Nellie Dodds, Berta Grey Steen, Grace Stratton, Lavada Hunnicutt, Myrtle Johnson, and Mary Linfield.

We wonder if our co-eds are going to take up the hobble-skirt rage?

The Lamar Literary Society is to be congratulated upon securing an honorary member in Miss Nettie Royillia.

Branham & Hughes has furnished us some excellent men again this year, in Messrs. J. H. Rodgers, Trice and Harkey. Most all of the men who come to us from this worthy institution prove good men, and we hold this school in high esteem.

Our President, Dr. D. C. Hull, delivered a very forcible lecture at the city Y. M. C. A. last Sunday afternoon at three-thirty. It was greatly enjoyed by all who were fortunate enough to hear it.

Ben Tindall, who represented the University of Mississippi in the M. I. O. A. contest at Meridian, Miss., in 1908, is now preparing himself for the supreme bench in the Millsaps Law School. We are glad indeed to have Mr. Tindall with us.

The "Hyeria's" are warming up. Already the "Hair" has slipped, and the "Baker" has burnt.

A Faculty committee to prepare a college exhibit at the State Fair, consisting of Prof. E. Y. Barton and Dr. J. M. Sullivan, has been chosen. Heretofore we have only had a science exhibit, but this year the plan is to make it a college exhibit. Any student having anything of interest for this committee will please see them.

Associate Editor Steen and Mr. Flowers have bought the "Brandon News." The Purple and White wishes them success.

EDITOR'S STATEMENT.

The Purple and White again extends its greetings and good wishes to all its friends and former supporters, and pledges every effort possible to maintain the high standard set in the past, and to increase its circle of friends and supporters.

Though founded in 1909, this paper is no longer an experiment, but is the livest publication of Millsaps College, successful financially, and our official organ. So much better has it proven than the "Collegian" that magazine, in compliance with the law of the "survival of the fittest," has disappeared. Founded by the Junior Class of 1909 for the purpose of promoting the interests of inter-collegiate athletics at Millsaps, it very soon became the representative of no one class, or cause, but the strong supporter of any movement tending to advance the interest of our student body and College. Hence, it is now what it should be, a publication thoroughly representative of Millsaps interest and life.

We now appeal to the student body on the ground that if we succeed in making The Purple and White the best College weekly in the South it will reflect honor on our student body and College and give an opportunity to even the humblest Preparatory student among us to develop his talents, to use his knowledge acquired in the class room, and in so doing to advance the interests of all. This we submit, is a very high purpose, but it can be realized if the entire student body will recognize that the interests of this paper can not be separated from the interests of each student.

We intend to make this a truly representative publication. But we can not do this without the enthusiastic co-operation of all students and members of the faculty. We have every assurance that the members of the faculty will at all times do everything possible to aid us, for we have seen their college spirit tested and proven in the past. So it has been heretofore with the students, and we have unbounded confidence in the spirit of the present student body. The outlook was never brighter and if you as a student will do your part, give the staff not only your good wishes and the subscription price of one or more copies as we feel sure you will do, but write the best story, poem, or other production you can and give it to the Editor, letting any news or jokes be known, you will feel a just pride in The Purple and White, because you helped make it and there will be no swiveled souled knocker, who will dare to disgrace and injure himself and his college by unkind criticism. The staff wishes to serve you but only for the purpose of advancing your own interests and the further development of that pure, clean cut, Millsaps spirit that breathes the spirit of brotherhood among us, so earnestly desired and strongly encouraged by our beloved new President.

If you have a local, tell the Local Editor; if a joke or a poem, give it to some member of the staff; if one dollar and fifty cents is in your pocket hunt up the Business Manager; but if you have a "grouch" get homesick and go to Dr. Hull.

Can the old gridiron heroes "come back" under the new Sunday School rules?

Y. M. C. A.

Work, Outlook, and Plans.

The Millsaps organization of the Y. M. C. A. has begun the session of 1910-11 with the brightest prospects which it has had in years.

During the summer preceding, two of the older members, Messrs. Beasley and Bingham, attended that great students' gathering at Montreat, N. C., the Southern Students' Conference. This conference, as all who are acquainted with students' meetings of this kind know, is a place where the very pick of our best colleges, both in athletic and literary lines, gather to study all of the problems which confront college men. There, too, athletic contests are engaged in and pennants are awarded to those schools which make the best records in the various phases of athletics. Dr. Kern, a member of our faculty and a man who is every inch an exponent of the Y. M. C. A., attended the Southwestern Students' Conference held at Seabrook, Texas. This conference is to the colleges of the southwest what that at Montreat is to those of the east. All three of these men who represented Millsaps at these conferences have come back to us filled with the spirit of the great purpose for which the Y. M. C. A. stands; the equal development of the physical, mental and spiritual attributes of man's nature.

At the very opening of the sessions, or, it might well be said, before, Dr. Kern, and the officers of the Association, together with the old members, began a crusade for the new men. Every train was met, and, as the students arrived, each was asked to sign a card making application for membership in the Young Men's Christian Association. Those men who were not thus seen were, soon after, given the opportunity, with the result that nearly 80% of the entire student body have applied for admittance to this great organization.

The Y. M. C. A., the purpose of which has already been stated, (the equal development of the body, mind and spirit) purposes to be behind every move which is made for the advancement of any phase of college life. It by no means intends to usurp or interfere with the place held by other departments, but it simply desires to and shall give its moral support to all of these things.

Plans are being worked out whereby the Y. M. C. A. hall may be fitted up as a study and reading room. It is intended to give every student the utmost freedom, more than can, of necessity, be granted in the library. Some of the latest periodicals will in the near future be found on its tables, and, quite probably, wholesome games, with which the students may amuse themselves, will be added.

An employment bureau has been organized, through which a limited number of worthy students may secure positions that will enable them to support themselves during the school year. This bureau is a new feature and has thus far proven very successful indeed. It is hoped that the scope of this department may be extended as each year passes. The people of Jackson, who have work to be done, can help the students and themselves by notifying the Y. M. C. A., for only those students who are considered worthy of confidence, will be recommended by the bureau.

In order that every man on the campus may keep in touch with the movements of the Association, Mr. S. J. Johnson, one of the leading business men of Jackson, a man who has always been a staunch supporter of the college, and one who has never failed to give its students a square deal, has offered to present, each month, blotters which shall contain a calendar and a program of the Association work for that month. These blotters are to be distributed, so that each man may have one on his table all the time.

College Night, though not distinctly a Y. M. C. A. affair by any means, proved to be eminently successful for that organization. Dr. Hull, the new president of our institution, who has for a number of years been the leading spirit in the Association at the A. & M. College, and has brought that body to such a high state of perfection, spoke to the gathering on the purpose of the Y. M. C. A. No more stirring address has ever been given in the halls of Millsaps and a large amount of enthusiasm was created.

The committee on program is making arrangements for a number of addresses from outside speakers, both from the faculty and other leading men in the various walks of life. The first of these addresses was given by Dr. Kern on Friday night last. Dr. Kern's subject was "Strength," and although "small of stature," he in a practical heart-to-heart talk showed very conclusively that real strength lies not in muscular ability, but in character which has truth as its basic principle. At the conclusion of the address nearly all, if not all, of those present agreed to read their Bibles regularly every day for the space of ten minutes. This step will mean much to the life of every man who has taken it, and it is hoped that every man in school will follow these first.

The enrollment of our Association has been more than doubled and 80% of the entire student body have been placed upon its roster; yet, men, we must not be satisfied to rest on our arms. With such bright prospects and such opportunities for the removal of those obstacles which have stood between us and success, shall we not make this our slogan, "Every member of Millsaps a member of the Y. M. C. A." Then with our banner unfurled advance to victory and make this the greatest year in the history of our college. We can do it. Let us determine that we will.

The following advisory board for the Y. M. C. A. has been appointed for the year 1910-11:

Drs. Kern and Burton, both professors of Millsaps; Hon. W. H. Watkins.

Mr. W. M. Buie, cashier of the Citizens Savings Bank, Jackson, Miss.

DR. M. W. SWARTZ RECEIVES DEGREE.

Dr. M. W. Swartz received his Ph.D. degree last June from the University of Virginia at the final convocation. The subject of his dissertation was: "The Personal Characteristics and Dramatic Use of the Old in Euripides." This will be published during the course of the year by the J. H. Furst Publishing Co., Baltimore, Md. Those who have seen the dissertation and read it declare that it is a valuable contribution to Greek literary interpretation.

At the same convocation at the University of Virginia last June Dr. Swartz was initiated into the Beta of Virginia chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity.

Millsaps College is very fortunate in securing Dr. Swartz's continued service in the department of Ancient Languages, for he has always maintained very high standards. He was chosen to fill the newly created office of Treasurer of the Faculty by the Board of Trustees at their last meeting, and has added system to college finances.

"Crip" Jones, an enthusiastic football fan and a prominent member of the class of '10, was a recent visitor on the campus. Jones was a very active college man while here, and served as assistant in the English department during his senior year.

The whereabouts of one Augustus Caesar Kelly, commonly known as "Gus," are not known to the staff of the "Purple and White." We fear that Gus is in some far Western State speaking for prohibition. A committee from the staff has been appointed to investigate and report his whereabouts. Some one has suggested that he might be in Utah.

We were glad to note the presence of H. B. McCluer, of '10, at our opening eexrcises.

Lamar Neill, of '07, is now superintendent of the Laurel City Schools. He has met with success as a school man ever since he left college and we feel sure that he will prove a good superintendent for the schools of Laurel, Miss.

Chas. Rew, who was the efficient business manager of the Purple and White last session, is engaged in business with his father at Forest, Miss. The Purple and White wishes Rew marked success as a business man.

DR. WEBER'S DEATH.

He Founded Millsaps' English Department.

The alumni and former members of the Millsaps faculty were very much saddened to hear of the death of Dr. W. L. Weber, which occurred at the sanitarium at Shreveport, La., Oct. 1.

Dr. Weber was the founder of the English Department of Millsaps and the strong position which that department now holds, is in part, due to his earnest and constant efforts in the beginning.

After leaving Millsaps, Dr. Weber was elected to the Chair of English in Emory College, at Oxford, Ga., a position which he held with great credit for nine long years. When the Louisiana Conference decided to move Centenary College from Jackson to Shreveport, La., a president was needed to fill the responsible position of its head. After much thought and deliberation, Dr. Weber was elected and for the space of two years gave his entire efforts to the upbuilding of that school. Because of the intense strain which the work entailed, Dr. Weber's health broke down, and, after an operation, it was decided that he should rest for the remainder of that session of school, the half of which had been covered under his able leadership. After a long stay in Charleston, S. C., at the home of his father, Dr. Weber felt that his strength had returned, and he accepted the position of President of Mansfield Female College, the girls' school of the Methodist Church in Louisiana. It was here that the relapse came, and after a short stay this great man passed to his reward.

It is to Dr. Weber that Mississippi owes the reputation of Irwin Russell. It was during his stay at Millsaps that Dr. Weber discovered this writer, of whom Mississippi is so justly proud. It is to him that articles in the records of the State Historical Society are due and the plan for the placing of a bust of Russell in the Hall of Fame originated with him.

Dr. W. L. Weber held, until the time of his death, the distinction of being considered the finest English teacher in the South. As a man, he had few equals, for his character was a living example of the Christian religion of which he was the strongest of exponents.

No student who has sat under his teachings, or has been in any way associated with him, has any other feeling than that of great love and respect for this great and good man, and the whole South in which he was so well known, feels a deep sorrow at his loss.

Kappa Alpha Smoker.

The Kappa Alpha Fraternity held their annual opening smoker in their attractive chapter house on Wednesday evening, Oct. 5. The rooms of the house were decorated in pennants of all kinds and of a number too numerous to mention. The library, converted into a smoking room for the occasion, had its table covered with everything which a smoker could wish, and in other parts of the hall could be found fruits and punch in the greatest abundance. Good fellowship and a "flow of soul" unsurpassed was enjoyed until a late hour.

Among those present were: Messrs. Davis, Jones, A. C., Buie, W. M., Harper, Peebles, R., Peebles, D., Hannon, Hyer, Stewart, Moore, Neville, Clifford, Potter, Magee, Galloway, Phillips, A. Trice, Phillips, J., Roberts, Rodgers, Whitten, Yerger, Green, Cooper, Burks, Sample, Ward, Ruff, Tindall, West, Truly, Henderson, H. C., Henderson, W. F., Berry, Taylor, Weilerman, Boswell, Irving, Enochs, Johnson, Phillips, T., Welsh, Profs. Burton, Noble and Burton and Dr. A. A. Kern.

COLLEGE WORLD.

There's the ordinary notice,
In a subsidiary tone,
From the dean—that's Dr. Barnwell—
Who presumes we do not "bone."

There is that in which our dealer—
Will the blockhead never croak—
Says "There is a little matter"—
And the dumbhead knows we're broke.

There's the letter from our fathers,
With the aggravating hint,
That it's time we hesitated
In our books to take a squint.

That is followed by our mothers,
And she quotes that learning's wealth—
With the underlying current
Not to sacrifice our health.

And our sisters write us letters

Of the doings of our boy friends,
And the constant social foam.

But the letter from our sweethearts,
Be it penmanship or scrawl,
Gives the greatest satisfaction,
Is the pleasantest of all.

The Hon. E. E. Baldwin Collection—Made by Him During Foreign Travels—Donated by His Son, C. F. Baldwin.

This collection contains a great variety of valuable minerals collected by the late lamented Hon. E. E. Baldwin during extensive foreign travels, and was very generously donated to the college by his son, Mr. C. F. Baldwin. It contains minerals of great service for class use, among which is an interesting collection of Indian relics.

They were secured through the efforts of Dr. J. M. Sullivan over several other colleges. Dr. Sullivan greatly appreciates this collection, and the college is to be congratulated because of his success.

Another Collection of Value.

The college is under obligation to Rev. J. A. Randolph for an interesting collection of foreign coins and war relics from the Philippines. Rev. J. A. Randolph served as chaplain in the insular war, and has generously remembered the college in a way that all will appreciate.

VOLUME III. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, OCT. 21, 1910 NUMBER 2

PRESIDENT DAVID CARLISLE HULL

ADMINISTRATION MARKS NEW EPOCH IN HISTORY OF MILLSAPS—HAS WON THE STUDENT BODY.

Seldom in the history of any educational institution has any man entered upon his administration under more favorable auspices than President D. C. Hull. Under the leadership of Dr. W. B. Murrah whose promotion to the College of Bishops left Millsaps College without a head, the institntion was placed on a solid foundation and achieved phenomenal success in the two decades of its existence Though past achievement has been remarkable, the ideal location of Millsaps College and peculiar educational conditions in Mississippi and the south at present furnish an unsurpassed opportunity for even greater achievement in educational work and promotion of good citizenship. Hence the Board of Trustees were called upon to make educational history in the selection of a new President, and only a man strong, capable, experienced, and far-sighted, could make the most of the opportunity.

In this search for such a man their attention was directed to Prof. D. C. Hull, then a Professor at the A. & M. College. Investigation very soon convinced them that Prof. Hull could meet the demands of the situation and he was chosen President.

When his selection was first announced it was a popular one and President Hull was welcomed in the ranks of the foremost educators in the South. He saw not only the opportnnity but felt it his duty at once to exert all his energy to advance the interest and increase the enrollment of the college whose destiny had been placed in his hands. Results show how well he worked, a thirty-five per cent increase in enrollment being one of these results. The campaign begun will be vigorously waged by him until the advantage offered by the college becomes common knowledge throughout the South.

His masterly address on opening day showed clearly that his ideals are the highest and was a hit with the students and the public.

His manifest sincerity and devotion to duty have won the high respect, and his kindness and gentleness even to the humblest, have won the hearts of all the students.

So his administration is entered upon with the confidence of all and the prospeets for the future of Millsaps College are very bright.

PRESIDENT DAVID CARLISLE HULL.

PROFESSOR J. M. BURTON.

Early in the summer the Executive Cammittee elected Professor J. M. Burton, of Culpepper, Virginia, to succeed Professor G. Diuguid Davidson, as Professor of Modern Languages. Professor PORTRAIT OF MAJOR R. W. MILLSAPS PRESENTED.

Life Size Portrait of Major Millsaps Presented to the College—Bishop Murrah Makes Presentation Address and President Hull responds.

On October the thirteenth, nineteen hundred and ten the students of this institution were called together to witness a very impressive ceremony. The meeting was opened by singing that grand old song, "Blest be the tie that binds." The invocation was by Dr. W. T. J. Sullivan, rendered in a very impressive manner.

The appearance of Bishop W. B. Murrah, our former president, upon the rostrum was an occasion for spontaneous and enthusiastic applause which lasted for several minutes. Dr. Hull then turned the exercises over to him.

The Bishop in his usual deliberate style delivered a most powerful address. After a few opening remarks he went back into the history of our institution. In this manner some remarkable facts were brought out which were hitherto unknown to the majority of the student-body.

Bishop Murrah said that since the Methodist Church has been founded it had taken a very prominent part in educational matters, in fact, that it had always been "irrevocably committed to the policy of education," that in a large measure this policy had made the church the great success that it was today, and that should we go back upon this policy we should go back upon the very history of our church.

The bit of history which the Bishop gave us was somewhat as follows: "Some years ago, the two Mississippi conferences severed their connection from Centenary College, at Jackson, Louisiana. At the time of this disconnection Mississippi Methodists faced a very desperate situation in regard to educational matters. They had no institution under their control and felt very profoundly the need of one. Hence, the two Conferences appointed commissioners to confer with each other and try to devise some plan by which such an institution might be established. This commission had indeed a difficult proposition to face. In fact, it seemed almost a hopeless task. However, when this commission met in Jackson, Mississippi, the meeting was marked with great enthusiasm throughout, and several notable speeches were delivered.

"At the close of their meeting a distinguished layman of Jackson looked into the situation and became very enthusiastic over the idea. He saw the great need of such an institution, and as a result of his investigations, Major R.

W. Millsaps said to the commission, 'If the Mississippi Methodists will raise fifty thousand dollars for the founding of such an institution, I will give fifty thousand dollars.' The Major's generous proposition was gratefully accepted by the commission and a vigorous campaign was launched to secure the other fifty-thousand dollars. It is needless to say that the necessary funds were raised. From time to time since then the Major has come to our rescue in many ways. He has generously given to us our present dormitory, and has aided us in other ways too numerous to mention."

Continuing his address the Bishop said, "Our very existence would be impossible were it not for him. No institution ever had such a friend as Major Millsaps has been to this institution. So far as contributing money to church institutions is concerned he stands out alone a unique figure in church history.

"He should be a living example to young men of one who has gained his wealth through his own honest efforts, of one who is energetic, unselfish and ever faithful in his devotion to duty."

After this bit of history the Bishop came to the main object of his address which was to present a portrait of Major Millsaps to the College. The Bishop remarked that it was only through his persistent solicitations that the Major ever agreed to have a portrait made to place in the College chapel. He was naturally and truly modest about the matter, but when Bishop Murrah had once secured his promise of a portrait he showed his usual generous and unselfish spirit, which is so characteristic of him. He went to New York and secured the services of the best artist in the United States to paint this portrait. This occasioned the Major much inconvenience and loss of time, but he gladly did it for this institution.

"And now," said the Bishop, "the most pleasant duty of my life is to present to you this portrait of Major R. W. Millsaps." When the portrait was uncovered it was greeted with a tremendous outburst of applause which was repeated over and over again.

President D. C. Hull in his speech of acceptance expressed the hearty appreciation of both the Faculty and the student body for this thoughtful remembrance. He said, "It comes to us an as added evidence of the tender affection which the Major has always shown for us in the past. The buildings, the ample grounds, the name,—all link the name of this man to our College forever. This portrait comes to us as a token of affectionate regard as from a parent to a child. We receive it as such and place it here upon our chapel wall so that we may look upon it often and be inspired by its presence."

Dr. Hull then expressed our appreciation to Bishop Murrah for his kind interest in us in securing this portrait for us, and also expressed a desire that in the near future we might have another portrait, that of Bishop W. B. Murrah to place by its side. This suggestion was greeted by visible marks of approval in the way of applause from the audience.

SOCIAL

Pi Kappa Alpha Smoker.

Saturday evening, October 15, was the occasion of the opening annual smoker of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

The merriment started at 8:30 o'clock, and lasted without cessation till 1130. The punch bowl was filled and re-filled many times, and the source of pleasure which it afforded was proven by the number of times which it was frequented by the boys. A large center table was covered with smoking material in as great a variety as any "user of the weed" could wish. Fruit of all kinds was in the greatest abundance, and was greatly enjoyed. Pennants hung in great variety on the walls, and the artistic arrangement of the hall was perfect.

Among those present were, Drs. Kern and Swartz; Professors Young, Noble and Burton; Messrs. H. L. Galloway, Jas. S. Savage, E. J. Davis, S. T. Floyd, Ramsey Roberts, J. T. Phillips, C. W. Crisler, S. F. Harkey, Nolan West, B. Burks, Ed Neville, T. E. Trice, Rogers, L. A. Phillips, P. H. Daniels, D. A. Clark, Jas. K. Vardaman, Charley McDowell, W. M. Colmer, Harry Lassiter, L. C. Kirkland, S. Lampton, Frank Scott, Campbell Yerger, B. C. Rush, J. C. Ross, John Payton, T. W. Lewis, M. L. Neill, Lucien Reed, Will Holmes, W. M. Darman, S. E. Williamson.

On Friday afternoon, the Freshman Class elected the following officers: President, S. L. Crockett; Vice President, Daniels; Secretary, West; Treasurer, W. Welsh.

Mr. Fred Smith, Secretary Nuts Club: I do hereby most humbly apply for membership in the great and famous Nuts Club. Signed, Victor G. Clifford.

Burton comes to us with the highest recommendations and with a most noteworthy record for scholarship. He received his early training at the Randolph-Macon Academy at Bedford City, Virginia, and in 1909 was graduated from Randolph-Macon College with the degree of A. B. The following year he received the Master's degree from the same institution; during his course in college he received every scholarship medal that was offered, was a leading member in the Osiris chapter of Sigma Upsilon and an initiate of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

His scholarly habits, his enthusiastic interest in college affairs, his thorough knowledge of his subject and his ability as a teacher have already proved that the executive committee made no mistake in electing him and the student-body and faculty have been glad to extend to him a cordial welcome.

MILLSAPS DOUBLE QUARTETTE ORGANIZED.

J. W. Henderson Elected President, T. W. Lewis, Jr., Business Manager—Prospects Bright.

The Millsaps Double Quartette is now a reality. The services of Miss Johnson, an experienced musician, have been secured and the available material is abundant and promising.

Last Friday night organization was perfected by the election of J. W. Henderson, President; L. C. Kirkland, Vice President; H. C. Henderson, Secretary and Treasurer; and T. W. Lewis, Jr., Business Manager.

With these talented, energetic and enterprising leaders success is assured, as they will no doubt get the enthusiastic support of the student body and all friends of Millsaps.

Notwithstanding the former Director, Prof. H. T. Moore, is not with us we can now hope to have a creditable Glee Club. The loss of Prof. Moore was very keenly felt, for his services made the Glee Club a success while he was with us, and the entertainment his boys gave us add to our pleasant memories. An entertainment will very likely be given in the early part of December, and the students anticipate something good.

LOCALS

Put up you hammer now, and "boost" your college and thereby "boost" yourself.

Among our distinguished visitors opening day were: Bishop William Belton Murrah, Millsaps' former president; Gov. E. F. Noel who delivered a most excellent address on "Temperance as the Foundation for a Career;" President J. C. Hardy—an alumnus of Millsaps—of the Agricultural & Mechanical College at Starkville; Mr. Powers, State Superintendent of Education; Archdeacon Smead; and Jackson's enterprising young Mayor, A. C. Crowder.

Apply at the Linfield House for information concerning "Beulah and the Butterflies."

The Rev. Mr. G. B. Clifford, of Yazoo City, was a welcome visitor to the College on opening day. His son, Mr. V. G. Clifford, is one of our new students this year.

The Rev. Mr. Selby, pastor of the Jefferson Street Methodist Church in Natchez, was with us on the 28th.

Query: How will Mr. Davis escape Freshman Bible?
Answer: He will become a ministerial student.

We are glad to have with us this year an alumnus of the Chamberlain-Hunt Academy at Port Gibson. Mr. Galloway, who is the son of the Rev. George Galloway, the popular presiding elder of the Vicksburg District. Mr. Galloway has made a reputation for himself on the gridiron, and of course, is quite an addition to the College.

Mr. Henderson says Agricola was not a general, but a farmer.

Prof. T. L. Bailey, in Woodville this year, is making a splendid success of his work as principal of the graded schools. Mr. Bailey was a prominent and influential member of the class of '09.

Query: Why does Dr. Swartz object to Mr. Mitchell's music?

On last Sunday evening Mr. H. C. Henderson preached at the Rankin Street Methodist Church of this city. The congregation, except one rather youthful person, enjoyed greatly this most excellent sermon.

Certain gentlemen can testify to the fact that it is risky business to be present at "The Girl from the U. S. A." They gained this knowledge from sad experience.

Through the efforts of the Executive Committee of the Y. M. C. A. and Dr. M. W. Swartz, an excellent Lyceum Lecture Course is assured us this session. If you want to get your money's worth be sure to subscribe to this worthy undertaking.

R. O. Jones is now playing end on A. & M.'s team. We noticed through the press the ends were the features of the Auburn-A. & M. game. Hurrah for R. O.! He seems to still hold his old time form as a football player.

"Prep" Heflin says that Dr. Burton is a Caucasian. What does Heflin think he is himself?

Messrs. D. W. Bufkin, R. D. Peets and D. D. Cameron report a rather strange coincidence to have taken place on their end of the campus. According to the statements of these respectable gentlemen, frying size chickens were seen walking around under the arc light in front of Mrs. Merritt's residence at 12:15 a. m.,—and stranger still the action on the part of said chickens was wholly voluntary.

Mr. Will Holmes, an old Millsaps student, was on the campus Friday and Saturday of last week shaking hands with his many friends and enjoying a short stay with his fratmates. Mr. Holmes has been in school in Kentucky, and has now returned to his home in Magnolia to accept a lucrative position.

Mr. H. F. Galloway, one of our most popular new men, is making frequent trips to Bolton. It makes us wonder what she looks like if a fellow will leave the Jackson girls to see her.

A. A. Green, Jr., has been initiated into the Kit Kat Club of Sigma Upsilon. Professor J. M. Burton, the new professor of Modern Languages, has been received by transfer into the Club; for the past three years he has been the leading spirit of the Osiris Chapter of Sigma Upsilon. The Club will limit its study each year to some phase or period of Southern literature; this year the topic will be the negro dialect poems that have been written by Southern writers.

Professor G. D. Davidson, who filled the chair of Modern Languages so acceptably last year, is Instructor in French in Vanderbilt University this session. He has affiliated with the Calumet Club of Sigma Upsilon, as has also Ed Brewer.

PRESIDENT HULL STRONG.

It is now five months since the PURPLE AND WHITE said that the election of Doctor Murrah to the bishopric meant the closing of an epoch in the history of Millsaps College. Today we can say with equal certainty and emphasis that the beginning of President Hull's administration marks the opening of another epoch that will form a brilliant chapter in the educational and social history of this state and of the South.

The increase of thirty-five per cent in the enrollment is merely one of the indications of a new life. The general tone of the student body is most significant to one who attempts to keep in touch with things as they are. The air of buoyancy and cheerfulness and the business like bearing of the new as well as the old men is in a large degree the reflection of the genial personality of the new head of the administration. President Hull is a man of strong and sturdy physique, who impresses a stranger at once with his wealth of reserve power, who is calm and good natured, because he has perfect confidence in his ability to handle the difficult problems he may be called on to solve. He has from the beginning impressed the men with the idea that he knows what he wants to do and that he is going to do exactly that thing.

With all this strength of will there is infinite tact; no one has a suspicion that he will be brow-beaten or threatened, every one feels that he will be met as a man, but that he will also be expected to meet the obligations of a man.

It is evident to the student body that the new president has back of him the enthusiastic confidence of each member of the faculty, and we here pledge to him the loyal support of the PURPLE AND WHITE in every attempt to improve the tone of the College, to raise the standard of work, and to continue the tradition that Millsaps stands especially for what is best in thorough education.

OUR HONOR SYSTEM.

Millsaps College is to be congratulated upon the success of its honor system. THE PURPLE AND WHITE has always manifested faith in the high standards of morality and conduct of Millsaps students. They are said never to figure in police courts and their influence is exerted in favor of decency, and manly and gentlemanly conduct. Very rarely has it been the case that friends of Millsaps have been called upon to blush because of the conduct of the most careless.

We predicted when the Honor Committee was chosen and the system given a definite formal existence here that the students would make it a success. We did this because we believed in Millsaps men, that when they were appealed to on grounds of honor and honesty they would respond. The results have more than justified our statement and there is among us a most healthy spirit of honor. This ought to be a source of just pride and we should exert every energy toward the further cultivation of it so that a Millsaps man will always be depended on to stand for honesty in everything and the man who cheats in any form on examination will be regarded as a common thief who is trying to steal a pass. College men are not averse to being looked to as the future leaders of the social organization. Therefore, they should accept the responsibility of such leadership and lead in the common realms of honor and honesty. A man who spends the regular four years with us ought to have this spirit a second nature to him, so that he would never stoop to dishonesty. He would then become a valuable addition to the great body of American citizens and though he never became prominent would be a political asset and not a liability.

The new student need not hesitate to support this spirit for it has the sanction of the Faculty and all right-thinking college men. And what is broadest, strongest, and highest of all, it is founded upon the right and truth. The man who cheats to secure advancement never respects himself as before, for he knows he is unworthy of respect. Others cannot be expected to respect him as before. But if he loses some coveted prize to be honest he rises above mere advancement in the eyes of his fellow-students and gets square with himself and the world.

We believe in a square deal and we would be dishonest if we did not. But for the man who steals from his closest college friend by getting dishonestly a diploma equal in the eyes of the world to that of of his friend, the square deal is no "haven of rest" and means that he be excluded from the association of gentlemen

So to the new man we would say that the Honor System upholds under penalty of expulsion and everlasting disgrace, for disregard, the student's honor and good name; it not only upholds these, but the students and faculty making known their will in this way demand of you that you hold them sacred. If you have an ounce of manhood in you, you will yield to this demand: If you do not yield, the only square deal we know demands that you be expelled and disgraced for life. Is this unreasonable? Experience says No. Honesty says No. Honor says No. Your own self-respect says No. Therefore, "first to thine own self be true, and it shall follow as the night the day, thou cans't not then be false to any man."

Y. M. C. A.

Y. M. C. A. Receives Many Members —All Members Should Get Busy— Committees Organized—Dr. Smith to Lecture.

The Y. M. C. A. held its first business meeting on Friday evening, October 14, for the purpose of receiving those new men who had applied for membership.

After a short devotional service led by Mr. Holifield, the Association was called into business session by President Broom and under the head of reception of members quite a number of men came forward and took the pledge. Unfortunately some of those who had signed cards were absent, but another business session will be arranged for soon, at which time these will be received. It may be said to those men who have just become members that their obligation to the Association is not ended with the taking of the membership pledge,—it has just begun. Be on hand at every meeting; keep up with what each department is doing and at all times and at every opportunity pull for men and work for the upbuilding of this organization of which you are an important part. Don't leave it for the other man,—he may be doing the same thing and the work will not be done and the leader will have no audience. Any member of the organization who puts nothing into it, cannot expect anything in

The Chairman of the Committee on Bible Study reports that this committee is wide awake and that it is preparing for an enthusiastic rally to be held in the near future. Every man who has given this Bible Study course a few minutes of his time regularly, will tell you that he would not part with the knowledge which he has gained for a great deal. More will be said on this subject at a later date.

The Mission Study Committee is also arranging to presents its deeply interesting course to all of the men as soon as the time can be arranged.

We note with satisfaction the great work which is being done by our neighbor Association in town. The lectures which they have been presenting on Sunday afternoons are most excellent and well worth going a long distance to hear.

Our own College Y. M. C. A. proposes to put on a similar course of lectures to be delivered by the best men obtainable. This series of lectures will be on the choice of one's life-work, and it is planned that each of the professions shall be represented.

Are you keeping your Bible reading pledge?

Are you coming to the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Friday night, October 21, to hear the lecture which is to be delivered by Dr. Smith? Why, certainly, for Dr. Smith, is a man who is thoroughly in sympathy with college work and college students. The reason for this lies in the fact that he is a graduate of Central College and has taken post graduate work at Vanderbilt. More than this he has been for a number of years, president of Central College for Women located at Lexington, Mo. He is at this time the pastor of the First Methodist Church at Jackson, Miss., and is a strong and forceful speaker. I am going because I simply can't afford to miss hearing him.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Sam Osborne, of '07, also a Law graduate of '10, is now practicing law in Greenwood, Miss. We are glad to hear that Sam is making a success.

Joe Baker, of the Law Class of '08, now has an office in the Millsaps Building on Capitol Street. Joe is doing well here, however, this is no surprise to those who are acquainted with him.

Brown, of '10, is now a member of the Louisiana Conference. We learned a day or so ago that Brown has taken unto himself a helpmeet. Rah for Brown!

D. T. Ruff, of '08, is at present a member of the Senior Law Class. Tom is still the same "jolly good fellow." We are indeed glad to have him back with us.

Ellzey, of the '10 Law Class, is now one of Jackson's prosperous young attorneys. It is rumored that he has a very important case on his hands out in the northern part of Jackson. Go to it old boy, we hope you will succeed!

M. L. Neill, of last year's 'Varsity, Business Manager of The Bobashela, Chairman of the Hand Book Committee, etc., was seen on the campus last Wednesday. While on the campus Mr. Neill performed valuable jury service in recent investigations. Even Dr. Sullivan did not challenge him, thus proving his high character.

Mr. W. E. Phillips, B. S., of Belle Prairie, Miss., is engaged in business at home with his father. We predict for him a bright business future.

Landon K. Carlton, B. S., 1907, is an attorney and counsellor at law, at New Albany, Miss.

Gilbert Cook, B. A. 1908, is now a full fledged college professor in Arlington College, Oklahoma. He spent the summer at the University of Chicago, and it will be no surprise to Dr. Swartz to learn his work is principally in Latin.

Will Murrah, A. B. 1907, has been elected Vice President of the Vanderbilt Students Association and was one of two recent initiates into the Calumet Club. He is also chairman of the Devotional Committee of the Y. M. C. A., and is taking a leading part in Vanderbilt life.

John Howard Brooks, A. B. 1908, after teaching a year at Gunnison, Miss., has entered the theological department of Vanderbilt University.

FOOT BALL IN THE AIR.

There Will Be Three Crack Teams to Mdasure Strength for the Championship.

Each day Coaches Kern, Burton, and Noble put their respective squads through practice vigorous and beneficial and they are rounding into shape as fast as could well be expected in view of the multiplicity of calls upon the time of our athletes at present.

It sounds good to the football fan to hear the sound of signal calls upon the campus and to see the boys in uniform going to and fro trying to make the various class teams.

Some complaint has been made that the Preps are not coming out as they should do. This should not be, for the Preps could put out the strongest team in College if all their material was properly utilized. Professor Noble has never yet failed to do his part and more, so let every Prep who can make any sort of showing don his football togs and go forth to the gridiron.

No complaint has been made concerning the other squads. They are fast rounding into shape and a snappy series of class games will no doubt be pulled off in the near future. Rah! for football!!

GALLOWAY SOCIETY MEETING.

Officers installed—Debate Able.

The regular meeting of the Galloway Society was held in its hall at the main building Friday night.

Retiring President Beasley after giving his address, installed the incoming president, Williamson, who delivered his inaugural address to an attentive audience. The other officers-elect were installed.

The following program was then rendered:

Declamation—W. E. Morse.

Oration—A. J. Beasley.

Debate—RESOLVED, That a man owes his allegiance to his party rather than to his convictions. Affirmative, H. C. Henderson and D. T. Ruff; Negative, D. D. Cameron and Mr. Cain.

The impromptu debate, RESOLVED, That we should have co-education in our high schools and colleges was upheld by J. M. Morse and opposed by J. W. Broom. These gentlemen argued this great question in an extremely able manner.

Notice to Members of the Staff and to Contributors!

To get the paper out on time the Business Manager must have your material on time. After consulting with him it is found necessary for you to hand in your work not later than Saturday night of each week. Only such material as could not have been turned in to the Editor-in-Chief at that time will be published if handed in later, such as locals, social news, etc., that cannot be given in Saturday night and this will not be published if handed in later than 9 o'clock Monday morning. Please comply with this request as it is essential to our success.—EDITOR.

Millsaps is to be congratulated on the bright Glee Club prospects. This worthy organization should and will get the enthusiastic support of all our students for its members can give us some very excellent entertainment, at home, and enhance our reputation abroad.

THE PURPLE AND WHITE would be glad to keep in close touch with our alumni and alumnae. They have gained general and substantial success and favor with the public, but their success is still linked with our own and any suggestions or contributions will be gratefully received by the editor.

LOCALS

Mr. Rogers says Fred Smith has only to fall down twice toward the north in order to be at home.

Professor Noble received the degree of Master of Arts at Chicago ast summer. His thesis, which received the high praise from authorities on the subject, was entitled The Agricultural High School in the South. It will be published in a prominent school journal during this year. Professor Noble also gave eminent satisfaction as President of the Mississippi Club of the University of Chicago, a position which was held by Dr. Swartz during the preceding summer.

H. E. TAYLOR, Manager

Miss Olive Lipscomb was among the Millsaps students at Chicago during the summer term; she specialized in English and Education. Millsaps was also represented by Bishop Murrah and his family, who were staying at the Chicago Beach Hotel during August. The Bishop improved his opportunity by making good use of the University library during his stay.

Professor Henry Moore, sometime occupant of the chair of Modern Languages, is teaching French and coaching the Glee Club at the Haverford School near Philadelphia. His brother, Olin Moore, has won a travelling fellowship from Harvard and is spending the winter in Florence and Paris.

W. C. Coggin was called home last week on account of the illness of his brother. He returned on Sunday morning, and reports his brother improved, and also a pleasant trip to Verona where there is a dear friend of his.

Boykin, at the Dormitory, fears that he is forming the "zip" habit. We suggest the Keeley cure.

Possible Trace of Gus Kelly.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 17. (Special to the Purple and White). —Responsible citizens say that a Gus Kelly was in this city a few weeks ago, and made strong prohibition speeches. Little is known of him. He departed about twenty-four hours later alleging New York as his destination. Nothing certain about his being a Mississippian or an alumnus of Millsaps College.

The burning question is: Where is Gus Kelly—our Gus? Search will continue.

Bish Rainey says there is nothing to Bob Taylor. Bish perhaps forgets that Bob is great on the pardoning stunt. It is safe to stand in with a man of this kind so in case he should be Governor, all goes well.

Students are allowed to be absent from classes 10 per cent of their time without excuse. Victims of the hobble skirt craze are aloowed 20 per cent.

Preps and Freshmen will take notice that they cannot automobile their way through college. Only the plodding qualities of a mule will land them in Alumnusdom.

All's well, in this world, that stip-ends well.

Fred Jones has acquired quite a taste for football. Beware your pig-skin.

Whom the professor loveth he encores. Goose eggs, formerly high are now cheap, and the professors get there early, to avoid the rush. They will be distributed to all unfortunates at the old stand.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK.

Three Evenly Matched Teams—The Juniors Strong.

On Tuesday afternoon, October 25th, will commence the first great game of the series to be played off by the Class Teams. This event will prove to be something highly uproarious and altogether snappy. Rapid and streaky will be funeral time to what's going to happen. According to "Big" Reed the sun is going to forget itself and lose forty-five minutes, the sky will be knocked clean out of joint, the scenery cracked, and the horizon bent. Miss it? Not for all of Grandma's "gole" teeth. The first, the hardest fought, and perhaps the best game of the season. Plenty of good, clean rapid sport is guaranteed. The Juniors have a fine team this year, and accordng to all reports is in excellent condition. They are especially strong in the back field, having two old 'Varsity men and two others just as good. The Freshmen are getting into condition fast, considering the fact that most of the men are new at the game. They have, undoubtedly, the best line in school, and a fast light back field. So it's a pretty even flip as to whom goes the laurels. The Preps are an unknown quantity. But as their motto is "Lay low and say less," we can rightly bet that Dr. Noble has something of a surprise up his sleeve for the joyous Freshies and dignified Seniors. Considering all in all, we have three good teams and with proper support they will pull off a series of games that will break all previous records.

Jno. W. Crisler, of '10, was an appreciated visitor upon the campus last week. John is now a valuable employee of the Jackson Loan & Trust Co.

HICKORY RIDGE GOLF CLUB.

Join Early to Avoid the Rush—Membership Limited.

Last year under the auspices of Dr. A. A. Kern the H. R. G. C. was organized and put into good working condition. The links consisted of a good seven-hole course lying to the north of the College, near the observatory, and west to the I. C. railroad. Great interest was shown by the faculty and those of the student body who knew the game. The success of the Club surpassed Dr. Kern's greatest expectations, for not only did the enthusiastic Millsapians patronize it, but also several prominent men from town. The Club is, of course, limited to a small number, and as the links are to soon be put into an A No. 1 condition again those desiring admission should rush in their membership applications before it's too late. These should be filed with Dr. Kern at an early date, as the number of applicants usually exceeds the magnitude of the Club.

LAW CLASS ORGANIZES.

Mr. Truly Elected President—Plans Made to Organize a Moot Court and Secure a Court Room.

On Wedesday morning, after recitation, the Law Class, by common consent, remained in the recitation room, to perfect their class organization.

Mr. D. Thomas Ruff was called to the Chair, and in his usual solemn manner announced that nominations for Class President were in order. Messrs. Truly and Saxon were nominated, Mr. Truly being elected by a small majority. He made a short, but forceful talk, thanking the Class for the honor conferred upon him.

Mr. Truly then took the Chair, and called for nominations for Vice-President, whereupon Mr. Ruff was nominated and elected by accla-

THE NEGRO IN THE SOUTH.

Rev. John Little, of Louisville, Thrills a Large Audience.

A more interested and highly pleased audience has rarely filled the Millsaps College Chapel than that which assembled last night to hear Rev. John Little, of Louisville, Kentucky, in his illustrated lecture on "The Negro in the South." The chapel was packed not only with students, but also with many visitors from the city, and all declared the lecture the equal in interest and profit of any similar entertainment that has come to the College during the past four years.

To many the lecture came as a revelation, bringing them a world of information about the negro that they had never before known, and causing them to view the race from a new viewpoint in the future. Perhaps the two points upon which the speaker dwelt with most emphasis were: first, the almost universal ignorance which exists even in the heart of the South concerning any real knowledge of the negro that lives at our very doors; and, second, the vast opportunities that their situation offers for effective mission work on our part, and the large returns that such work will bring when efficiently conducted.

Mr. Little spoke as one having authority, since for the last twelve years he has had charge of the Presbyterian Colored Missions in the city of Louisville, and has seen them grow from a small company of pupils numbering twenty-three occupying an old lottery office in the worst section of Louisville, to a school of seven hundred pupils, requiring the attention of forty teachers and occupying two large and well-fitted mission homes. Mr. Little is not only an earnest and eloquent speaker, but he illustrated his lecture with the finest set of slides upon negro life that has ever been seen in Jackson. Most of them were made under the special super-

'VARSITY CRUELLY CRUSHED.

On the afternoon of October 26, so the Clarion-Ledger states, Millsaps' indomitable 'Varsity was beaten, — teetotally annihilated, and smeared over the landscape by the plucky, daredevil little High School team. O, sody crackers! How extremely sad! Perhaps the imposed-upon public will be a trifle surprised when they discover that the 'Varsity so cruelly smashed was a line-up of Freshman "subs" with a few regular players. Also for the further enlightenment of the gentle and unoffending public, permit me to say this was the very first afternoon of signal practice. Furthermore it might be gently hinted that Friday afternoon the aforesaid teams met again at the race track, and that the Joyous Freshies chewed up the Juvenile Chaps at the rate of a touchdown in three minutes. After which time the Jackson team was perfectly willing to discontinue further gridiron action.

Be Sure to See it When You Visit The Fair.

This year as never before in the history of our College, we have taken a great interest in having our Institution well represented at the State Fair. The exhibit is not only the largest that we have ever put on, but is complete in every detail. Every phase of our College will be represented in some form or another —The Fraternities have been generous in supplying us with decorations and other material of interest. The Y. M. C. A. has given us some statistics that will be of interest to any one interested in that phase of college life. The Literary Societies mation. Mr. Gulledge was elected Secretary and Treasurer by aclamation.

Some members of the Class manifested keen interest in this phase of politics and from what they suggested, believe in rotation of office, as they desired monthly election of Class Officers.

The Class took up the subject of a moot court. After some discussion, it was decided that the court would convene weekly at seven thirty P. M., Thursday.

A committee was appointed to see the authorities and obtain permission for the court to hold its weekly sessions in the circuit court room.

There being no further business, the Class adjourned until Thursday evening.

THE NEGRO IN THE SOUTH

vision of the speaker, and they were thrown upon the screen from a specially prepared stereopticon machine which Mr. Little had constructed especially for these lectures.

Last summer Dr. W. D. Weatherford, whom many students wil remember as the Southern Student Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., asked Mr. Little and Dr. Kern to handle his new book on the negro question at the Southwestern Student Conference, which met at Seabrook, Texas. From there Mr. Little went to the Southern Student Conference at Montreat, N. C., where he had entire control of the subject, and where the Millsaps delegates to the Conference had the pleasure of both hearing and meeting him. His work at both of these Conferences was so highly successful that it was decided to ask him to make a tour of the Southern Colleges this fall and present to Southern students the needs and opportunities for work among the negroes. Thus far his Southern tour has been but a repetition of his success last summer.

Millsaps counts herself unusually fortunate in securing this lecture, which undoubtedly made a deep impression upon all who heard it, and which will certainly result in an increased interest in the study of the negro on the part of the students. Dr. Kern has consented to repeat the course which he gave at Seabrook last summer, and already a large number of students have enrolled in the class, which promises to become by far the most popular study course in College. He has placed the "Jim Crow" section of his library, consisting of books upon the negro question, in the library at the disposal of any students who may be interested in the subject.

will be represented by some beautiful banners, pennants, and other striking exhibits. All of our publications have been generous in supplying those in charge with as many issues as they need to represent them. The "Purple and White" has been especially generous in this respect. On next Friday there will be several hundred copies of this week's issue placed in the exhibit for distribution to those who visit it. We want all of our friends, especially those outside of the College to be sure to get a copy when they go around. We consider this our best medium through which we can show the outside world what we are doing here at Millsaps.

The Department of Mathematics have a remarkable exhibit under the supervision of Dr. E. Young Burton. He is the head of this Department in our College, and has shown great interest in having his part of the exhibit up to the A No. 1 notch. Not only has he supplied the committee with valuable drawings and instruments of various kinds, but he has freely given much of his valuable time to increasing the decorations of our booth. He has exercised the most remarkable taste in this respect. In fact, there are few exhibits in the Fair that are so tastefully decorated as the Millsaps Exhibit.

We owe much credit to Dr. J. M. Sullivan, the head of the Science Department, for the excellent representation that we have this year. He has exercised the most painstaking oversight in having this Department well represented. In fact, it has more space than any other of the various Departments. Owing partly to the fact that more subjects come under this head and also to the fact that he has more available material to pick from. The Geological Department has contributed many interesting specimens, consisting of collections made all over the world. The Chemical Department has an ample amount of apparatus on exhibit to represent the work done in this Department. The Physics Deartment contributed many features of great interest, and some unique experiments in this line will be performed for the benefit of the public.

Do not fail to see the representation of the "Hall of Fame" of the "Fall of Greece" and "After the Downfall of China." These are of especial interest to all students of history. They are instructive as well as profitable. It goes without saying that any one who is acquainted with Dr. Sullivan will certainly not fail to see them.

The Department of History will be represented by an exhibit of text-books used and also by some excellent papers on various subjects of interest. The Ancient Language Department will be represented in a somewhat similar manner.

Any and all friends of the College are cordially invited to go around and make themselves at home when in the Fair grounds. There you will find a nice, comfortable place to rest yourself, some good reading matter to look over while doing so, and also some interesting exhibits to occupy your attention.

Students of the College are urged to be sure to take their friends around and show them something about what we are doing.

MOOT COURT ORGANIZED.

First Session Stormy, but finally Sheriff Hopkins Brought Order Out of Chaos.—Tindall Made Judge, Yerger District Attorney, and Green Clerk.

Pursuant to agreement, the Law Class met at the court house, which the authorities had kindly permitted them to use, at seven-thirty Thursday evening.

The boys seemed to be in such a hilarious humor that when President Truly called the house to order, he deemed it proper to appoint one Mr. Hopkins, from the very heart of Sullivan's Hollow, in the far-famed county of Smith, to keep order. This gentleman, immediately assumed such a pugnacious attitude that order at once came out of chaos.

The first question put before the house was, "How long shall the Moot Court Officers remain in office?" In spite of Hopkins of Sullivan's Hollow, Smith County, Miss. pandemonium once more broke loose. Motions were made running

Ask Linn Witt why our Social Editor ran out of the dormitory so fast last Thursday evening.

Mr. Harmon was entertained last Thursday evening by his friends over at Founders' Hall. His reception was warm.

T. R. has a serious rival in Mr. Burns, of New Orleans, La., who has specialized in snipe hunting.

Father—Son, I want you to use carefully and wisely every dollar I gave you.

Son—Pa, I get some fine help, for these Millsaps fellows are always ready to tell me which is the best way to spend my money. I know where I can spend another hundred dollars to good advantage.

Professors Burton, Kern and Noble acted as umpire, referee, and field judge respectively at the recent game between Mississippi College and the University of Mississippi.

"We see cows walking about eating the grass and here and there a professor."—Freshman comp. on "The Campus."

Frank Starr Williams, '10, was on the campus Friday and Saturday of last week, shaking hands with his many friends. Mr. Williams is principal of the Harmony High School, near Brookhaven. He says that he is having a good time, and that he enjoys teaching thoroughly. Frank Starr is the same old happy-go-lucky chap that he always was, and his friends were greatly pleased to see him.

Linn Witt wants to know if the reason why the chorus girls are always smiling is that they have to wear something.

Yes, Hendrix Mitchell, we are glad to have you out for football.

Mr. Jack Guess, who stars on "Ole Miss's" football team, was on the campus last week, speaking to his friends, and telling them to put up their money on the U. of M.

Among those who went to Clinton to witness the football game between the University and Mississippi College were the following: West, Colmer, Ramsey, Trice, Kirkland, Clark, Thompson, Morris and Green.

Dr. Sullivan rebuked "Dippy" Fairly as follows: "Er-er, No. Mr. Fairly, the days are not long in summer because heat expands and short in winter because cold contracts."

Ask Joe Beasley if he is going to make any more noise or throw any more hymn books in the chapel.

Of all the nerve! A Mr. Avoirdupois being given an insignificant name like "Sample!"

Question: "Why is a hobble skirt so much like a crowded street car?" Answer: "Because there is only standing room."

The ladies who have boarding houses say that if every cold spell has the same effect on the boys that this one is having, they will have to go up on board.

Mr. Louis Featherston, an old Millsaps student, is at home on a visit to his mother, Mrs. L. A. Quin. Mr. Featherston is a sargent in the U. S. Army, and has a bright prospect as a soldier before him.

Nolan West has been greatly excited over the enormous size of the men who play on the University team.

Mr. Lloyd, a popular member of the Freshman class, spent last Sunday in Vicksburg with his uncle.

"Red" Stennis arrived on the campus last Friday night. It is with especial pleasure that we welcome him back among us, for we had begun to think that he was not coming back. His loss would have been felt on the athlete field. Then, too, "Lanky" Rush had begun to pine for his "old lady."

Mr. Stirling is very anxious that a certain lady shall receive his letters on time. He walks to town and posts them at two o'clock in the morning.

Hunting is unusually good this season. Many snipe have been caught already.

The Tennis Association has the honor to count among its members six Co-eds. These fair maidens have a court all to themselves in the retirement and seclusion of the hallowed grounds behind the classic walls of the Main Building. Honored indeed is he who is permitted to play with them.

Miss Katie Jones, a Whitworth Freshman, was on the campus last Sunday.

Mr. Collins was agreeably surprised Thursday night on entering his room, to find a boll weevil comfortably ensconced there delving into the mysteries of analysis.

We care little if beauty is only skin deep, as we do not wish to swim in it, but you can have it always with you, if you will get one of Eyrich & Co.'s two dollar Brownie Cameras.

Miss Edith McCluer, a prominent member of the class of '10, was on the campus Thursday.

And it came to pass that in those days the Rev. Mr. Fair Adams got in one mail one hundred and fifty-six post cards. And none of the astrologers nor wizards could interpret the meaning thereof.

Drs. Henderson and Collins are very much in demand in cases of fainting or apoplexy. Try them.

"Say, fellers, a peach!" will be your description of the Self-Filling Fountain Pens Eyrich & Co. are selling for one dollar and fifty cents.

After much wearisome historical research, and much dusty delving in ancient tomes, the committee appointed by the Sophomore Class has reported the following colors: "Red and white." and for a motto this: "Nil Sophomoris ardui est! Carlum ipsum petimus stultitia."

Mr. T. J. Upton, of Rayville, La., was on the campus this week, visiting Messrs. H. C. and W. F. Henderson. Mr. Upton is a former student of the L. I. I. in Ruston.

Frank Star Williams, '10, was on the campus last week.

Did Dr. Swartz fix that tennis court for the Co-eds to use as a theatre for acrobatic contests?

THE ROAD TO THE HAPPY HUNTING GROUNDS.

When a boy finds himself really a Freshman, and his preconceived ideas of college life begin to give place to practical ideas that come from his sojourn on the campus; when he has, for the first time, taken his part of some form of hazing, and known the good fellowship and community of feeling that follows in the wake of this experience, a new light dawns upon, and a new atmosphere surrounds him. If he is fond of athletics, new opportunities are open to him in his favorite line; if of books he is enamored, certainly he is in the world of books. If he is pious and spiritual, he meets congenial spirits. If social events are to him most attractive, opportunities, new and inviting, are offered to him to pursue his favorite bent. If science calls to him with an irresistible voice, he can revel in the delights of the "ologies". College life seems to be all things to all men.

This is only partially true, however. For the good natured company that sit on the rostrum in the chapel, are avowed enemies of the one-sided genius, at least while he is in college. They are to teach him that the supreme achievement is not the advancement of the pigskin before yelling admirers, and that the ideal man is not Chris Matthewson or Ty Cobb, great tho' they may be. They stress books, but not to make mere book worms. Spirituality, though of prime importance, is shown not to be all. Social life is shown in its true relation. Even science is not taught to make scientists, alone. They do not desire to make cranks, but sometimes try to unmake them. They have ample supplies of zeros and low grades to terminate the college life of any and all students who persist in being mere athletes or social "stunters." He meets them in the class room, and there only the fittest survive from year to year. Strange to say broadening there becomes a narrowing process, and the individuals who are broadened narrow down to a few only. The bones of many a college man whiten by the wayside because he failed to arm himself properly for this good natured company. They are the arbiters of college fate.

They neither ambush nor assassinate, but they fight in the open. They warn all students from the beginning to prepare lest they fail. Forewarned is forearmed. We said they were enemies to the boy who wants to be a one-sided man. We did not say they were enemies to all students, for they are patient, kind, long suffering and considerate in their treatment of him who gets things in their proper relations. They do insist, however, that your class work is your chief business on the campus. They do insist that you must be measured by a high standard of work, that if you are found wanting you cannot advance. Why do they make this life such a stern reality by their vigorous demands on a boy's energies when he had rather spend his time in his favorite diversions? Foot ball, base ball, social functions? These are important. So they are, but are incidental, and not your main and most important college work. Your diploma will be written on sheepskin, not on pigskin. As we said, the company that collects on the rostrum are good natured. They know your needs and best interests, as a student. Do not content yourself with the thought that they are not as modern in their views as you are—a Freshman. Perhaps not, they are not as fresh at any rate. Some of them are foot ball heroes, and more,—broad men, well rounded and developed. They seek to make you a man all around if you furnish them the material. They encourage athletics, and the Y. M. C. A., not one will advise you to neglect these things. But they have one law you must observe,—it is like the laws of the Medes and Persians,—you must do your class work. So, to the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, and even the Senior, we would say: do not neglect your class work if you want to enter the happy hunting grounds of, and join the busy throng of the alumni.

INTER-COLLEGIATE ATHLETICS.

We quote in full below an editorial that appeared in Sunday's Daily News, which is well worth the reading:

Intercollegiate Sports.

The student body at Millsaps College is cherishing the hope that at the approaching sessions of the two Mississippi Conferences of the Methodist church the ban will be removed from intercollegiate athletics.

The general public, and especially the friends and patrons of Millsaps College, who want to see it become one of the greatest educational institutions in the country, would also like to see the students permitted to take part in intercollegiate sports.

The primary purpose of a college, of course, is to train the minds of its students.

But a strong mind is well nigh worthless unless it is sustained by a strong body.

The brilliant brain is of little value in the world unless it is housed in a physique strong enough to keep the brain in action.

Again, from a more material viewpoint, nothing advertises a college to the world like victories on the athletic field, whether it be at football, baseball, tennis, basketball, or track events.

And nothing serves more ably to instil and keep alive a true college spirit among students than achievements in intercollegiate sports.

The spirit of fighting is what makes the progress of the world. Call it animalism, if you will, but it was the animal spirit that won at Waterloo and Yorktown and Appomattox.

Give the boys what they want, and Millsaps College will become within the next few years one of the best-known institutions in the country.

The Editor of the News correctly states the attitude of the public and friends and patrons of Millsaps College, especially those who have carefully weighed the significance of clean, manly athletics in the growth and life of any College. We hope that all who read this will give it fair consideration. We feel confident that if any man opposed to the view advanced above will weigh fairly the advantages and disadvantages of Inter-collegiate Athletics, he will become friendly toward it in his views. Our students will hail with great joy the day they see the ban removed.

all the way from one week to the whole session. At least Mr. Ruff, the Henry Clay of the Class, brought the contending factions together on the proposition of allowing them to hold office for one month. Nominations for Judge being declared in order. Mr. Dickerson, in a very eloquent address, placed the name of Mr. Tindall in nomination. Tindall was elected to the bench and during the rest of the session presided with as much dignity as one would expect from a future member of the Supreme Court.

The nominations for District Attorney narrowing down to Ganning and Yerger, the class, persumably acting on the ground that the man best acquainted with the law breakers would know best how to prosecute them, elected Yerger.

Hopkins, having so plainly demonstrated his ability to keep order, was unanimously elected Sheriff.

Mr. M. Green, on account of the brilliant record left behind him in the Literary Department of Millsaps, Sewanee, Bell-Buckle, and numerous other schools, and also on account of his having been frequently connected with the police courts at various places, was adjudged the ablest man in the Class for the position of Circuit Clerk, and was unanimously elected.

The docket was then read and the court adjourned till the last Thursday night in October.

DR. SMITH ADDRESSES THE Y. M. C. A.

Speaks of Missionary as a Factor in Civilization—Makes Good Impression.

The address on "Missions," given by Dr. Smith on Friday night last, was in every way a success. As the subject in itself was very broad, Dr. Smith discussed the Missionary as a factor in the development of civilization and general knowledge. He said that the missionary had always been the pioneer to new lands; that he had contributed to science, philology, geography, and to the general store of information concerning the earth and its peoples. He mentioned numerous instances of the work of the missionary as an organizer of languages which before had no form. As an example of the missionary as an explorer he mentioned Livingston, who was the first man to begin the opening of the "Dark Continent" to the world.

The address was one which was full of thought for all who heard it, and those who were so unfortunate as to be prevented from coming, missed a rare treat. We hope to have Dr. Smith with us often.

PRENTISS LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS AN INTERESTING MEETING.

Felder, Burns, Graham, "Little Jake," Bingham, and Others, at the Bat.

On October the twenty-second, nineteen hundred and ten, at eight o'clock sharp, the sound of the gavel brought the Prentiss Literary Society to order.

President Frederick Jones, of Sunflower County, was in the chair, presiding in his usual calm and dignified manner. Indeed, it reminded one of his famous ancestor, John Paul Jones, who bearded the lion in his den and shouted "Don't give up the ship!" (with apologies to the historians.).

"Nimrod" Burns acted as Chaplain for the occasion and delivered the invocation.

Reverend Oliver Wendell Holmes Felder, from Holmesville, Miss., delivered an essay that was remarkable. It might be considered by some as a valuable addition to English literature. It was full of good thoughts and showed careful preparation.

The debate was upon the question: "Resolved, That Chinese Immigration is detrimental to the United States."

C. M. Graham led off for the affirmative with a very fierce attack upon immigration in general and Chinese immigration in particular. When he took his seat it seemde a hopeless task for the negative to refute his argument. But the first man upon the negative, Mr. Cain, proved conclusively that he was capable of "raising Cain" with the affirmative argument, and things looked somewhat shaky when he took his seat.

Mr. Kleister next upheld the affirmative side in a strong, logical argument. He not only made more plain some facts that his colleagues had brought out, but produced several more good points in his favor.

At last, however, "Little Jake" Bingham came forth. Indeed, he did come forth. The vigor with which he attacked the affirmative's argument was mighty to behold. It was astonishing, amazing, bewildering, indeed! It was marvelous! Enough to make one's hair stand on end and one's tongue cleave to the roof of his mouth. For several minutes after he had taken his seat the audience and President just stared into open space. They were almost petrified.

Finally, however, the Chair got up nerve enough to call for Mr. Graham's rejoinder. In a plain, matter of fact way this time Graham called attention to the fallacies in the negative argument and yielded the floor.

The question was decided in fa-

VOLUME III. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, NOV. 4, 1910 NUMBER 4

Class Football Opens With a Spicy Game Between Juniors and Freshmen—Hunter and Kirkland Star for Juniors, Clifford and Trice for Freshmen.

The class football series opened last week under the most favorable auspices. The first game for the season was that scheduled between the Juniors and the Freshmen. As these teams were known to be pretty evenly matched every one had predicted a close game and no one was disappointed.

From the kick-off the game was closely contested. Neither side seemed to have any advantage of the other. The heavy back-field of the Juniors was counterbalanced by the weight of the Freshmen's line.

The first quarter was not marked by any spectacular playing. It was clean, hard-fought football all the way. The only point worth noting was that Lewis did some of his old time punting and that the Juniors played in the Freshmen's territory most all the time.

After a few minutes rest the battle was waged again. During this quarter the Freshmen pulled off some neat forward-passes. It seemed that somehow or other they had the Juniors' left-end hypnotized. Every time they tried it around this end they went for substantial gains.

Finally, however, the Juniors secured the ball on the forty yard line and started a steady march for the Freshmen goal. Hunter made a nice run which netted them some twelve yards. Then Kirkland made fifteen yards through the Freshman line. The rest of the distance needed was made by successive line-bucks by Kirkland. Lewis then kicked goal, thus making the score stand six to nothing in favor of the Juniors at the end of the second quarter.

During the third quarter the Freshmen got within striking distance of the Juniors' goal twice but lost the ball both times. A neat forward pass was worked which almost meant a touch-down for the "Freshies," but Lewis who was playing back as a safety man, prevented this. This quarter was as hard fought as the one preceding it, though, and went to show that the Freshmen had not lost their energy on account of being scored upon. They seemed to go at it all the harder.

In the fourth quarter the Juniors came very near to another touch-down, but through a fumble lost the ball. This half was very warmly contested, but showed no changes in the score.

The chief losing point for the Freshmen was in penalties. They were penalized at least a half-dozen times. Had it not been for so many of these penalties no doubt but that the game might have been a tie. They fought hard and pulled off some snappy football, but those penalties were made when they needed gains most.

On the whole it was an interesting game and the Juniors will have to go up their sleeve for some genuine A No. 1 football to beat those "Freshies" again.

The line-up was as follows:

SACRED CONCERT TONIGHT.

Good Entertainment Will Be Given—The Attendance Should Be Good.

Through the kindness of Mr. Taylor, representing the Victor Talking Machine Co., the Y. M. C. A., in its Bible study rally on Friday night, Nov. 4, is enabled to present its second Free Lyceum Attraction. Mr. Taylor has consented to send out one of his new Victrola machines, the most improved machine made, which is valued at one hundred fifty dollars. With it he is to send a choice collection of sacred music. Those who have not heard the new Victrola cannot conceive of the exquisite music which it produces. There is as much difference between the ordinary graphophone and this machine as between the grind organ of the street and grand pipe organ. The selections will be the very best and those present will be enabled to hear music by the most famous singers of the world, since the reproduction of these songs is perfect.

The program will be somewhat as follows:

"The Holy City," composed by Gounod and sung by McDonough. The "Ave Maria," sung by Gadski. "There is a fountain filled with blood," sung by Trinity Choir; Richard Jose, the noted Spanish counter tenor, in "Rock of Ages" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." Hayden's Quartette in Faure's "Palms." Selections from the Oratorio "Elijah." The Lyric Quartette in "Old Time Religion."

All of these selections and others which will be given are from the best composers and are sang by the best trained singers that the world possesses today.

This is the second number of the free Lyceum attractions that the Y. M. C. A. presents to the student body, and it is hoped from time to time to add to the number.

INTERESTING BIBLE STUDY COURSE

To Be Offered by the Y. M. C. A. This Session. Advantages to be offered Unexcelled. Good Music for All Meetings Assured by Special Committee.

Quite a characteristic statement of Henry George is, "I am for Men." Although not officially chosen, this might well be taken as one of the mottos of the Y. M. C. A., since it represents its attitude very fully. The Association proposes to aid college men in an athletic way by encouraging and working for clean sport of all kinds. It labors to develop the mental side by having on hand good literature and from time to time presenting the best platform speakers obtainable. For the spiritual side of man the Association conducts Bible study classes under the direction of competent leaders (not teachers). In these classes the students gather and discuss a given topic and by getting each others views reach conclusions which enable them more clearly to understand life and its purposes. There are also mission study courses of intense interest, and the devotional meetings from which much good is derived.

A music committee has just been appointed who shall try to arrange for special music of some kind for the meeting each week. Plans are being made to have as often as possible the best singers of Jackson on the program.

DEMOCRACY AND ITS SAVING PRINCIPLES.

Speech Delivered by Jno. W. Crisler at M. I. O. A. During May of 1910.

The ideal of Democracy was consummated in the birth of the American republic. For centuries before that event a reaction had been gradually setting in against the old tyranny of aristocracy which was everywhere prevalent. Enthusiastic statesmen had dreamed, but had done little more than dream, of an ideal government with "equal rights to all and special pirvileges to none." When, however, amid the throes of a nation's travail, the principle that "all men are free and equal" was brought forth, a new era dawned in the history of man. The aristocracy of birth, which had for centuries ruled supreme in matters of state, was hurled from its eminence and in its stead was enthroned an aristocracy of mind. Mere parentage had lost its patrimony and the highest governmental stations passed as a natural heritage to the most capable citizens, irrespective of rank.

This new era of universal equality brought with it as a consequence the right of universal suffrage. The ballot was extended to the poor as well as to the rich, to the ignorant as well as to the learned, and the destiny of the nation was entrusted to the care and protection of its citizens. If they were loyal to their trust the state moved grandly on; if they neglected or betrayed this trust its course was uncertain. It was the duty of the citizen to perpetuate the existence of the state; it was the duty of the state to guard the liberty of the citizen. Thus the mutual relation of the citizen to the republic and of the republic to the citizen was fundamental and all-pervading.

With the diffusion of education, this principle of universal suffrage became more firmly fixed in the minds of the people. As men grew in freedom, liberality and intelligence they became more democratic in their relations to one another. Every distinction which the old aristocracy of birth had set up and which the new aristocracy of worth had not as yet been able to overthrow was now completely done away with and the lowest citizen in all the land was enabled to raise his head amid his humble surroundings and seek preferment and advancement in the political arena. Political activity engendered a spirit of self-sufficiency and self-sufficiency begot in him a consciousness of power. And so it came to pass as a result of this consciousness of power that the humblest citizens forged to the front as the nation grew, led armies, governed states, managed great economic interests, entered the professions and became the artists and the philosophers of their age.

Such, in substance, was the aim of the principle of equality which entered largely into the thoughts and dreams of our fathers. They hoped in extending the ballot to all that a time would come when every citizen would be so enlightened by education and so fired by patriotic zeal and enthusiasm that on each and every occasion he would vote according to his honest and fixed convictions. Alas! They did not foresee the day of the political "boss" and his henchmen, nor of the trusts and corporations and the influence which they would exert over the free will and choice of the people. Indeed so great is this influence and so distressing are the conditions which have arisen in our national life as we consider these conditions and their tendencies we are forced to admit that the ideal of liberty and equality of which our fathers dreamed is vanishing and becoming apparently more and more unattainable.

Let us consider for a moment one or two of the tendencies that have arisen which the founders of our government did not foresee and which have prevented the consummation of the ideals for which our fathers wrought.

Nothing in any civilized country of the globe could be more subversive of the ideal of universal liberty and equality than modern politics as conducted in our large cities. Not one-fourth of the eligible voters of a constituency is on the voting list, and furthermore, admission to this list is not left to the choice of the individual voter. Unless he will submit to certain conditions and restrictions he can not have his name enrolled among the qualified electors of his community. The "Ring" has the machinery in hand and the only recourse left to a citizen who will not obey its commands is to be silent or to organize a reform party. If he seeks the latter course and is unsuccessful in the ensuing election he is disgraced in the eyes of the public and branded as a "dissenter," whereas in most cases he should be rewarded as a public benefactor. Municipal, not to speak of national, liberty and equality, are impossible when any city in the land can be thus subjected to the domination of a political ring and when the voice of the good citizen can be eliminated by "steam-roller" methods. By these methods the highest positions of honor and of trust are often given to the incompetent and the criminal. By these methods those who make a living by dishonesty and those who make a trade of vice often get control of our large municipal governments, stifle all healthful political activity, and turn the current of the times into vicious and polluted channels, thereby making that boasted heritage of the nation—the liberty and equality of its citizens—an empty dream.

Another evil which has arisen in our modern society which was unforeseen by the founders of our nation we may name, the "Evil of Caste." Our fathers never dreamed but that the dangers of class differences which had so weakened the national vitality of the old world would be easily averted in this new republic of the West. But today as he views our modern economic development and beholds the opulence of the money-eyed class, the thoughtful man shudders, for he realizes that we are rapidly developing in this country a new aristocracy—not of dukedoms, to be sure—but an aristocracy of wealth where "money kings" replace the viscounts and the nobles of the old. Giant strides in social and industrial progress have fixed great gulfs between the favored and the poor. The strengthening of our protective tariff called forth, as if by magic powerful corporations—corporations which have drawn within their vortex the financial interests of the nation and which form an aristocracy of wealth so masterful that their influence decides before-hand an election and legislatures sit subservient to their will. They have laid their golden hands upon the womanhood of our nation and all but touched the infant in its cradle. Everywhere in our country are to be found great throngs of women and children laboring day and night amid the unhygienic conditions of crowded factories. Their very natures, both mental and physical, are being woven into fabrics to bedeck a greedy and ungrateful aristocracy! The present system of woman labor—and I may add of child labor—is one of the blackest stains upon American civilization. Years ago Christianity delivered woman from the shackles of servitude and set her upon a pedestal as the model of purity and the guiding star of life. Well might that have been called the "Imperial Age!" But the modern industrial spirit, penetrating as it does into the farthest recesses of modern life has dethroned her from this exalted position and again bound her with the thongs of serfdom. We are wont to draw the grimmest pictures of woman's social position in China, but we treat with indifference the haggard frame, the wan face, and the hollow eyes, of our American women made wretched by ceaseless toil in the foul atmosphere of the factory and in the friendless hands of modern textile financiers.

As we meditate upon these civic maladies which the fathers of 1787 did not foresee when they launched our ship of state, but which have grown up as the nation grew, we stand alarmed at the thoughts which crowd in upon us. We wonder what future can await a country where present conditions are allowed to thrive and where civilization is built upon a foundation which permits political trickery and sanctions the practice of converting womanhood, the only hope of a healthy development, into dollars and cents to satisfy the greed of a conscienceless few. Reason and observation show us that in the future this means the destruction of the home, the wrecking of our time-honored citizenship and the overthrow of our proud Anglo-Saxon virtues. Our sons and daughters will be unworthy to receive their heritage, and these beautiful landscapes, these fertile valleys, and these imperial cities will pass into the hands of generations incapable of enjoying their blessings and incompetent to solve the problems which the future will thrust upon them. The end, unless averted, must inevitably be the destruction of our institutions, a shattering of our Christian virtues, and an undermining and weakening of every fiber of our governmental system.

The question then raises: What can be done to remedy these conditions? What is the saving principle of our democracy? We answer: It is education and the sanctity of thought and mind which education brings. This alone will rouse the lethargic citizen and bring him to a full realization of the dignity of the ballot and the value of purity in politics. This alone will crush the hydra-headed political boss and purify both state and national political life. It will teach the citizen that it should be his constant duty to feel a vital interest in all the problems which confront the nation and that his alone will be the shame if he sinks into a criminal indifference to his country's needs.

But this is not all. Education, with its enlightening influence will convince the patriotic citizen that he must not only exercise the franchise in a proper way, but that he must also, as a man of education and of ideals, lay aside self-interests and private concerns and give himself up to the service of his country. When the purifying powers of universal education shall have cleansed our offices from the stains of corruption we shall have no fear for the solution of our social and domestic problems.

We repeat: It is education then that we must look to as the saving principles of our democratic institutions. Education must become universal! School houses must be erected upon every hill and in every corner of our land! The mind of the citizen must be trained so that we may become a nation of thinkers and thence a nation of doers; for sane thinking will inspire in every quarter sane and noble action. The poor and the weak will be sustained in calmness and in security when the burdens of life press hard upon them. The aristocracy of worth will become everywhere regnant and the evils of our present civilization will vanish before the undisturbed calm of the educated mind.

BELHAVEN COLLEGE BURNS.

The burning of the Belhaven property was indeed an unfortunate occurrence and we regret it deeply. The Purple and White wishes to express its heartfelt sympathy to Prof. Preston and his faculty and students in this disastrous misfortune. We are glad indeed to know that the destroyed property will be replaced by new buildings and that we will still have a Belhaven College here in Jackson with us. We again extend to them our sympathy and offer to aid them in any appropriate manner in re-establishing their institution.

Mrs. C. A. Redding, of Terry visited her sister, Miss Annie Linfield, on last Wednesday. Mrs Redding was accompanied by her son, Mr. Linfield Redding.

Mr. Jones, of Eupora, Miss., visited the Bingham brothers at the "Shacks" last Thursday.

THE 1911 BOBASHELA.

There can be no doubt that the Bobashela will be valued by Millsaps students more and more highly as the years roll by. The memories of our college days it will perpetuate will grow sweeter the further we are removed from this pleasant period of our lives. Who, then, does not sigh at the mere suggestion of its failure?

But good things do not come to us unsought and the financial history of the Bobashela has such a dark chapter that a cloud of gloom hung low upon the campus when we returned from our pleasant summer vacation. The first shock to the old men came when they learned that there would be no Y. M. C. A. handbook this year—the ever present reminder of the great organization it represents. Again as from the tomb a doleful sound came suggesting failure for the 1911 Bobashela. All honor to the men who have given us a Bobashela in former years, for they had a difficult proposition financially. Hence, at the time of the opening the faculty was discouraged and the student body depressed.

Naturally the faculty and student body expected the Senior Class to take the initiative. The class of '10 came near shipwrecking this publication by trying to make it distinctively a Senior publication. The distribution of pie was a vexing question on which its members disagreed. The faculty is very deeply interested in getting out a creditable annual but does not stand for failures. So its attitude was clearly for putting this college undertaking on a solid basis or letting it drop. This was stern but an entirely correct attitude for the good name of Millsaps is at stake.

Profiting by the experience of others, the Seniors met and unanimously decided to ask the faculty to name the staff on condition that the necessary financial arrangements could be made. They said by resolution that this ought to be no class, but a representative publication. The harmony and unanimity of the Seniors and their persistent efforts met by noble response from members of the other classes have put it on its feet and make clear the attitude of the Seniors. They propose to have a good annual or know the reason why. They hit upon a plan that seems certain to make a deficit impossible and give the best annual the student body can produce.

When but partially organized a spirit of confidence and optimism made its friends doubly earnest and this is the same spirit that has come with the new administration and is heartily endorsed by our President. This spirit is the most hopeful sign of the new era we are now entering upon.

Never before has there been a stronger, more invincible determination on the part of our students to have a creditable Bobashela. The outlook is the best ever known here in some respects, for college spirit is not manifested by loud talk and bluster but by putting up the cash on the part of at least twenty men to guarantee success. If any man does not want to take an annual he had better seek hiding at once, for these men will be difficult to resist. They are going to do things, not merely talk about them. So if you have been a doubting Thomas, sit up and take note, for such determination can not fail. If for the lack of the wherewith or nerve you are not one of the twenty men putting up cash, get on the band wagon by boosting and buying as many annuals as you can pay for, or use. Else scamper off to the tall timber where you will be out of the strong current of loyalty and enthusiasm, which is the forerunner of that Greater Millsaps of which we all dream, and for which we should all long and work. It will be only after the verdict well done that we can enter into the joys of higher and nobler things.

SEE OUR GAMES AND CATCH THE SPIRIT.

Those among the students who have athletic tendencies have been working overtime of late to give us a snappy series of inter-class games. The college spirit of Professors Noble and Burton and Dr. Kern has induced them to volunteer their services that we may have class ball. Each of them has a fine squad and during the short time allotted them they have been rounding their men into good working condition. The first game proved conclusively they could give us something worth seeing. From the kick off the boys showed grit and gameness good to see.

There was a good number on the side lines, but we did not see the spirit that shoud have been manifested. The co-eds carried off the honors by yells and enthusiasm, and in the remaining games we hope they will continue to do this and that the side lines will be packed with the most enthusiastic bunch of fans yet seen on our new athletic field. Every man should root for some team and if it wins he will enjoy its success; if it loses he will learn to be a game follower of this great game. Out of this more college spirit should grow and blossom as the rose. Then the efforts of our athletes and coaches would get the recognition they merit.

But this is not all. The players will be spurred on to better playing by the manifest interest and pleasure of their friends. Those stern looking men who brave the dangers of the game are not averse to applause and, if the truth were known, are not themselves aware to what extent they are influenced by it. The one last effort that scores the touch down is inspired by it—and a local reputation is made or unmade. So let us pack the side lines with spectators and make the welkin ring with the noise and the voices of football enthusiasts. This will give us a foretaste of the delights of intercollegiate games so when the ban is removed we will be ready to make the most of the opportunity, and can enter into the Paradise of amateur fans.

LOCALS

The Century Club has had many additions since September.

Mr. L. M. Jones, a former Millsaps student, was on the campus Friday.

Miss Mattie Nell Cooper, a valued member of the Utica High School faculty, is with her mother, on the campus this week.

Judge Browning has taken unto himself a "better half." We wish to congratulate him upon his success. He states that all is well and that he is enjoying a flourishing practice.

Miss Rose Austin, one of our former co-eds, is in town for the Fair this week. Miss Austin is making a splendid record as a teacher this year.

Mr. A. B. Johnson, of Bogue Chitto, Miss., visited his brother, C. E. Johnson, last Saturday. Mr. Johnson is a graduate of the University of Mississippi and is an excellent school man.

Miss Jennie Swayze, formerly of Belhaven College, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. May Cooper, this week.

Mr. A. L. Heidelberg, of Heidelberg, Miss., was out at the college on Friday.

Mr. Thos. L. Bailey, of '09, paid a flying visit to his alma mater last Saturday and Sunday. "Bill" is as jovial as ever and his many friends were delighted to see him again.

The Rev. Mr. T. W. Adams and wife, of Lumberton, were on the campus Thursday. Mr. Adams is one of the foremost preachers in the Mississippi Conference, and is meeting with his usual success in his present field of labor.

Rev. Olin Ray, one of our old students, was here on last Friday and Saturday shaking hands with his many friends. Olin now has charge of a work in the North Mississippi Conference near Lexington, Miss. He is doing fine work in his pleasant location and his people are highly pleased with his services.

Roscoe Berry, who has been home on account of his father's illness, has returned and started to work again. His friends were glad to learn that his father is much better.

Who said Lloyd wasn't a ladies' man? Just ask him about the lady on the street car.

Paul Beraud, of last year's Freshman class, returned last Sunday to take up his work again. Beraud made many friends last year, especially among the fair sex. We are all glad to see him back.

W. M. Dorman, a member of the Junior class, left Thursday for his home in Lexington, where he will spend a few days to rest up. "Kid" says this life down here is a bit too strenuous.

Henry Harvin Frizell, '10, is back among us this week taking in the Fair. Henry is just as cute as ever, and we are glad to see him with us, if it is only for a short time.

Mr. E. M. Neville, a member of the Freshman class, is spending a few days at his home in Gulfport.

J. B. Kirkland and brother, Clinton, are on the campus for a few days during the Fair. Kirkland is the same old J. B. that he always was. It is well known that he is a great athlete, and he is very enthusiastic over our prospects for inter-collegiate athletics. May his enthusiasm and that of all the rest not be abated by failure in getting what every Millsaps student most ardently desires!

Emil Niclaus, of Saltillo, Mexico, who delighted large audiences with his handling of the violin last session, has entered the Senior class at Tulane.

In a letter to a friend, R. B. Alexander, '10, states that he is getting along splendidly, but that he wishes he were back with us. Alec has taken charge of his father's affairs, whose failing health has forced him to retire temporarily from business.

Tom Shipp, one of the "can't come backs," is in town for the Fair.

Mr. Adams wants to know if that woman was elected, who was three times a candidate for the presidency.

It is stated upon reliable authority that "Morgan," Dr. James McGruder Sullivan's venerable buggy-horse, left town at the same moment a street car did and actually outran the car to the college. This cool weather must be making the old "billy" feel good.

If the "Hyenas" have any Witt and are not doubting Thomases they can overcome any Savage by means of their Sargent-at-Arms-strong and ample, while the Rook sings "Bob-o-link, spink, spank. Spinks," in the good old Summer time whether old Sol Burns or it is a Rainey day. Rush 'em up Howson Lott. BIBLE STUDY RALLY A SUCCESS.

Y. M. C. A. Hall Packed to the Limit.—More than One Hundred Students Enroll for Bible Study. Interesting Program.

The Bible Study Rally and Victrola Sacred Concert, given by the Y. M. C. A. last Friday night, was from every standpoint, an eminent success. The Association Hall was crowded to its fullest capacity long before the appointed hour and every available space was filled with chairs brought from other parts of the building. The machine, brought out by Mr. Taylor, proved to be perfect in every particular, and as sweet and clear as the most fastidious could ask.

During an intermission in the music, Mr. Wroten, Chairman of the Bible Study Committee, presented the cause of Bible Study, and, including those men who signed Bible reading pledges some weeks ago, one hundred and eight men were enrolled. This, however, does not represent the entire number who will take up this line of study, for not all of the students were present at the rally. These will be given an opportunity at once, and quite an additional number are expected. The results of the Rally are encouraging in every way, as nearly 59% of the entire student body have already enrolled.

The following is the program of the evening.

1. "Let the Lower Lights be Burning." (Bliss.)—MacDonough and Stanley.
2. "Lead Kindly Light." (Mason.)—Haydn Quartette.
3 "The Holy City." (Adams.)—Harry MacDonough.
4. "Where is My Boy To-night?" (Lowry.)—Haydn Quarttete.
5. "Crossing the Bar." (Words by Tennyson; music by Cowles.)—Frank C. Stanley.

INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS.

By Representative of Tuberculosis Exhibit.—Many Manifestations of Appreciation Shown by Student Body.

One of the most interesting events of last week was the address delivered in our College chapel by Dr. Routzhan, of the Tuberculosis Exhibit.

His address was very remarkable in many respects, and many points were brought out which the students had never dreamed of before. From the Doctor's address we gathered many interesting facts. Some of his statements we shall quote below. He said:

"Tuberculosis is the chief cause of death in the world today. 'More people died of consumption last year than were killed by all the other diseases put together.'" This statement sounded like an extremely broad one, but we doubt it not, knowing the man who made it as well as we do. He has studied this subject from the ground up and knows every detail of it.

Another interesting point brought out was that this was not only a problem of health but that it was a social problem to be dealt with. In fact, he said that our relation to the other races depended upon the preventive measures being taken in regard to this "White Plague."

It, indeed, seems purely a case of negligence for anyone to contract tuberculosis when the simplest kind of preventive measures would thwart the same. The Doctor said that any case of this disease could have been warded off had only the person taken hold of the simplest laws of sanitation. Not only can this great plague be avoided, but it can be cured in any instance where plenty of "fresh" air, food, rest, and "doctoring" is accorded to the patient.

One of the most striking suggestions made was to the effect that this subject might be discussed in an interesting manner in our Liter-

JUNIORS DEFEAT THE PREPS 12 TO 0.

Hunter and Lewis Star for Juniors. Harkey, Jones and Graham for the Preps.

From beginning to finish the game was characterized by clean, hard playing of the prettiest sort. The Juniors, expecting a walk-over, left out Big Kirk and other regulars, and filled their places with subs. They won, but it was perfectly evident that one touchdown was purely an accident, while the other was one of the hardest contested goals ever scored. Tommy Lewis and Hunter, as usual, starred for the Juniors, while Chat Jones, Big Graham and Harkey, played well on the Preps.

The backfields on both teams performed excellent work in line, bucking, and especially good was the interference of the Preps. Jones Graham and Hunter made good games through the lines, while Lewis and Harkey eased around the ends in a manner most miraculous to see. Also Bloody Mitchell played through the whole game. The first two quarters were of ten minutes each; the last two, eight. Most of the big gains were around the ends by the quarterbacks and halves The forward pass seems to have been tabooed and simple football was resorted to throughout the whole game.

The following line-up was used:

Barrier	r. e.	Mitchell.
Bailey	r. t.	Clark.
Rook	r. g.	Smith
Milliken	c.	Cameron.
	l. g.	Brown.
Williamson	l. t.	Bingham.
Butler	l. e.	Green.
Harkey	q.	Lewis.
Jones	r.h.b.	Davis
Graham	l. b.	Taylor
Boswell	l.h.b.	Hunter.

Referee—Dr. A. A. Kern.
Umpire—Prof. Noble.
Field Judge—Prof. E. Y. Burton.
Head Lineman—J. S. Savage.
Time of Quarters—Ten minutes.
Score—Juniors, 12; Preps, 0.

MOOT COURT HEARS FIRST CASE.

Attorneys Engage in Lively Tilts—Judge Valued Advice-Giving at Five Dollars.

The Moot Court, one of the most dignified organizations of our College, met in regular session on last Friday afternoon, at 3:30 in the Senate Chamber of the Capitol building.

Judge Tindall presided on the bench, and graced this position with a dignity well fitted to it. However, being disqualified to sit upon the case in hand on account of legal connection with same, he called Hon. D. Thomas Ruff to the bench to sit as Special Judge for this session of the court.

Judge Ruff instructed the clerk to read the next case on the "socket" and the case of Hair vs. Saxon, a suit for an open account of $115.50 was called. The defendant filed, as an offset to this, a note for $257.50, and a plea that part of the goods, included in the amount in question, were bought upon Sunday, and, therefore, could not be collected for.

During the examination of the witnesses, many lively tilts took place between the rival lawyers. In the midst of one of these tilts, visiting Attorney Gunning, attempting to give the Judge some advice, was fined five dollars for contempt of court. Finally securing the floor, however, Mr. Gunning's advice was that if the Judge would remove his pedal extremities from the top of the desk and sit upright, it would add much to the dignity of the proceedure. The Judge immediately accepted this gentleman's advice, considered the same judiciously, and complied with the request.

The case, being finally submitted, after an able argument on both sides, judgment was rendered against the defendant for the sum of ninety-two ($92.00) dollar . The Court stated that it was firmly convinced that twenty-three ($23.50)

This field of work offers vast opportunities to those inclined to do something for mankind, and we hope that everyone who heard this address will think about the things said, seriously.

We appreciate the address very much and want to thank this gentleman through the columns of our paper for the interest he has manifested in us in coming out and talking to us upon this vital subject of the day.

KAPPA MU ENTERTAINS.

An unusually charming hostess was Miss Courtenay Clingan at an informal chafing dish party given by the Kappa Mu Sorority on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 27th.

Welcomed as they were by the K. M. girls, it was not long before the guests were convinced that there was in store for them an afternoon of thorough enjoyment. Soon after their arrival each girl was called upon to display her skill in the art of cooking, and well did they stand the test, for in a few moments delicious candies and Welsh rarebit were forthcoming.

Next, dainty refreshments were served, followed by an hour filled with pleasure; and as the guests took their leave the hostess was assured of the success of the entertainment. Those present were:

Dr. and Mrs. Walmsley, Misses Adele Knowles, Carrie Wharton, Bertha Ricketts, Marguerite Park, Stella Magehee, Birdie G. Steen, Flora B. and Eleanor Lewis, Nettie Rogillio, Calvin and Barry Offutt.

A BEAUTIFUL HALLOWEEN PARTY.

On Friday, Oct. 28th, Mr. Ramsey Roberts, one of the most prominent members of the Freshman class, entertained a number of his friends in his beautiful home upon North State Street. The social was in the form of a Halloween Party. The house was beautifully and tastefully decorated with Jack-o-lanterns, miniature skulls, and other articles which gave the party a distinctive Halloween effect.

Mr. Roberts was assisted in receiving by his attractive sister, Miss Corabel Roberts, whose bright smile of welcome greeted each guest as they entered upon this festive scene.

Progressive conversation was the feature of the entertainment, while a number of the young ladies present rendered many beautiful selections upon the piano. Tempting and delicious refreshments were served during the evening.

The time sped by all too soon, and as the guests reluctantly bade their charming host good-bye, they voted this one of the most charming evenings they had ever experienced.

"SPOOKS."

On Halloween Night Mr. Longstreet Cavett entertained the Kappa Sigma Fraternity at a "Spooky" Halloween Party. On entering, pumpkin faces smiled and frowned upon the guests. The house was decorated with a bewitching and ghost-like attractiveness. The lights were dimmed, and with here and there lighted skulls, the effect was complete. Many forms of Halloween entertainments were indulged in, such as: bobbing apples, trying to bite suspended apples, and blindfold mind-reading. The feature of the evening was a ghost carnival, in which every guest participated. The lights were extinguished, and each guest related a short ghost story: the range of which varied from dreams to deep sea monsters.

Miniature pumpkin pies were served with apple cider, which carried still farther the effect. Fruit, and other eatables abounded in plenty.

The time to depart came all too soon, when most everyone, after such "spooky" experiences, was, "Afraid to go home in the dark."

At the last meeting of the preachers league, the subject discussed was, the merits and demerits of the late big circus which every member of the League attended.

LAMARS ONCE MORE IN SESSION.

New Officers Sworn in.—Sterling Grows Eloquent.—Peets a Victim of Darkness. New Orleans and San Francisco Still in Suspension.

The principal features of the meeting of the Lamar Literary Society were the valledictory address of President Bufkin, and the installation of the officers-elect.

In President Bufkin's address, which was brief but strong, he thanked the Society for the high honor which had been bestowed on him, and for the loyal way in which the members had supported his administration.

Mr. Holifield, the President-elect, made a strong and stirring inaugural address in which he called upon the boys to make the coming year the greatest in the history of the Society.

Under the head of literary exercises, "Bob" Sterling, the silvery tongued orator from Gloster, held the audience spell bound with one of the best and most eloquent orations ever delivered in the Lamar Hall. We are glad to boast of such men as Sterling for it is men of his type who make the Lamar Literary Society famous.

The subject for debate was, "Resolved, that New Orleans is a better place for the Panama Exposition than San Francisco." President Holifield was the first speaker on the affirmative, the Vice-President being absent, Secretary "Jerry" Montgomery was called to the chair. Holifield made a strong speech which was answered by "Jake" Bingham, the first speaker on the negative. Both men put forth some strong arguments.

As Mr. Peets, the second speaker for the affirmative, arose for some unknown reason the lights went out and left the Hall in darkness. A motion to adjourn was then carried by the House.

The Lamars were very much pleased to have eight or ten co-eds present. The co-eds are always welcome and we take this means of issuing them a most cordial invitation to return.

Jim Powell, a Senior at Mississippi College, was on the campus one day of last week.

Rev. George Galloway was in town last week on a visit to his son, Henry Galloway.

Some Interesting Statistics.

The Associations in North America have well passed the half million mark in membership. There are 2,017 Associations, an increase of 103 in the last year. Of these 1868 report 496,591 members, a gain of 39,664. The active membership is 207,356, an increase of 19,082, while the organized committee forces number 66,723 as against 63,081 last year.

Interlined throughout the experiences of a man who has been a leading figure in his generation is a history of the time. Great ideas, events and personalities are interwoven with the warp and woof of his life, and the history of the times is written in his story. No man can read Gladstone's life without feeling that he has been studying the story, not only of the English nation, but of the world in that constructive century. It takes on a personal interest. The life of Henry M. Stanley furnishes such a study worth a session's reading. It is the story of a workhouse waif who worked his toilsome way to knighthood. His was a painfully pitiful boyhood of years before the mast at sea, with little sunshine, but at last a touch of home for which he longed. And then we pass through the war period and his experiences in the ranks, and in prison which are so described by the great journalist that the memory will ever after make war a horror. Then his travels in every land, his exploits, the story of his finding of Livingston, and hardships in Africa. Read it. This paragraph, which makes one wonder that the Bible could have become so much to him in those boyish days, reveals the source of his great strength: "Without its teaching I should have been little superior to the African savage; it has been the driving power for good, the arrester of evil. My belief that there was a God over seeing every action, observing and remembering, has often come between me and evil. Often when sorely tempted came the sudden strength to say, 'No, I will not, it will be wicked; not criminal but sinful; God sees me.' "—Extract from Association men.

EXIT FAIR—ENTER GRIND.

Another State Fair has passed into that spacious receptacle we call history, with new experiences to our new students, and old ones to our old students. The fellow so busily counting his cash before it opened is not losing time counting now. No doubt many a formidable crop of zeros has grown apace in that fertile soil—the Professors' grade book—in the bright sunlight and gentle showers brought on by the Fair. If so, they must be choked out by good hard work or else no laborers will be needed for the harvest, but police protection will be needed when the unwary Freshman returns to the parental roof.

We might say in passing that the Fair this year was a success in every respect. But especially was it a success in its exhibits along sanitary lines. The time spent around these exhibits was well spent and we hope that our students will keep and pass along the knowledge they gained there and lend aid to the very laudable movement to reduce the suffering and the mortality rate of our people. He who attended the Fair with an open mind has no doubt gained useful knowledge of his state and its agricultural and economical conditions. Barnum & Bailey's exhibit was well attended, and perhaps some of the boys will pass along the knowledge gained there.

But this kind of knowledge will now show up on your class record,—at least not in a favorable light, for while the Freshmen were reveling in these delights, the faculty was busy tightening up on the scholarship requirements as even the dignified Seniors will later on learn. Its members are, one and all, advocates of the "strenuous life," and let him who wants to make a good record beware! Eternal vigilance and labor is its price.

So, if any one disposed of too much of his cash the past two weeks, or got into trouble with his grades, or embarrassed himself otherwise, he can find new consolation by reveling in the pleasures of Science, Ancient and Modern Languages, and even History and English. Lest he remembers, football and basketball may occupy his afternoons, and he will then contribute to his own muscular and brain cell improvement and incidentally furnish entertainment for the less sternuous.

LAW SCHOOL PROSPECTS GOOD.

Without any doubt Jackson is the best location in Mississippi for a great law school. It possesses all the advantages of any other city in the state, and a number of unique ones besides. Here the student may see the laws made and get a practical knowledge of Pleading and Procedure true to all courts in Mississippi. Indeed, he literally sees the laws made, executed, and interpreted. The Supreme Court can here be attended and sometimes he can hear the most able arguments of the greatest members of Mississippi's great bar. This is no mean advantage.

In addition to these features, there is another of great importance. The majority of the State gatherings and conventions meet here, and the distinguished visitors of Mississippi generally come to Jackson. The State Fair is an annual feature, and the big politicians usually make Jackson headquarters.

Thus the law student may study the economic, educational, religious and political life of his State at first hand without inconvenience and expense. His opportunities to get a live knowledge of the law, and to get into the current of the controlling forces of his State as near the fountain head as possible, are worthy of consideration by the thinking man.

There is an excellent field for one law school here and Millsaps wisely established that, thus getting for the present a monopoly. Though great results have been achieved, the possibilities have not been touched. Make the Course the best two-year course possible and properly advertise it and the Mllsaps law school will soon become the best possible in the State. The University Law School will fall behind it even with State support, for it lacks the advantage of location. Unless it is made the best Law School in Mississippi, another one will, in the future, be established here for the peculiar advantages of location will justify it.

Hence, the effort to improve the Millsaps Law School should be commended and supported by every friend of the institution. More men should be induced to take law at Millsaps, and the law class should be given the prominence in the student life and activities that law classes are given elsewhere. Its members should identify themselves with all phases of college life. When they do this they should have a regular representative on the Honor Committee, as is the case in other institutions.

The suggestion that the Law Department have a distinct commencement of its own at the close of the present session, seems to be a good one. It will serve to call attention to this important department and, incidentally, should call attention to the possibilities that lie out before it. All friends of Millsaps should know them so that the Board of Trustees and Faculty will feel that their efforts to improve and add to the Law School for the purpose of keeping a monopoly by merit of the best field for a law school in Mississippi are known and appreciated. Again, there is no good reason why the enrollment for the session 1911-12 should not be double the present enrollment.

"One of the greatest results of the Yale game, as we see it, has been the awakening of the Vanderbilt spirit."—Vanderbilt Hustler.

Does not this statement cause dreams of some future day when the Millsaps team will have won some great game and the Millsaps spirit will have sprung into new life invigorated by the joy of victory?

The Junior team will have a hard time being the undefeated team if the Preps and Freshmen continue to improve.

Sistrunk Heroes.

The Sistrunk boys are to be congratulated for the hasty work they performed in extinguishing the flames that were spreading so rapidly over their kitchen some few nights ago. It was on account of the alertness of lawyer Morse that the flames were disovered, but it was only a few minutes before all was safe. The main feature of the fright was the Twentieth Century discovery of Mr. G. C. Clark for packing trunks. Never before has the record of packing a trunk in three seconds been made. Another mentionable feature was the thirty foot slide of smiling Jean, but fortunately his descent was arrested by one of the fighters, and he immediately retired to his room unhurt. Mrs. Sistrunk thanked the heroes for what they had done and then hinted that on Thanksgiving the old gobbler would repay them for their services.

It is represented that there will be a change in the Senior English course, for next year. There has been discovered an author worthier by far to be studied than Tennyson or Browning. This far-famed author is Mr. Herbert Roger of New Albany. The beauty of his verse is unexcelled. In order that the public may realize the splendor of this new poet's diction we quote as an example the following quantrain from one of his most popular works—A Suiter, "Ye Gods and Little Fishes!"

"The hearts upon this cruel hook,
Are like the fishes in a brook;
If one escapes, he is not missed,
For more are there to fill the list."

Sam Osborn, a member of last year's law class, was in town a few days during the Fair. Osborn has begun the practice of law in Greenwood, and if we are allowed to judge by his past record, we have no doubt that he will be successful in his new field of labor. A visit from him will always be a great pleasure, for he has many friends, both at Millsaps and in town.

Because of the good rates received, the Association will sell the season tickets for one dollar, though of course single tickets will be more. No student can afford to miss a single attraction and therefore should get a season ticket at once.

The first number will be Mr. Fred Emerson Brooks, the poet-humorist. It will be presented on the night of Nov. 12. The other numbers are Mr. Packard, the cartoonist; Mr. W. Sterling Battis. interpreter of Dickens; Mr. Henry Clark, in his lecture, "Play Ball." All of these come highly recommended and are so certain to please that they have been guaranteed by a deposit on the part of Dr. Swartz.

Liberal reward offered for a copy of "Burgess' Reconstruction and The Constitution," containing the names of Messrs. Johnson and Peets.—D. W. Bufkin.

JUNIORS AND FRESHIES CLASH.

Will Play Off Tie—Snappy Game.

On the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 12, Millsaps' two best teams met on the College gridiron. The odds were with the Juniors on account of their heavy, experienced back-fields and excellent condition. The Freshmen had one regular tackle out, but outside of that, were in good fighting condition.

The game began at 3:30, and from the first whistle to the last down the game was one of huge interest to the spectators, and fast playing for the men.

Dr. Kern sprang an entire line shift on the Freshies which proved to be an excellent gainer. But Prof. Burton was "Johnnie on the spot" with an extra double wiggle when it came to forward passes. The Juniors tried the forward pass once or twice, but it failed to net them much. Most of their gains were made by line bucking and long end runs. The Freshmen's light halves did excellent work also in line bucking and end running. Both quarterbacks starred. The lines of each team proved solid and carried out their end of the program well.

The first touch down was made by the Juniors in the last part of the first quarter, by the Juniors' big half, Mr Hunter; but after that the Freshmen settled down to hard steady playing, and the ball was kept as much in one part of the field as another. Then the Freshies by work and a bit of luck, advanced the ball to the Juniors' six-yard line, but the Juniors held like a stone wall, and the ball went over.

The Juniors punted out, and then both teams settled down again and it was nip and tuck as to who would score next. In the middle of the third quarter the Freshmen were slowly advancing the ball down the field, but the Juniors fought hard, and held them for downs so that the Freshmen were forced to pass or kick. Then Mr. A. A. Green, of the Freshman team, scored by a fumbled pass, but lost the kick and

DR. HULL'S ADDRESS.

Ideal College Spirit—What it is and its Value—He Favors Clean Athletics—Food for Student Thought.

Last Thursday morning Dr Hull gave the student body a strong and impressive talk on the subject of "College Spirit." The chapel was filled with students and each and every one went away not only with a better idea of the true meaning of genuine college spirit, but with a determination to uphold the lofty ideals which the speaker had presented to them.

Dr Hull said in part:

Some students have the impression that college spirit consists of noise, hurrahs, uproar and a good time generally. Others think that they can only show their college spirit by class room routine. Both of these opinions are extreme. Neither the man who whoops and yells, nor the man who adheres strictly to the treadmill of classroom to lecture room and vice versa, has the true conception of genuine college spirit.

Nothing is more valuable than genuine and true college spirit It quickens the building—the books, and makes them throb with life vitality, and power A school without college spirit may be likened to a locomotive with all its parts in place, coal in the box, water in the tank, the fireman and engineer in their places, but with no steam in the boiler. Without steam the locomotive is motionless. Just so the college without college spirit is on the stand-still, but just as the steam drives the engine with its load of freight and passengers, in like manner college spirit awakens a college and keeps it ever on the move to higher and better things.

College spirit means more than mere hurrah and noise. It means more than the continual grind of class room routine. It means vastly more than pride of victory on the athletic field. It includes allegiance and fidelity for all the college ideals. It preserves a zealous watch-

BOBASHELA STAFF APPOINTED.

Machine for the Annual Will Soon Be in a "Buzz"—Good Prospects. "Bobashela Boosters" Organized.

Friday morning, November 11, Dr. Kern announced that the following appointments were made on the Bobashela staff for 1910-11: J. S. Savage, Editor-in-Chief; Miss Adele Knowles, Literary Editor; L. W. Ramsey, Art Editor; D. D. Cameron, Statistics; T. H. Phillips, Club Editor; T. W. Lewis, Athletic Editor; Ben Tindall, Law Department; S. E. Williamson, Business Manager; R. J. Bingham and J. D. Wroten, Asst. Business Managers.

The faculty has chosen an able staff and complete organization will be entered into at once. Work has already begun on the next Bobashela. The interest manifested by students of all classes for a creditable annual this year, is very marked, and never before has its importance as a college publication been more fully realized and appreciated than now.

The machine, called the staff, is now ready to begin to "buzz" and there will be no doubt, great energy and thought put into this important work.

Already there are twenty men who are backing the annual financially, who have organized themselves as the "Bobashela Boosters" and at a very enthusiastic meeting on Monday night, Nov. 7, in President Hull's office, they elected President Hull, Chairman; and S. E. Williamson, Secretary.

Every man present was bubbling over with enthusiasm, and the very atmosphere was charged with determination for, and confidence in, the success of the Annual.

Plans were laid to aid and assist the staff in every way possible and to work at this systematically.

The following facts will give some idea of the students who have been given positions of honor and duty on this staff:

Mr. Savage was Mid-session De-

ATHLETIC ENTHUSIASM PREVAILS.

Mass Meeting Well Attended and Hundreds Sign Petition—Mr. Buie and Prof. Burton Have Been Busy for Millsaps.

Tuesday night, Nov. 8th, was a big night at Millsaps. The student body assembled in mass in the College chapel at 7:30. As soon as the crowd began to gather, anyone with even one eye open could see that something unusual was in the air. Just before the time for the meeting, however, rumors were going the rounds that the crowd was going to be small.

The chapel was only half full, and opinions were expressed on the part of some that the proper interest was not being manifested. Little did these dubious ones know what a surprise was in store for them.

At 7:15, on the first stroke of the second hand a tremendous noise was created somewhere between the Founders' Hall and the Main Building. This was accompanied by bugle calls, squalls, and various other noises, both of a pleasant and a hideous nature.

Before those already assembled in the chapel could extricate themselves a most impressive parade was being enacted in their midst. Quietly, solemnly, and with the greatest dignity, the "Hyenas" in a body, paraded into the side door of the chapel. The march was continued around the aisles and concluded with a grand march upon the rostrum; having taken possession and fortified themselves the lights were extinguished and the place painted red. After a very appropriate announcement on the part of one of the lieutenants, the lights were turned on; in a very orderly manner the "Hyenas" proceeded to fill up all the vacant seats in the chapel.

The gathering now took the form of an Athletic Rally with Prof. E. Y. Burton in the chair. Several important pieces of business were transacted, among which was the fullness over the good name of the college, guarding it against stain and corruption from within. It is a union of sentiment and action. It obliterates class distinctions and binds all classes together.

A properly conceived system of athletics is a great aid to college spirit. A properly organized system of athletics is a common interest which draws all classes together more closely. Here merit is the only test; the democratic spirit prevails and men are stripped of their class distinctions and thrown back on their inherent worth. However, an improperly conducted system of athletics may prove detrimental. Some men become so imbued with the love for victory that they cry for victory at any cost —men who neglect their class work are retained on the team on account of their value to it. Players are hired and ineligible men are put on the team. Men may gamble on the games, and thus lay the foundation for viciousness and sin in the future. It then degenerates into fraud and brutality. Then it should be killed and gotten rid of for awhile, that it may come back purified and cleansed of its evils. It is because of the fear of these evils that a ban has been placed upon intercollegiate athletics at Millsaps. It is because we believe that these evils can be prevented that we favor a modification of the present law.

I had a hundred times rather see the "purple and white" go down in defeat and know that the boys had trained hard and fought fair, than to see our banner carried to victories, gained by hirelings who have cheated, tricked and slugged like brutes.

Let us have athletics—let us win victories, but above all, let us be true and fight fair even at the cost of continuous defeat. Let courtesy, candor and fair-dealing ever rule. Let our watch word be: A clean deal.

Another thing that is as vital and more worthy is that true college spirit sets as much store by intellectual standards as by athletics. It urges the men to excel in the oratorical contests; it upholds excellence in scholarship; it strives earnestly to keep down fraud on examinations; it is ever zealous of the work of the literary societies; it supports the college papers, and all the college ideals which they uphold.

True college spirit centers not only around the intellectual and athletic phases of college life, but also around the social and moral life of the students. It makes a man careful of the tidiness of his person and living room. It makes him careful of the walls of the buildings. It gives him a high standard of morals and makes him anxious to see that his fellow students are animated by like desire. A man that has true college spirit will hardly allow his living room to stand untouched for days at a time. He will not pile into his bed without first having re-dressed it. He will not be found writing upon or defacing the walls of the buildings. These matters are of tremendous importance and are the things which give an outsider or a prospective patron his impressions of our school. No man who has true college spirit will say that it is no concern of his what his fellow students do. It is his concern and in a conception like this he is radically wrong and very selfish. We are our brother's keeper. In addition, we are the keepers of the good name of our institution. It is the duty of one and all—not only to keep our own lives pure and strong, but to uphold the character of our fellow-students.

Genuine college spirit will be concerned about and have due regard for our Y. M. C. A., supporting it in every way possible.

I am glad that we have so many elements of the genuine college spirit. I congratulate the college on having the honor system and the spirit that makes it a success. I rejoice at the sobriety, and deep and earnest religious spirit of the students.

May we not hope that we have in these elements a foundation of true and genuine college spirit that will grow and that we will have the spirit among the student body that we have dreamed of.

Let us hope for athletics, but let us make sure that we will use the privilege as men should use it. Let us keep the desire for victory subordinate to our higher ideals. Let us use our privileges for developing a college spirit so broad, so comprehensive, so true that we shall make our school not only the pride of its patrons, but a place where all men may delight to send their sons and feel that they will be safe.

BOBASHELA STFF APPOINTED

bater L. L. S., 1910, making one of the winning speeches. Upon the resignation of Mr. C. E. Johnson as Millsaps-Southern University Debater, because of ill-health, he was elected to fill the vacancy. He is a member of The Purple ad White staff, and there is not a more loyal Millsaps man on the campus. His work has always been good and he is well equipped for his present important work.

Miss Knowles is one of the most popular Millsaps Co-eds, and is especially well prepared to perform the duties of Literary Editor.

Mr. Ramsey has already proven his eminent fitness for his work as Art Editor and will, no doubt make this an attractive Annual from the artist's point of view.

Mr. Cameron is an athlete, experienced on the gridiron, and won the Sop. medal in 1910, and is an enthusiastic college man.

Tom Phillips has always been a loyal Millsaps man and has withstood the class-room storms with distinction in many cases, and the Bobashela has no better friend than he is.

T. W. Lewis is a fixture on the 'Varsity Foot-ball Team, President of the Athletic Association, a Kit-Kat Club man, and a popular member of the Senior class.

Ben Tindall was an M. I. O. A. man, '08, representing the State University, and is now preparing for the Supreme Bench in the law class, and on the bench of the Moot Court.

"Sis" Williamson is a 'Varsity foot-ball man ('10) and a well known and popular Senior. Pres. G. L. S. '11. Jake Bingham is a hero of many Gridiron contests, a rip-roaring good college man and Anniversary Orator L L S, '11 Mr. Wroten is an able and popular member of the Sophomore class.

These leaders, backed by the "Bobashela Boosters," and supported by all the students who have old Millsaps' glory at heart, can not fail to succeed if they do their duty. This, the student body is confident that they will do signing of a "monster petition" to present to the two Conferences in December. Their petition was greeted with the greatest enthusiasm, and men literally swarmed up in order to sign the same.

Prof. Burton and Mr. Webster Buie have indebted the students to them greatly, by the enthusiasm they have put forth in working for athletics at Millsaps. Not even a single phase of the petition presented was objected to. The article was indeed worked out to a nicety.

Prof. Burton made an excellent report of work being accomplished through the faculty and alumni Associations.

The students appreciate very highly the work being done by these committees.

If the alumni of our institution will come to our aid in this matter, and the faculty and Board of Trustees have already expressed themselves favorably, there is no reason in the world why the ban should not be removed at the next meeting of the two Conferences.

The program was interspersed at appropriate intervals with some excellent selections by the Glee Club. College songs were joined in by the students with great spirit, and the meeting was marked throughout with wonderful enthusiasm.

Another feature of the meeting, and, by no means, the least important, was the election of the two "Members-at-Large" to the Honor Council. Messrs. R. J. Bingham and J. M. Brown proved to be the

We wish it were possible to have these mass meetings oftener. Nothing excels a good, rousing mass meeting, where all come together on an equal footing with a common purpose, to foster a lasting college spirit.

But do not let your enthusiasm wane, now that the mass meeting is over with. Keep always the best interests of your college at heart Believe firmly that yours is the best college in the State, and it will be the best. The success of this institution depends primarily upon your faith in it.

DR. BORUM DISCUSSES MINISTRY.

Very Instructive Talk—Students Wish to Hear Him Again.

Those who were so unfortunate as to be absent from the Y. M. C. A. Hall last Friday night, missed a rare treat . The Association was addressed by Dr Borum, pastor of the First Baptist Church, on the subject, "The Ministry."

After reading passages of Scripture from Matthew 9:10, Dr Borum began his address, the pervading idea of which was that the minister is the man first called, then sent.

He discussed the call from two different standpoints, showing how both were really different phases of the same call.

The first of these was that the call might come as an impression from the inner being, simply strengthened by outside impressions; while the second phase of the call was that it migh come from the field, as an overwhelming desire to meet the needs which so strongly present themselves.

The call to the ministry differs from the call to other life work, in that it consists of an impression deep in one's heart,—("I ought.")

The man who realizes and feels that his purpose in life is to lift mankind, and to leave the world better for his having lived, has no field of opportunity greater than that of the ministry. Christ came into the world that he might make the world better; that he might heal the broken-hearted, lift the fallen and give courage to the despairing. Can we, as followers of the Son of God, do less, and claim to be modeling our lives on His?

In answering the question, "Has the ministry lost its sacredness?' or the minister his influence?" Dr Borum said: "The man with the message has greater influence today than ever before. It may be that the ministerial robes do not impress men as they did in time past, but the message has a power which is not only undiminished but greatly increased today.

He cites as an example of the respect which the message commands for its mouth piece Jerry McAuley, the ex-convict This man is one of the brightest lights in New York city today, and commands the respect and esteem of the very best people in the city , because of the message of peace and good will which he delivers.

Dr Borum said that it was a mistaken idea to believe that the ministry was a life of self-sacrifice and suffering for oithers; that while, from a financial point of view, it might not be a success, yet God, by the bestowal of other blessings, more than compensated for this loss.

He then took up the qualifications of the minister, and among them named the second birth,—a life which is above reproach and which is positive, and a life of self-abnegation—One spent in service for others.

Dr Borum is a very forceful speaker, and it is hoped that we may be able to have him address the students of the college several times during the year.

CONCEPTION OF COLLEGE SPIRIT.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a part of the substance of President Hull's address on "College Spirit," recently delivered. It was the best discussion of this vital necessity in college life and success that has been heard on the campus for a number of years

No institution can perform its best work without college spirit. But few students have a broad conception, or even a true conception of college spirit. Looking over the publications of the various colleges and universities that we have opportunity, we are impressed with one fact: They speak of college spirit chiefly as that manifested by students after a gridiron victory, or similar athletic success, or in keeping a stout heart in defeat.

No doubt this is college spirit, in one of its manifestations, and we might say, its most popular phase. Yet noise and celebrations are not all there is to college spirit. These may be gotten up by men for reasons unworthy, and frequently are so gotten up. Just as the band music and triumphal marches are not the substance of patriotism, so the yells, songs, and rejoicings of the students are not the substance of college spirit. They are worthy and pleasing expressions of the joy of the loyal college man, and for this reason should be encouraged when for proper reasons.

The better view is that true college spirit is that spirit that promotes the interests of the students and aids them to succeed in all laudable student and college enterprises. It is zealous for the life and good name of the institution, and all its several activities. It supports athletics, but also supports the Honor System, the literary societies, the Y. M. C. A., the publications, and study, the students' main business Nothing that in any way makes the college life better, purer, nobler, or more beneficial to the student or professor, will ever be neglected by the true college spirit.

So the student who roots most lustily at a ball game and thinks his the only true spirit, has only made himself ridiculous. He erred not only in his conception of what makes college spirit though, for rooting is well and good. That student who will sacrifice his own ambition, for the good of his fellow students, who works for their mental and moral uplift, who writes yells and songs for all to use in celebrating, who stands as a Gibraltar of honesty and demands the honest and decent conduct of his fellows, is a hero though he may be an unsung hero —the spirit that moves him is college spirit.

Millsaps students should weigh well what President Hull said about college spirit in this able address They should congratulate themselves that they have a President who is for clean, manly sport, who is friendly to, and in favor of, clean, intercollegiate games. Those who hesitate to remove the ban should know that he, nor any one else connected with the management of the affairs of the institution, does not favor unclean games, or practices that are objectionable in athletics. He encourages also the spirit that demands true success in all phases of college activity This is college spirit, and arises from a true conception of its nature.

THE PROPOSED SCIENCE CLUB.

Every year some student, or students, discuss the organization of a Science Club, for the purpose of independent study and research, with the object of stimulating interest in Science and keeping abreast of the latest discoveries, and newest applications of scientific principles. An interesting work for such a club would now be to familiarize the students with the sanitary conditions of the campus and Jackson, and reveal the most effective plan to improve our college conditions —Not so much because we have bad conditions, but because sanitation is so important to us now and in after life

Dr. Sullivan has always favored such a Club and there is no good reason why it should not be organized at once. Some of our alumni have already expressed a willingness to become members of it and keep on the alert for anything that would be of scientific interest or value to Millsaps College. In this way many things of value might be accomplished and the tie to each other and their Alma Mater made more binding.

All that is necessary now is that the Seniors and Juniors interested get together and organize, for Dr. Sullivan is willing and anxious to aid the movement in any way possible. It would quicken the scientific spirit and accomplish much in making science interesting, if it is now dry to any student. Also social features might be added, if in the judgment of the club, this should be thought wise.

Such an organization would make a long stride toward the improvement of college life, and afford new opportunities to the lovers of science.

There is no need of waiting for a great membership to begin with, as opportunities to begin work and collections of value are passing each day. The Purple and White will gladly aid, and its columns are open to matters of interest along this line.

If when this is read the club is not already organized there should be no further delay.

The Junior-Freshman game last Saturday, was a good, spirited mix-up, and showed that the boys could and would play. The next game between these teams will be watched with keen interest.

We are glad to see the Bobashela Staff appointed and down to work. Each and every student should and must help these men. If they are given the proper help and support they will get out an Annual we will be proud of.

THE GYM OPENS.

Means Fun and Benefit to Many.

Football season is now over, practically, and the big-a-da-mass fiends will soon be up against it for something to do. The track and basketball appeals to some, but the real, would-be solids are looking for something more material.

Now the "those who know" and the "have been there befores" immediately beat it for the Gym. And right they are, for under Doctor J Hodge Henderson, an efficient instructor and gymnast, we expect to see many physical wonders wrought Give him a chance; he can teache the mildest to chew pig iron and tame the festive lion. Anything from a flying hydrostatic side wiggle to a one-legged hand stand can be learned in two lessons.

The Gym, it is true, is not as modern and up-to-date as it might be, but it is not the apparatus that makes the muscle, but the work the man puts into it Plenty of good, simple calisthenics are given; this is followed up by horse and bar work.

Foot ball and the track are wonderful developers of the lower body, but it takes good, systematic Gym work to develop the upper man. It should be considered a great privilege to attend these classes as well as a great pleasure. There is more consolidated fun created in a green Gym class than could be obtained by pouring deloydrated lemon juice into a barrel of wigglesome monks.

Mr. Henderson offers you plenty of good bar and mat work, indoor base ball and basket ball, and perhaps later on, some boxing and wrestling. A hearty invitation to all the school is extended to join these classes, and we can with great assurance guarantee that you will not only derive many material benefits, but also much pleasure.

LOCALS

Bish. Rainey is jubilant over the election in Tennessee.

Mr. Gulledge, of the law class, said recently, that when he wished to hear a smart man talk he went in his room, ran everybody else out, and closed the door.

R. O. Jones, who was for three years a leading member of Millsaps basketball and football teams, has returned from the A. & M., where he was seriously injured upon the football field. For a time it was thought that his leg would have to be amputated, but that danger has been passed, and his friends are hoping soon to see him out again. R. O. Jones was one of the best athletes Millsaps ever had and had already "'made good' at the A. & M. when the accident occurred.

The Millsaps boys are very glad to know that the Whitworth girls are going to get out an annual this year. They have been contemplating this for sometime, but not until this session has it been realized. With such a strong faculty, alumnae, and student body as Whitworth has we see no reason why the "Leofost" should not be a success. Now, boys, hurry and subscripe for your Bobashelas, and exchange one for a "Leofost". It will show your loyalty and love for Millsaps as well as your thoughtfulness of Whitworth.

Miss Annie Decelle, one of Whitworth's 1910 graduates, was on the campus recently.

Ask Peets how the "Leofost" is coming on. He keeps posted by direct correspondence.

It is rumored by the dormitory boys that one "Prep" Earlie Hicks at present sleeps on a pallet in the phone room. His object in doing this is to avoid so much chasing up and downstairs to answer his many business engagements over the phone. Won't it be cold for Earlie to sleep on the soft side of a plank all through the winter?

Miss Mary Linfield one of the local editors of this paper, has been called home on account of the illness of her mother. The many friends of Miss Linfield hope to see her back on the campus soon.

Will some one p'ease explain why Willing Ramsey has lately taken up the custom of crossing the campus from North State Street to ride to town on the West Street car? Also why he always does this at 4 P. M.?

Mr. J. C. Ross, one of the most prominent members of the law class spent Saturday and Sunday of last week at his home in Gulfport.

A worthy member of one of our Prep. classes, approached Prof. Burton after the chapel exercises one morning of this week and told him that he wished to join the chapel, and asked him what would be the cost?

Word comes to us that Bob Ruff, '10, who is teaching the high school at Rolling Fork, is getting along splendidly. This is no surprise. Bob Ruff would make a success of anything.

Judge Whitfield (in law class)—Mr. Tindall, what does misprision mean?

Tindall—I suppose, Judge, it means putting the wrong man in prison.

Report come to us that Jim Hand '08, who is firing an engine at a saw mill, let it blow up the other day. Jimmy always did believe in doing things up.

The following have been chosen members of the Honor Council: Messrs. W. C. Coggins, and H. C. Henderson, of the Senior Class; D. W, Buffkin, Junior Class; Will Montgomery, Soph. Class; W. M. Colmer, Freshman Class; Gilmore, Prep. Department; Bingham and Brown, Students-at-Large. They have probably met and organized by this time.

Misses Anna Ford and Dorsey Barrett were on the campus Monday for the game.

It is rumored that we are to lose two Co-eds soon. Their demerits for cutting Thursday chapel have almost reached the limit. Ask Misses Rogillio and Bradford about it.

The friends of "Prep" Welch, '08, were glad to see his smiling countenance upon the campus again on last Saturday and Sunday. "Prep" has been, since his graduation, engaged actively in Y. M. C. A. work in Texas. He is at present, Physical Director of the Y. M. C. A. at Palestine, Texas, and, as he has always done, he is "making things go."

STUDENTS ENJOY A TREAT.

Addressed by the Secretaries of Six States on the Sunday-School Movement.

On Wednesday morning, November 16th, 1910, our student body was treated to a number of interesting addresses at the regular chapel exercises.

The chief representatives of one of the most important phases of our church work were out to see us. These were six State Sunday-School Secretaries from six different states in the South, all present upon our rostrum at one time. To our certain knowledge this is one of the most remarkable gatherings that has taken place on our rostrum in many years.

Brother Long, the Secretary of the State Sunday School Board of Mississippi, presided over the exercises. The first speaker introduced to us was Mr. Daurey, the Secretary of Arkansas. He delivered the invocation in a very impressive manner and made a very brief but forceful talk.

Mr. Ellzey, of Louisiana, was the next man to come before us. His remarks were appropriate and to the point and his talk was heartily appreciated by all present. Mr. Syms of Alabama made a speech, concise in every detail, and by the use of some good concrete examples made his remarks very impressive indeed. Mr. Ray, of Florida, brought out some excellent thoughts on "good fellowship." He seemed to be a remarkably good thinker and his few suggestions were very much appreciated.

Mr. Chisolm, one of our Mississippians, a very enthusiastic young man, a man consecrated in his devotion to his work, and who is now engaged in this Sunday School Movement in his own State, brought us a message of good cheer also.

The exercises were highly appreciated by the student body and, we are sure, impressed many of them as never before with the magnitude of this great Sunday

LAMARS CONVENE AGAIN.

The Debate was Marked by the Great Spirit and Enthusiasm Shown.

On last Friday evening at the regular hour of meeting Vice President A. A. Green called the society to order and Rev. H. F. McGee led the invocation. Then Mr. Weinstein was initiated into the ranks of the society after which he made a very enthusiastic extemporaneous speech on "Society Spirit."

When the regular program of the evening was sounded and the orator was called for, there was a roar of applause, for Walter Simpson Clark has already established himself as a royal true blue, and on this occasion he very ably maintained his reputation, on the subject "Patriotism."

The subject of the debate was, "Resolved, That the Judiciary should be elective rather than appointive." The first man on the affirmative was none other than the great advocate of pure democracy, Mr. James Savage. He discussed the subject with so much power that there are now many believers in his theory.

This gentleman was followed however by Judge Tindall, who upheld the negative side with all the legality of one preparing for the Supreme Bench,—in fact, he was so full of his subject that the time allotted to him was not sufficient for a complete discussion of the question.

Mr. Huntington then discussed the affirmative side in language so clear cut, and argument so convincing, that the judges began to wonder if there was any room for further opposition.

Next Mr. Clifford was called upon to defend the negative. He upheld this side with marked ability. He also brought up New York politics and presented the fraud connected therewith without fear of comment or criticism. At the close of his speech he took his seat amid thunderous applause.

SCIENCE CLUB.

Temporary Organization Entered Into—Large Number of Enthusiastic Members.

Friday afternoon, November 18, at 4 p. m., in response to a previous call, a large number of Juniors and Seniors assembled in Dr. J. M. Sullivan's lecture room for the purpose of organizing a science club. It seemed the suggestion made by friends of the movement and published an endorsed by the PURPLE AND WHITE in the last issue was made at the psychological moment for no time was lost in taking steps to make the club a reality.

Dr. Sullivan was made temporary Chairman and Mr. D. D. Cameron, Secretary. Much interest was manifested in the discussion of prospective plans and purposes of the club. Messrs. James S. Savage, H. C. Henderson and C. E. Johnson were appointed to draw up a constitution to be submitted later for ratification. Dr. Sullivan gave an outline of the work and investigation that it would profit the club to take up and stated that President Hull expected to look to this club to uphold and suggest sanitary regulations after they had studied conditions on the campus. The proposed work has many features of interest and value.

It is believed by the friends of the Science Department that the organization is the beginning of a new scientific interest and enthusiasm and that if its work is pushed vigorously many improvements will be added to the Science Department which under Dr. Sullivan's efficient supervision has already come to the front and is recognized by all colleges and universities that know the high standard of work done.

The response the call met is but another evidence of the clean cut, sincere college spirit that has begun to manifest itself in all worthy Millsaps enterprises.

HONOR COMMITTEE ORGANIZED.

H. C. Henderson Made Chairman—W. G. Montgomery, Secretary—W. M. Colmer, Clerk.

On Monday, November 14th, the Honor Committee met and organized for the present session by electing Mr. H. C. Henderson, Chairman; W. G. Montgomery, Secretary; and W. M. Colmer, Clerk.

The members of the present Honor Committee are, Messrs. Henderson and Coggin from the Senior Class; D. W. Bufkin, Junior; W. G. Montgomery, Sophomore; W. M. Colmer, Freshman; Gilmore, Preparatory Department, and R. J. Bingham and J. W. Broon, from the student body at large.

These men are well and favorably known by the student body, and the students feel that they will guard well the rights of any individual student and at the same time protect the interest and good name of the student body as a whole.

The first Honor Committee in the history of the college was organized in 1909 with C. E. Johnson, Chairman; J. M. Guinn, Secretary; and J. W. Broon, Clerk. The Honor System has greatly improved the conditions since it was established here and from the beginning it has had the unqualified support of the faculty and the best element of the student body. Indeed the feeling has gained ground rapidly that no honest man can fail to support the object for which it was instituted. A very healthy sentiment for honest and decent conduct among the students has grown up and it means much for the future of the institution. There is also a belief on the part of some of the most careful thinkers on the campus that the authority of the Honor Committee should not be confined to dishonesty upon examination, but should extend to the oversight of other phases of student conduct, on the ground that the students should regulate their PRESIDENT D. C. HULL.

The student body of the A. and M. congratulate Pres. D. C. Hull, former Director of the School of Industrial Education, on being elected President of Millsaps College; they at the same time regret their loss. President Hull, while at the A. & M. won the admiration and esteem of every student. Charged with personal magnetism he drew the students to him, and then with his friendly ways won their love. The boys loved President Hull because he was a man; because he took an interest in things that interested the boys; he agitated outside activities, and was a leader in every movement that tended toward their development. The boys at Millsaps should be very much elated over their fortune, and if they co-operate Millsaps will soon live in a new age. —A. & M. Reflector.

We appreciate this favorable comment from the A. & M. Reflector, and assure them that we are aware of our good fortune.

Mr. Alexander, of '10, is now located in Montrose, Miss.

F. W. Collins, of Law '10, is now engaged in practicing law in Meridian, Miss. From late reports Collins is doing nicely.

J. A. Lauderdale, of '09 Law, now enjoys a prosperous practice in New Albany, Miss. Lauderdale has done well since leaving school. He is now County Attorney of Marion County.

Marvin Geiger, of '08, still holds a position in the State Chemical Laboratory at A. & M. College, Miss. Geiger is an excellent chemist and is considered one of the most valuable employes in the laboratory.

Miss Bertha Ricketts, of '09, is now employed as assistant English teacher in the Jackson High School. Miss Ricketts was excellent in English work especially, during her attendance at this Institution, and we are sure that this school has in her an A No. 1 English teacher.

It may never be too late to mend, but sometimes it is mighty inconvenient, so go now and have Eyrich & Co. to order fifty stylish engraved visiting cards for a dollar.

PREVENTION AN EDUCATIONAL PROBLEM.

Address Delivered by Dr. J. M. Sullivan at the State Fair—Very Instructive and Interesting.

During the Fair a series of addresses were delivered under the auspices of the Anti-Tuberculosis League. The League was exceedingly fortunate in securing the services of Dr. J. M. Sullivan, of the Millsaps Faculty, for one of these addresses.

On the evening of Thursday, November 3rd, at 8:30, Dr. Sullivan delivered an address at the exhibit, on the subject, "Prevention an Educational Problem."

He took up the subject from purely an educational standpoint, and showed how the people could be educated up to use prevention against this "White Plague" and thereby greatly reduce the number of deaths from this disease.

He illustrated his address very appropriately by means of local statistics, showing that by the use of more forethought vast improvements might be made along sanitary lines here in Jackson.

His main point was that only through practical education along this line could the people be made to see the advisablity of taking these necessary preventive measures.

The address was instructive as well as interesting and the League is to be congratluted upon securing Dr. Sullivan's services in this capacity.

THE CLARK ESSAY MEDAL.

Announcement of Subject—List of Winners.

Dr. Kern has announced as the subject for the Clark Essay contest, "The Negro Dialect Poems of Southern Writers." This is an unworked field of Southern literature and should prove an interesting and fruitful topic for study. The library contains all the material necessary for such a study and Dr. Kern will be glad to confer with all who desire to enter the contest or who are even thinking of entering.

The medal is one of the most prized honors in college and the contest is open to all classes of students. The rules governing the contest are as follows: The prepared essay, the subject of which has just been given above, will count sixty per cent and must be handed in on May 1; on the first Saturday in May all contestants meet in the English room and write an impromptu essay on an assigned subject, which will count forty per cent. The student receiving the highest average grade receives the medal.

The list of subjects and winners for the past six years is as follows:

1904-05: "Who steals my purse steals trash."—Othello. Winner, Albert P. Hand.

1906-07: The Poetry of Kipling. "'Tis not what man does which exalts him, but what man would do!"—Saul. Winner, L. K. Carlton.

1907-08: The Contribution of Edgar Allan Poe to Literary Criticism.

"Victor from vanquished issues at the last,
And overthrower from being overthrown."
—(Gareth and Lynette).

Winner, Miss Bessie N. Huddleston.

1908-09: The Classical Poems of Tennyson.

"Nor is he the wisest man who never proved himself a fool."—Lockesley Hall, Sixty Years After.

Winner, Morris Strom.

"Negro Life in the South: Present Conditions and Needs," by W. D. Weatherford, Ph. D. With a special chapter on the economic condition of the negro by G. W. Dyer, Ph. D., Assistant Professor of Economics and Sociology in Vanderbilt University.

In his new book upon the negro question Dr. W. D. Weatherford approaches the problem rather as a transcriber of facts than as a spinner of theories. The volume deals with facts, not hard dry facts, but facts that are pointed and full of life, facts that are calculated to teach even the oldest Southerner that there are phases of the negro problem that concern him deeply and of which he is often densely ignorant. Nor are these facts sensational or calculated to raise race feeling either in the North or in the South. The author has read extensively and has lived all his life in the South, hence his facts are broad and well established.

The scope of the volume is shown by the chapter headings, which are as follows: Why Study the Negro Question? The Economic Condition of the Negro, The Health and Housing of the Negro, The Education of the Negro, The Religious Life of the Negro, What Can We Do? The broad range of the study is at once apparent, as is also the fact that this volume does not lay claim to be an exhaustive treatment of each of the phases of the question that it discusses, but that it is rather an introduction to the study of the negro. As such it is beyond a doubt the best I know. The author has managed to incorporate into his work the best qualities of the other books upon the question as well as practically all of the important results that have hitherto been reached by other investigations. It is as readable as Ray Stannard Baker, as clear as Booker Washington's "Up From Stavery," and permeated with the constructive reasoning of Edgar Gardner Murphy.

It is dedicated to "the college men of the South, in whose tolerant spirit and unselfish interest lies the hope of the negro race," and in this dedication we can see the purpose of the book, which was to prepare a text-book on the negro in the South, which could be used in the Home Mission classes of the College Young Men's Christian Associations. In the preface the author writes:

"It is difficult always to think calmly and to speak without passion on a problem such as this, but a deliberate attempt has been made to state the facts in all fairness and calmness. It is believed that the educated men of the South will be glad to study these facts in the same spirit. In them alone do we have any large hope, for most of the untrained men are too full of prejudice to face fairly or solve justly such a momentous question. On the college men, therefore, rests the burden of responsibilities in this matter."

Dr. Weatherford has succeeded in his "attempt"; his book has been tested at both the Southwestern Students' Conference and the Southern Students' Conference before men from the entire South, and they all with one accord have borne testimony to the fairness of the discussion. Not only Southern students but Southern professors have approved the book in no uncertain tones. Professor James Watt Raine of Berea College, Kentucky, says: "It goes fearlessly to the root of the matter and forces the problem from the standpoint of Jesus; with something also of the spirit of Jesus it is gentle, reasonable, persuasive,—never belligerent nor apologetic. Five thousand men with this knowledge and this spirit would solve the race problem in twenty years."

Rev. John Little, who so recently delighted us all with his stirring account of negro life in Louisville (one of the students declared that those were the most "moving" pictures he had ever seen), wrote: "'Negro Life in the South' I consider the safest, sanest and most practical book that has been written on the question of the negro that has come to my attention." While here Mr. Little in a private conversation declared that it was his firm conviction, based largely upon what he had seen while touring the Southern colleges this fall, that we were on the eve of a great movement down here and that Dr.

GYM - TRACK - BASKETBALL.

The passing of football for this season brings into the lime-light the so-called mild athletics,—basketball, tennis, track and gym work. Excepting, perhaps, basketball and track work, the soft impeachment of mildness applies well enough to meet the approval of the most timid. But as the physical man is important, so these forms of athletics are also important, and should be encouraged and supported by all loyal college men.

But how should they be encouraged and supported? Certainly not by leaving the laboring oar to the other fellow when a student can possibly take part actively and personally. The most effective way yet devised to make them successful is for every man who has a ghost of a chance to make a team to come out and try to a finish for it. After the teams have been selected give the boys every encouragement, attend the games and other exhibitions and applaud their efforts when you think they merit it. In short, stand by the athletic activity in every way possible.

At present basketball deserves special attention. There should be no less than four good class teams in a series for the championship this year. There were four last year and the work of the Prep team was very good. But the possibilities of basketball were not touched last year. Some are disposed to discount class games as they would prefer intercollegiate games But if intercollegiate games are engaged in before the necessary preparation they always lead, not to victory but to defeat; not to glory, but disgrace. The school that puts out a winning team must train the men first. The track and basketball outlook seems the brightest of all at present. Then why not be developing the men?

There is no sensible negative answer. We hope that the work to make the basketball teams will be strenuous and no man will make any team until by hard work he has made good. A good time to begin is right now, since the faculty have promised some mild mental exercise for the close of the term that will break into the athletic routine if the rumblings as of a tempest are not false alarms.

If anyone stands on the morning of February the first as the great strong oak after a nocturnal storm, some time must be used for the mental pursuits. So now is the best time to train for basketball. Let everybody get busy and make this the banner year in the history of Millsaps basketball.

The decisive success of Woodrow Wilson in New Jersey means more than a democratic victory. It means the success of a college man in politics, and that the people have confidence in his ability to give them good practical service and a clean administration. It also emphasizes the fact that the ideal college man of today is a more potent factor in the political affairs than even a few years ago. It should lead the college student of today to consider well his opportunities and his consequent duties to himself and his country.

If college training succeeds now it must improve the man trained, as a citizen, as it has never done before. If the student does not achieve, does not add to civilization, his training has failed somewhat. The college polyp should lay aside cap and gown and add to the political coral reef, at least as an intelligent voter.

The way the Juniors and Seniors responded to the call for a science club would make any man feel good who dreams of a Greater Millsaps.

Now, when the football games are beginning to be spirited the student must be content with only one more game. The series should not be an anti-climax. We suggest that the series in the autumn of 1911 be closed by a game between the champions and a team picked from all the defeated teams. This could be made a good game, could be played on or about Turkey-Day, and would devise a means for closing our football season in enthusiastic style which it seems to us has been sadly needed the past few seasons. It has been hard to tell when the series ended, and the teams quit almost like they were ashamed.

Weatherford's book is sounding a note that will be taken up and repeated until it is heard over the entire South.

The class studying this book meets this week for organization and would be glad to have present all those who are interested in the subject. We should be glad to have you attend the class whether you wish to make a study of the question or not, and should be glad to have you take part in the open discussion that will be a part of each meeting. Books will be lent to those students who do not care to purchase them. For any further information on the subject see any of the following students: J. W. Broom, Omar Reynolds, P. F. Daniel and J. D. A ROBBER CONVICTED.

Moot Court Hears Testimony—The Accused Gets Limit-Saxon and Morse Promoted in Annanias Club.

At the regular session of the moot court held Thursday night of last week, D. T. Ruff was tried for having assaulted and robbed McDonald. The reputation of the law class was damaged almost as much by the trial as that of the last legislature was by the bribery investigation. It was brought out in the evidence that on the night of the alleged robbery Messrs. Truly, Weinstein and Gunning, prominent members of the class, were not only drinking but were playing poker till the wee sma' hours of the night.

With only the evidence of such reprobates for the defendant and such men as J. M. Morse, President of a railway; R. W. Gulledge, President of the First National Bank, and Hair, a minister of the gospel and justice of the peace for the prosecution, the jury could do naught else but find the prisoner guilty. As his victim was a poor ragged country boy the judge considered it an aggravated case, and gave Ruff ten years at hard work.

If anyone wants to know anything about a royal flush, set back, seven up or any game or hand at cards let him consult Gunning. Morse and Saxon have been promoted in the Annanias Club for brilliant work on the witness stand.

Y. M. C. A. ADDRESSED BY DR. HULL.

Beautiful Solo Rendered by Mr. Sykes—Prof. Ricketts will Address Association Tonight.

Because of the inclement weather, the Mission Study Rally which had been planned for last Friday night was postponed until the night of December 2. Instead of the program planned, Dr. Hull addressed the Association, using as the basis of his talk the 23rd Psalm. This Psalm is probably the best known of any and the exposition of its well known and dearly loved lines was enjoyed by every man present.

After the address Mr. Sykes sang a beautiful solo. Mr. Sykes is well known in Jackson and his sweet and strong tenor is always in demand among lovers of good music. The Association wishes to thank Mr. Sykes very much for this song and the hope is expressed that we may have the privilege of hearing him again. It is the purpose of the music committee to have something special in the way of music at every meeting of the Association.

On next Friday night Prof. Ricketts, the much loved head of our Preparatory Department, will address the student body on the subject, "The Beginning of Methodism in Mississippi." Those who have had the rare privilege of hearing Prof. Ricketts know what a delightful speaker he is and a large number of hearer is assured.

The Y. M. C. A. blotters, gotten out for the month of November, were quite a success, but they are not to be compared to those for December, which will be in each fellow's room in a few days. Mr. Beasley, who has charge of the arrangement of the blotters, is simply bubbling over with the novel idea which is to be carried out on this new issue, so much so that it is by the hardest that he can keep from telling the whole secret to everyone he meets. So keep your eyes open for the first ones which come out.

LOCALS

Ed Neville of the Freshman Class, who has been home on account of a short spell of sickness, has now returned and taken up his regular work. We are glad to see Mr. Neville back again.

Prep McKie wants to know if all the members of the faculty are Bishops.

"Infant Half-Shell" has been doing some flirting stunts on the street cars. Come now, Infant!

Let every fellow boost inter-collegiate athletics. Boost, fellows, boost!!

The report has been circulated that Dan Bufkin, the efficient business manager of this publication, gets up at 12:30 a. m. to catch a 6 o'clock train. That's right, old boy, always be on time.

William Eugenus Morse says that he would make any girl a good husband. This is your chance, co-eds.

A collection was taken up on the athletic field last Saturday to buy a false face for Joe Beasley. Davis predicts that this will greatly improve the looks of the campus. This is patriotism.

Fred Smith has won a home by telling the mother of two of our new co-eds a thrilling and fascinating account of his travels. How imagination does help a fellow sometimes.

Omar Reynolds, on meeting one of the Misses Lewis, remarked to his companion, "That girl favors Linn Witt, don't she?"

Tom Newell of last year's Freshman class, was on the campus one day last week. We are sorry that Newell is not on school this session. He is a plucky fellow on the athletic field, and also a popular man on the campus. We hope that he will see fit to be with us next year.

John Holifield blindly ran into one of our fair co-eds in the Laboratory one evening last week, the result of which rash action being that several test tubes were broken.

Those who attended the Y. M. C. A. last Friday night had an excellent treat in a solo by Mr. Sykes, of the Forbes Piano Company. We hope Mr. Sykes will repeat his visit soon.

Mr. C. E. Johnson, debating on the affirmative side of the subject that a hypocrite is more detestable than a liar, said that in the Bible somewhere there is a passage which runs thus, "O, you hypocrite."

Through the active work of our excellent detective bureau the old yellow hen which was advertised for in the last issue of this paper by Miss Annie Linfield was located at the store of our popular groceryman, Mr. G. W. Sistrunk. The testimony of Mr. Sistrunk was to the effect that three boys, names unknown, had traded the hen to him for three dopes and a pound of cheese and crackers.

Miss Mary Linfield, who was at home a few days of last week, is now back on the campus.

Dr. Sullivan says the chemical method of bringing on the blues is to take a dose of tincture of iodine immediately after eating a starchy meal.

Ask Red Colmer what it is that he has been recently stricken with.

Many of the students of Millsaps enjoyed the lecture given under the auspices of Dr. J. E. Walmsley's Sunday School class at Epworth Hall on last Saturday night, by Dr. Thos. Green. There was more good sound material for thought in this lecture than in any lecture that has taken place in Jackson during this season.

Ask W. C. Coggin where he spends every Saturday evening between the hours of seven and eleven. It is rumored that it is at one of our North Jackson institutions. Which one?

A rather humorous toast given by the lecturer on Saturday night was, "Here's to the hen, may her son never set."

EXCHANGE DEPARTMENT.

One of the brightest college weeklies that we receive is the Vanderbilt "Hustler." It seems to represent almost every phase of college life through its columns.

The "Ring-tum Phi" is a very newsy college publication. It is one of the best eight page exchanges that comes to our desk.

We were very glad indeed to receive the Virginia Military Institute weekly, "The Cadet." It is an interesting little paper.

The "Crimson and White" is by far the largest college weekly that has come to our desk this session. The University of Alabama is to be congratulated upon having a bright, six column, eight page weekly.

We acknowledge receipt of the "Varsity Voice." We are glad to have this paper upon our exchange list.

The Mississippi College Magazine is a very good college magazine, but the editorial department seems to be very weak. We would suggest more editorials, as they go to make any publication either strong or weak. Strong editorials improve a paper more than anything else.

The Short-Story number of the "Spectator" was exceptionally good. This is a bright college magazine and seems to be the result of some hard work on the part of its editors.

We acknowledge receipt of "The A. & M. Reflector", and "The Oracle."

GEOLOGICAL EXPLORATIONS.

By Senior Class.—Many Valuable Specimens Located.—At Flora, Mississippi.

Flora bound! This was the motto of the Senior Geology Class on last Saturday, about six o'clock in the morning. Under the guidance of Dr. J. M. Sullivan many valuable and interesting specimens were found.

When they reached the city of Flora, Mr. Bradley, of the Class of '98 met them at the station and carried them to the most interesting place, from a geological standpoint, anywhere in this part of the country.

The whole of the forenoon was spent in rambling over the hills and valleys; when it was announced that it was time for dinner to be spread, no one seemed to be in any way backward about offering a second to the motion.

The afternoon was spent in visiting all of the historical places in and around the city, and at 8:30 sharp the jolly party took the train for Jackson, Miss.

Notwithstanding the fact that all had spent a strenuous day, the opinion was universal that the day had been well spent, and the class is looking forward with a great deal of pleasant anticipation to the date of the next geological trip.

Those fortunate enough to be on this trip, were as follows: Misses Marguerite Park, Adele Knowles, and Myrtle Johnson; Dr. J. M. Sullivan, Messrs. R. J. Bingham, A. J. Beasley, W. C. Coggin, R. C. Berry, I. C. Enochs, Sam Hart, S. E. Williamson, Zack Taylor, H. C. Henderson, "Blondy" Mitchell, Carothers Sullivan, J. W. Holifield, A. A. Green, Jr., and J. S. Savage.

THE 'VARSITY TEAM

WHAT EXPERT OBSERVERS THINK OF IT.

Much and varied is the dope from all quarters concerning the 'Varsity. Every man in College has his own line-up already picked out, but whether those will accord with those of the selecting committee is another question. It is going to be exceedingly hard to pick out a line-up this year from the teams, and, doubtless, there will be many great surprises sprung. We have some excellent men scattered around on the different teams, and not a few real stars. In choosing a team the backfield is of most importance, and therefore, hardest to pick; but it seems that this year is going to be the easiest, because we have four men experienced, and exactly fitted for the places. The line, therefore, is going to give the trouble, as there are so many good men to choose from. Especially are the guards closely contested, and as it is of vital importance that these places be filled by good men, it is going to make it all the harder for the judges.

The following line-ups have been rendered by the various authorities:

Quarter—1st, T. W. Lewis; 2nd, Morse; 3rd, T. W. Lewis.

R. H. B.—1st, Kirkland; 2nd, Kirkland; 3rd, Kirkland.

F. B.—1st, Graham; 2nd, T. W. Lewis; 3rd, Graham.

L. H. B.—1st, Hunter; 2nd, Hunter; 3rd, Hunter.

Subs.—1st, Harkey, Davis and A. Green; 2nd, G. C. Clarke, Davis, Clifford, and Williamson; 3rd, T. C. Clarke, Wasson, E. J. Clifford and Davis.

SOCIAL

RECEPTION GIVEN TO STUDENTS.

By Ladies of the First Methodist Church.—Tremendous Crowd Enjoys this Expression of Hospitality.

One of the most enjoyable social happenings of this season was the reception which the ladies of the First Methodist Church tendered to the students of Belhaven and Millsaps Colleges on the evening of Tuesday, October 22nd from eight to eleven.

The parlors of the Church were decorated in a manner that showed that the most excellent taste had been exercised.

When the time came for the guests to arrive they literally poured in and filled the reception room to overflowing. Never, indeed, has a crowd been greeted by a warmer welcome than that which the ladies of the First Methodist Church extended to this jolly company of students.

After a very informal greeting had been exchanged among those present, an excellent program was rendered, which consisted of: a beautilfu piano solo, by Mrs. Thompson; a reading, which was one of the best that we ever heard, by Mrs. O'Ferrall; and last, but not by any means the least appreciated, a pretty selection by Mrs. Ethelbert Galloway. Mrs. Galloway is an excellent musician, and the writer of this article has heard many high commendations upon the selection which she rendered at this entertainment.

The ladies next served some delicious ices. It was the verdict of all present that the leaving time came all too soon, and the departure was made very reluctantly.

The ladies of the First Methodist Church have put us under everlasting obligations to them for the royal manner in which they treated us, and we are sure that we voice the sentiment of the student body when we thank them heartily for this expression of liberality on their part.

CHAFING DISH PARTY.

Most charming hostesses were the Kappa Mus on Friday evening. A delightful chafiing dish party was given at the home of Miss Adele Knowles, in honor of Miss Bessie Huddleston, an Alumni "Sister," who was at home for the Thanksgiving holidays.

When a select group of the Sorority's friends had gathered, they were ushered into the spacious dining room, and there bidden to "work their will" with a bountiful supply of oysters,and materials and condiments for Welsh rarebit, and candies of various sorts. With the ladies as "captains" of the chafing dishes, and the young men as most efficient "first mates" there was soon landed a most delightful "cargo" of delicately browned oysters and delicious sweets. Friendly rivalry between the cooks and their assistants added spice to the menu.

Such an informal occasion is always enjoyed; and the graciousness and skill so distinctive of the Kappa Mus as hostesses made this an unusually pleasant evening.

A. A. GREEN ENTERTAINS.

On last Friday night, Mr. A. A. Green, a prominent member of the Senior Class, entertained several of his friends at a "Five Hundred" party given in honor of his visitor,

A. A. Green Entertains

Miss Roach, of New Orleans.

His beautiful residence was artistically decorated for the occasion the tables being arranged in such a way as to make a most pleasing effect.

After "Five Hundred" had been played for some time and the winners had received prizes, dainty and delicious refreshments were served, after which a dance was had and for quite a while the company enjoyed themselves dancing by the "Victrola."

Mrs. Green proved to be a charming hostess to such an extent that it was far past midnight before the party could get its consent to leave as pleasant a place as this.

The guests were as follows:

Misses Roach, Hebron, Smith, Whitten, Alford, Yerger, Willing, Alford and Lampton; Messrs. Cavett, Ramsey, A. C. Jones, Morris, Ricketts, Charlton Jones, Chichester, and Thompson.

PI KAPPA ALPHAS ENTERTAIN.

On Thanksgiving Eve, the Pi Kappa Alpha boys entertained a number of their friends at an informal reception. It was an ideal night for such an occasion, and all came expecting to have the time of their lives. Judging from all appearances, no one was disappointed in his expectations. The merriment started as soon as the guests appeared, and lasted without cessation till the time of their departure. With some fair sister always at the piano playing a lively air, the spirits of every one were kept tuned up to the very highest notch. The punch bowl, which was filled and refilled many times, was a source of great pleasure to all present, as was attested by the number of times that it was visited. Later in the evening delicious salads were served followed by hot chocolate. The good times lasted until midnight when the guests departed expressing utmost faith in the entertaining qualities of the Pi Kappa Alpha boys.

It may never be too late to mend, but sometimes it is mighty inconvenient, so go now and have Eyrich & Co. to order fifty stylish engraved visiting cards for a dollar.

Joe Carson paid us a short visit Thanksgiving. Joe is at work now, and he says he likes it better than going to school.

It was a remarkable fact that the A. & M. and University game, under the new rules, was played without a single man getting hurt. This fact ought to have a favorable effect on the members of the Conference.

We were glad to see John Adams, an old Millsaps boy, holding his own so well in Thursday's game. It really caused a longing in our hearts to see Millsaps men playing for Millsaps.

Dave Glass, who is a Senior at the University this year, was on the campus two or three days of last week. Glass is chairman of the honor council at the University, and report has it that he is one of the strongest men there.

Tom and Hampton Stennis were on the campus a day or two of last week. The latter says that he will be with us after the holidays.

GALLOWAYS FAVOR REFERENDUM AND RECALL.

Witt and Gulledge Speak Before Applauding Audience.—Officers Elected.

At the appointed hour, President "Sis" Williamson was found absent, so it was necessary for "Blondy" Mitchell to preside over the destinies of the Galloways for the evening.

Mr. Witt was ready with a declamation about "The Father of his Country," and was applauded, after proving himself in his old-time form as a speaker. Mr. R. W. Gulledge, the orator, told of his love affairs, gracing his speech with poetry. It was punctuated with much laughter and applause.

The debate was on a subject very interesting and important, "Resolved, that the Next Legislature Should Pass Recall and Referendum Bills." Messrs. Howe, Reynolds, Daniel, Hopkins, Barrier, and Huddleston gave the Society an able discussion pro and con. The judges were convinced in favor of the bills advocated and rendered their decision accordingly.

Messrs. R. W. Gulledge and J. W. Broom spoke well on irregular debate.

The Society elected Hon. O. B. Eaton of Gulfport, as outside anniversary speaker.

The election of officers resulted as follows: H. C. Henderson, President; J. W. Broom, Vice President; A. N. Morse and M. U. Zung, Secretaries; M. U. Zung, of Soo Chow, China, Monthly Orator.

The house then adjourned.

SPEAKERS AND DEBATERS.

Men Who Uphold the Galloway and Lamar Banners in 1910.

The men chosen by the Lamars to serve on the great occasions the present session are: G. C. Clark, Anniversarian; R. J. Bingham, Anniversary Orator; Hon. B. P. Harrison, Outside Speaker; D. W. Bufkin, Anniversary President; Southern Debater, F. B. Collins; F. B. Smith and E. H. Green, Commencement Debaters; Ramsey and Stirling, Mid-Session Debaters.

Those who will represent the Galloways are: D. D. Cameron, Anniversarian; Fulton Thompson, Anniversary Orator; Mr. Eaton, Outside Speaker; W. E. Morse, Annual President; J. W. Broom, Southern Debater; J. D. Wroten and W. N. Thomas, Commencement Debaters; T. E. Lott and H. C. Henderson, Mid-Session Debaters.

These men should, and no doubt will, serve their respective Societies well, and give the student body something classy when the proper time comes.

Messrs. Broom and Collins will measure lances with the Southern University representatives in Jackson some time next spring, and will make it strenuous for their opponents. The students hope victory will be with Millsaps.

LAMAR SOCIETY.

Members are very enthusiastic.—New Men are showing up well.—Affirmative wins the question.

The members of the Lamar Literary Society met Friday evening and rendered a very excellent program. President Holifield was in the chair promptly at eight o'clock, and it was but a very short time before the flood gates of oratory were again opened.

The declaimer of the evening was Mr. Stuart. This gentleman comes to us as a new man and has already shown his ability as a speaker. We are glad to have such men as Stuart in the Society, for a good speaker is always in demand.

The subject for debate was, "Resolved, That a High Protective Tariff Tends to Promote the Welfare of the People at Large." The first man on the affirmative was the renowned Chas. E. Johnson. This gentleman as usual, gave the Society a very strong speech. He pointed out the benefits of a high tariff and showed why the leaders of our country favored such a law.

The man who defended the negative side of this national question was our own Grover C. Clark. As is customary, this speaker made a very impressive speech. Though suffering from a broken rib (?) he did not fail to produce sufficient argument that would be creditable to any debater.

Following this speaker, was Mr. Summers, who hails from Meridian. He gave us a very fine speech for a new man and we see no reason why we cannot make an excellent orator out of him. After concluding his well prepared speech, he took his seat amid continued applause.

Welton Troy Harkey was the next man to uphold the negative. He, too, is a new man in the Society, and handled his subject very proficiently. We can always look for something good when Harkey is on the program.

Last, but not least on the affirmative, was Edgar Harmon Green. No doubt he made one of the best extemporaneous speeches that has been delivered in the Society. He proved conclusively that people who "raise" automobiles should not be forced to pay a duty upon them.

Then Mr. Chas. Chrisler came to the front and also delivered a very fine speech. He made several points for the negative and showed that he had given special time to the preparation of his subject.

The judges, after considering the argument, produced on both sides awarded the question to the affirmative.

The Society then proceeded to elect an Outside Speaker for the Anniversary occasion. Hon. B. P. Harrison, congressman-elect from the sixth district, was unanimously elected to this place.

his appeals to participate in college athletics as they should, President Craighead has announced that hereafter Tulane will enjoy the taste of compulsory athletics. Every freshman and sophomore at the University will be compelled to take a certain amount of exercise prescribed by the faculty. Outdoor work will constitute the greater part of the physical requirements.

LOCALS

We were all glad to see Bill Phillips on the campus a few days last week. Bill is just as good-looking as ever, and just as big a ladies' man. We are always glad to see our old men, and we wish that more of them would come out to see us.

John Green, of last year's soph. class, who is now studying medicine at the University of Mississippi, came down to see the Turkey Day game, and while in town he visited his many friends on the campus.

The friends of Mr. Keister, who has been ill, will be glad to know that he is up and at his work again.

James Galloway visited his friends and frat-mates while in town for the game.

Messrs. Ruff and Tindall were out of town for a few days last week.

W. N. Thomas spent Thanksgiving at home.

Jean Morse (in Junior English)—Dr. Kern, What does "Amen" mean? Good-bye? (Applause.)

Dr. Hull—Give an example of an exclusive proposition.

"Chief" Mitchell—The Temple of Solomon was open to all, excluding the women!

Miss Edith McCluer, a popular member of last year's class, was out at the college on Wednesday afternoon.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL JACKSON

THE WORK OF OUR LITERARY SOCIETIES.

The six-day schedule of college recitations that went into operation at the beginning of the present session, has given rise to considerable thought and discussion of the value and cost of the work of the literary society. A large number of students who have hitherto been very active in society work, find that Saturday work diminishes their available time. Yet they hesitate to neglect in any way this valuable college activity. A number of new students have expressed themselves against joining a literary society because of an alleged lack of time.

We commend these students for their forethought, and at the same time disagree with them. Not for a moment would we be thought to discourage college work proper. It is the paramount business of the student. But reference to the printed schedule of recitations shows that for the majority of students, their lightest work comes on Saturday. Barring a few exceptions this is the general rule. Observation covering several years shows that generally the man with a heavy course, is the last man to "cut" society. He weighs well the value of all his time and then reaches the wise conclusion that he must do his society work at all hazards. The exceptions to this rule are very rare. To the new man the very pertinent question of why this is true occurs naturally.

There are many good reasons why. What seems to be the fundamental reason is that this kind of work does more to put a man in instant command of all his powers when he needs them most than any other one training offered in college life. As the ideal athlete is a man who has developed his body, muscle and nerve, to the limit of its capacity and can, when he wills, use every particle of strength without serious loss or friction and with celerity, so the powerful intellectual man is he who can concentrate all his mental powers without loss of time and without loss by confusion and embarrassment, in defense of his convictions or to promote his plans. He is able to contend with his fellows and get the greatest result by the most skillful use of his mental resources. He has convictions and reasons for them, and can defend his opinion by giving effectively the reasons back of it. He is at home before an audience. Many scholarly men are almost as helpless as a babe for their lack of such experience and training.

Public speaking and debate give this training and development. False opinions are destroyed by the cross-fire of discussion and the student learns his strength and weakness, develops his strong points, and guards well his weak ones. He acquires the ability to think on his feet, to withstand the onslaught of an opponent, to elude the effects of ridicule and scathing criticism. In short, he becomes self-confident, and achieves self-mastery.

We are glad to note that the majority of the students are making the necessary sacrifice to get this valuable power and development, by attending society meetings and taking active and enthusiastic interest in the work. It means much and each man should weigh well its value to himself before he neglects it. Millsaps College has reason to be proud of the efficient work of its Literary Societies in the past. Let not the standard be lowered, but rather let the disciples of Prentiss, Galloway and Lamar turn their faces to the future determined to make new and more creditable records and attain greater heights and nobler achievements.

CAMPUS PRIDE.

Quite a large number of the former students of Millsaps were in town last week to see the gridiron contest for the State Championship. All that could do so, came out to see the old student haunts and the familiar campus scenes. Along with them and to see friends and relatives, came a number of visitors. These visitors were impressed favorably or unfavorably by their reception by the students and the appearance of things on the campus. We should at all times be deeply concerned about the impressions our visitors receive for our reputation is helped or injured according as we make pleasant or unpleasant impressions.

The appearance of the grounds and buildings is what the trustees, faculty and student body make it. Hence, it is an indication in part, of their dominant ideals, and so reflects the character of every one that can and does or does not change it. We have no desire to say anything here about what the trustees and faculty should, or should not, do. But we have a word for the students. We are anxious that there shall be on their part, a good healthy campus pride. Each student should at all times endeavor to make everything about him take on a neat and attractive appearance. His room, the halls of the dormitory, the cottages, the grounds, should be made more and more attractive. We will say just here that there has been a marked improvement this year in this respect, especially at Founders Hall. The sanitary condiitons are better, more pride is manifested by the students. But there is much room for improvement on all sides.

The Millsaps campus can be made a very beautiful one. To make it what it can be made, there is much care and attention necessary. We say this not to criticize, but to call attention to our duty in this respect,—to ourselves and the institution. No one doubts that improvements can be made even with no considerable expense, that will vastly improve the looks of things. Then why not begin to strive to make the campus more beautiful? Who can offer a sensible objection to it? Yet who is to begin this? The students should begin it by each making such little changes looking to this end, as he can. Later, it may be a good plan to form some organization to have the oversight of this work, and work systematically for improvement. No movement could have a more deserving aim. We dream of a modern gymnasium and a new dormitory to improve our equipment, and beautify the campus, but while we dream day dreams, let us get busy and make better the conditions that now exist. This is the way to begin. Let us manifest a proper campus pride.

SCIENCE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

Permanent Organization Entered into.—R. C. Berry Chosen President.—Constitution Adopted and Committee Continued to Complete By-Laws.

The Science Club met Friday afternoon, Nov. 25, at the appointed hour with Dr. Sullivan in the Chair. The Constitution Committee reported and submitted a constitution which was adopted by unanimous vote. The report was made by H. C. Henderson,. The committee was continued in order to complete the By-Laws. The Constitution provides for the following officers: President, Vice President, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary, and Treasurer, to be chosen by secret ballot.

Permanent organization was entered into by the election of R. C. Berry, President; J. S. Savage, Vice President; H. C. Henderson, Corresponding Secretary; Miss Adele Knowles, Recording Secretary, and G. C. Clark, Treasurer.

The Club adjourned to meet again this afternoon at 4 o'clock, in Science Hall. All members are urged to be present at the meeting as important business will be transacted.

The Club has very bright prospects, and will, no doubt, perform a valuable service for the college.

PROF. RICKETTS ADDRESSES THE Y. M. C. A.

Gives Interesting Talk on Early Church History in Mississippi.

Using "The Beginnings of Methodism in Mississippi" Prof. Ricketts gave the members of the Y. M. C. A. a most interesting account of the early history of the Methodist Church in this State.

His acquaintance, intimate in a large number of cases, with the early fathers of the Church in this State, made every thing that he said reach the minds of his hearers with doubled force and interest.

Prof. Ricketts said that while Mississippi had no great military victories around which to center her State history, yet in the victories of Protestantism lay a history worthy of any State. He then told the story of Tobias Gibson, the first pioneer Methodist preacher of the State. The South Carolina Conference met on Jan. 1st, 1799, and after much work in selection appointed Rev. Tobias Gibson, a young man of excellent education and culture as missionary to the Natchez Territory of Mississippi. He immediately rode on horseback through the wilds of the intervening country, suffering many hardships on the way, until he came to Nashville, Tenn., there he sold his horse and saddle and bought a canoe and supplies. In this canoe he floated down the great Mississippi river to a point just above Natchez, where he landed, and walking across country to the home of a kinsman, began his work. In true Methodist style he started a protracted meeting and soon had a little church organized. From his work and the work of others as self-sacrificing and courageous has sprung the great Methodist church of Mississippi today.

The history of these old pioneers in the work of God in this State is one which is as inspiring as the tales of battlefield and victories won by our soldiers in our war with nations, and should be encouraging to us when we meet hardships, which, seemingly, are insurmountable.

Dr. Weatherford in his report of the work among Southern students for the year 1909-1910, says:

"IV. Study of Social Conditions: One of the most difficult problems that faces the entire South is the training of the colored race so it will not only furnish law-abiding and useful citizens, but also a permanent economic asset of the section. This is a problem which cannot be solved in a day but it will never be solved until trained men of the section give sufficient study to it to be able to give proper direction to future development of work for and among negroes. Looking to a large intelligence among college men on this question a somewhat extended study of the problem has been undertaken by the Student Secretary of the South and a small introductory volume of six chapters written. These chapters set forth the reasons for the study of this question by college men; and what college men may do to help in getting a better understanding between the races. Facts are presented concerning negro education, negro religious life, the economic conditions of the negro, and the condition of health and housing of the negro now in the South. At the two Student Conferences this summer this course was presented and proved to be the most popular topic of study on the program of each Conference. It is hoped that we may have at least two thousand college men in the South studying this book this year."

Quite a large number of the students at Millsaps have determined to take up this introductory course, realizing that it presents a well written outline and study of one of the most pressing problems in our country today. Dr. Kern has consented to conduct this class, which will organize and begin work immediately. This would be quite a help to the members of the Sociology class since it is clear, practical and is a subject with which Sociology must labor.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE GRANTS ALL BUT FOOTBALL

MAJOR MILLSAPS AND PRESIDENT HULL MAKE SPEECHES—NOBLE FIGHT BY ALL FRIENDS OF INTER-COLLEGIAT GAMES.

The North Mississippi Conference at Sardis last week took up the matter of intercollegiate games and granted all but football. Major Millsaps, President Hull, Prof. Burton, Dr. Sullivan, and many influential Alumni joined hands with members of the Conference favoring intercollegiate athletics and by the effective work of the latter the result was that Millsaps got permission from the Conference to engage in basketball, field events, baseball and tennis.

The reports in the daily papers state that Major Millsaps and President Hull made strong and effective speeches for the privilege. The printed extracts from these speeches are well worth reading. The Millsaps students were very glad to know of this favorable action by the Conference and are very anxious to hear such good news from the Mississippi Conference that will soon convene at Hattiesburg.

TEACHERS CLUB REORGANIZED

Takes the Form of a Round-Table Discussion---"Negro Education in Mississippi", Subject under discussion at the next meeting.

On last Tuesday night the Teachers' Club re-organized in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, with nearly all of the old members present. A free for all round-table discussion was indulged in which was greatly enjoyed by those present.

It was decided to change the nature of the organization from a formal meeting as was generally held last session, to an informal round-table discussion to be held every two weeks. The subject to be discussed at the next meeting on December the 13th at 7:30 will be as follows:

"Negro Education in Missis-sip pi." The subject will be taken up from every standpoint, as in the state colleges, in private institutions, in negro high schools, and in the country schools. Facts concerning the equipment, courses offered, number of students, sources of support, curriculum, grade of work done, efficiency of the teachers, and finally the influence of these schools upon the communities in which they are located, will be brought out in a very interesting informal way.

This teachers' organization can be made a very helpful as well as a very instructive organization and it should have the most hearty support of those who contemplate at any time teaching in the public schools of Mississippi.

COME FORTH!

All Ye BasketBall Fiends---Make this a Great Inter-Class Series.

The field of athletics like that of colleges, is divided into different periods and seasons. The coming of each season heralds the new sport or game. The football season having drawn to a close something else must needs occupy the collegiate attention. Some different game which must be at the same time, interesting, exciting and beneficial. These qualities were embodied to a remarkable extent in football, but as custom forces us to lay this aside, a substitute of some kind must be chosen. It must be something in which surplus steam and energy may be turned down and finicky nerves be subdued. This season is joyously welcomed by all lovers of of basketball. This game has always occupied a prominent position in Millsapsian sports and for several years a 'Varsity team has been picked which has not only ably defended but has heaped honors on our alma mater. Last year four excellent class teams were picked and organized. A schedule was fixed and a series of games played off that would have done credit to any college. This year we must have at least four good teams and prepare for the best series of games ever pulled off in "T. A." land. We must all pull together and hustle for our teams and as Dr. Burton says, "If you won't help and can't play, then get off the band wagon."

A 'Varsity team will be chosen as usual this year and a series with the University, Mississippi and other colleges will be arranged.

MISSION STUDY RALLY.

Miss Janie Watkins Addresses Y. M. C. A.—Many Interesting Facts brought out about China—Dr. S. H. McLean addresses Association Tonight.

One of the most delightful addresses which has been delivered at Millsaps this year, was given by Miss Janie Watkins on last Friday evening.

Miss Watkins has for some years past, been a teacher in Laura Haygood Memorial School at Soochow, China, one of the girls' schools in that country owned by the M. E. Church, South. She began her address with an outline of the conditions in China today; then gave a bit of history. She described the school in which she works and added to this a description of the Soochow University, a school for boys, owned and controlled by the Methodist Church, which school is situated in close proximity to the Laura Haygood School. Quite a bit of interest was aroused when Miss Watkins told of the athletics of the University and the enthusiasm with which the Chinese men and boys entered into their games and sports.

All of the things mentioned before held the attention of every hearer but that which touched the heart and aroused the most intense interest was the story of the great work of Christianity among the people of this great nation. Miss Watkins told of how girls and boys came to the Christian schools intensely prejudiced against Christianity, but in spite of this were so convinced by a study of the Bible and by personal contact with those who taught them that they were converted and became earnest workers for the advancement of that Gospel which they had once hated. Miss Watkins expressed the belief of every right thinking person today when she said that the salvation of China is nothing more or less than Christianity. There is no doubt that now is the crucial moment in the history of this sleeping giant. The nation is waking and must be Christianized now or the evangelization of the world will be postponed many generations. Her people are in a receptive condition for they are giving up their heathen gods and their religions. If not given the Gospel now they will develop into a race of atheists; men who know no god and have no religion. What a great opportunity, yet at the same time, what a responsibility rests upon us as Christian people!

Miss Watkins said that she would not try to persuade anyone to become a missionary, yet if asked where a person might make his life count for most in the world she would without hesitation say in the Mission field. "The harvest is indeed great, but the laborers are few." After concluding her address, Miss Watkins sang in the Chinese tongue that sweet song which those who know love to sing so well, "Jesus Loves Me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so."

The address having ended enrollment cards were distributed and quite a number of men agreed to take up a course in Mission study. The courses offered if taken will mean much in educating its readers to a knowledge of foreign affairs and conditions and will arouse a strong interest in the greater movement of the world today, the motto of which is, "The Evangelization of the World in This generation."

What about your Bible reading pledge? Are you keeping it?

Interest in the course in "The Study of the Negro Problem" is increasing every day and the class bids fair to be one of the largest and most interesting in the Y. M. C. A. It meets on every Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, and lasts forty-five minutes. Every man is invited to come out and join in the lively discussions which are to be had.

The program committee of the Y. M. C. A. is fortunate in having secured the services of Dr. S. H. McLean, for an address tonight. Dr. McLean is one of the leading physicians of Jackson, and is recognized as one of its best surgeons. He occupies quite an honored position on the City Board of Health and is also Secretary of the State Board of Health. He is well prepared to deliver a talk which every man on the campus should hear. The subject of the address will be, "Social Purity,"—for men only. This is a subject about which no man can know too much and this will be something new, coming from a man who has studied the subject from the standpoint of the physician. Lay your plans with the purpose of attending this address.

GALLOWAYS HAVE GOOD PROGRAMME.

President H. C. Henderson Installed —Debate Excellent—A. J. Beasley Fined Sixteen Times.

The Galloway Literary Society held its first meeting of the second quarter under very trying conditions. On account of the inability to secure heat in the Hall, the Society was compelled to seek new quarters. An ideal place was found in the Y. M. C. A. Hall where the men soon settled down and the preliminaries of installing officers were disposed of at once.

H. C. Henderson, after taking the oath of office, rendered a stirring and emphatic inaugural address. He mapped out his plan of procedure for the ensuing quarter and appealed to the new members to do their part towards making "Old Galloway" what she should be, and upholding her past record. Henderson showed a knowledge of parliamentary rules from the beginning, and the Galloway Society feels no degree of uneasiness with him in the chair.

After the President had taken his seat, and the cheering had ceased, the declaimer for the evening was called for. Mr. T. J. Lowery responded to this call, and for fifteen minutes the audience was held spell bound by the charming influence of Mr. Lowery's eloquence. His subject was "The Un-known Speaker" and proved a treat to the Galloway fellows.

The next call was for the Orator, S. L. Crockett. Crockett, already famous for his oratory, won new fame both as an orator and a writer. He treated his subject, "The Last Triumph" from the Southern point of view, and spoke it with a zeal and eloquence that all enjoyed immensely.

The Galloway Society is proud of both Lowery and Crockett.

The question of the evening was, "Resolved, That Mississippi Should Have Compulsory Education in the Public Schools." L. B. Lampton, the first speaker on the affirmative opened the discussion with a bombardment against the "Blacks and Dagoes" of the State. These poor garlic and watermelon lovers caught the brunt of the argument throughout the entire argument.

W. M. Cain strove to show that Mississippi's educational system was sufficient for her present needs and conditions.

Russell presented the poor man's side of the question and unconsciously paved the way for his opponent, Mr. U. Zung, of Soo Chow, China. Zung made a forceful argument, showing why it was advantageous for China to have compulsory education, and on the other hand, the unwisdom of Mississippi's taking such a step.

W. N. Thomas, the last speaker for the affirmative side, handled the question with the air of an expert. He directed his forces against the argument produced by his opponents, and point after point tore them to pieces.

A. W. Garroway, a new man, but by no means new when it comes to debating, clinched the points brought out by his colleagues, and brought out new points incontrovertible to the minds of the Decision Committee.

In less time than it took the jury to acquit Dulaney, the Decision Committee rendered a verdict in favor of the negative.

Under the irregular debate, the entire house seemed anxious to obtain the floor, but only a few were successful enough to be recognized by the President before the time was up. Ruff and Reynolds spoke on the affirmative, while J. M. Morse and Wasson won the question for the negative.

The impromptu question was "Resolved, That It is Better to Have Loved and Lost than Never to Have Loved at All." This question was discussed by two of the Society's experts on all questions of love. But as Daniels proved to have had better success than Mitchell, the Society voted the question to Daniels, who upheld the affirmative side of the question.

Hopkins, of the law class, was elected Orator for one month hence.

The Critic reported the best program of the year. The Sargeant-at-Arms reported A. J. Beasley for talking no less than sixteen times.

There being no further business, the President declared the house adjourned.

D. D. C. '12.

PHI ZETAS ENTERTAINED.

One of the most charming affairs of the season was that on Wednesday afternoon, November the 30th, when Mrs. Burton, assisted by Miss Sullivan entertained the Phi Zeta Sorority.

The rooms were decorated in the Sorority colors, green and gold; the scheme being carried out in fern and chrysanthemums—all in pleasant contrast to the wintry weather outside.

An original game offered for the amusement of the guests, caused much friendly rivalry. The prizes, beautiful hatpins, were won by Misses Carothers, Whitson and McGehee. A delicious ice course, also in the frat colors, was then served in the loveliest of hand painted china and cut glass by dainty little Misses Anna Margaret Burton and Eleanor Jean Sullivan.

At a late hour the guests regretfully parted, all voting Mrs. Burton the jolliest, sweetest hostess in Jackson. Those present were: Misses Carothers, Eleanor Sullivan, Annie Bessie Whitson, Stella McGehee, Birdie Grey Steen, Sallie Baley, Lucile Bradford, Bessie Henderson, Flora and Eleanor Lewis, Janie Linfield, Anna Margaret Burton, Eleanor Jean Sullivan and Mrs. Foster.

LAMAR IN SESSION AGAIN.

Ross Makes a Great Speech.—Brewer, the Peanut Sport, Comes forth in Great Form.—Negative Wins.

The Lamar Society convened at the appointed time on Friday evening, with President Holifield in the chair. After the preliminary business was attended to, the program was entered into with a lively spirit.

"Young" Jack Brewer, the "Peanut Sport," delivered Prentiss's Eulogy on the Death of Lafayette, with vim and energy. We are expecting great things for this young sprout in the days that are to come.

The question for the debate was, "Resolved, That the Jury System Should be Abolished." The first speaker who was in favor of abolishing this time-honored institution was Mr. Ross, a law student of no mean ability. Having worked for several years in the circuit clerk's office of Harrison county, he was thoroughly familiar with court procedure and with the personnel of the modern jury. His speech was full of logic, argument and persuasion, and was one of the best ever delivered in Lamar Hall. His was not by any means the only speech of note heard on this occasion.

"Red" Colmer, a fellow townsman of the former speaker, followed in his usual humorous style and between jokes handed out some unanswerable arguments and drove down the first great peg for the negative.

Proceeding further, Adams was heard from and easily measured up to the standard set by his worthy colleague. Fred Smith was the second on the negative and he proved conclusively that the Apostolic twelve given to democracy by the "Magna Charta" of England, was the only body of men that were suitable to try their peers in liberty-loving America.

Selby, the last speaker on the affirmative, had a nicely outlined and systematically arranged debate that teemed forth with originality even at the late hour at which it was spoken. Weinstein, of Hebrew fame, concluded the argument for the negative, and although his speech was extemporaneous it was equal in point of logic and reasoning to any that had preceded him.

The judges after retirement and deliberation decided in favor of the negative.

After the debate the matter of main interest that came up was Savage's point of order, intermingled as it was with various other motions to do various and sundry things from alpha to omega. We are not exactly prepared to say what his point of order was. In fact the President himself took the matter under advisement until the next meeting and the Society adjourned.

PRENTISS BOYS INSTALL OFFICERS.

Decide the North Produced Greater Men than the South.—Debate Good.

According to its custom, the Prentiss Literary Society met in regular session last Saturday night with Hon. Fred Jones wielding the gavel in his usual dignified and graceful manner.

The following officers were installed:

R. E. Edwards, President; C. C. Clark, Vice President; S. H. Gilmore, Secretary; J. B. Cain, Critic; Bingham, Censor; and Keister, Doorkeeper.

THE ACTION OF THE NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

After carefully weighing the advantages and disadvantages of intercollegiate athletics for Millsaps College the North Mississippi Conference has gone on record as favoring baseball, track, basketball and tennis. This is at once a recognition of the vital importance of the privilege to our institution and an expression of confidence in the present Board, Faculty and student body, who favored it.

This action means much to us and every man who is a friend of athletics will at once realize its importance. One of the conditions of the broadest and fullest development of a college's usefulness today is that it be allowed the privilege of competing with sister institutions in manly athletic contests. It contributes greatly to the internal vigor and vitality of college life by fostering love for the alma mater and the resultant clean cut college spirit. Every college man knows the value of such a spirit in drawing students and holding them. Blue blood of the old days has given place to the vital red blood of today, and nowhere in the life around us is this more manifest than on the athletic field. There a man without a pull can get a pull by merit and class distinctions are smashed, as they should be. The strength, courage, and self-mastery of the participant are developed, and the courage of the spectator is also increased by seeing true grit triumph. The value of this is realized by the public to the extent that the school which gives the best and cleanest opportunity of this kind has a great advantage in the college struggle for survival. On the other hand, the institution denied the privilege has not this means of cementing its management and student body, and so cannot have the unity and strength that results. Nor can it draw students and hold them as effectively. Therefore, since the privilege of intercollegiate games is a basis of self-preservation and progress for any college its importance to Millsaps cannot fail to become manifest to the careful thinker.

To say that the student body here appreciates the efforts of our friends in North Mississippi is to put it mildly indeed. The Board of Trustees, Faculty and student body acted as a unit and did what they could. But it was the noble response of our friends in the Conference who made the action a fact. We are grateful to all who helped us: we have no criticism for the men who honestly differed. To the best friend Millsaps College ever had, Major Millsaps, we owe a peculiar debt of gratitude because he never fails to come to our rescue in times of great need. President Hull's stand for clean, manly athletics appeals to the judgment of a thinking mind well nigh irresistibly. He voices the sentiments of the students and we believe they are a unit in his support. We are confident that those who differ with him and us can not avoid feeling the strength and sincerity of his position. Our obligation extends to Prof. Burton for his efforts and Mr. W. M. Buie also whose efforts show at once the attitude and loyalty of the Alumni. Especially do we want to thank those members of the Conference for their support of the movement we believe to be so vitally important to Millsaps College.

The North Mississippi Conference has spoken and we believe that the Mississippi Conference should and will grant the privilege also. All we desire is that our cause be given a fair consideration and that no member of the Conference decide for or against it until he has considered well what it means to Millsaps. We are confident that such consideration will lead to its endorsement by the Conference and that those who have been given the responsibility of guarding and promoting the interests and welfare of Millsaps will have this important privilege, so necessary to that progress and development which every friend of our institution dreams of and hopes for. Their achievement in the past has been most gratifying indeed and Millsaps has taken front rank as a result. Of this all are justly proud. But progress is the law of life and any privilege that makes for true progress ought to be granted to the Board of Trustees and Faculty.

We call upon every student to stand for and be satisfied with athletics of a clean, pure type only. Our President and friends expect this of us, and we have stood for it. Our manhood dictates it. So let us give the members of the Conferences and all those who have our well being at heart such conduct as will prove us worthy of confidence and show that we stand for a life at once strong, clean and manly. Then when we enter into those contests we have long wished to enter if that privilege is given us, we can, whether defeated or victorious, always feel that we have fought a good fight. This we believe will always be an element of the Millsaps spirit for our students have always acted hitherto, and we believe they will continue to act, as intelligent manly college men should do. When the members of the Conferences, the Trustees and the Faculty, see us proven the men we should be, see us stand only for the square deal in athletics, as in all things else: they will then know they made no mistake in endeavoring to get us the privilege of intercollegiate games.

We appreciate very much the manly efforts which the old Millsaps students put forth in the fight for intercollegiate athletics in the recent session of the North Mississippi Conference. Our students always take first rank in any organization of twhich they are members, and it is no great surprise to us that they are numbered among the most influential men in the Conferences.

LITERARY SOCIETY

Mr. Edwards then launched forth on his inaugural address, which was strong and able.

Mr. Bingham then came forward to debate the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the North has produced greater men than the South." Bingham brought out some masterful arguments for his side and brought cheers from the audience. Treasurer S. S. Sargeant came forth as the first speaker on the negative. This gentleman proved himself beyond a doubt one of the noted successors of Sargeant S. Prentiss and showed that our dear old Southland had produced many able and strong men in all walks of life.

Mr. Moony defended the rights of the affirmative side in such a strong and forceful manner that all the members of the Society were made to sit up and take notice. The next sounding of the program brought forth a debater of the first water by the name of 'Squire Newton. By this time the Society was wild with enthusiasm and all seemed to be eager to know who would take the floor next. Mr. Hugh Gilmore responded to the call and gave the question a fair discussion on every phase. Bailey, the last speaker on the negative, broke forth into a flight of oratory and argument that clinched the question. The judges, after a long and stormy discussion, rendered the decision in favor of the negative.

FACULTY REGULATIONS.

The following are the rules of the Faculty, as revised under the new administration:

Classification.

1. In classifying students for entrance the grouping of units in the catalogue will be strictly observed.

2. No one who is not classed as a College student may be enrolled in Freshman English or Freshman History, except on the basis of an entrance examination or as a special recommendation from the Professor in charge.

3. In classifying College students, the following rules shall be observed:

(a) Students who are credited with less than nine hours of College work shall be classed as Freshmen.

(b) Students who are credited with more than nine and less than 25 hours shall be classed as Sophomores.

(c) Students who are credited with more than 25 and less than 45 hours are classed as Juniors.

(d) Students who are credited with 45 hours or more are classed as Seniors.

4. No student shall take more than 19 hours of College work in any year, and no student making up entrance conditions may take more than 16 hours.

5. No student may drop work regularly assigned except on the basis of a written petition to the Faculty.

6. Students shall select all of the required work in any lower class before selecting higher work.

7. Students who fail in any class shall be required to take the same class the following year except by the vote of the Faculty.

Examinations.

1. No extra examination may be given unless a grade of at least 50% shall have been made on the regular examination exclusive of class standing.

2. For each extra examination a fee of three ($3.00) dollars shall be paid to the College Treasurer before the examination is given.

3. Daily grades shall not be averaged with the examination grades unless a grade of at least 60% or more be made on the examination.

4. The report grades shall be as follows: From 90% to 100% inclusive, Grade 1; from 80% to 89% inclusive, Grade 2; from 70% to 79% inclusive, Grade 3; below 70% Grade 4, which shall signify failure.

Absences.

1. If a student is absent from a class less than ten per cent of the meetings of said class in any one term, he will be presumed to have a good excuse; if absent ten per cent or more, no excuse will be accepted. Every absence during the week following Christmas shall be counted as two absences. Each unexcused absence from class shall be counted as a zero on daily grades and a penalty of five demerits shall be imposed.

2. For each unexcused absence from the chapel a penalty of two demerits shall be inflicted.

3. No student shall be absent from the city without previous permission from the President.

Oakley Scholarship Prize.

The Oakley Scholarship Prize shall be awarded to that member of the Sophomore Class who has made the highest average grade on all College work up to and including the end of the session at which the prize shall be awarded.

Speeches.

No man shall speak at Commencement, except the Society Debaters unless the average of his first term examination and his class standing for the third and fourth quarters shall equal at least 70%.

2. Each commencement speaker shall have prepared his work in a manner satisfactory to the Faculty Committee on Public Lectures and Addresses, at least one week prior to commencement.

3. The order of speakers on commencement programs shall be decided by lot under the management of the Committee on Public Lectures and Addresses, and when the order has been thus decided there shall be no inter-changing of places.

Credits.

The Editor of the College Weekly may, on request, be credited with one elective class in English.

Discipline.

1. Students are forbidden to visit the town or any other place away from the College at night without the permission from some member of the Faculty. This shall be rigidly enforced by each member of the Faculty, and violations shall be referred to the President for action. The names of those given permission shall be filed with the President.

2. The rules forbidding guns, cards or whiskey in the possession of any student shall be rigidly enforced and boarding house keepers shall be notified of this regulation.

3. Attendance upon Church at least once on Sunday and a careful observance of the Sabbath shall be urged upon all students.

Theses.

Each candidate for the master's degree shall prepare a thesis in the department in which he has taken his major work, and this shall be acceptable to a Committee of the Faculty.

LOCALS

The class which has been organized for the study of the negro problem held its first meeting last Monday night with twenty-five present. Much interest was manifested, and the course promises to be both pleasant and profitable. The meetings are held each Monday night in the Y. M. C. A. The Teachers' Club, of which Professor S. G. Noble is Director, held its first regular smoker last Tuesday evening as the guest of the Director.

"Count that day lost whose low-descending sun Sees no new sorority begun."

Professor Noble is the author of an article entitled "Shall We Have a Secondary School of Agriculture?" which appeared in the last number of "The Mississippi School Journal." It will run through three issues of "The Journal." Professor Noble is rapidly becoming recognized as an authority in that field, having made an exhaustive study of the subject for his Master's dissertation at the University of Chicago.

Among the Millsaps students who attended the Thanksgiving football game was Miss Olive Lipscomb, who is teaching at Brookhaven this year.

L. B. Jones was on the campus a few days of last week. Jones has many friends here, and we assure him that a visit from him is always appreciated.

"Kid" Dorman left here last Friday, his purpose being, as he said, to meet a touring party at Columbus and to tour some himself. According to his own statement, there was no one in the party of interest to him, except his sister. His long absence—for he has not yet returned—is making some people think that the Kid has tried to fool somebody.

Nolan West came back from his home after spending Thanksgiving there, looking better than some of us have seen him for some time. Really he seems a different boy.

Hervey Galloway is once more back among us from a short trip home. This gentleman lives down in that Port Gibson town where that female college is. We don't blame him for going home.

M. W. Cooper, who was at home for a few days of last week, is back again, and at work.

Some downcast, disconsolate Sophomore wants to know why every member of the faculty does not go to the Conference. Cheer up, old lad. Don't be a sour-face.

Skeate Williamson and Tom Lewis left here Friday for some place,—it seems that nobody knows exactly where. Skeate said that he was going home, and Tom said that he was going to another place. They both said that they were going to the same place. More work for the Pinkertons, it seems.

It is reported that President Hull made a great speech in the Conference in favor of athletics. May it not have been spoken in vain.

A favorite pastime of the co-eds is jumping over a bush five feet high, which stands just in front of the President's home.

A new marvel has been found at Millsaps,—Weinstein, the orator and debater.

Mr. J. C. Ross, of the law class, spent Saturday and Sunday in Meridian.

QUAE FIANT, EX HOC COGNOSCES

VOLUME III. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, DEC. 16, 1910 NUMBER 10

BAN REMOVED FROM ALL BUT FOOTBALL

STUDENTS REJOICE TO GET THE PRIVILEGE—NO CRITICISM OF THOSE WHO OPPOSED IT—NEW ERA PROMISED.

(Special to PURPLE AND WHITE.)
HATTIESBURG, MISS.,
Dec. 10, 1910—6:00 P. M.

C. E. JOHNSON, EDITOR PURPLE AND WHITE,
Jackson, Miss.

Won as at Sardis. Hard fight.
(Signed) HULL AND BURTON.

Great was the joy experienced by the students when they learned the news flashed over the wire to the Editor of THE PURPLE AND WHITE. The Mississippi Conference had removed the ban also.

Millsaps is now allowed to participate in itercollegiate baseball, basketball, track, and tennis. It is a source of great satisfaction to the students that they have received this privilege. For a number of years they have been struggling continuously to secure the consent of the Conferences to this.

The students as a body feel that, while they are allowed to indulge in this hitherto forbidden phase of college life, they should show their spirit by abiding by the rules laid down in the Faculty resolutions. They feel that it would be the grossest ingratitude for them not to stand by the Faculty in their movement to have a pure system of athletics. The resolutions passed in a mass meeting this week, which will be published in the next issue of this paper, will express their views more fully on this subject.

Towards those who opposed this measure in the Conferences, they hold no hard feelings. They believe that they were honest in their convictions. They would not cast a single reflection on those who opposed it for their stand in the matter. They respect and hold the highest esteem for those who honestly differ with them.

They believe though, that the granting of this privilege marks a new era in Millsaps' history. Millsaps College will grow faster, its numbers will be increased, and a greater college spirit will be fostered.

SANTA CLAUS AHEAD OF TIME

Conferences Have Filled Our Stockings.—Xmas Spirit Here Already.—Santa Must Bring Foot-Ball later.

Merry Christmas! Just one week longer! The air is loaded with mystery and all of us are wondering what dear old Santa will bring us. It is to be feared, however, that we can never appreciate anything he brings half as much as we do the stand both Conferences took towards the intercollegiate athletics at Millsaps. Let us hope that they will show the Christmas spirit again next year, and let us have football, too.

We take this means of thanking our friends in both Conferences for the decision they made in regard to intercollegiate athletics. We appreciate their interest in the College, and sincerely hope not one of them will ever regret the fact that they approved the measure.

With this victory fresh in our memories, let us give "honor to whom honor is due." The fact that we have collegiate athletics of any kind is the result of hard work on the part of the Faculty, the Alumni, the student body, and last, but certainly not least, THE PURPLE AND WHITE. This publication has fulfilled its greatest purpose in agitating so ably and well this question nearest the hearts of every one interested in the welfare of Millsaps College.

Of course we would have liked better to have had intercollegiate football as well, but we will have to content ourselves—for the present at least—with what we have obtained.

As the proverb says, "Better a half loaf than no bread." We can at least make the best of the situation by getting down to hard work to put out a baseball team

DR. McLEAN ADDRESSED THE Y. M. C. A.

Very Interesting Subject.—Mr. Collins Will Conduct Services Tonight.

Dr. McLean, of Jackson, addressed the Y. M. C. A. on last Friday night. His address was to the point and every word carried force because of the fact that the Doctor spoke with authority. We were exceedingly glad to have him, and the hope is expressed that we may have Dr. McLean with us again.

Mr. F. B. Collins, a member of the Senior class, will conduct the Y. M. C. A. services tonight. His subject is, "Where Are You?" We trust that every man will answer the question for himself by attending the Y. M. C. A. tonight.

Let every student be present at the last meeting before the holidays. Then on our return to school we hope to have a greater attendance than we have had heretofore. Why not make the ensuing year the best in the history of the Y. M. C. A.? We are proud of our past record, but if we try, we can make our future record even better than the past. Business is business, and the work of the Y. M. C. A. is the business of our Lord, and let us begin the new year with the transaction of the work of our Redeemer by putting ourselves and our services into that work.

This story, taken from "Association Men," is an example of the way the new King of England has with men, and is a revelation of the keenness, judgment, and good sense he possessed when, as a naval officer, he was in command of a ship at a West Indies station. A young blue jacket was conveyed as a prisoner on his ship. The man had been continually on the black list. King George closely observed him, came to the conclusion that there was

GALLOWAY MACHINE BUSY.

Affirmative Gets Favorable Decision.—Hon. J. H. Mitchell Appointed to Wait on President Taft.

The Galloway Literary Society was called to order by President Henderson, Friday evening, Dec. 9th. After the first roll call the old parliamentary machine was set in motion, and the entire program was pulled off to the tune of "Roberts' Rules of Order." The proceedings of the meeting were in such perfect harmony with "Roberts' Rules of Order" that none but the professionals, Mitchell and Beasley, could detect a discord.

The program, which consisted of a declamation, oration, regular and impromptu debates, was begun by a forceful declamation from Wasson. This gentleman had a well prepared speech, and an excellent voice, both of which added interest to the declamation.

The orator of the evening being absent, the regular debate was entered into. The question, "Resolved: That the United States Should Levy a Graduated Income Tax," proved to be an interesting question to the entire Society.

J. W. Broom opened the argument for the affirmative side by explaining the question both in connection with its merits and demerits. He also produced some figures which showed plainly the economical advantages and disadvantages of a "graduated income tax."

The opening speaker for the negative side was J. D. Wroten. Wroten's chief argument was based upon the fact that an income tax would tend to lower the scale of development, and that such a tax would be bordering upon socialism. He appealed to the House for a careful consideration of the matter before passing such drastic measures.

of which those interested in Millsaps may well be proud. We can and will follow President Hull's advice and let athletics at Millsaps mean clean athletics.

There is plenty of time left to continue the fight and since we have obtained the privilege of playing baseball, let us hope the day is not far distant when our athletes may win laurels on the gridiron as well as on the diamond!

good in the man, and, when it came time for the prisoner to rejoin his own ship, he determined to give him a new start in life and requested the Admiral to transfer him to his vessel. When the man was brought before King George he spoke to him as he probably had never spoken before. He said:

"I do not ask you to make me any promise as to you future behavior. I trust to your honor and good feeling alone. But remember that by the rules of the service, if you offend again in any way or break your leave, I have no option, but am bound to hand you straight back again to that class from which I now remove you. Your future is in your own hands. You have had no leave for twelve months. Go ashore now with the special leave men. Your pay has been stopped and no money is due you. Here is a sovereign. I trust to you not to misspend it. You know as well as I do what you may do. God help you to do the right and keep you from the wrong."

The man was completely overcome, could answer nothing, saluted and marched forward again. He became the life of the ship, an example of good behavior, and later a petty officer.

Boykin, a second speaker for the income tax, gave some valuable points in favor of such a tax. His most valuable argument was the moral side of the question.

The second speaker for the opposition was J. M. Morse. Morse showed a thorough knowledge of the question and brought out many valuable points why the United States should not have a graduated income tax. The one and o ly unanswerable argument of the evening was presented under the label of the class legislation or unconstitutionality of such a tax.

The last debater for the affirmative side proved a great asset for his colleagues. Flurry had the necessary data to back up his colleagues' arguments. He also introduced some new points which could not be refuted on account of the last speaker for the opposition being absent.

The Decision Committee decided that the United States should levy a graduated income tax, and the President ordered Hon. J. H. Mitchell, Corresponding Secretary, to inform President Taft of this decision and request that he give it

THE MILLSAPS DRAMATIC CLUB.

The play given by the "Cap and Gown Dramatic Club" of the A. & M. College, at the Century, on Thanksgiving, made such a favorable impression upon those of the Millsaps Co-eds who attended, that they came home with the determination to have a club of their own.

On December the first, at the Library, the Co-eds held a meeting, at which time the advisability of organizing a Dramatic Club was taken under consideration. A motion was made to organize and Miss Knowles, acting as President pro tem., called for nominations for President and Secretary. Miss Courtenay Clingan was chosen President, and Miss Annie Bessie Whitson, Secretary.

Mrs. M. W. Swartz has kindly consented to act as director for this organization, and this within itself is sufficient evidence that the Club will be worth while. Those who have heard Mrs. Swartz recite can appreciate the ladies' choice. Several of the members have worked in similar clubs at other schools, and have shown exceptional talent in that direction.

With so large a membership and such efficient material, success is assured. The ladies expect to give an entertainment during commencement, which will, no doubt, be one of the most prominent features of the entire week.

Literary Societies

LAMAR SOCIETY.

William C. Coggin Elected President —Affirmative Wins the Question.

Promptly at eight o'clock Friday evening, the gavel of President Holifield sounded and the regular proceedings of the Society were taken up. Rev. R. E. Selby invoked the divine blessing, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Before entering into the regular program of the evening the name of Mr. W. F. Borum, a member of the graduating class of the Jackson High School was offered as an honorary member of the Society. We are glad to say that he was unanimously received into the Society.

Under the head of the literary exercises Mr. Hobbs, the Monthly Orator, was called for. This gentleman, who has many times before shown his ability as an orator, came forth and gave the Society an oration that would have done credit to any man to say that it had fallen from his pen. We have a good orator in Mr. Hobbs, and there are some honors awaiting him at Millsaps College.

As we were so unfortunate as not to have an essayist for the evening, the Society proceeded with the debate. The question, "Resolved: That America Should Retain the Philippine Islands" was thoroughly discussed by all the speakers.

Mr. Frank Scott the first man for the affirmative side of this grave question arose, and with astonishing rapidity hurled penetrating darts of argument at the negative with such a thunderous voice that it seemed as if the affirmative would win the debate without further attack upon the negative.

The next man man, Mr. Weinstein, a member of the law department, came forth to rescue the negative. The Society already knows about this gentleman's debating powers, and we were eager to hear him defend the negative. In his eloquent style he pictured the defects that are in the policy of America retaining these islands. At the conclusion of his address he retired to his seat amid great cheering.

Again the argument was switched back to the affirmative and the man at the throttle this time was Rev. H. F. McGee. The speaker presented his side of the question in an exceedingly convincing manner. He even gave a new interpretation to the constitution with reference to its dealing with the question, and no one could doubt its application. Mr. McGee is an excellent debater.

Mr. Samuel F. Harkey, a man whom the Society had never listened to, followed, holding up the banner for the negative. At first his speech was flavored with humor, but later he turned to the more serious side of the question. He presented his claims in a very impressive style, showing up the character of these people and telling why they are unworthy of confidence.

But while all seemed sure of a victory for the negative, the affirmative supporters were wishing for a man who would attack the stronghold of their opponents. The distinguished Secretary called for Mr. Bufkin, a follower of Socrates, and he discussed the question from alpha to omega. His argument was very strong and condensed, and before he had taken his seat all saw that there was hope for the affirmative. He took up the economic side and proved that the people of America would be benefitted by retaining these islands. Next he turned his attention to the moral side, and after showing why we should look upon these people with the greatest respect took his seat amid continuous applause.

Mr. Manly W. Cooper concluded the argument for the negative. He had an exceptionally fine speech, and those who did not know that it was extemporaneous would have thought that he put weeks of preparation on it. Cooper is also a good speaker and we all delight in hearing him.

Miss Nettie Rogillio, one of our Co-eds, and an honorary member of the Lamar Society, and Messrs. Berry and Tindall, were the judges. They rendered a decision favorable to the affirmative.

After the conclusion of the program the following officers were elected for the coming term: W. C. Coggin, President; F. B. Smith, Vice President; J. F. Godbold, Secretary; Mr. Ross, Critic; H. H. Boswell, Censor; Rev. E. Sellby, Chaplain, and President Holifield, Door keeper.

Mr. Willing Ramsey being unable to act as Mid-Session Debater, the Society elected Mr. Scott to fill this important position.

EXCHANGES.

Among the many exchanges that we receive is the "Tennessee College Magazine." It is one of the most attractive publications in its make-up of any that come to our table.

The "Columbia Collegian" from far away Oregon is a very representative magazine. All phases of college life seem to be of interest to them. This is as it should be.

The last issue of "The Spectator" is exceptionally good. The poem entitled "A Senior's Prayer" shows marked originality, and the article on "An Ideal Mississippi Home" is excellent.

"The Champion," from Jacksonville College, Texas, is a newsy little magazine. The make-up of it is good for the size of the paper.

We notice a marked improvement in the "Varsity Voice" this week in the quality of paper, as well as in the general looks of the paper. Of late the editorial department has shown up well. This is one of the most important parts of the paper, and we are glad to see "The Voice" making improvements along this particular line.

The issue of "The Vanderbilt Hustler" for November 30, was one of the best that has come to us. They had ample material for a good paper and they used it well.

CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS—COLLEGE SPIRIT.

"Merry Christmas to friends! Merry Christmas to foes!
The world's bright with joy, so forget all your woes.
The earth's full of beauty, of love, and good cheer—
Merry Christmas to all, and a Happy New Year!"

Christmas again, with its peace and good will to all,—to classmate, upper-classman, lower-classman, and Prof.—yes, even to the Prof. who has so unmercifully given you a "four;" and more (wonder of wonders) you find yourself confessing that you deserved that "four." We cannot account for it. There is something in the atmosphere which forbids us to brood over the petty woes that at other times vex us. For this little space out of the long, selfish year we are glad to be ourselves. To our surprise we are not ashamed to be kind, to be good, to be considerate. We feel as if we would like to help some one—be it homesick Prep. or overworked Senior; and Senior and Prep alike have felt the effect of the "atmosphere."

Not only student body, but Faculty as well, seem to have caught the spirit, for lately we have been granted a goodly number of "spare hours for reflection." Then, is it entirely in imagination that some few lessons have been shortened? Probably those whom duty failed to call to Conference were none the less touched by this mysterious power.

Yet another example: Intercollegiate athletics, save football, is ours. Have we the fates to thank that Conference has convened so near to Christmas, and is our late victory there an evidence of more good work of this yuletide spirit? Be that as it may,—this we know,—that our benefactors have bestowed upon us a gift for which we are lastingly grateful and which we shall endeavor to make use of in such a manner that, far from all regret of having granted us this privilege, they may see it used wisely, bringing credit upon the institution under their watchful care. Thus alone shall their generosity find fitting response in us. Let us hasten to show our appreciation and once more taking courage from this victory, let our hearts "have their way" and "live, laugh and be glad as we sing "Alma Mater" with hearts tuned to the joy of Christmas living.

If the spirit of this session could but dominate our campus the entire year.—If only the New Year's resolutions could be more lasting! At least let us remember Franklin's words, "A good conscience is a continual Christmas," and try, by keeping a clear conscience, to make our Christmas last throughout the year. We could ask for no better way in which to secure a genuine college spirit. If each of us had this perennial yuletide, what a power would we be for the upbuilding of our institution, and indeed for the uplift of the whole world.

LOCALS

Boys, if you want to make a hit during the holidays, get Hobbs to give you a Christmas hair cut.

L. B. Jones, '10, now holds the position of night clerk at the Edwards Hotel.

A Strong Draught.

"Does Bufkin talk much?"

"Every time he appears on the scene I feel the need of a windshield."

Oliver Snell is the only man on the campus who had the nerve to vote as his conscience dictated; that is, to vote for himself as the best looking fellow in school.

Victor Clifford, who was compelled to go home on account of sickness, will not be back till after the holidays.

Thousand dollar reward for the boy who doesn't like Sistrunk's coca cola!

Weinstein (in debate)—Mr. McGee, if that is true, why is it that you want a sweetheart and can't get one?

McGee—Because I'm married.

Three cheers for the Conference!

Supererogation.

"Is she intellectual?"

"Didn't I just tell you she had a poodle?"

Boys, Try Doxey's High Class Tailoring. Suits made to order, $16.50 and up.

Miss Edith McCluer, of '10, was on the campus Friday. The Co-eds as always, gave her a hearty welcome.

Do not bet anything, particularly a bottle of coco cola, on a Co-ed. Ask Mr. Cooper about the bet he made on two of them.

Another Golden Opportunity Lost.

Scene—West Street car.

Time—4:00 P. M.

Miss Knowles and Mr. Henderson in the act of dismounting from the car. Miss Knowles the picture of despair as she gazes longingly and dismally after a retreating West End car:—

Mr. Henderson—It's bad to have to wait, isn't it?

Miss Knowles (avec l'air de la resignation)—Oh, well! I've been waiting all my life!

We regret to state the deplorable fact that, not long since, one of our Senior Co-eds turned gray in a night. Was it the result of grief or did it happen before Mr. Henderson acquired his new glasses?

Mr. Olin Ray, one of our last year students, will be back after Christmas. We are always glad to see old students return.

Mr. S. C. Lloyd, a prominent member of the Freshman Class, has gone to Vicksburg again. Vicksburg seems to be an attractive place for him.

Mr. J. M. Guinn, of '10, is now stationed at Cedar Bluff. We have heard good reports from Mr. Guinn thus far and know that he will uphold the high standard of Millsaps wherever he goes.

Puzzle—Find the person who left a sandwich on Prof. Burton's desk last Friday at noon. Also, what became of the sandwich?

Mr. Morse (reading in Junior English)—The abbess began to love him.

Dr. Kern—Mr. Morse, what does "abbess" mean?

Mr. Morse—A deep hole.

Miss Flora Lewis (filling out her statistics blank)—What is the College's greatest need?—Some handsome men, of course.

The Co-ed who asked if Mr. Weinstein was a "Prep." wishes to apologize to the Preparatory Department.

Dr. Hull (in Psychology class)—Mr. Berry, when you close your eyes do you not exclude the rays of light?

Mr. Berry—Er-Oh,-No, sir. There are still some of those little rays floating around.

Miss McGehee (reading the statistics blank)—Who is the best all round man?

Miss F. B. Lewis—Why, Mr. Sample, of course!

Prof: Hull (in Logic class)—Mr. Bingham, what is a categorematic word?

Mr. Bingham—Er-er-it is a word in a category by itself.

The Time, the Place and the Girl.

Time—8:45 P. M.

Place—On the train from Flora, homeward bound.

Scene—Mr. Beasley sitting comfortably in the seat beside Miss Johnson.

Miss Park (graciously)—Mr.

Beasley, won't you have some candy?

Mr. Beasley (with an air suggestive of preoccupation)—Well-er-I believe my arms are full just now, thank you.

Dr. Kern (in Senior English)—Miss Clingan, what line do you consider best in this poem?

Miss Clingan—Why-er-er-I had not thought of that.

Dr. Kern (disparagingly)—Miss Clingan, does it ever occur to you to think?

Miss Knowles (breathlessly, after climbing the hills at Flora)—When we g-get to a s-stopping place we are going to st-stop, aren't we?

Miss Bailey—What time are the cars due here?

Co-ed—At the hour, twenty minutes, and forty minutes after the hour.

Miss Bailey—What time will the one nearest one o'clock come?

Co-eds (discussing deserts)—What large desert is it in South America.

Miss Dodds—Why, the Amazon river, of course.

An Evidence of Great Minds.

Dr. Kern—Miss Knowles, what do you think of this figure of speech?

Miss Knowles—I think that it is beautiful.

Dr. Kern—And you, Miss Park?

Miss Park—Er-Oh-I think that it is perfectly beautiful.

Dr. Kern—How about you, Mr. Beasley?

Mr. Beasley—I agree with them both.

Will some one please tell kindly Miss Bradford whether the West Street car turns around at the old capitol or not.

R. W. Jones, last year's pitcher on the baseball team, is in business in the Delta. His brother, L. Barrett Jones, A. B., '10, is with the Edwards House in Jackson.

Douglass Bell is teaching school this year.

Street Hinds is in business with his father at Tupelo.

Mark Guinn was sent to Cedar Bluff at the recent meeting of the North Mississippi Conference. J. S. Duke was returned to Prairie, where he has given such eminent satisfaction.

Other appointments of interest to Millsaps students were as follows: Rosedale, T. M. Bradley; Tupelo, W. L. Duren; Sherman, K. P. Foust; Chaplain State Penitentiary, J. W. McGee; Leland, J. T. McCafferty; Duck Hill, J. D. Wroten; Grenada Circuit, Olin Ray; Holly Springs, O. W. Bradley; Taylor, A. S. Raper; President Grenada College, J. R. Countiss; Arkabutla, A. F. Moore; Batesville, W. N. Duncan; Student Vanderbilt University, J. R. Bright.

M. F. Adams (in chapel choir)—What shall I play?

Thomas (absent-mindedly)—Oh, play the ace if you have—!

"Big Sis" Williamson refuses to sing any more.

COLLEGIATE OSCULATION.

The Whitworth girl removes her specs
And freezes her face in a smile,
Then puts out her mouth like an open book,
A-chewing her gum meanwhile.

Belhaven's maid bows her stately head,
And fixes her dainty lips;
In a stylish way she kisses you then,
In short, spasmodic sips.

Our co-ed maiden, gentle and sweet,
Lets her lips meet the coming kiss
With a practiced touch, and the blissful soul
Floats off in ethereal bliss.

The dear town girl, the pride of my heart,
In her clinging and soulful way,
Can kiss all night in the clear moonlight,
And be eager for more next day.

(Signed) By a Man Who Knows.

OVER THE GARDEN WALL.

Act I.—Scene I.

Scene—Grand stand at a football game played between two Southern colleges. Mollie Campbell, a Sophomore at an Eastern college, and Emilie von Heidermann, a Freshman.

Mollie—Em, how do you like this football business? First game you ever saw, isn't it? I just can't sleep at night for thinking about when green and gold comes out with flyin' cors.

Emilie—Schon: but, Mollie, I do not quite understand it, although you have explained it until my head pains me. Ach! Who is that most large man who seems to be the e-such a—such-a "large dog in the strife?" Is that how you say it?

Mollie—Why, silly, that's Bill Sample. He never looked at a girl, much less fell head over heels in love with one. I don't know why, either, for gracious, he is the best looking boy I ever did see, and money, Gee whiz! Bob, "my Bob," told me all about him. I tell you, I am going to meet him tonight, if that prissy Miss Allen don't butt in. If I meet him I'll tell you all about him tomorrow.

Gee! Em, did you see that grand kick? And it was Sample's, too. Honey, he's lookin' at us. Let's wave our colors.

Emilie—Ach, Mollie! Did you see how he smiled when we waved at him? Perhaps he is not entirely hopeless. I should like to see you tame him tonight.

Mollie — Heavens! They have played the first half; now let's watch Sample; see what he's tellin' 'em to do.

Emilie—Ah, look, Mollie, how that man observes you! Liebling, they are going out again.

(Fifteen minutes later. Shouts are heard.)

Rah! Rah! Rah! Sample! Sample!

Mollie—Em, he's a peach!

SCENE II.

Same evening; after the banquet. In Emilie's room. Room typical German style, no floor covering. Dutch pictures on the walls; few articles of furniture. All scrupulously clean.

Mollie—Emilie von Heidermann! You're a pig! I just know you are in love with that hero, and when you know how I idolize him!

Emilie—Ja, wahl! Truly, Mollie, I was never so surprised in any one as I am in myself. At home I never even had a twinkle of romance in me, and here I am as you say, "daffy about William Sample." Grun und Gold!

Mollie—Emilie, when he asked you for that last waltz I just fainted. He looked so saintly! Just my ideal over and over, and there you stood right where I could only dream about being.

Emilie—And lot's of other things happened "what I never telled you" (Emilie turning her head coquettishly). He is from Virginia, a nephew of that General we were reading about yesterday. Ach! Truly, Mollie, it shames me that I am so silly, but no doubt you will pardon me for admiring solchen mann. He is so open and mild that it causes the heart to swell in my body. I promise I am going to forget him, and be the simple maid from Berlin that you all always think me.

Mollie—Emilie's a good little fraulein! Darlin', you looked mighty sweet tonight,—most as sweet as William.

SCENE III.

May, seven months later. A student's room in a Southern college. William Sample seated at a table, gazing at a picture on the wall. Frank Jefferson, William's chum and room-mate, lying on a couch on opposite side of room.

Frank—Blame it! Old man, what's the matter with you? Are you sick or busted, or what in the dickens ails you?

William (feebly)—Nothin'!

Frank (rising)—Look here, old man, I know what's the matter with you. You're in love, plain and simple. No use lying about it; come across and tell me the whole thing.

William—Well, Frank, you're a medical student. You ought to know what to do for a fellow if you know what's the matter with him. But, honest, Jeff, I don't quite understand all this myself. You are entirely too hasty in diagnosing my case.

Wish you could have gone with us on that football chase last October. Man! It's worth all your post-mortem exams. or any other stuff you fellows had that day.

Frank—Now, you're comin' at it! I'll have first to give you a careful examination. Your first symptoms were seen on November first, just after the postman came around. Second, you hung that fancy picture up over your table. Third, in your dreams you talk about Emilie and Mollie. Fourth, these gazing spells seem to hold you all the time of late, seem worse after you get a letter in a blue envelope. Now, if that ain't love, tell me how it affects one? Best remedy: make a clean breast of it all.

William (smiling foolishly)—Frank, you're a good one. Well, first, you know I never once dreamed about fooling my time away with silly girls, but some way or other I noticed a "show nuff" pretty girl waving our colors at the game, and Lord knows how it happened, I turned my head and smiled at her.

Frank—Well, that's not all; go on. I know you've got it bad. Was she cute? Does she look like Elizabeth?

William—Ring off about Elizabeth. I tell you Emilie's just the pride of a fellow's heart, the apple of his eye.

Frank—How did you meet her?

William—Just wait a minute, and I am going to tell you all of it. Well, that night you know they gave us a banquet at the Bostonian and she was there. Dance! Man, you never saw such grace and ease! Oh, yes! I forgot to tell you she's named Emilie von Heidermann. Her father is some sort of a high knocker to the German Emperor, she told me; but I was so cranky, I don't remember.

Frank—William! What next? A German!

William—I'm telling you as fast as I can. She's tall, slender, such glorious golden hair, blue eyes that just smile at you all the time, a peach of complexion, but she don't talk through her nose a bit.

Well, I hardly spoke to any one else that night, so you can half way imagine her when it affected me that way. I was crazy and what's funnier, I haven't got over it, but get worse all the time. I've heard from her every week since I saw her,—and such letters! If possible they are sweeter than she appeared that night. Not those old love-sick letters like most silly American girls write, but just something that does your soul good.

Frank—How on earth did you ever get a letter to her? That place is worse than a convent.

The series of class games having been successfully played off, it fell to the lot of the three coaches to select a college team. This was to be picked from the men who showed up best and played best during the class series. They were men who really played college football, and showed that they were able to class up to "varsity" standard. With this in view, the coaches met on December the fourteenth in the committee room and selected our team for the ensuing year. As a result we have a team which for the size of our college is beyond criticism. Our line is unusually heavy and strong and our back field fast, experienced and reputed ground gainers. It is a team of which we should be justly proud, a team that can hold its own against any other school and do credit to old Millsaps.

It is customary to give a description of the individual players on the team, with their football records, so we shall endeavor to give some information along that line.

Kirkland, alias "Big Kirk," right half back. Big Kirk is one of the bes football men in Millsaps; he is fast and experienced and has the making of a real football star in him. His favorite role of formation buster and that peculiar forceful way he has of leaning against the line was a source of great worry and noodle concentration to many. Kirk is an excellent ground gainer and is exceedingly hard to tackle. To his lot fell two touchdowns, both on the Freshmen.

"Eat 'em Hunter," left half back. Hunter is a good steady, experienced man. He is a sure ground gainer, a genius in the art of putting up interference, and the only man in college with enough Irish blood to start any joy punching. Hunter is credited with one touchdown and many honorable attempts.

"Big Graham," full back. Fast, heavy and strong, he fulfills all the conditions of an ideal back field man. His defensive work was excellent and but for the weakness in the Prep line would have surely starred. His pronounced ability of a ground gainer was shown in many games. Graham is an all around good man and can be used in the line equally as

GRAND ATHLETIC RALLY

Resolutions Supporting the Faculty's Stand on Athletics Passed Unanimously—Great Enthusiasm Prevails Throughout the Meeting.

Never before in the history of Millsaps College has such enthusiasm been displayed as was manifested by the students Monday night, Dec. 12th. The occasion was a mass meeting called to express our thanks to the conferences and to the men who had been so instrumental in getting for us our long wished for intercollegiate athletics. The enthusiasm and spirit manifested was not the kind that consists only of noise, hurrah and uproar, but was such that showed that the students were serious in this matter, and that they not only appreciated greatly what had been done for them, but that they possessed that allegiance and fidelity for the college ideals that goes to make up true and genuine college spirit.

Long before the hour appointed for meeting, a grand parade was started at Founder's Hall, which marched to all the boarding houses and cottages on the campus, collecting the stragglers. Thence they proceeded to the Main Building, where they continued singing good old Millsaps songs and giving the most rousing college yells until T. W. Lewis, President of the Athletic Association, called the house to order.

President Hull was then called for and spoke at length on the pleasure it had given him for Millsaps to be granted the privilege of intercollegiate athletics. He said that the faculty believed that the students of Millsaps wanted a clean and wholesome system of athletics; that he believed that the students would always stand for the square deal and that the faculty were looking for nothing else nor would they tolerate anything else; that if he did not believe that this was true he would ask the conference to withdraw the privilege at once. His manifest sincerity showed that his ideals are the highest, and the applause from the students when he had finished proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that they were thoroughly in sympathy with all that he had said and that they intended to lend him their support in making the system of athletics at Millsaps a clean and upright one.

C. E. Johnson then came forward and after a few strong and well chosen remarks introduced the following resolutions:

Resolutions Passed By Students of Millsaps College.

Whereas, President Hull, Major Millsaps, Prof. Burton, Dr. J. M. Sullivan, Mr. W. M. Buie, and many other friends and supporters of Millsaps College, have asked the North Mississippi and Mississippi Conferences to permit us to engage in intercollegiate athletics, and have devoted much time and effort to secure the privilege of taking part in intercollegiate games and meets, for us, and,

Whereas, the aforesaid Conferences have granted the permission in regard to everything except football with the expressed purpose and belief that the Faculty and the Board of Trustees should put in force a proper regulation of our intercollegiate activity, and exercise a reasonable control of the teams and individual players, therefore,

Be it resolved, by the students of Millsaps College in mass meeting assembled:

First, That we hereby express the hearty appreciation of the action of the Conferences and of the noble work in the interest of intercollegiate athletics of the aforesaid friends and supporters of the same felt by all students of Millsaps College, and we desire to assure the members of the Conferences who opposed the movement that no ill-feeling is entertained toward them, that we esteem them for having the courage of their convictions, and that we believe them still to be loyal friends of our college.

Second, That we think the policy of regulation eminently wise and proper as tending towards a pure type of athletics, so we hereby indorse the position taken by the Faculty and Board of Trustees.

Third, That we hereby pledge ourselves to promote the interest of clean athletics at all times, to uphold and abide by any reasonable Faculty regulation, and to do what we can to prove ourselves worthy of the confidence shown us.

Fourth, That we will strive at all times to keep our Purple and White Banner free from professionalism and a true emblem of clean, manly conduct in athletics as in all things else.

(Signed)

C. E. JOHNSON,
JAS. S. SAVAGE,
FRANK T. SCOTT,
Committee.

Unanimously passed, Dec. 12, 1910.

Immediately a motion was made to pass these resolutions, President Lewis put the motion before the house and it was unanimously carried amid a burst of enthusiasm.

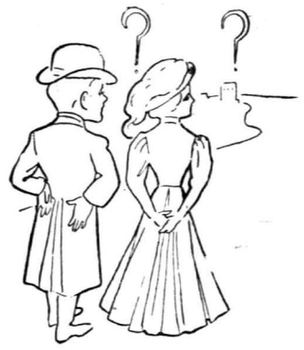

Broom then moved that we thank the conferences through the columns of the Christian Advocate. This motion was carried as speedily and with as much enthusiasm as the preceding one.

But the good things were not yet over. The students called loudly for a speech from Prof. Nobles. Prof. Nobles has always been a favorite with the boys and his optimistic remarks concerning the teams we are going to get out and his appeal to the boys to come out and work met with much applause.

Next Dr. Sullivan was called for. The students realize that no one has done more or worked more enthusiastically for intercollegiate athletics than has Dr. Sullivan, and his appeal for a clean system of athletics was listened to with great interest by all present.

Prof. J. M. Burton was then called for. Prof. Burton has recently been associated with a school which has intercollegiate athletics, and he not only showed that he thoroughly understood how athletics should be conducted but that he was greatly interested in the outcome at Millsaps. His speech made an instant hit with all present.

Tindall, Broom, Bingham and Johnson were also called upon to express themselves, all of whom make strong and impressive talks on the athletic question.

A motion was then carried by the house that a committee be appointed to solicit subscriptions for a baseball coach.

Dr. Hull and several others arose and said that they wished to compliment and commend the Purple and White staff for the conservative and laudable manner in which the paper had dealt with this question.

The meeting was then adjourned, the boys scattering to their various boarding places determined not only to work for victories for the Millsaps teams but to uphold the lofty ideals which had been presented to them by the various speakers.

THE FACULTY ON INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS.

(By Pres. D. C. Hull.)

The Methodist Conferences of Mississippi have in the exercise of their wisdom and of their confidence in the Faculty and students of Millsaps College referred the question of intercollegiate athletics to the Board of Trustees and the Faculty with the express provision that contests in intercollegiate football are not to be allowed and that certain rules governing the sport and the conduct of those who engage in it are to be strictly enforced.

Believing that such sport when properly regulated is beneficial in many ways to the students and therefore to the college, the Faculty favors the introduction of intercollegiate sports as limited by the action of the two Conferences, and pledges to these bodies the enforcement of rules which are intended to keep athletics free from evil and thus to secure the maximum of benefit from the system. These rules are known to all students of the college and have been endorsed by them. The Board of Trustees agrees with the Faculty on the question, and, consequently, the students are at liberty, with the help of the Faculty Manager of Athletics, to organize teams and arrange schedules for intercollegiate contests in basket ball, baseball, tennis, and the various track events.

The faculty believes that much good will accrue to the college through a wise administration of intercollegiate athletics; that the students will be benefited physically, mentally, and morally; that a desirable and wholesome college sentiment will be fostered; and that the attendance at the college will be greatly enlarged. Not to go into details at all, there are two or three general principles which must be insisted upon as essential to the realization of these benefits:

First, athletics must be kept strictly subordinate to scholarship. The work of the classroom must come first. To this end, students who neglect their studies and fail to show satisfactory progress will be barred from participation in intercollegiate games. Every one will recognize the correctness of this position. The college is primarily a place for study, for mental growth, for broader outlook upon life, and for moral and spiritual culture. College athletics, as a system, is legitimate because it contributes to these ends; but it is legitimate only in this sense, and must therefore be kept strictly subordinate to these higher aims.

Second, athletics must be kept pure. There must be no gambling, no rowdyism, no boisterous or ungentlemanly conduct on the part of team members or others on the home grounds or on trips to other colleges. The spirit of fairness must prevail, the spirit of courtesy and kindliness. The team must be willing to accept defeat rather than to win victory by dishonest or unfair means.

Third, athletics must be kept free from professionalism. We want no "ringers" at Millsaps. Let our various teams be made up of bona fide students who take part in the contests for no other consideration than the love of wholesome sport and the spirit of loyalty to the college. The spirit of professionalism is indissolubly bound to the spirit of gambling, of rowdyism, of drunkenness, etc Let us keep out professionalism, and we shall have nothing to fear from these other evils.

Fourth, athletics must be made to reach a relatively large proportion of the students. One criticism of the system is that it affects only the team members, the substitutes and the "scrubs." We must have the athletic spirit and interest so developed that large numbers will appear upon the athletic field as determined competitors for places on the several teams. We must supplement the intercollegiate contests with inter-class contests from which "varsity" men are excluded. These inter-class contests will develop material for the next year's "varsity" and will bring the benefits of the sport to a relatively large number of students.

The faculty believes that the teams which are to represent Millsaps in intercollegiate sport should be thoroughly trained, and thus able to make a creditable showing against their competitors; and to this end will co-operate with the students in every legitimate and helpful manner in the organization and training of the teams.

To sum up in one word, the Faculty will work toward the ideal of clean, strong, Christian manhood in the fullest and highest sense. Let our intercollegiate athletics be contributory to this end; and the voice of criticism will be silenced, opposition to the system will disappear, and all desirable freedom will be willingly and cheerfully accorded.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

Many Old Veterans Back—Coach to be Engaged at an Early Date.

An athletic issue would be incomplete without some mention of baseball, even though it be in the middle of January. Until the conferences remove the ban upon football, baseball will be the sport by which our athletic ability will be mainly judged, and it therefore behooves us to make as good a record in that sport as we possibly can. In athletics as elsewhere, success and work are for the most part synonymous terms; surely we cannot expect to turn out a victorious team unless we are willing to pay the price for it in hard, steady practice.

It is too early to be indulging in "dope" as to the prospects of a winning team. We are assured, however, that with such men as Irving, Morse, W. E. Morse, J. M. Galloway, Davis Weinstein and Weilenman—to mention but a few of last years' players—we have the basis of a creditable team. Manager Tommy Lewis has already received a number of letters requesting games with us, and when interviewed upon the subject said that the schedule would probably include games with Mississippi College (both at Clinton and at home) the University, A. & M., Union University of Tennessee, and the S. W. P. U.

As soon as the basket-ball players have thrown their last goal and laid aside their scanty attire for the season, the call will be made for candidates for the ball team, and once more will the athletic field resound with the crack of ball and bat and the mingled shouts of the coaching lines. For a long time we have been confined to telling what we could do if we had the chance; the chance has come and "it's up to us to make good."

A NEW ERA FOR MILLSAPS.

The passing of Yuletide and the advent of the New Year call to mind the passing of the day when we were denied the opportunity to play intercollegiate games and the dawn of a new day, even a new era, for Millsaps, when at least an humble beginning of new activities and new tasks can be made. We have made our resolutions, turned over our "new leaf," broken the resolutions and spoiled the leaf ere this no doubt, and all of us are ready once more to take up the grind. But never before in the history of Millsaps has the outlook been brighter. We can and must now lay the foundation for a new and more strenuous college life where possibilities will be greater and responsibility greater also.

Success in our games will indeed make Millsaps known throughout the Southland if that success be won by honest. manly contest, and if such contest brings defeat to us we will not be seriously injured. But defeat must be avoided, for no defeat is anything else than a cause for shame if it be possible to win by honest exertion. Let us win if it is in us to win by manly effort, but let us never resort to unfair play. Only the square deal can make our banner respected and loved, and no Millsaps man should seek false glory. Our ideals in all things should be pure and high and our athletic views sound and broad.

The athletic policy outlined by President Hull is in accord with correct views and high ideals and deserves careful consideration from every student. His former experience with athletics gives special value to what he says. He has a true conception of the place and value of athletics in college life, hence we call upon the students to weigh well what he says.

There is a very vital question of a practical nature that demands our immediate consideration. Millsaps should never think of sending out any but well trained teams. It would only be suicidal. An athlete is a product of intelligent training which is absolutely essential. We can require thorough training now, or we can learn to do so by experience and disgraceful defeat which will surely come to the untrained team. It would be absolutely inexcusable not to train as well as we have means to do so. When men are well trained they do themselves and their college honor whether they be defeated or win victory. As we have frequently said before we believe in Millsaps men, and we believe that when they are trained well they can cope with men from any school in Dixie, but they must prepare to achieve the best results.

The new era in our history comes at the dawn of a new era in Southern athletic life, for Vanderbilt tied Yale on the gridiron last season, and the Harvard All-Stars have crossed the Mason and Dixon line and met foes worthy of their steel. This is an added reason why we should build our hopes on a broad foundation, adopt a wise policy, and train our men well. Then the new era in our history will gradually increase the power of our college and bring us in touch with, and let us hope give us victory over, the best institutions in Dixieland.

THE CHANGE IN THE HONOR SYSTEM.

A very important, and we think a very proper, change was made in Millsaps' Honor System just before the Holidays by the addition of betting on games, playing cards and dice for money, and getting drunk, to the matters with which the Honor Committee is authorized to deal. The prevalence of these evils at Millsaps was not the reason for the change, for perhaps in no other school in the country are they as conspicuous for their absence. In view of the recent action of the Mississippi Conferences in giving us intercollegiate athletic privileges and the expressed opinion on the part of some that these particular vices would result, there was a feeling that it would be entirely right and proper for the students themselves to go on record in a concrete, effective way for the prevention of them

President Hull and others have at Sardis and Hattiesburg pledged themselves and the student body to prevent these irregularities among our students; and the students in mass meeting assembled have endorsed these pledges with no dissenting voice. So it was wholly logical, right, and proper for the students to come forward and, speaking through their Honor System, say that such evils would not be tolerated by them upon the advent of intercollegiate games and that they would co-operate effectively with the faculty in preventing their appearance among us.

To the students who thought it an unwarranted assumption of power by the Honor Committee we would say that we give the committeemen this power and they exercise it as our servants only. We may take it away from them should it be deemed necessary. It usurps no faculty power, but co-operates with the faculty to prevent evils feared by the members of the Conferences. To students who thought it meant the beginning of a spy system and a restriction of freedom of the individual we would say that the members of the committee are in no sense spies and will only deal with cases reported to them in the regular way. Who, then, remains to spy? Only your fellow students themselves. Do you think they are spies? We do not believe any Millsaps man worthy of the name can be. As to freedom, before the change we had none unless the faculty granted it to us. Now we may in a measure act for ourselves. Is this cutting off freedom? Not at all.

We are sure no student can stand for the evils in question and that no one does stand for them. Their appearance among us would mean injury to student welfare and as men we must work to prevent them. What more proper and effective way than that already entered upon? O, says one, these things are not at Millsaps. When they come it will be time enough. We do not believe we should wait until some weak students are ruined before making the attitude of the student body clear. Sentiment and opinion should be crystalized now. So when temptation to bet or get drunk does come public sentiment can and will restrain the weak man. But we do not believe any one seriously questions that it is right to act now. The only question is one of policy at present.

Most certainly it is good policy at present. Say what you will, the athletic question is involved. We can not undo our action now, for after the pledges made by our President, solely for our benefit, that athletics and student life would be clean at Millsaps and our own unqualified endorsement of this pledge, to refuse to cooperate with the faculty in an effective way to make good would be an inexcusable weakness and we believe it would lead members of the Conference to think us unworthy of the confidence they have shown us. The faculty is glad to see us stand squarely against these evils. Both the Conferences and the faculty have a right to expect it of us. It is good policy to take steps to get the benefits and eschew the evils of the privilege of intercollegiate games, to add the very potent force of student demand to that of the faculty for proper regulation of athletics. Furthermore we believe that if the students were to refuse to take an effective stand against the evils in question, athletics as granted would prove harmful and the Conferences would be justified in withdrawing the privilege. But we do not believe for a moment that they will refuse to sustain the position already taken and this puts them squarely on record. We believe it is a decided step forward and is a distinct sign of progress.

So we appeal to our fellow students in the name of order and decent conduct, even in behalf of the new and valuable privilege granted by the Conferences, to stand by the action taken just prior to the Holidays and prove to all concerned that we are not helpless children at Millsaps College or even weak men, but men strong in the right, trusted by the faculty, and worthy of the trust to the extent that we can regulate our own conduct for the greatest good of the greatest number.

VARSITY FOOTBALL TEAM.

well as back field.

"Chubby Chichester" and "Big Reed" at tackle did excellent work on both offense and defense after breaking through the line or easily piling up a line buck. They are both big, strong, heavy fellows and being veterans to the game are quite valuable to the team. To "Chubby" falls the credit of one touchdown.

G. C. Clark and Bailey are A No. 1 guards, for not only are they heavy and strong but possess an unusual amount of speed. G. C. is noted for his tackling behind the line, Bailey for his steadiness and all around playing.

Cameron at center was also noted for his steadiness and all around playing. His passing may well be commented on. He is a good, solid man and a valuable addition to the team.

West, right end. Best end in college. A fast, clean, hard fighter. Especially good in recovering punts and blocking kicks.

Morse, left end. Splendid man on the team. A fast, snappy man, noted for his ability to receive forward passes.

Davis Green Clifford and Harkey make a good, fast, hustling bunch of subs. They were picked more for ends and the back field than the line and therefore are a little light, but what they lose in weight they more than make up for in speed and ginger. Green is credited with one touchdown.

KAPPA ALPHA RECEPTION.

Jolly Company Enjoys the Hospitality of the K. A. Boys Until a Late Hour.

Saturday evening, December the seventeenth, the Kappa Alpha Fraternity threw open the doors of its spacious chapter house to a large number of its friends. It was their first large reception of the session and they put forth every effort to make it a grand success throughout. The success of their efforts was evidenced by the jollity and flow of soul that prevailed during the entire evening.

The house had recently been remodeled and all the rooms were arranged in a most elegant and artistic style.

After a hearty welcome by the reception committee, the whole house was turned over to the guests for their enjoyment.

Refreshments, consisting of a salad course followed by hot chocolate, were served in due time and enjoyed by the happy crowd. The time for departure came all too soon and it was very nearly Sunday morning when the guests reluctantly departed.

Among those present were: Dr. and Mrs. Hull, Profs. J. M. Burton, Kern and Nobles, Misses Atkinson, Frances and Marguerite Park, Wharton, Ragland, Smith, Lucile and Clare Cadenhead, Williams, Enochs, Rhymes, Montrose, Henderson, Yerger, Wilkinson, Flora B. and Eleanor Lewis, McGehee, Knowles, Neal, Dorsey, Mary and Virginia Borum.

Messrs. F. H. Moore, Burkes, Vardaman, Roberts, Rogers, John and L. H. Phillips, Trice, Davis, Mel Cooper, Potter, Jones, Peeples, Rip; Peeples, Dunlap; Phillips, T. H.; Berry, Boswell, Johnson, Ruff, Henderson, H. C. and W. F.; Welsh, Ellzey, Wilenman and Enochs.

THE ATTITUDE OF THE Y. M. C. A. TOWARD ATHLETICS.

Since this issue of our paper is entirely taken up with the question of athletics, it has seemed well to the editor of this department to discuss the attitude of the Young Men's Christian Association with regard to this question.

Since its beginning, the Y. M. C. A. has stood, as has often been mentioned in these columns before, for the equal development of the mind, spirit, and body. This is very clearly brought out in its badge, which is a triangle, each side containing one of these parts. The founders of the organization realized that the fully developed mind without the equally developed spirit and body was capable of more harm than good; they further knew that the fully formed mind and spirit, without a strong body with which to work, was handicapped and could not reach its highest attainments. They therefore reached the conclusion that the combination of these characteristics marked the perfect man. With this principle as one of its fundamentals it is reaching out in schools and colleges and in thousands of towns both in the United States and foreign lands that it may better the men and boys in these places and make of them nobler and more useful men.

At every students' conference which is held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. a part of the time is taken up in athletic contests and pennants are awarded to the victors. All town Y. M. C. A.'s have their gymnasiums, more or less fully equipped, and their baseball, football, basketball, and track teams which have their interassociation meets along with their libraries and halls for devotional services. These town associations are performing a great work in the influence for good which they exert over the young men of the locality.

In the last issue of "Association Men" quite an interesting account is given of the great conference of Y. M. C. A.'s held in Canada and among other things the following statement was made concerning the athletics of the occasion: "Throughout the event a spirit of clean Christian sportsmanship was shown. The contests were run off including several relay races, without any instance of unpleasantness or anything but the finest sporting spirit." This is the manner in which the Association expects all such contests to be conducted and will of course allow no other.

All this has been written with the purpose of showing the attitude of one of the great religious organizations of the day upon the subject of athletics.

Of course college Y. M. C. A.'s cannot conduct athletics in the manner in which town associations handle them, because of the fact that college athletics take up this phase, yet it can exert its influence in the interest of clean and honorable behavior in college contests and in this way determine in a great measure the sentiment of the student body along that line. Yet the local association can have its opportunity by sending its men to the student conferences. Millsaps in years past has won both basket-ball and football pennants at the Ruston conference, and, although she lost the basket-ball pennant, yet she still proudly holds the pennant for football victories.

The Y. M. C. A. has always and will always stand for clean, pure, and well conducted athletics as a right means of getting rid of that pent-up energy which will accumulate in every ordinary boy who has spent his time in mental efforts.

The Association is glad to announce that the next number of its Lyceum course will be presented on Jan. 30. Mr. Clark is to deliver his lecture entitled "Play Ball!" This lecture promises to be something out of the ordinary as may be seen from the subject. If you have not gotten your ticket for the season see Mr. Broom at once and make arrangements for one.

You men who have not joined the Y. M. C. A. as yet, make, among your other New Year resolutions, the resolve that you will join immediately and then keep this resolve. Give your name to the first member whom you meet and he will see that you have the opportunity given you.

* * *

The attendance on the meetings of the Association before Christmas were good and every man enjoyed the meetings. The program for the New Year promises to be better, if possible; why should not the attendance be doubled or tripled? Every man who has come out to the meetings has gotten good from them. Why should any let the other fellow get all the benefit? Let every man come every time.

BASKET-BALL OUTLOOK

Games Arranged With Several Colleges Already—Teams are Showing up Well in Practice

The report in regard to basket-ball is indeed encouraging. The men who have been coming out to practice have been showing up in good form. The principal criticism that is made though is that the fellows are not coming out enough. The fellows must come out in good numbers if we intend to make the best of our present privileges in athletics. The field is open. The team has not been chosen yet and all have a chance to show what is in them in this line. A coach has been engaged to go to work just after Xmas, so if anyone expects to make the team he will have to come out and show his metal.

Two courts have been fitted up and everyone will have a chance to practice, so do not stand back on that proposition, but get on the band wagon before it drives off.

Several games have already been scheduled with other Colleges. Among the colleges that we have on our schedule are the following: University of Mississippi, Mississippi A. & M., Mississippi College, and the Union University of Jackson, Tenn. At least two trips will be made away from home, one to Tennessee, and probably one into Louisiana.

The following men are showing up good in practice: Peets and Rush as forwards, Reed and Moss as guards; Kirkland has the place at centre about cinched. This does not say, though, that these men will compose the team, as we have lots of good material on the campus that has never been given a chance to show up in practice.

Every man who expects to make this team must come out and show what he can do. If he has the proper stuff in him he will be given a chance to show it.

There is no reason why Millsaps College cannot put out a winning team if she can only get the fellows who are basket-ball sharks to come forth, for there is no doubt but that we have many in our midst who are SHARKS in the fullest sense of the word.

VOLUME III. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, JAN. 13, 1911 NUMBER 12

SCRUB 'VARSITY CHOSEN

As it is customary in all colleges and universities to have a second team, our coach council have seen fit to pick out and organize for us a similar team. This idea was not conceded to at first, but in view of the fact that there were too many good men for the 'varsity, this excellent surplus material must needs be turned into some such channel, so after this decision of the coaches Millsaps will have two instead of only the one team. Many and manifest are the advantages of such an arrangement, as it will not only give the first team that which is vital to the life of any team, namely, practice—good hard scrimmages, but also beep them on their toes, so to speak, to keep their jobs. Then from this second team we expect to develop men to fill out any vacancies on the first, either through accident or disability. Now, though this team is called the "Scrubs," far from their hemisphere is this misleading term. The very cardinal (a la Johnson) point of all very psychological reasoning compels us to confront the true and impregnable facts, namely, that this team, though scrubs by name, is in reality equal and perfectly able to combat and compete with our first team. They, the "Scrubs," vastly excel the first team in weight and are their equal in experience and strength. The only reason the second team is not the first and vice backwards is that under the new rules speed is estimated higher than strength and weight. Under the old rules the case would have been exactly reversed and the second team would indeed be the monogram disporters. So let us congratulate ourselves that the coaches have seen fit to organize this team, which will be such a marked advantage and support to our athletic world. The following team is the carefully deliberated production of the coaches:

	Eyes	Weight	Build	Yrs. Weaned

MILLSAPS TRACK TEAM

Contemplate Revenge For Last Year's Disgraceful Defeat—Much Available Material on Hand For the Team.

Nobody believes that the score made by Millsaps at Greenville last spring was the best we could do. Nobody believes that it was anything like a fair sample of our athletic prowess. If we believed it, we would do well to stick our heads under the sand and wait till the "sounds of revelry" at the M. I. O. A. "have died away, and the roar of the lion has ceased."

No, sir, we do not believe it was the best we can do. Everybody knows that that disgraceful score was due directly to our own lack of training. We failed to take the track meet seriously. Now, since we have had our awakening we are quite sure that we can blot out forever the record of our disgrace and set up a standard for high-class sportsmanship unequaled in the annals of intercollegiate contests.

And we have grounds for high hopes this spring. We have learned a lesson. We know exactly where we stand among the other colleges in contests on the track,—and we know exactly what we have got to do in order that we may take a higher stand. We have a new spirit this year—a spirit that is sure to lead us to victory if we allow it to sway us as it should.

Material also is plentiful. We have a goodly number of last year's runners with us again, and they are determined to make better records this year. Among the new men are several high school champions who bid fair to win laurels for us in the M. I. T. A. contest.

The high school track meet that we are going to hold this spring is an entirely new feature in Mississippi, but it is by no means new in other states. It has been tried successfully in other colleges for a number of years. It will mean much for us as a means of recruiting our athletic teams. It will bring us into touch with the best athletic material in the high schools of the state and will give us first claim upon these men when they decide to go to college.

Altogether the outlook is hopeful. We have the spirit and we have the material which, if it develops as it should, will make us winners at the M. I. T. A. contest this spring.

PRELIMINARY ORATORICAL CONTEST.

Broom Chosen as M. I. O. A. Speaker—Clark Goes to Crystal Springs.

The contest for the selection of the representatives to the M. I. O. contest and the Crystal Springs Chautauqua was held in the chapel Thursday morning, Dec. 4th. In this particular field no higher honor than these places can be given a man by his college and the value which the boys put upon these places was well attested by the spirit and rivalry which prevailed throughout the contest. Eight men came forth to battle for the honors and each showed that he had devoted many hours of hard work and training in order to appear at his best. The excellent oration of each man, his ability to appear at ease on the stage, his articulation, his pronunciation and all the other essential qualities that go to make up a good speaker were so in evidence on this occasion that it was very apparent that Millsaps has other silver-tongued orators besides the ones who were chosen to represent us at the two contests.

Each man as he came forth to speak and as he retired after concluding his speech was greeted by a storm of applause, showing that the contest was warm and spirited.

PRELIMINARY ORATORICAL CONTEST.

J. W. Broom, President of the Y. M. C. A. and of the Junior Class, was named by the committee as the one man pre-eminently fitted to reprseent our college at the M. I. O. contest. Broom has been two years on the honor committee and is the hero of a goodly number of contests and debates and has demonstrated well his ability to not only represent the cause of Millsaps but to carry our banner once more to victory.

G. C. Clark, one of our best all-round college men, was selected to represent us at the contest held at the Crystal Springs Chautauqua. Clark's ability as an orator is well known to every student in college and to say that the students expect him to win would be useless.

These men have before them a great task and have been called upon to render their college a great service, but they may feel assured that they have the enthusiastic support of every man in college and that we will be with them at the contests and show them that we appreciate their efforts.

The speakers who took part in the contest were as follows:

R. C. Berry—"The Stars and Bars."

H. C. Henderson—"Work Done for Humanity."

J. W. Broom—"Eulogy on Ed. W. Carmack."

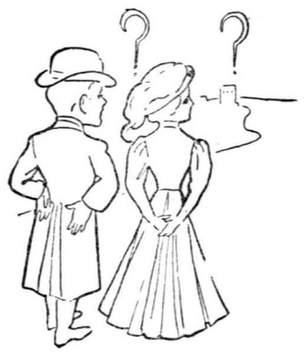

G. C. Clark—"Jefferson Davis, a Worthy Representatipe of a Great Era, a Noble Caues and a Brave People."

H. Mitchell—"The Prince of Peace."

D. D. Cameron—"Conservatism—A Saving Power."

Jake Bingham—"The Monroe Doctrine."

R. D. Peets—"Unknown Confederate Dead."

SOCIAL

KAPPA SIGMA RECEPTION.

On Thursday evening, December the fifteenth, the Kappa Sigmas gave their mid-winter reception to a number of their friends. The chapter rooms were artistically decorated in a most pleasing manner and from the arrival of the first guest to the time of departure there was to everyone that feeling of ease which characterizes Kappa Sigma socials.

Delightful entertainment was furnished by some of the more accomplished guests, who were very obliging in the rendering on the piano some of the latest music. A delicate ice course, which was made up very attractively in the fraternity colors, was served.

At a late hour of the night the merriment ceased and the guests departed with the wish that a repetition of this most delightful affair would soon come.

The guests were as follows: Dr. Hull, Dr. and Mrs. Burton, Misses Wilkinson, Lampton, Whitten, Yerger, Harmon, Hebron, Roach, Atkinson, Powell, Neal, Lett, Evans, Nelson, McGee, Lewis, Smith, and Green; Messrs. Rainey, Ramsey, Huddleston, West, Harmon, Johnson, Gunning, Tindall, Morris, Green, A. A. Galloway, McLaurin, Green, E. H., Alexander, Nelson, Evans, Savage, Ricketts, Cavett, Barrier, Burks, Chichester, Lott, Owen, Prof. Peyton, and Thompson.

We regret to say that this was received too late for last issue.—Editor.

DR. KERN HONORED BY SIGMA UPSILON.

The following clipping will be of interest:

"At the fifth annual convention of the Sigma Upsilon literary fraternity, held at Vanderbilt University, January 2nd and 3rd, Dr. A. A. Kern of Kit Kat Chapter, Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., was elected unanimously as president of the general council of the fraternity.

This honor given Dr. Kern was a distinguished and very singular one. He has been a member of the fraternity for only a few months, but through the manifest spirit he has shown and the active interest he has taken in the general workings of the order, it was plainly seen by all that he was the proper man for the place. He was the originator and organizer of the chapter of which he is a member and, though it is younger than any other, the report handed in from it for the past year was better than that of any other of the different chapters.

Kit Kat is to be congratulated on being so honored. The president has already shown his willingness to tone up his new duties and the prospects for Sigma Upsilon are brighter than ever before. The fraternity is rapidly spreading and before another year has passed it is likely that charters will be granted several of the most prominent northern universities."

PRENTISS BOYS START THE NEW YEAR — SARGENT AND BAILEY THE ORATORS—INTERESTING DEBATE.

Friday night, Jan. 6, 1911, the Prentiss Society boys met for their first time since Xmas and for the second time in the hall which had recently been arranged for them by the faculty.

President Edwards called the house to order at the regular time and the assembly was led in prayer by the chaplain, Rev. Baker. The regular program for the evening was taken up.

Bailey was called to the front as first declaimer. In a quiet but very impressive way, he gave the society his masterpiece and received great applause from the audience. This gentleman was followed by the second declaimer, S. S. Sargent.

Next came the debate, which was a very interesting feature of the program. The subject for discussion was: "Resolved, that the public libraries, art galleries, and museums should be open on Sunday." Graham, the first speaker on the affirmative, in a very easy but forceful way, gave reasons why he thought the proposition should be adopted. He was followed by the first speaker on the negative, Lauderdale, who made a short but pointed speech in which he quoted very beautifully from the Bible and showed why he thought an individual had no right to even attend a public library on Sunday. Bingham, the second speaker for the affirmative, always does justice to his subject. This time he most forcibly emphasized the points which his colleague had made and added much new argument to his side.

Keister, on the negative side, came rattling forth with an impromptu speech. He opened the eyes of the judges by telling them of an evil which might result from a visit to an art gallery or a museum on the Sabbath.

Clark, one of the society's greatest debaters, was next called to the floor in defense of the affirmative. His argument was so plain and simple that it must have had great effect upon the judges. Whitson followed him with a record-breaking speech.

The judges rendered their decision in favor of the affirmative side. A short business meeting followed, after which the Prentiss boys disbanded, all feeling that the New Year, 1911, had found them starting right and that a new era was dawning for the Prentiss Literary Society.

LAMARS HAVE A LIVELY SESSION.

Debate Excellent, Collins and Johnson Stars — Frederick Smith Convicted of a Heinous Crime.

Friday night last was the gala night for the Lamars. Although there were a good many absent at roll call, the Lamars had an unusually good program. And many were the good orations that sprung from the men on the program.

Of course there was a feeling of general and deep regret among the Lamars that the essayist, Miss Rogillio, was not present. But W. T. Harkey came to the front in response to the call for the orator and did his best to cast off the gloom of disappointment which had settled upon the noble Lamars like a cloud of mist upon a cloudy day. "Nuts" Harkey chose as his subject "The Evils of Child Labor." Harkey is a new man among us and he is certainly to be congratulated upon the manner in which he handled his subject.

On the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, That the Monroe Doctrine should be abolished," Collins, Hollifield, and Steen, all made good speeches. Collins especially starred for the affirmative. While on the negative "Big" Johnson, Green, A. A., and "Happy" Fred Smith put forth some argument that could not be refuted. "Big" Johnson has long held the reputation of being one of the best debaters in college. Even taking this fact into consideration, the loyal Lamars were astonished at his eloquence and logic.

The debate taken as a whole was unusually good. Every man on the program showed by his speech that he had put time and thought on his subject.

After the judges had rendered their decision in favor of the negative, the society was converted into a court room to try one F. B., alias "Happy," "Liar," Fred Smith for the crime of actually falling out of his chair during session of the society. Then it was that the hall was the scene of a "rough house." Lawyers, judges, and criminals were on their feet continuously, crying for recognition by the chair. There is no mind capable of prophesying just what the result might have been had not the esteemed President, Mr. Carl Coggin, come to the rescue and by his decision brought the matter to a focus. After Mr. Smith had been declared guilty by the ruling of the chair, the house was declared adjourned, after a session of more than two and one-half hours.

FORGET NOT BASKET BALL.

The supreme tests of the most important work of the boys is scheduled for the next two weeks. and no man should fail to get ready for these exams. One must get ready or else—.

But it will not hurt exam. grades to take a few minutes off each day for basket ball, and the time is at hand to get busy and pick and train the 'varsity team. So fellows, if you have ever had a leaning toward this good game get into it now so a jam up good team can be picked for the various mix-ups that are to be had with other teams. Let our first team under the new order be a good one, and a winner.

MILLSAPS IN ORATORY.

The joy of Millsaps students because of the recently granted privilege of intercollegiate games should not cause them to lose sight in the least of the fact that we have our oratorical and argumentative contests in which we can and must make good. There has been a marked excellence in the work of Millsaps men in these fields in the short and brilliant history of the college. If we are not in error, seven times the Purple and White banner has floated triumphantly in the M. I. O. contest, seven out of fourteen contests. This is indeed a good showing, but none too good for Millsaps.

The past few years we have had an unbroken losing streak in this contest, but we do not for a moment believe that it will continue. It is up to Millsaps men to break it. Victory in the past proves us able to win. The new era we are now entering upon following a new administration and more important still the coming of intercollegiate athletics should, and we believe will, be the beginning of renewed effort in debate and oratory, and the restoration to our former prestige in the M. I. O. A.

The Faculty has chosen a man able and well fitted for the task of winning the medal. The choice meets the approval of the student body, and all should now join hands in making this a year of such enthusiastic support of our representative and such a genuine and united college loyalty that he can not fail, but will begin a winning streak as great as our losing streak has been. Such a result would mean much to our student body and add prestige to our institution and is well worth striving for. There is no question that a feeling of confidence and enthusiasm for our speakers will inspire them to give their best efforts and greatly enhance our chances of victory. Once let Millsaps men believe that we can always produce a winner, and will prepare one for each contest, luck will change and we will come into our own again. Men should get ready for this by as carefully training themselves as they would for baseball and football. Overconfidence is dangerous, suicidal, but that confidence growing out of thorough preparation is of the essence of success. All our preliminary contests should be made as strenuous as possible that we may always find our best man, and once we have found him, we should support him as a unit as being our highest product at the time. This is the proper spirit, the spirit that will bring success, that will even snatch victory from the jaws of defeat.

The time to begin the cultivation of this spirit is at hand. Let us stand by our contestants, show them we believe in and rely on them, make their hopes our hopes, and our hopes their hopes. Let us stand solidly together for anything and all things for the good of Millsaps, for in this way we can build up our college, and it in turn will shed glory upon us. Pull for a greater Millsaps by fighting to a finish in athletics, debate, oratory and everything else.

Have you smashed all your resolutions and soiled that "new leaf" yet? If not do so at once and get ready for exams.

OVER THE GARDEN WALL.

William, be patient. I sent her a box of candy, labeled "From Berlin," and in the bottom was my letter. Since that she has managed the letters.

What I'm thinking about is, I will see her again in just one week, and man, I mean everything, and what's more I am going to tell her so.

Frank (rising and going out of the room)—Good luck, old boy. I've got to go to class.

SCENE IV.

Room of Sarah Waller, a dignified senior, Sarah seated by her dresser embroidering. A knock is heard.

Sarah—Come. (Half aloud)—I wonder who that is this time of night.

Emilie enters.

Emilie—Pardon me, meine freunde, I hope I am not interrupting you, but I wish to talk to you in an earnest way.

Sarah—No, indeed, Emilie, it is a pleasure to have you stay a while with me. How have you been? I have just been wondering if you were ill, you have looked so troubled of late.

Emilie—Ich danke I knew das you come so near to the important question. I have come to relate to you mein trials, if you will give to them ear.

Sarah—Delighted to aid you if I am able. Tell me about it, I will give you my best side.

Emilie—Ah-e-er I scarcely know how to make a beginning. You remember last October when we were permitted to attend the football game I met the football hero, Mr. William Sample. Miss Allen carried three of us girls to the banquet given for the teams. There I met Mr. Sample and strange in saying I fell in love with him at first sight. I thought that such was folly, but now I have come to experience it, and I find it to be serious. Now, Sarah, I am going to make you mein bertrante, dafur promise me that you will tell not.

Sarah—Till death. Let us continue.

Emilie—At the ball Mr. Sample was sehr aufmerkau. In a few days a box of candy came, bearing a letter from Wilhelm. Immediately I thanked him for it, so in that way a correspondence arose.

Sarah—Emilie, you shock me to think that our little German Madchen would so trespass against the laws of the institution. However, tell me all, perhaps I can help you. How you have avoided the suspicion of the faculty, I do not see.

Emilie—Wohl, I paid the letter carrier zwanziz marke to put my letters in the oak tree, right where the limbs divided, so you see I have no-e-e Sorge. Wilhelm writes to me every week and only mein Gott knows how it pleases me.

Sarah—That all sounds like a budding romance. Is Mr. Sample handsome?

Emilie—Mr. Sample is the grandest man in the America; he is so tall, such square shoulders, those big brown eyes that seem to speak, that firm set mouth, and all so splendid that he seems more like a man in a book than a living man as mein Wilhelm ist.

Last Saturday when we went on the excursion he also went and it happened that Miss Allen was in the other end of the coach so that I might with him on the journey all the way talk.

Sarah—Emilie, I noticed that man and wondered to whom you were speaking. He is our typical Southern gentleman. But Emilie it is impossible for me to believe you in love. A girl so timid as you.

Emilie—That surprises me auch. I had decided that I did not care for him, but now I know that I do. He really-a-a what do I mean to say? liebt mich.

Sarah—Emilie, have you told your mother about the affair? I think that she should know of it and could advise you better than I.

Emilie—Ach nein! Ach nein! Ich schrieb meiner mutter lister at me, I forget meinself, and the most cruel answer and rebuke came back. Ah, tell me what I shall do. I know I do love him and it is determined to me that I shall marry him.

Sarah—Ah, you are engaged. I heartily congratulate you, Emilie; I see that you are in earnest, so I will endeavor to aid you. When do you want to go?

Emilie (weeping)—Ah, Liebe Sara, it frightens me. (Recovering herself) William will leave school by graduation in June, then he wishes me to go.

Sarah—Oh, I have it! On June the eighth we will have a recital. then you can escape. But how? You can not go out in the crowd for Doctor will be standing at the door to greet every one. (Clapping her hands) I have the idea. Disguise yourself and go into the garden while they are at the recital.

Emilie—But that will not free me. What next?

Sarah—Oh, I will work out your salvation without fear or trembling. You are so tired you must go to bed.

Emilie—I thank thee from the heart gute freunde. I must write to Wilhelm. Good-night. (Departs).

SCENE V.

Emilie's room. Bridget, the servant, Emilie and Sarah.

Emilie—Sarah, I shall never forget you. I shall owe to you all my happiness. I hate to disobey my parents, but they do not know William as I do. Bridget, help me put on this coat. I am so frightened. I tremble so! (Kisses Sarah and starts down stairs). Bridget, come down to the arbor I will be there. Do not forget to bring me clothes.

SCENE VI.

Old stone wall, a rose vine climbing over it, forming an arbor in the court yard. Emilie in gray silk raincoat and lace scarf.

Emilie—Now I am doing what will either make me supremely happy or wreck my life. I am just waiting for the bell. While I am waiting I will look for the best place to climb up. (Walks around the trellis; stops just at the side). Oh, I see, here is a loose brick out of the wall, up there another, then the vine is strong enough to hold me, therefore I will climb a few steps on it, then reach the top of the wall. Bridget, when you see me safe go tell Sarah. (Convent bell is heard in the distance and William Sample appears at top of wall). Helps Emilie to the top.

Sample (clasping Emilie in his arms)—Sweetheart!

Emilie—Ach Liebling, I am so afraid!

Sample—You're all right now, Kiddo! You've got me to look after you.

(Sample helps her over the garden wall. They go away together).

LOCALS.

Mr. Robert Newton Campbell, who went to school at Bellbuckle before the holidays, has now entered Millsaps and taken up special work. We are glad to have Campbell with us, especially as he has studied at Bellbuckle. They always turn out good students up there.

Roy Tynes, who went home some time before the holidays on account of illness, has re-entered school and taken up his work again. When Tynes left he was in very bad health. We are glad to say that he is now enjoying excellent health.

I heard one young lady say that she is mighty glad that Dr. Kern didn't get married. Proves he can do it if he wants to.

Gilbert Cook, a Millsaps graduate, passed through Jackson last Sunday on his way to Oklahoma, where he is teaching.

Mr. Gatling is among the new students who entered after the holidays.

Mr. Cole Burns, who attended school at the University before Christmas, has matriculated at Millsaps. Burns is well-known at Millsaps and in town and we are all glad to have him with us.

E. J. Mohler was among the old Millsaps students who passed through Jackson on their way back to the University.

The first thing that Mr. Hair, of the law class, did after returning to Jackson to take up his studies again, was to get married. The Purple and White congratulates him, and hopes that his troubles will be few.

Can anyone explain the sudden commotion in the library Saturday morning when a certain Professor stood pensively at his classroom window and sadly gazed at the wintry sky?

Mr. M. C. Woods, of Water Valley, entered the law class after the holidays. Mr. Woods comes to us well recommended as a student. We are glad to have him.

One of our new students wants to know what is to keep "Blondy" Mitchell from one day becoming a famous orator.

Jack Conner, who was at Millsaps last year, is now at the University.

Last Friday night the Lamar Society had the pleasure of initiating Hon. Julius Caesar Honnicutt. Realizing Mr. Honnicutt's ability as an orator, the society at once elected him to serve as orator one month from that night.

Ernest Steen, one of our most popular Juniors, has returned to school after being away for nearly four months. Steen is not only one of the best students but also one of the best men in school, and the college would have lost a strong man had he not returned. We are all glad that he was able to come back.

Fred Smith says that the Latin-American countries think that the U. S. is trying to bull-due them.

Gans Johnson, '10, who is doing post-graduate work at Vanderbilt this year, was on the campus one day last week. Gans is the same old jolly boy that he always was, and we were all glad to see him.

Weinstein says there is absolutely no difference between a well and a wind-mill.

Well, boys, exams. will soon be here. Are you ready for them?

Mr. Adams (gazing at a picture of a very affectionate man and girl)—I wish I were that man.

Miss Henderson (pensively)—I wish I were that girl!

We are glad to have with us again Mr. Victor G. Clifford, who has only recently recovered from a severe illness.

The student body was greatly disappointed that no addition was made, as expected, to the list of professors' wives.

VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, JAN. 20, 1911 NUMBER 1

DR. D. C. HULL

Addresses Y. M. C. A. on College Honesty---Beautiful Selection Sung by Mrs. Thompson.

The address given to the Y. M. C. A. by Dr. Hull on the subject of "College Honesty" was one of the most forcible and convincing arguments that the students of Millsaps have heard this year. The basis of the address was laid upon this fact: A man's actions are determined by one of these three things, (1) a fear of the penalty of the law, (2) public opinion, or (3) a high and noble ideal. The truth of all these statements was shown by a consideration of the citizenship of our country. That citizen who is upright only because of the punishment which the law inflicts for its infringement ranks not one whit above the brute which has to be driven to its task with whip and lash. The man who follows the dictates of public opinion can be no more fixed in his purposes and beliefs than is this opinion. The man who is controlled by a high sense of honor and whose actions are determined by a high ideal is alone free from the law. It matters not what the penalty for crime may be, he has no fear. The law is his friend and protector instead of his enemy.

These general statements were then in a few concise words applied to college life and its relations, and the address was colored with an appeal to the men to set up a high ideal for their actions and then to conform to that ideal. Every word of this talk was most thoroughly enjoyed by all those present. The style of the speaker is so concise and clear cut that the attention of the hearer is held to the very last thought.

The special music of the evening consisted of a solo by Mrs. Thompson. The selection itself was beautiful and its beauty was greatly added to by the clear sweet voice of the soloist.

Don't forget the class in "The Study of the Negro Problem," which meets at the Y. M. C. A. hall at 7 o'clock each Monday night. Every one interested is invited to come.

The following story taken from the editorial columns of "The Peabody Record" should be of special interest to us at this time:

Confidence.

One's sensibilities must be in a highly degenerate state not to have a just pride in the confidence of his fellows, and especially of those more experienced in life than himself. There is a story told of an old negro who continued to live on his master's farm after the emancipation. He had always gotten his bread from his master's corn-crib, but with the rights of citizenship came also the obligation of providence, and now Uncle Enoch must built for himself a little log cabin and garner his own grain to feed his family. Before the first summer had gone his crib had grown quite empty. Uncle Enoch dreamed of the good old days when he shelled corn in "Marse John's" crib. His former master and present landlord began to miss corn from his crib and suspected Uncle Enoch. He put a lock on the door and gave the key to the old negro, with this remark: "Enoch,-some low down rascal has been stealing my corn. Take this key and see that the door is locked every night. I'll put it all in your hands." "Yes, sah, Marse John; yes, sah! I'ze sees to dat co'n." From that time on until the next crop was gathered Uncle Enoch came with great regularity on Saturday morning to buy a turn of corn from "Marse John" to carry to the country mill for bread.

We have been given the keys, shall we protect our "college corn-crib" on examination day?

LAMARS HOLD SHORT SESSION—WILSON MAKES GOOD ORATION.

Probably owing to the nearness of the approaching exams, or probably due to the fact that there was a good show in town on Friday night last, the Lamars, usually exceedingly enthusiastic and spirited, held a rather short and dry meeting.

However, Mr. Wilson made a rather interesting talk on Mississippi. Mr. Wilson's style was a little out of the ordinary in that he spoke from the shoulder. On the debate Bingham, Montgomery and Colmer for the affirmative, and Peets, Hobbs and Clifford for the negative, all did well under the circumstances, on the subject, Resolved that the protective tariff should be abolished in the United States. The judges, Messrs. Savage, Green and Summer, after a brief discussion, reported their decision as in favor of the affirmative. After such a great question as of free trade had been decided in such a brief time, it was deemed wise to adjourn until after exams. at which meeting of the society the officers for the ensuing quarter will be elected.

LOCALS.

Well, boys, how many times have you busted?

We were glad to have brother Terry of Bolton, an alumunus of the college make a talk to us in chapel one morning last week. Brother Terry has a remarkable record. Since he graduated a good many years ago he has not missed being at every opening and every commencement.

Mr. P. A. Andrews of Marx, Miss., has matriculated in the Millsaps Law Department. Before the holidays Mr. Andrews did academic work at the University of Mississippi. We are glad to have him with us.

Ask Favre Adams how it came about that he got mixed up in that band of serenaders who visited the campus one night last week.

Rev. George Galloway conducted the morning exercises one morning last week. Bro. Galloway is well known on the campus as a former opponent of inter-collegiate athletics. He is also well known now as an advocator of the same. This fact will no doubt enhance his peace and save his chickens, for he is now living in close proximity to the college.

Somebody wants to know why the spectacled Henderson doesn't wear a hat.

Poor Weinstein....What will happen to him next? He has now discovered a ghost in his room.

Somebody ask Trice why he peeped over the garden wall the other night and asked in a frightened voice, "boys, where's Dr. Hull?"

Who were the nine boys who called on a young lady the other night, and would not leave when requested to do so by the girl's mother? Shame on you, boys.

Who wants to bet that McDowell will read his paper again in chapel.

W. M. Owen, who will be remembered as a star on the last year's track team, has returned to school, and taken up his regular work. It was impossible for Mr. Owen to get back before the holidays. We are exceedingly glad that he got back in time to do some more of that fast running for us this year. The track is greatly in need of more men of his stamp. In fact, it must develop some.

THE OLDER BROTHER.

The Trip To the Bad, and Who Pays For the Ticket.

Few boys would go wrong in college if the costliness of experience were better understood. There is no journey on the list of Thos. Cook and Son so expensive as a trip to the bad.

Beelzebub's Personally Conducted Tours to Hell have been exposed by press and pulpit for ages, yet they go right on attracting a tremendous patronage of fools by understating the cost.

"Come for a good time," the circulars tell you. "All you need is a little money." They neglect to mention the obligations to be incurred en route, which you will never be able to pay in this life, and which every person whom you love will be called upon to help you pay before the damnable debts are cancelled.

"It's nobody's business but my own," a young fellow says when he hits the down grade and restraining hands are held out to help him back. "I am paying for this and I am not asking anybody else. When the evil consequences arrive I'll be ready for them. I'll pay for my fun like a good sport when the time comes. I'm no welcher."

That is all very fine, but such a youngster does not know that part of his punishment will consist in seeing his friends and his family surrender their happiness as part payment for his "good time." No man ever pays the whole bill alone.

Suppose—

A young man, blessed with talent and training and possibilities for usefulness in the world, went to the red-light district and wallowed in moral filth to his heart's content. At the end of the debauch the devil presented his statement.

"It is more than I can possibly pay," said the young man.

"But I must be paid," said the devil. "You will have to get somebody to help you."

"There's my father and mother."

"I'll take what they give, but they haven't enough."

"Then let my sisters contribute."

"That will help some, but there will still be a large amount due."

"Let the girl I am going to marry pay part."

"Very well," said the devil. but your parents and sisters and best girl are too poor to pay the debt in full. You don't seem to realize the magnitude of this transaction."

"I suppose I shall have some children some day. They can pay something on account, can't they?"

"Yes, they will have to assume their share of the burden, and their children after them, never fear. But I must have more."

"I have many friends; they believe in me."

"They will pay, too. There are also thousands of people who might have been made happier if you had not sold your talent to me. All these will have to help pay for your fun."

"All right, send them the bill," said the young man.

Sophomore Jones declares that this is an impossible supposition, and he is right. No man on earth would ask his friends and his loved ones to pay for his rottenness.

Yet they do pay, in every case. The father and the mother pay with broken hearts. The sisters pay with grief and shame and shattered pride. The best girl pays with a life's devotion wasted on a sin-scourged wretch. The children, robbed of their right to be physically and morally clean born, pay with warped souls and stunted bodies, with pain and suffering and degeneracy. The friends pay; if you have ever had a fraternity brother go wrong, you know how the friends pay. And the needy world, that might have been made better by one man's clean work in it, pays also. Suppose Edison or Mark Twain or Doctor Eliot, before they knew how great their genius was, had wrecked their lives, don't you see how heavily the world would have had to pay?

Not saying anything about what the man himself has to pay, I want only to ask you, at the beginning of the college year, to look at a fact that escapes the notice of many boys:

IF A MAN TRAVELS THE ROAD TO THE DEVIL, EVERY ONE HE LOVES WILL HAVE TO PAY FOR THE TICKET.

SOCIAL

PRENTISS HOLDS ELECTION—PROGRAM UNUSUALLY GOOD.

Prentiss Boys Enter Politics—Gilmore and Brewer Elected Presidents For Third and Fourth Terms.

Friday night, Jan. 13, 1911, the boys of the Prentiss Society met at the usual time. After the house had been called to order by President Edwards the assembly was led in prayer by Rev. Baker, then the regular program for the evening was taken up.

On the reading of the name of the essayist, Clark came forth and gave an essay on the life of Sir Walter Raleigh, which was one of the best that has been written in the society.

When the name of the declaiming influence of Newton's elosponded to the call as the first, and for fifteen minutes the audience was held spell bound by the charmer was read out Newton requence. Next came Lowry, who gave a very interesting and patriotic declamation.

On the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, that county farms should be abolished and the convicts made to work public roads," two members were found to be absent, and Mooney and Bailey were appointed to take their places. These gentlemen, aided by Gilmore, made numerous points for their side, some of which could not be torn down, while the negative was ably discussed by Edwards, Spinks and Jones; Spinks as usual made some strong points.

The debate taken as a whole was good. After the judges had rendered their decision in favor of the negative, attention was turned to the election of officers. After many hours of balloting Gilmore and Brewer were elected presidents for the third and fourth terms. At the early hour of eleven the house was declared adjourned.

THE SERENADE.

The Road.

All cold the yellow moonlight sleeps between the ancient trees;
The little leaves are murmurous, rocked by the drowsy breeze.
Green summer fields lie alternate with squares of magic wood;
And shadows fold the road-edge buds within a velvet hood.
How fairer looks the road by night than in the garish day!
Alone, and lost in dreams, I fare along my love-led way.

The Gate.

All grim and tall it bars my way,
As if behind those walls of gray,
Malevolent, some ancient fay
In durance held some princess fair.
Awhile I stood, and dreamed that I
Was knight—and she a Princess May—
In whose life was but one care—
To free her from the witches sway.
None other knight so bold as I.
But now the scrolls, of iron wrought,
Give easy way to youth.
That for which, long gone, one fought,
Is easy now in sooth.

The Rose Garden.

Within the fountain's placid pool,
Among the spreading lily pads,
I saw the ancient golden moon.
And all upon the grass, dew-cool,
To diamond sparks the Duchess adds
Her fairy petals—in happy June.

The Song.

Beneath the summer stars
I have sung out my heart
In love to you.
Against your window bars
The curtains do not part—
Oh where are you?
Is there no rose for me?
No kiss from dainty finger tips
To float far down to me?
That dreams may come of rosered lips
And slumberous eyes,
When I have gone?

The Guerdon.

But see! The lattice slips apart—
And there is she.
A rose, as golden as her heart,
She gave to me;
And thereon one kiss—
Soft as summer dawn.

TENNIS ASSOCIATION MEETS.

F. B. Smith Elected President—Some Legislation Enacted—Tournament to Begin 1st of March.

The tennis association held a special meeting in Dr. Swartz' room Wednesday evening, Jan. the eleventh. The object of the meeting was to elect a new president and to arrange for the annual tournament.

After the object of the meeting had been stated ballots were prepared and Fred B. Smith of Blue Mountain was chosen to fill the president's chair. Smith is one of the best tennis players in school and takes great interest in this feature of athletics. There is no doubt but that the association will thrive under his leadership.

It was decided to begin the tournament about the first of March. The members hope to play the tournament out this year and great interest is expected.

Other rules, regarding arrangements for keeping the courts properly worked off and regulating the number of balls which each member is to receive, were passed.

STUDENT BODY SQUARELY ON RECORD.

By private and public expression and by formal resolution in mass meeting assembled with no dissenting voice the student body has endorsed the views of our Board of Trustees and Faculty in regard to a safe and sane regulation of athletics and has added in a similar manner its own pledge to that of the Faculty that this regulation shall mean clean games and gentlemanly conduct.

More than this, student sentiment has taken concrete form by authorizing the Honor Council to co-operate with the Faculty in guaranteeing that this regulation mean something and exist in fact and not in name only. This authority has been granted after mature deliberation and discussion pro and con and was voted by a very strong and healthy majority, as we believed it would be. The result is that the sentiment so clearly expressed in resolutions, has been registered in an effective way, in a very proper and logical way, we believe, in favor of clean games and conduct and no doubt can now be entertained concerning the student attitude, for this puts the student body squarely on record.

Being on record in no uncertain way it is now up to Millsaps men to get the benefits and avoid the dangers of intercollegiate games. We believe they will do this, that the confidence shown them is well placed, and that the searching test of time will prove the sound wisdom of the action of the Conferences and will reveal a resulting progress that will mark a new epoch in the history of Millsaps.

EXAMS! EXAMS!!

Yes they are upon us in one, two, three, order. They give one chance to make good, or make—bad. Students march rapidly to success or failure now. Crow now or forever hold your peace. If you have worked well in your classes all the time you stand you tremble in your boots, as you strong, confident, fearless. If not should.

Irksome or delightful, they have a good purpose, and separate the faithful from the unfaithful, the industrious from the lazy, the plodder from the loafer, and they divide the student body into two great classes—the passed and the busted. They make one look back a little while and see by what route he travels in the regions of knowledge, and if he can not see clearly his route he is lost and must be led back to light by the professor with a little silvery cord called a "special" costing three dollars, or perchance he has not even earned this privilege and must tackle the whole thing anew. Are you prepared? If not about the worst thing that ever jumped out of Pandora's box for you is an exam.

Freshman, take not too lightly for he laughs best who laughs last. There's a red light on the track for busted students. But if you have busted take it not too seriously, for bust and the world busts with you.—Pass and you pass alone. So let your candle so burn that others will so constrained by its brilliancy to pass next time. Say with Patrick Henry, "Give me a pass or let me bust!" Be brave or the Faculty will be singing, "Freshie wait a little longer, till your little mind is stronger," and their voices are charming when they sing this. You might wait, so powerful is music.

SUCCESS OF THE BOBASHELA ASSURED.

At the beginning of the present session, when all looked very dark for the Bobashela and its best friends were dubious of its appearance in 1911, little did the most far-seeing think that this would be the banner year in its history. Ever loyal to it and the college, the students felt a keen sadness when they heard the cruel suggestion that it might be dropped. Plans were devised to make it safe financially and once more an appeal was made to the ever faithful friends of this publication. The task would be arduous, said the wise ones, and much energy and some money would be lost perhaps.

The difficulty of the undertaking only called forth greater determination and exertion and today success is practically assured by the good work of an able staff and the strong support of the "Bobashela Boosters." The response of the students to the appeal made to them is indeed gratifying and a most healthy sign of progress. The subscription list is the largest in its history and the effort to make it a thoroughly representative publication has met with universal approval.

But the collection of the material for this important publication will be greatly aided by each man giving a willing ear to any suggestion from the editor and business manager and promptness in having the necessary details arranged. This will enable the staff to get the annual out on time and is more easily done promptly than otherwise. The student body is to be congratulated upon the outlook. The man that now wears the smile that won't come off is very likely a "Bobashela Booster."

TO OUR EXCHANGES.

We are in receipt of several numbers of the "Scribbler." This live little magazine is published by the students of the Hattiesburg High School.

The Christmas number of the "Whitworth Clionian" was a credit to the girls who got it out. The heads of each department seem to have been wide awake and after the best interest of the publication.

We are pleased to acknowledge receipt of the following exchanges which came to our desk this week: Vanderbilt Hustler, Varsity Voice, Cardinal and Cream, Columbia Collegian, Whitworth Clionian, The Champion, Tennessee College Magazine, Ring-Tum-Phi, The Scribbler, Mississippi College Magazine, The Spectator, The Centenary College Weekly, The Henderson College Magazine, and The Crimson and White.

We are always glad to have a large number of exchanges come to us. If there are any schools that we are sending out exchanges to that are not returning their magazine in exchange we would be glad if they would. We believe that great good could come from the exchange department if every publication would pay the proper attention to this department. Give praise where it is due and criticise in any case where it seems expedient.

FACULTY REGULATIONS IN REGARD TO FRATERNITIES.

1. No fraternity at Millsaps College may pledge a student until he has been officially classed as a college student. For the session of 1910-1911 no student may be pledged before November 1, at 4 p. m.

2. No student may be initiated into a fraternity until he shall have passed one term's examination in a majority of his classes, as shown by the Secretary's records.

3. Any chapter guilty of initiating ineligible students or of pledging the same, shall be forbidden to pledge or initiate any student until the end of the following school year.

4. No fraternity at Millsaps College shall give more than four receptions during the year to which other than fraternity students are invited. For the session of 1910-1911 this shall not be interpreted to include the first smoker of the season.

5. Each chapter shall be held fully responsible for the acts of its individual members with reference to these regulations.

6. These regulations shall apply with equal force to the students of the Academic, Graduate, and Law Schools, with the exception that Section 2 shall not apply to the Law School.

7. Each fraternity shall report to the Secretary of the Faculty within one week after each reception an itemized statement of the expenses of the reception, certified by the Treasurer of the fraternity.

8. Each chapter shall report to the Secretary of the Faculty the names of the initiates, within two weeks after the initiation.

9. Each chapter shall enroll these regulations upon its records and shall present to the Secretary of the Faculty a written statement testifying that this has been done.

NEW FOOTBALL RULES A CINCH.

The Scrub Varsity team, after much deliberation, has unanimously adopted the rules given in the following clipping:

Harkene, O ye who find the new football rules a puzzle and a snaw and give ear all ye who lose youreselves in their meandering ramifications and peregrinations.

First—The game is divided into four stanzas of eight verses each. In these verses there are sixteen periods and 32 semicolons. Between periods one may smash an opponent's slats or manicure his face. Between the semicolons it is permitted to make faces and breathe.

Second—Before and after each period the opposing captains shall change neckties, the referee shall hug the umpire and the head linesman shall kiss the college widow. The players may kiss whatever girl they can overtake in 10 yards.

Third—It shall be a foul if any player tackle an opponent without an introduction. It is a foul if a player bite an opposing player for stepping in his face.

Fourth—The ball may be advanced after the permission of the field judge and the umpire is obtained unless there be objection on the part of the opposing captain, who shall signify such objection by crying "Fie, fie" four times.

Fifth—In running with the ball, a player shall not touch it with his hands, but carry it gripped between his teeth. Store and pivot teeth lost in this manner shall be retired by the referee, though time shall not be taken out for this purpose.

Sixth—In the choice of goals, a toss of a coin shall decide. The umpire, for this, shall borrow a quarter from the referee, and shall borrow a half dollar from the captain of the opposing team. It will be a toss up whether either gets his quarter back or half back.

Seventh—No player shall be eligible who is under 9 or over 90 years of age.

Eighth—A test of a player's being a bona fide student shall be as follows: He must be able to give 98 rahs without drawing breath; wear foolish clothes; have an open face like an oyster; know a football when he sees it, and be a member of at last one "frat."

Ninth—It is a foul trick to seize a player below the hair or above the shoes.

Tenth—A brick or horseshoe concealed in a player's sweater shall be prima facie evidence of an off side and the opposing team shall be given nine rahs and a cup of tea therefor.

Eleventh—Players giving evidence of having bathed during the season will be expelled by the faculty and blacklisted by the amateur association.

Twelfth—Sweaters, jerseys, or jackets that have been greased shall be inspected by the pure food commission. If butter is used, they may play; if oleomargerine is used they shall be held to the federal grand jury.

Thirteenth—a player found to be in collusion with doctors, surgeons, undertakers, or enbalmers, shall be penalized five red neckties and four pairs of purple socks.

Fourteen—In case of doubt, ask the umpire. He don't know.—Ex.

The gentle readers will remember their officials are those given in last weeks issue and to get the full benefit of the rules remember who the officials are.

BASKET BALL.

Millsaps awakes and finds the dream of years duration realized, and though we may have a Rip Van Winkle feeling at times, intercollegiate athletics is upon us. Our men will fight to an honorable finish, win or lose. If victory does not come to our basket ball track, and base ball teams in 1911, there is no doubt that it will come before many years, for Millsaps men are willing to fight long and hard for victory, and they intend to do so.

Keen interest is being taken now in basket ball, and this is proper for our teams should be the best we can put out and get our undivided support, and we believe this will be the case. Manager Kirkland has been very active in our behalf and has arranged a schedule that will call for hard playing, from our first team. A hard, stubborn contest should be given to all comers, for what Millsaps needs now more than anything else is to realize the absolute necessity of training and putting up the most strenuous fight possible. After such a fight defeat will not sting, and victory will give solid confidence. The willingness and ability to do this is more important to us now than victory or defeat, because it will surely bring success in the end.

So if we can win this season let us win by all means. But let us begin our series of games with the fixed determination to get the scalp of the best teams in Dixie, if not this year, or the next, then in the near future. This will be no easy thing and will require time and training, but is worthy of trial. We believe Millsaps men are made of good metal and that sooner or later they will make good against the strongest teams.

The college is exceedingly fortunate in having such a barber as Hobbs on the campus.

We are sorry to lose Mr. Dupree, one of our best and most popular students, who has transferred his loyalty, as well as his residence, to the A. & M.

VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, FEB. 3, 1911 NUMBER 2

BASEBALL PRACTICE BEGINS

Coach Peters Has Twenty-four Candiates Out First Afternoon---Wake up, Fans, and Take Notice---Millsaps Means Business About Playing Baseball this Season.

Saturday, January 28th, 1911, marked the beginning of baseball practice for the Millsaps team for this season. The prospects are not only encouraging but they are brilliant in the extreme. The crack of the bat and the sound of the ball as it struck the mit and glove made more than one "fan" feel like something was to be doing soon when the birds begin to sing.

Coach Peters and Mr. Lewis from Jackson spoke of our outlook as excellent. With such a good looking bunch of material out the first afternoon we do not doubt in the least that they were right about the matter.

Twenty-four men reported for practice at three-thirty sharp, but this was not all of the available material by any means. There is at least fifteen or twenty more ball players on the campus who did not report on Saturday afternoon, but who will report on Monday for the first regular practice.

The first week's practice will consist, in the main, of track work and other muscle-developing processes. When the men have been hardened by strenuous work for eight or ten days, then the regular signal work will begin.

There is one thing that should be well understood in the beginning, and that is, that every man who expects to make this team will have to show what he can do by being on hand every afternoon for the working-out process. A lazy man cannot expect to make the team, and if he does make it will prove a detriment rather than an aid to the team. In the words of one of our ardent supporters, "You can't make a lazy man work, and it takes work to make a base ball team that is any good."

Millsaps can put out as good a baseball team as any other school in this state if she only will. She has the best location in the state, she has good, sound, substantial backing, not only by the citizens in Jackson but all over the state, and it is needless to say that every student in the College will back the team heart and soul and body.

One thing that Millsaps can assure the public of is that she will put up a clean, classy article of ball. She will have no "ringers." Every man on the team will be a bona fide student in good standing.

There is but one disadvantage that Millsaps has this year, and that is that she will have to build her team from the ground up. However that may be though, she will give whatever team she plays a good run for their money.

The men reporting for practice on Saturday afternoon were as follows: Catchers, Weinstein and Horn; Pitchers, West, Ward, Burns, Moss and Rook; First baseman, Galloway, Weillenman and Kirkland; Second basemen, Andrews, Morse and Smith; Third basemen, West, Lott, Lewis; Short-stops, Hairston, Hill, Shell and Crisler; Outfielders, Burks, Galloway, McKie, Spinks, Moss, Butler, Wilkerson and Hunter.

This was a goodly number and when the fifteen or twenty other men appeared on the grounds Monday afternoon, Coach Peters had a formidable looking aggregation of baseball sharks from which to choose his team.

Coach Peters means business about this. Mr. Lewis from Jackson, is going to help Millsaps College's team in more ways than one; Manager Tommy Lewis is very much in earnest about our baseball prospects, and every man in school is behind the team. So, let every loyal Millsaps man pull for the welfare of the team and put out a team that will do credit to the institution.

BASKET-BALL GAME.

Mississippi College beats Millsaps College 38 to 3—"Lanky" Rush, "Jay Bird" Peets and "Tommy" Burns Star for Millsaps—Simons, Collier and Cannon Star for Mississippi College.

The first inter-collegiate Basketball game for Millsaps proved rather disastrous in its results. Mississippi College gave her a good drubbing to the tune of 38 to 3.

The game was marked throughout however with fast snappy playing. The Mississippi team was just out of our class when it came to handling the ball.

"Lanky" Rush was the star for Millsaps as he succeeded in pitching the only field goal scored by Millsaps on this occasion. It is very easy to see, however, how "Lanky" could pitch it under them knowing as we do his short and stumpy build. The only trouble with "Lanky" was that he frequently became over-heated on account of having to carry so much surplus flesh with him.

"Jay Bird" Peets succeeded in putting a free goal over and caused much excitement on the side lines by accomplishing this remarkable stunt.

"Tommy" Burns pulled off some fancy stunts at regular intervals. His favorite stunt was to either slide the ball or a player between his legs at regular periods.

T. E. Simmons was by far the star for the visitors — scoring a total of eighteen points. Collier and Cannon also played excellent ball. The visitors had good all-round team work which showed up very plainly indeed in the results.

The following are the respective line-ups:

Mississippi College.
Collier, J. A.	r. f.	Rush B. C.
Simmons, T. E.	l. f.	Peets, R. D.
Cannon, J. W.	c.	Kirkland L.C.
Russell, H.	r. g.	Moore, Geo.
Ballard, D. L.	l. g.	Burns, T.
Stringer	Sub.
Henson	Sub.

Referee Hoffman handled the game satisfactorily to all concerned.

Fouls made: By Mississippi College 10; By Millsaps College 5.

SOCIAL

PURPLE AND WHITE STAFF ENTERTAINED.

In delightful contrast to the past two weeks of unflagging toil and "brain-whirl" and a most refreshing climax thereto, was the entertainment given by President and Mrs. Hull to the Purple and White staff.

The scene of the occasion was the attractive home of the President. Each one was met at the door by the hospitable host and hostess and was made to feel from the first that there awaited them a thoroughly good time.

Preparatory to a progressive contest, couples were formed by means of a very clever device. This consisted of the names of states given to the boys and their capitals distributed among the girls. The states naturally sought their capitals and the couples being arranged at the tables, a series of lively and original contests ensued which tested the ability of the most astute. Agreeable contrasts did these amusing tests form to the "life and death" struggles of the past two weeks; and inwardly grateful were the jolly contestants, as they busily puzzled over the answers, that behind all lay not the possibility of a lost three dollars or the sentence of "flunked beyond redemption," but delicious refreshments and punch that was truly punch.

The games finished, tempting refreshments, served in two courses, brought pleasure to the hearts and palates of winners and losers alike. The color scheme was carried out to the letter and if the refreshments were gratifying to taste they were equally good to look upon.

Then, all else satisfied, there was music to "feed the soul,"—music to make one unconscious of passing time; and indeed it was dangerously nearing the small hours when the guests, loth to quit such cheer, finally departed.

So gracefully informal were host and hostess and so warmly hospitable that it seemed to those present that our President and his charming wife had been with us for years rather than a few months. The Purple and White staff feel highly honored in being the first to partake of their hospitality.

Those present were: Misses Linfield, Galloway, Hebron, Rogillio, Whitson, Ricketts, Park and Steen, and Messrs. Johnson, Scott, Savage, Thompson, Henderson, H. C., Bufkin, Boswell, Peets, Green, A. A., Jr., Colmer and Wilson Hull.

PHI ZETA SORORITY ENTERTAINED.

The Phi Zeta Sorority and a few of its friends were entertained by Mrs. and Misses Lewis on last Friday evening.

The rooms were decorated in the Sorority colors, green and gold, everywhere.

Progressive forty-two was played, everyone waxing enthusiastic over the progress of the game. Miss Steen and Mr. D. A. Clark won the prizes, handsome Millsaps pennants, which were valued all the more by the lucky winners because they were made by the dainty fingers of Miss Eleanor Lewis herself. The beautiful hand-painted tally cards were the work of Miss Bradford, one of the prize winners at the State Fair last fall.

After the game a delicious ice course was served, which also carried out the scheme of Sorority colors.

At a late hour the guests departed, all expressing themselves as indebted to their hostesses for a very pleasant evening.

Those present were: Misses Birdie Gray Steen, Lucile Bradford, Sallie Bailey, Bessie Henderson, Annie Bessie Whitson, Stella McGehee, Mary and Janie Linfield; Messrs. Halbert, Coffee, A. A. Green, Cooper, D. A. Clark, J. F. Phillips, Witt Mitchell, Harmon, G. H. Moore and B. S. Burks.

Millsaps has one more task now, that of defeating Hendrix College in debate. We believe she is equal to it and trust her purple and white banner will float triumphant. At any rate, she will accommodate the enemy, and win or lose good naturedly.

Say, fellows, before you buy your shoes see Butler's ad on the last page.

Boys, why do you pay ten cents carfare to town and then pay 35 cents for a hair-cut when Hobbs will do it just as well for 25 cents? Patronize the College barber.

Careful estimates show that not more than 250 students have busted so far. Also, few of these busted more than twice a day, some no more than once a day.

PROF. STUART G. NOBLE.

Prof. Noble came to Millsaps as a new member of the Faculty about three years ago. At that time he was a stranger to us all. However, during the short time that Prof. Noble has been in our midst he has won the respect and admiration of every student in College, and has become one of the leading spirits in athletic activities. He is at present the Vice-President of the Mississippi Track Association.

IMPROVEMENTS ON ATHLETIC FIELD.

Yes, we have inter-collegiate athletics, but our athletic field is in no condition to play the games on. To begin with, for baseball more grading is necessary to get it in proper shape. Many other things are necessary to be done, that it is unnecessary to mention here.

This field is important to us as track, baseball and football require its use at present sometime during the session. Some definite movement should be started at the earliest possible moment, looking to putting it in first class condition. The need is felt by all who have thought about it at all and will become more and more apparent as time goes on. Time, energy and money will be necessary to make the needed improvements. Steps should be taken now to devise a plan to fit it up for all purposes. It can be done, and must be done.

We are glad to say the matter is already being considered by friends of athletics here. We hope plans will soon be perfected that will supply our needs along this line and will be carried into execution as soon as may be so we can have our games on our own field.

LOCALS

Fellows, there is going to be a big sale on at Sistrunk's every day this month.

Rev. J. S. Purcell, Jr., '05, was on the campus recently. He is pastor of the M. E. Church at Florence, and is meeting with much success in his work at that place. His old friends were glad to grasp his hand again.

J. M. Guinn, '10, is now pastor in charge at Crawford, Miss., and is entering upon his work there with his usual energy and enthusiasm, and no doubt success will crown his efforts.

Sam Osborne, '07, was on the campus last week. He will be remembered as a prominent member of last year's law class and is now practicing law in Greenwood, Miss., and meeting with merited success because of his sterling qualities.

Old "Bill" is fast regaining his wanted cheerfulness since being given so many "tender twigs" by the various frats.

Self-help permeates the air at the Dormitory. Manager Coggin has taken steps to raise some of the choicest vegetables known to mortal tongue in close proximity to this noted old building that may soon be converted into a Prep domicile.

Prep, to Examiner Coggin (catalogue exam): "What is that Alumni Association anyway, an organization of lunatics?"

LOST!—One long-tailed schizapoda from Millsaps Museum. The finder will return to Dr. J. M. Sullivan and be liberally rewarded, as this is a very valuable specimen captured by one A. Gus Kelly of Class '10.

The Seniors made the true (?) discovery of the north pole on the Astronomy exam trying to find the latitude of this place. The row now lies between Peary, Cook, and the Seniors,—a fair square contest, and veracious contestants.

"Dippy" dipped into the Freshman cup of happiness royally.

The cry of Fire! proved a false alarm. It was only the turning on the lights for the Latin exam in G. L. S. Hall.

Cut out your dopes, cigarettes and cheat the car company awhile and you can pay for your specials.

Why is Bufkin wearing a smile now? He turned down a spectacle ad.

The Freshman History man got his plot mixed when he told of a king marrying after he died.

Cook Selby straightened up his room and went to Vicksburg last week.

Id iz wid sinsear regrit that we sez we hev axcepted no pass frum any un, grate er small, mimber of de faculty er the Goof and Ship R. R. esq. Fer we hev been engored.

Prof. E. Y. Burton—"How many Seniors busted in Political Science?"

Senior—"Five."

Prof. Burton—"Five times three is fifteen—dollars."

Miss Henderson (complacently): "I killed him on that passage about the 'lucus' in the midst of the wood."

Two Weeks—A Tragedy.

First Student (joyously): "I killed him on Latin!"

Second Student (with a reminiscent smile): "I killed her on History!"

Chorus: "The students have slain their thousands and the Profs their tens of thousands!"

The notorious spectacle fraud under the assumed name of Dr. Harry Hoyt, who recently pulled off the spectacular stunt by "pulling" the two Jackson dailies for $127.00 and then landed in the city jail, did not find the Business Manager of The Purple and White so "easy"—when he approached the manager of the latter and sought the most desirable page of the paper on which to display his famous one dollar gold rimmed spectacles made by the Berlin Optical Company, he was turned down without ceremony.

Mr. Henderson (grandiosely): "Mr. Adams will inform you concerning that of which I speak."

Miss Steen (suddenly enlightened): "Oh! You are Miles Standish!"

Skeate Williamson, after a strenuous two weeks of exams went home to spend a few days in the woods.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION AND LABEL COUNCIL JACKSON

ON TO JUNE! LET'S REDEEM OURSELVES.

The students among us who made New Year resolutions, and broke them almost as soon as made, perhaps, now have another opportunity to make resolutions. We have passed through the valley of exams whether we have passed the exams or not, and though some of us may think in our playful moments that the faculty has been very curious about what we knew, has asked some searching questions,—yet we must remember that even though fortune smiled on us this time it has one more chance to frown, unless we cultivate its good will, ere we leave for home. Those fours look bad on the first term report, but fours will look worse on the final report in June.

The ones of us who have failed will do well after cussing everybody awhile on general principles to sit down and think it all over in a quiet reflective frame of mind, and to turn the gaze inward a little and see what of the trouble is due to cutting classes, to loafing, to careless study, to dullness and to downright laziness. If the last named be the cause the hookworm treatment might help somewhat, but all the physicians cannot cure the others.

In the mellow light of such a self-examination some important facts may be uncovered, some embarrassing admissions forced. Out of this reflection may grow a resolution to do better, to wipe out a bad record with a good one the last term. If so, stick to this resolution by all means. If you cannot say of your exams just given, "Veni, Vidi, Vici," it is yet time enough to try again. Let us work while we work and play while we play, and train for the various teams, and not fool ourselves by loitering in the twilight zone between work and play and neither working nor playing. Let us make and keep and execute this one little resolution and raise the cry, On to June! And perhaps we will soon get to where we can write home for money with more hope of getting it, and feel that it is not wasted, and what is better perhaps, it might enable us to get, if not a warmer welcome, at least one more pleasing to us when we go home for our vacation.

A GOOD SIGN.

At the present writing we have heard no suggestion of unfairness on any exam of the mid-term series, by any student, something that is pleasant to say, for it means our boys have the rugged quality of honesty which they should prize highly. We are anxious that the sentiment continue to grow and grow until all Millsaps men will resent any suggestion of unfairness as an insult and gladly fail in all their work rather than cheat in any way on exam. When every Millsaps man will refuse absolutely to cheat simply because he is a gentleman—as good reason as can be given—then every man's diploma will be as good as every other man's.

We have an Honor Committee composed of honorable men. But the highest honor that we can pluck as a student body, the one most to be sought after by us, the one that will make us strongest with the best citizens of Jackson, our beloved commonwealth, and the whole country is to create a student sentiment that will force every individual to act a gentleman. This will rob the committee of all occasion to meet except for the necessary details of organization. It will prevent misconduct, and save weak students from disgrace, a result well worth seeking. The members of this committee would be glad if conditious could be such they could be said to be without a job.

When a boy matriculates at Millsaps he is informed that every rule will be followed, every regulation observed if he only act a gentleman. No gentleman would ask any less, no gentleman would agree to more. If he is too young, too ignorant, too ill-taught to know the gentleman's code of honor he should not come to us until he has learned it. Knowing it, the students should demand that he live up to it. This is simple, but it is enough.

We take it that the fact that no case of dishonesty has been mentioned thus far is a result of the observance by our fellow students of the above mentioned code of honor, and this is indeed a good sign.

The Business Manager of the Purple and White could tell the Jackson dailies how to steer clear of spectacle frauds if they should ever need to know.

Some people get an idea in the head, others get it in the neck. Where was your idea on exam?

The candidates for baseball honors had as well get busy and stay busy. Coach Peters doesn't like a lazy man.

Millsaps can sympathize with A. & M.'s basketball five in their defeat.

Come forth all ye "white man's hopes" to the baseball ring, so Millsaps can mix it with 'em this year.

Forget not the gym as it is still with us.

Mr. Davis (just before the Freshman English exam): "Say, fellers, is there any member of the Honor Council in the Freshman English class?"

Mr. Clark (amazedly): "You don't mean to say you didn't find out about that before you did all that studying?

MR. HOUNSHELL'S ADDRESS.

Returned Missionary from Korea Makes an Inspiring Talk—Several Men Moved to Volunteer as Foreign Missionaries.

The visit of Mr. Hounshell to our Y. M. C. A. on the 17th-18th of January was most inspiring. Mr. Hounshell has been for some years past a missionary to Korea, and has occupied a high position there. During his furlough home he has been first in the work of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and now is acting as travelling secretary for the Students' Volunteer Movement, and is visiting the colleges of the south in the interest of missions.

If ever a man had the interest of the evangelization of the world at heart Mr. Hounshell has. He went to Korea several years ago after having graduated at both Emory and Henry College and Vanderbilt University, and has seen that nation pass thro' the Japan-China war, the Boxer movement, and the Russo-Japanese war, and has seen it change in the small space of twenty-five years from a heathen nation to one which might almost already be called a Christian nation. Mr. Hounshell in his address on Wednesday night told of the great awakening of China, Japan and Korea and dispelled once and for all time the idea that the Far East is sleeping. His appeal to the men to consider conditions there and to come to the front in the work of evangelizing these great nations was almost irresistible. The saying of the Master as He sent the seventy disciples forth, "The harvest truly is great but the laborers are few, pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest," was felt to be a call not only to those seventy but also to every Christian man and woman today. Several men were moved by the call to volunteer for foreign mission work, God willing, and others are seriously weighing the matter.

The visits of such men as Mr. Hounshell are always a means of uplift to the student body and give us a view of the great world movements of Christianity.

Mr. Lowry spent a few days very pleasantly at home last week.

Exams are over and this week is the first of the second term. The Y. M. C. A. has done much this year already, but there is no reason why with combined effort, we should not make it more successful. Let's all get behind it and push it to the very best of our ability. Work for new members, come out to the meetings which are always of interest because of the speakers and of the special music. Some of the best talent of Jackson is to be represented on the musical program each week, and such treats cannot be missed without loss.

Watch the blotters, which will soon be out, for the program for February. It is to be something good.

LOCALS.

Where does Bilbo shine? At the dormitory.

Harry Lassiter enjoyed a visit from his father one day last week.

W. N. Thomas spent part of last week in his home at D'Lo, Miss. Thomas reports a very pleasant stay and says that he feels very much invigorated since his return.

Lowrey took advantage of a few days last week and made a short trip to see his home-folks in Houston, Miss.

J. K. Vardaman visited his brother at the University last week.

We are glad to say that Royal Branton who was forced to leave school about Nov. 1st on account of sickness has recovered sufficiently to be with us again and take up his work.

We are glad indeed to note the return of one of our old students since examination, in the person of Olin Ray. Ray has been out of school about a year and a half, and says that he is delighted to get back to Millsaps again. While out of school Ray has held several excellent appointments in the North Mississippi Conference.

A great many of the fellows are wishing that the three-dollar special exam. requirement would be repealed, viz., those who busted and haven't the three dollars.

Miss Annie May Cooper, of last year's Sophomore class, is teaching at the Methodist Orphanage.

Ed Neville, after finishing his examinations, spent a few days at home in order to recuperate. He says that exams almost made him a nervous wreck.

It is with regret that we announce the presence of several cases of measles on the campus.

Prof. Huddleston, rubbing his hand over his bare head, "You Preps can bust if you want to, I'm not going to worry my head bald about it."

Who was the fellow who made —10 on Freshman English? Hard luck, wasn't it?

Frank S. Williams, '10, was on the campus Saturday and Sunday, of last week. Frank Star says that teaching the young idea is a very pleasant occupation.

Charles Cabell, formerly of V. M. I., has matriculated at Millsaps We are all glad to have him with us.

Roy Tynes enjoyed a visit from his father, Dr. M. E. Tynes, one day last week.

Curtis Waller, one of last year's legal lights is now in Jackson. He was among the law students shaking hands last week.

Jake Bingham, a licensed singing skule teacher, has been conducting a class since his school days are o'er.

W. R. Smith has entered the law class.

M. Favre Mounger Adams spent several days in Vicksburg last week. The Hill City seems to have quite a fascination for Mr. Adams.

Mr. Savage (at Math exam)—How full must I get on this, Dr. Burton?

Dr. Burton—Well, I think you had better not get too full.

Fred Jones (on the highest pole in the roost,
Gazing at the (Blue) mice in the pit,
Calling the Prep roll)—Lauderdale?
Here.
Edwards?
Present!
And soon all are said to have answered "Present,"
The band played, the mice romped,
Fred crowed, and down flew the Preps from the poles in the roost.

We are all glad to see Swep Taylor who has been operated upon for appendicitis, getting so fat and rosy again.

CATALOGUE EXAMINATION.

Held at Founders Hall Club on Thursday, the 26th—Russell a Bright Young Man Leads the Bunch with a grade of 85.

One of the features of the week was the Catalogue Examination held at Founders Hall Club for the benefit of those new students who had not taken it this session.

It should be the custom here as well as at other schools to hold this examination every year. College men know too little about their school and what it stands for. By means of this examination, the students could demand of a new man that he know something about the rules and regulations of the school. This would often prevent men, getting into trouble with the faculty.

The following questions which were used in the examination on Thursday night will probably be of interest to the student-body at large:

(a) Name the Board of Trustees and the officers of same (5).

(b) Name the members of the faculty, subjects taught by each, and give the degrees held by each (20 points).

(c) When and by whom was Millsaps College founded? (5)

2.

(a) Tell in your own words how Founders Hall was secured. (10)

(b) Name the several fees, and give the amounts of each, that are required of students both literary and law (10).

(c) Give detailed statement of the entrance requirements in the following departments: 1. Preparatory.; 2. Mathematics; 3. Greek 4. Modern Languages; 5. History; 6. Law. (20)

3.

(a) Name the various college organizations and discuss the purpose of each (15).

(b) Discuss the departments of professional education as to, 1. Course of study, 2. Expenses, 3. Advantages, etc. (5)

(c) Discuss the Alumni Association and name its present officers (10).

Pledge in full.

How many men are there in this school who could have answered the above questions correctly?

The writer of this article will venture to say that there are not fifty men in school who could have equalled the grade made by one of our bright young Preps, who after days and nights of review came up and within three hours answered enough of the questions to make 85 on the examination after his paper had been graded very closely indeed. This seems marvelous, does it not? However, after three reputable gentlemen like those who composed the Board of Examiners testify to this fact, how can we doubt the veracity of the statement any longer?

Did we use a mild word like marvelous to express it with? If so, we beg the pardon of the gentle reader, for it was nothing short of a miracle. Some of the facts brought out were amusing as well as true. Take, for instance, the definition of an alumnus given by a very observant "Prep." He said that, "The alumni of a college are the old graduates that have formed an association to donate certain amounts of money for its welfare." Now, is there any one who could imagine a more benevolent association than the one described by this brilliant young man? If this definition were true an Alumnus would be to his College what a gunner is to a cannon, i. e., "The man behind the gun."

We could go on and give you innumerable illustrations of unexcelled brilliancy that were received by the examining board, but fear that they would tire you. A few illustrations given above should impress upon the students at large the advantages of an examination of this kind to be held every year.

Moment of Last Suspense.

Scene: Two Co-eds on Monday afternoon approaching the Cooper House. Sudden sounds of shots in distance.

Co-Eds (excitedly): What is it?

Mr. Weinstein (rapidly approach-Ring): Huddleston is killed!

Co-Eds: (wringing hands and shedding tears): Oh, is it George? Is it George?

"Bish" Rainey in the Political Science Class on Monday morning, growing very uneasy, suddenly raised up and spoke as follows: "Dr. Walmsley, I want to take one of my cuts."

VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, FEB. 10, 1911 NUMBER 3

THE NEW ATHLETIC FIELD.

Major Millsaps Provides for Athletic Field--The Plans Are Drawn Up.

Athletic enthusiasm reached its heighth the other morning when Dr. Hull announced in chapel that we had at last secured the necessary funds for fixing up an up-to-date athletic field. This has long been the cherished hope of the Millsaps students, and next to the privilege of participating in intercollegiate games was regarded by many as the one thing most dedesired by the student body at large.

Our dream has come true by the untiring efforts of our Athletic Director, Prof. E. Y. Burton, and W. M. Buie, and by the unbounded generosity of the best friend that Millsaps has—Major R. W. Millsaps. The appreciation of the students was made manifest by the wave of cheers that swept over the hall immediately after Dr. Hull made the announcement.

Dr. Hull stated that plans had been drawn up not only for one of the best athletic fields in Mississippi, but one of the best that it was possible to make. The field is to be surrounded by an excellent track; it will be provided with a grand stand, bath house, club house, and in fact, all the features that go to make up the best of athletic fields.

Immediately after the announcement had been made the boys rose in a body and gave fifteen loud, lusty 'rahs! for Maj. Millsaps and Prof. Burton.

The work on the field will begin at once, and it will be completed in time for all the games and contests to take place thereon.

TRACK.

New Track Will Quicken Interest in Field Day.—Men Must Train Hard.—Some Records.

The coming of the long needed cinder track brings in a new era for track athletics for Millsaps.

Needless to say this will be undoubtedly the finest quarter track in the state and will offer the greatest advantage to our men who wish to go in training. This year will mark the awakening of Millsaps in track games and athletics in general, and the beginning of the making of a great name and reputation. Up to this year we have been badly handicapped by the deficiency of our track, but with our good material and new equipment we are bound to get out a winning team. We have the best of material, tracks, coaches, and an enthusiastic faculty to back us, and there is no reason on earth why we can't make good. But all this avails nothing unless the men go in to win and put all that is in them into hard, constant, systematic practice, or work. It does require great and constant training but this is fully repaid by the laurels which will not only be added to Millsaps, but also to one's self.

Our chances this year are exceedingly good, as to start on we have several men from last year's team, i. e., Farve Adams, 100 yards, 10 3-5; Willing Ramsey, high jump, 6 feet, 3 inches; Bill Clower, pole vault, 8 feet 4 inches; besides Owens our two-mile man, and others. Our new material will push these men pretty hard to keep their jobs if they are unable to raise their records.

We urge everybody to come out—the men who are not able to make the teams as well as those who can—as it will not only help to start things off, but show the teams that you are supporting them with your very all.

Y. M. C. A. ELECTS OFFICERS.

Steen Chosen President, Boswell Vice President.—Cameron, Secretary.—Beasley will Make a Good Treasurer.

The second business meeting of the year was held on last Friday night, at which time the officers for the year 1911-12 were elected. Mr. R. E. Steen was unanimously elected as the President for the year. Mr. Steen has been a faithful worker in the Y. M. C. A. ever since his coming to Millsaps, and during this past year he has held the office of Vice-President of the Association. It will be remembered that Mr. Steen was one of the Y. M. C. A. delegates to the International Student Volunteer Convention held at Rochester, New York, and the training which he received at this great Conference will mean much to him in the great undertaking of which he must take hold next year. The position of President of the Y. M. C. A. is one of the most responsible in College, and the Association feels that it has made no mistake in selecting Mr. Steen for the place.

As to Vice-President, Mr. H. H. Boswell was elected and there is no doubt that he will fulfill the duties of his office, whatever they may be.

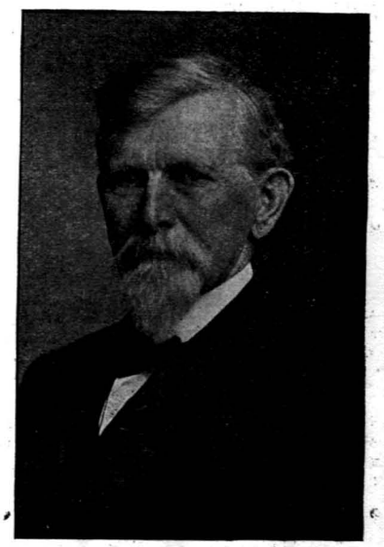

Mr. D. D. Cameron was chosen as the Secretary of the Association, and no one with a knowledge of Mr. Cameron's past record can believe other than that he will make a success of his part of the work.

Knowing that the office of Treasurer demands a man who is a hustler, and one who will do his very best for the Association along the financial line, the members almost as one man rose up and called for Mr. Joseph Beasley to take this place. Mr. Beasley has been an extremely active member of the Association ever since his coming to college (a time, by the way, which is shrouded in the mists of the dim and distant past), and there are some of the members who are already considering the payment of next year's dues immediately, for they are already acquainted with Mr. Beasley's powers of persuasion. His success in the capacity of Treasurer is already assured.

On motion, the time of installation of the new officers was postponed until the first Friday night in April.

The report of Mr. Wroten, the Chairman of the Bible Study Committee, showed that the different circles were doing good work, and that a great deal of interest is being shown.

Mr. Reynolds, Chairman of the Mission Study Committee, made a favorable report on the work done in his department, and announced that he was making the arrangements for a monthly missionary meeting to be held on one Friday night in each month. The first of these meetings will be conducted by Dr. A. A. Kern, and will be on the topic, "The Negro Problem in the South." The time for the MAJOR R. W. MILLSAPS.

Major Millsaps has not only made Millsaps College possible, but on numerous occasions has shown himself to be the best friend that th College has. At present the students feel greatly indebted to him for his generosity in contributing to the building of an up-to-date Athletic Field.

address, as indicated in the program for the month, will be February 24.

The meeting for tonight will be conducted by the President-elect, R. E. Steen. His subject will be, "The College Man's Ideal." A most delightful part of the program will consist of a solo by Mrs. John H. Budd, who ranks among the best singers in Jackson. The special music at the past meetings has been greatly enjoyed, for it is quite a treat to hear those who have sung for us. Watch the program for the special music.

Few poems deserve more attention and thought than the following selection from Whittier's "My Soul and I:"

Stand still, my soul, in the silent dark
I would question thee,
Alone in the shadows, drear and stark
With God and me!

What, my soul, was thy errand here?
Was it mirth or ease?
Or heaping up dust from year to year?
Nay, none of these!

Speak, soul, aright, in His holy sight,
Whose eye looks still
And steadily on thee thro' the night,
"To do His will."

What hast thou done, O, soul of mine,
That thou tremblest so?
Hast thou wrought His task and kept the line
He bade thee go?

Leaning on Him, make with reverent meekness,
His own thy will,
And with strength from Him shall thy utter weakness
Life's task fulfill.

MILLSAPS SCIENCE ASSOCIATION.

Business Meeting Held Last Friday. "Sanitation" to be the Subject of Discussion at the Next Meeting.—Cameron and Bingham Wil Lead the Discussion.

At the meeting of the Millsaps cience Association on last Friday afternoon several important business matters were attended to. It was strictly a business session and the reports of the various committees were encouraging to all.

At the next meeting the subject of "Sanitation" will be discussed. Messrs. Cameron and Bingham will lead the discussion and we are assured that the meeting will be of unusual interest. This subject will be taken up as a local matter, and the discussion will take up the subject as it applies to Jackson, and more especially to Millsaps campus.

A movement will be put on foot to make vast improvements along this line as soon as the proper methods are determined. In this way the Science Association can be of invaluable aid to the College.

The Association feels very much indebted to Dr. J. M. Sullivan for securing Dr. Leathers to give them an address.

FRATERNITIES INITIATE.

"Old Bill" Gets Busy and Shows Some of the Boys a Good Time.

Saturday marked another red letter day in the history of the Fraternities at Millsaps. "Old Bill" was awakened from his slumbers in order that he might pilot a number of "barbs" through the shadowy valley of mysteries which lies before the gateway into the different fraternities.

The Kappa Alphas and Kappa Sigmas, as usual, carried out some of their "horse play" in the city on Saturday afternoon. Having dressed the initiates in all kinds of peculiar and freakish costumes, they were marched over town. The calls and bleats of the goats were mingled with all manner of stunts that the ingenuity of the Frat. men could devise. These were carried out in a most satisfactory manner by the initiates for the amusement of the hundreds of bystanders.

The Sigs. patrolled Capitol Street, paid Belhaven a visit, and left nothing undone that would make for the success of the day.

The K. A.'s, after their rounds had been made, wound up with a grand concert in Brown's Drug Store, which ended by three husky "cops" seizing the men (as had been previously arranged,) and conveying them in the "Black Maria" to the police station, where they remained for more than an hour.

The other fraternities had no public work, but were content to let "Old Bill" do his work under cover.

Those initiated into the various fraternities were as follows:

Kappa Alpha—Potter, Vardaman, Roberts, Rogers, Phillips John, Phillips, L. A., Neville and Trice.

Pi Kappa Alpha—Ciark, D. A., Lampton, Lassiter.

Kappa Sigma—Owens, West, Harmon, Burks, Barrier, and Andrews.

Phi Delta—Garraway, Clifford, Summers, Harkey, S. F.

PRENTISS INSTALL OFFICERS

Excellent Program—Much Interest Manifested.

After two weeks stretch of exams, those of the Prentiss boys who survived, were found at their regular places in their Society Hall Friday night, Feb. 3.

The out-going President, Mr. Edwards, delivered his valedictory address in his usual impressive way. He discussed briefly the events of his administration, referring mildly to the small piece of politics which had found its way into the Society. He then advised the Society to beware lest it should go astray.

He closed with words of gratitude to the Society, which were very appropriate and very kindly said.

Gilmore, the new President, was installed, and at once proceeded with his inaugural address. He outlined an ideal Society, and gave advice which only a far seeing Society man could have done.

After the close of his remarks the new officers were installed, and the regular program for the evening was taken up.

Mooney always shows the Society how it can be done. When his name was called as first declaimer, he came forward and gave one of Longfellow's most beautiful poems on the "Philosophy of Life."

The Secretary next called for Essayist, who was none other than our generous, good-natured Newton. His subject was "Mississippi and Immigration," and it was indeed a good paper.

Next came the debate, which was marked by much enthusiasm. The subject was, "Resolved, That the North American Indian has been more cruelly treated than the Negro." The first affirmative speaker was Reagan, who, with the simplicity of Socrates, astonished his hearers.

The negative speaker was "Little Tommy Burns," who proved that he was master of the situation. His speech had the ring of originality and he hurled many blows against the arguments of his competitor.

The next affirmative speakers were Bailey and Bingham, who always do well. The other negative men were Graham and Sargent.

The judges decided the question in favor of the negative side.

The Prentiss Society congratulates itself upon the presence of Messrs. Ruff, Tindall and Ramsey, each of whom gave a much appreciated talk to the Society. We sincerely hope that these gentlemen may "pass this way again."

LAMAR SOCIETY ELECTS THIRD AND FOURTH TERM OFFICERS.

Magnificent Line-up.—Jake Bingham and Albert Green Captains.

As Friday night was election night in the Lamar Society, the regular program was postponed and the election was immediately entered into.

The first question that was considered was the challenge of Hendrix College for a debate to take place this year, and annually hereafter. It was unanimously decided to elect a debater from the Lamar to serve with the man elected by the Galloways as debater. Peets, a member of the Junior Class, was chosen to fill this place. Peets is a faithful Society man and an able debater, and we are sure that he will do his part in defending Millsaps' side of whatever question will be debated.

Jake Bingham was elected, by acclamation, for thir d term President. Mr. Bingham is a faithful Lamar and a popular student and his friends were glad to see him elected to this office. The other third term officers were as follows:

Vice President, Livingston, E. M.; Recording Secretary, Stirling, R. E.; Treasurer, Adams, M. F.; Critic, Ramsey, L. W.; Doorkeeper, Coggin, W. C.; Censor, Montgomery, J. W.; Chaplain, McGee, H. F.

It was found necessary to elect the fourth term officers at this period in order that their names might appear correctly in the Annual. The result of the balloting was as follows:

President, Green, A. A.; Vice President, Clark, G. C.; Recording Secretary, Scott, F. T.; Critic, Steen, R. E.; Censor, Colmer, W. M.; Chaplain, Adams, M. F.

After the election, in response to the call of the house, Sim Clark came forward and delivered a very enthusiastic and instructive discourse on "The Beneficiality of the Beneficial." After this, the Society was entertained for a short time by "Julius Caesar" Honeycutt, who discussed "The Benefits to be Derived from Giving."

OUR ATHLETIC FIELD.

Very likely when this appears in print the work of grading our athletic field will be well under way. Nor is this all. Fencing, and the erection of a grand stand, and other improvements looking to the fitting up of our field as it should be will follow. How did it all happen?

This is of interest, great interest, to Millsaps students. Mr. W. M. Buie and Prof. E. Y. Durton have been busy in our behalf again, and they have gotten results. Major Millsaps has seen how urgent our needs are and in his usual generous way has consented to help us. We can not be too grateful to h'm and them, for this. Every student appreciates it. It will be remembered that only a few months ago Maj. Millsaps, Prof. Burton and Mr. Buie were at work getting the Conference to grant us the privilege of taking part in intercollegiate games. They seem always busy in our interest. Others equally interested in Millsaps College have been working for its welfare.

So as we see our athletic field rounded into the condition we have dreamed of and longed for, we should ask ourselves why our friends have given it to us. Not for sentimental purposes have they been so generous to us,—so active for us. We take it that it is done to give our students opportunity to develop themselves and to strengthen their beloved institution. The work our friends have already done for us demands that we make good in athletics, that we develop teams that can by clean playing, win victory for us. They expect this of us, and we must not disappoint them.

Millsaps College is young yet, and very young in athletics. Blessed with strong friends, her history has been almost marvelous in the results achieved. We are now entering upon a new era calling for greater efforts and involving greater responsibilities. The present administration is going to put forth the effort necessary to meet the responsibility so far as it is concerned. So it is up to the students to do their part. We can not continue to have generous friends busy in our behalf, and get the backing of sensible business men unless we do what it is possible for us to do to get the results they expect of us. Every student should, as the athletic field is rounded into shape, be busy in any way possible to help put formidable teams on this field, —teams that any institution would be proud of. Millsaps College can do this. We believe that before many years have past she will.

NO TEAM EXCEPT A TRAINED TEAM FOR MILLSAPS.

The great number of candidates for the various places on our coming baseball team is a good indication. The apparent willingness of these candidates to train well and the stand of our coach that no lazy man need apply, is a very hopeful indication.

Coach Peters is right in making the boys work hard for their positions, and we believe he has the support of every student in College when he does it. Certainly no one can object to it, unless some lazy man wants to get a place without earning it. Such a man is not worth any consideration now for it is up to Millsaps to make good, and there is no way under the sun to do it except by most strenuous training by the men who are selected to meet other teams on the diamond.

This being our first opportunity for several years to put out a team it is but natural that we have no old veterans and stars to win us victories, and frighten opposing teams by their records. So we must rely on taking good material—and we have good material—and developing a team from a ground start. This means work, good, hard work, but it must be done and we are glad Coach Peters is going to see that it is done. We ought to get a good lesson from our basket-ball experience, one that will prevent us from permitting another untrained team to represent Millsaps. We do not mean our basketball team lay down on us, for the boys played hard. The only thing that prevented them from making a first class showing was their lack of training. The game was lost before it began. The team they met was trained and has since come within only a few points of making the same number of points against the A. & M. team. We believe with the proper training training our boys would have done as well as A. & M., if not better. But the fact remains, of course, that they were not thus trained, and that they could not make good as a result. The thing to do is just to get the next team we put out in condition before the games begin. Our experience came early with basketball. Let us profit by its teaching now, rather than to go farther and pay more for the self-same lesson.

Let our motto be, "No team but a trained team for Millsaps."

The work done near the dormitory preparatory to a little gardening, has made such a change in the looks of things that it suggests what might be done toward beautifying the campus. There are now a few things that could easily be made to look better. What do our visitors think of them? This is an important question for our reputation.

It is a good sign indeed when the Y. M. C. A. is well attended and its work faithfully and honestly done. So far this session it has been doing well, and every student should wake up as to its benefits and get his share.

THE JAMES OBSERVATORY.

One of the most important pieces of property of Millsaps College at present is the James Observatory. Close to our proposed athletic field where we wish many visitors to come in the not far distant future, it demands some attention because a good property is being neglected and in its present condition it will not make a pleasant impression upon visitors.

Our students would be glad if the magnificent telescope could be fitted up for use during the present session, so that those of them who wish to do so, could get a better view of the heavenly bodies. We call attention to this, not in the spirit of criticism at all, but because we believe the Observatory needs and deserves attention, and that the students would appreciate the use of the telescope. We are told that it will be repaired soon and that though we do not know this to be true, we certainly hope to see it repaired and kept as economy and gratitude demand.

PI KAPPA ALPHA BANQUET.

On last Saturday night the private dining hall of the Royal Hotel was the scene of a merry and jolly occasion. The Pi Kappa Alpha boys with a goodly number of their Alumni, proceeded en masse to the Royal after the initiation of its new men.

The new and beautiful dining hall was profusely and tastefully decorated with the emblems, and the garnet and gold of the fraternity.

The course was full, and voted a success by all; while the service was all that could be asked for.

Each member vied with his brother in making the banquet the greatest success of their lives. At no time during the course was time allowed to drag; on the contrary, every moment was one of joyous mirth.

The toasts were exceptionally good. Prof. S. G. Noble, J. C. Ross, Frank Scott, and many others being among the speakers of the evening. W. M. Colmer acted as toast-master of the occasion, which was unanimously declared a great success.

TEACHERS' ROUND TABLE.

Have an Able Discussion.—Led by Professor Noble.

The Teachers' Round Table held a meeting on Wednesday evening, Feb. 1st, 1911. An interesting meeting was this session of the Club.

The Round Table has taken up the study of McMurry's book on "How to Study, and Teaching How to Study." The discussions that arise over this excellent work in the meetings of the Club are of remarkable interest to all.

Teachers, or those expecting to teach, will do well to affiliate themselves with this organization, for a good many practical questions are taken up and thrashed out. Prof. Noble led the discussion at the last meeting in a very able manner, and all present felt much benefitted by having heard him.

A FIFTEEN DOLLAR RULE.

University Considers its Adoption.

The Voice is advocating the adoption of a fifteen dollar rule at the State University, which the following clipping will explain:

"As is well known the plan is to have each student of the University when he pays his matriculation fees, deposit Fifteen Dollars which shall pay for his participation in University activities. This comes at a time when the money will not be missed very greatly and coming as a University due will not be grudged by the parents who must foot the bills of the students.

On payment of the fifteen dollars the student will receive a card entitling him to participation without further expense in all phases of college activity, as this payment assures Y. M. C. A. dues, Athletic Association dues, subscription to the 'Varsity Voice and the University Magazine, a copy of "Ole Miss", and admission to all football, baseball, and basketball games played on the campps."—'Varsity Voice.

It ought to make sure that the Societies and Y. M. C. A., and other organizations get the full membership, if adopted. We wonder if it is an omnibus bill offered by some Clay to prevent secession. We can see how it would get the money, but what would a fellow do who had been getting money out of the people back at home for all these worthy causes when they knew them all to be paid in advance. It looks like cutting off a fine source of student revenue.

But seriously, the matter of getting the coins is a perplexing thing as all boosters of college enterprises are aware. Any way to get the coin you seek rather than you to seek the coin, is well worth noticing. If the above mentioned rule is adopted and works to the satisfaction of all concerned, it will likely attract widespread attention in the colleges around. Some poor fellow might think the millenium at hand if there was no worry about dues and other constant calls for coin.

exercises of the evening, Mr. Broom tendered his resignation as representative of the Society to the Southern University Debate, stating that it was not because he did not appreciate the honor of the place, but because he did not have the time to prepare for this debate, and the M. I. O. A., to which he had been chosen to represent Millsaps. Mr. Cameron was then elected to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Cameron then asked the Society to accept his resignation as Anniversarian. The Society accepted the resignation and elected Mr. Cameron Anniversarian for next year. Mr. Broom was then elected Anniversarian for the present term.

Returning to the regular program, we found that our Orator for the evening, Judge Hopkins, was absent. But we were fortunate in having a man for declaimer that never falters nor never fails, but always does his duty well. Mr. Russell showed his skill as an orator in the declamation which he gave us. After this the Secretary read the question, "Resolved, That strikes are beneficial to the Labor Union."

The affirmative was thoroughly discussed by Messrs. Nathaniel Belton Harmon, Linn Adolphus Witt, and Thomas Edison Howson Lott. While Messrs. George Washington Huddleston, Wasson and Moss upheld the negative. After a close consideration of the points produced on both sides, the judges decided in favor of the negative.

The irregular debate was indulged in by Mr. Reynolds on the affirmative and Mr. J. M. Morse on the negative. The negative won. The impromptu debate was then called for with Hon. Hendrix Mitchell to defend the affirmative, and "Big Sis" Williamson to fight for the negative; the question being, "Resolved, That Millsaps should have Co-education."

Mr. Mitchell almost proved conclusively that if it were not for Co-eds, that Millsaps campus would be a desert of sorrow or a wilderness of unspeakable loneliness. He gave some of his personal experiences showing that he knew whereof he spake. When his address was concluded no one doubted that the Millsaps Co-eds had not in Mr. Mitchell a very warm friend.

Mr. Williamson then rescued the negative from almost certain defeat by showing that without the radiating countenances of these flowers of the earth, we would be more devoted to our work and loose less sleep. The negative won.

Under the head of installation, the following were installed as officers of the Society: M. U. Zung, President; W. N. Thomas, Vice President; J. E. Reed, Recording Secretary; N. B. Harmon, Assistant Secretary; H. C. Henderson, Critic; and Hendrix Mitchell, Chaplain.

Mr. S. E. Williamson was elected to represent the Society in the Hendrix College debate, after which the President declared the house adjourned.

SAYINGS OF CONFUCIUS.

"Learning without thinking is labor lost; thinking without learning is perilous."

"When a man is not in habit of saying to himself: 'What shall I think of this?' I can indeed do nothing for him."

"To see what is right and not to do it is cowardice."

"To search into mystery and to act miraculously—which may be mentioned in future generations with honor—are not what I want to do."

"What is not wished to be done to yourself, do not do to others."

"The virtuous man is distressed by his want of ability; he is not concerned at men's not knowing him."

"The progress of the virtuous man is upwards; the progress of the mean man is downwards."

"With what then will you recompense kindness? Recompense injury with justice, and recompense kindness with kindness."

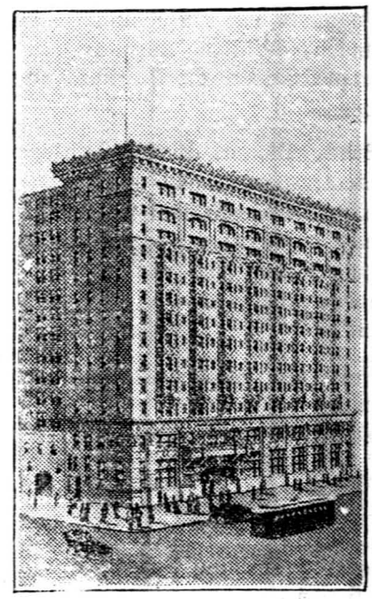

"There are three friendships which are beneficial, and three which are injurious. Friendship with the upright, friendship with the sincere and friendship with the much learned and widely experienced—these are beneficial. Friendship with the man of specious airs, friendship with the insinuatingly soft and friendship with the glib-tongued—these are injurious.

BASEBALL PRACTICE SLOW.

Cold and Wet Weather Prevents Work—Start a Brisk Pace This Week and Keep It Up.

The Athletic activities of the College started out at a brisk rate last week, but the frequent showers and cold weather during the latter half of the week proved disastrous to further work for the week.

The men cannot be expected to come out and work during such weather as we have had during the past week, but business should pick up now, as this kind of an excuse is no longer any good. All of the old "fans" are anxious to see Millsaps shine in the baseball circle this year.

Millsaps is to have the best athletic field in the state if not in the South, and it is only justice that she should put out one of the best teams in the business.

If Millsaps does not win every series this year there is no reason why she should be sore over the fact. The fellows are going to back the team anyway. But the fellows do expect those who are to make up the team to get out and work, work, work every day that will do at all for practice. This is the only way that Millsaps College team can expect to make good.

It is up to the team to make good, its friends expect it, the College is behind it, and after such generosity that has been shown athletics by Major Millsaps, common decency demands it. No complaint has been made so far, but let the fellows keep in mind the fact that it takes work and work every day to make a baseball team that is worth mentioning.

Charles Galloway, one of our old time star athletes, was on the campus a few days ago on a short visit to friends and frat-mates. He is the same old boy that he always was except in one particular: He says that he is in love.

TRACK PRACTICE BEGINS.

Prof. Noble Coaching the Team.

The Track Team prospects look good now, as many of the old sprinters are back at the old stand every evening doing from one to two miles of running. A good deal of new material has shown up that looks good.

Prof. Noble is showing the usual keen interest in this phase of athletics, and with his efficient coaching Millsaps will open some one's eyes when the annual meet takes place this spring.

No one has developed express speed this early in the season but it is hoped that many old records will be smashed when the Field Day comes off in April.

ADDRESS BY DR. W. S. LEATHERS.

Before the Millsaps Science Association—Subject, "The Hook-Worm."—Will Deliver an Address before Student-Body Sometime in Near Future.

The Millsaps Science Association enjoyed quite a treat on Thursday night, February the ninth.

The occasion of this treat was a lecture by Dr. W. S. Leathers, of the Medical Department of the University of Mississippi. The subject of his lecture was "The Hook-worm," and proved to be very interesting indeed. Some of the statistics quoted by the doctor in his lecture seemed almost remarkable.

The astounding fact that so many people in Mississippi are afflicted with this ravishing disease is enough to make one open his eyes and look around a little.

Dr. Leathers stated that it would be necessary to make a very vigorous campaign among the educated people of the State in order to reach the best results in eliminating this plague from the State. A few men and women who understand the danger of this disease to the progress of the State and who are willing to co-operate with the State Medical Board in its elimination can be of invaluable aid to the cause.

Dr. Leathers has promised to come back to see us again and give the whole student-body a lecture with the stereoptican views to illustrate it with. The students hope that he will do this at his earliest convenience as many are interested in this work.

The Science Association feels under great obligation to Dr. Leathers for his instructive address of last Thursday night and hope that he can see fit to return and give the lecture to the whole student-body at an early date.

HUNTER ACQUITTED IN FEW MINUTES.

Not Guilty of Murdering Huddleston—Plea of Self-Defense Wins—His Feeble Mother Center of Attention During Trial.

Saturday afternoon, February 11, promptly at the appointed hour the case of State vs. Hunter for the murder of Huddleston that occurred January 23, in front of the Cooper House on Millsaps campus was called with Judge Ross on the bench. Millsaps moot court immediately entered upon the trial of the most sensational murder case in its history. Saxon and Weinstein, attorneys for the State, went about their business in a way that marked them as great lawyers of the future. Because of the unavoidable absence of Hon. J. M. Morse, Johnson was called upon to assist the greatest criminal lawyer in the South, Ben Tindall, in the defense of the prisoner.

Soon a jury of the most intelligent and sober citizens of Millsaps campus was impaneled and the examination of witnesses for State at once began. Fred Smith, a well-digger, who happened to be an eye-witness to the killing was the first one called. The witness told in thrilling words his version of the affair and gave testimony damning. All the while with a look of angelic innocence, his feeble mother (alias S. L. Crockett) beside him, an interested listener.

Smith was subjected to a withering cross-examination by Tindall, attorney for the defense in which the fact was brought out that he thought a well-digger had permitted himself to be called in as a physician because of his distinguished appearance for the examination of Huddleston's wounds. He also admitted he would lie for a compliment.

Frazier, a bank clerk, proved the main witness for the State. He told his story well, identified the prisoner, and a work-shirt as the shirt worn by Huddleston the day of the shooting. Under the fire of cross-examination he weakened somewhat but held to the main points of his story fairly well. Here the State rested.

Harkey was the first witness called by the defense and his testimony was straight-forward and seemed to have weight with the jury. The attorneys for the state endeavored to break the force of his testimony, but in vain. They even produced a letter reflecting on the veracity of the witness but it was of little effect in doing so.

Hunter, the defendant, proved an excellent witness in his own behalf and the State's attorneys were unable to break his testimony though they made strenuous efforts to do so.

Quite a tilt between the attorneys for the State and the attorneys for the defense occurred when the State asked that Mrs. Hunter (alias Crockett) be called to the stand. Finally Judge Ross with a dignity that spoke well for the Court ruled that she be made to testify. She knew nothing material to the case, but stated emphatically that her son was innocent. In tones that brought even the State's attorneys almost to tears she said, "Josh was always a good boy. I know he's innocent." Her face showed the effect of the long weeks of anxiety concerning her boy's fate, but she seemed confident all the while that he would be acquitted. At the close of her testimony she gave down under the intense nervous strain and her emaciated form shook with sobs very pitiful to hear. There were few dry eyes in the court room then. She was the last witness called and immediately the argument of the counsel began.

Hon. Anglo Saxon opened the argument for the State and during his speech the coils of the majestic law seemed to tighten about the throat of the accused. His hearers seemed convinced that a clear case of murder had been made out and that there was little hope. Johnson opened the argument in a brief, pointed argument endeavoring to show that under the instructions of the Court the jury could and should find the defendant not guilty. The Hon. Benjamin Tindall, the greatest criminal lawyer of recent times followed and with logic invincible, a plea most touching to the sympathy of mortal man, and convincing demeanor he swayed the jury as one man, and the handkerchiefs were raised to their faces more than once during his speech. Weinstein of Charleston, closed for the State. Most eloquent, strong and what would have been convincing at any other time, he was unable to overcome Tindall's plea.

The jury retired and in a few minutes returned the verdict, "Not guilty." The prisoner heard the news quietly, but his mother, overjoyed went wild and ran out of the court-room and across the campus shouting to all she met, "I knew Josh was innocent!"

Thus ended this great case.

Steen Addresses the Association—Solo by Mrs. Budd—Program for Next Week.

The Y. M. C. A. was conducted, as planned, by Mr. R. E. Steen, who spoke to the members on the subject, "The College Man's Ideal." As the basis for the talk Mr. Steen used Luke 10:25-26, "And behold a certain lawyer stood up and tempted, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

He said to him, what is written in the law, how readest thou?"

Taking up the ideal of life that the lawyer expressed in his answer, Mr. Steen showed the mistake which the man had made and brought out the greatness of the ideal as presented to him by Christ. Carrying the thought of ideals further Mr. Steen presented the four general classes of ideals under which nearly all come. Among these were put the desire for a life of leisure, a life of wealth, and a life with fame and power. Above all these he placed the great purpose to aid and help one's fellows and in the true sense of the word to be the Good Samaritan.

Those present received quite an enjoyable treat in the form of a solo by Mrs. J. H. Budd. The Y. M. C. A. is quite fortunate in being able to get such singers as Mrs. Budd on its program.

The program for tonight bids fair to be one of the best we have had in some time. The State Superintendent of Education, Joseph N. Powers will speak to the student-body on the subject, "Teaching." Mr. Powers needs no introduction to Millsaps students as he has spoken to us on several occasions. He was one of the chief speakers some years ago on the occasion of the anniversary of one of the societies and made quite a strong address on the occasion of the opening of our present session of school.

Mr. Powers ranks as one of the strongest and ablest men of the State in his line and will give us a strong talk. Let everyone be present to hear him. Nor is the address the only treat in store for us, for the chairman of the program committee has succeeded in securing Mrs. Lorenz as the soloist of the evening. Those who love good music will not fail to come out.

The following is a clipping from the Nashville Christian Advocate and one which should provoke much thought on the part of those who read it. If such a condition of affairs exists among us, we should arouse ourselves to meet it.

A Touching Letter from An Unknown Author.

In a recent editorial paragraph you stated that it is a mistake to preach to "sinners" as if they neither knew nor cared for righteousness. I am surprised that you should feel it necessary to make such a statement, but it is undoubtedly true—at least my own experience attests the truth of it. I am a sinner—have been for years—but from my youth up I have never known the time when I did not long with an awful hunger for a holy heart and a communion with God. This indeed creates my hell—to be addicted to sin while at the same time my heart abhors it and cries out day and night for the living God. Understand, my hell does not consist merely in having to endure the agonies of conscience for sins committed, but it consists in hungering for a righteousness I do not have, a divine companionship the need of which I feel. I want some Great Good without which I am dying, and in my desperation at the want of it I plunge into sin or do anything else that will make me forget my horrible loneliness and gnawing hunger. This is not an excuse for sin (sin is the one thing in the universe without an excuse), but it is the statement of a psychological fact, true as to one soul at least and probably true as to most souls.

As a matter of fact, so far from the thought of God and goodness being repugnant to me, the one hope in the world left me is that one day I may realize His presence and feel in the depths of my own being that I am a good man. This makes me, in a way, a man of prayer, if, indeed, you can call the kind of cry I make a prayer. It is a de profundis, at once a cry of horror and a cry for help. But, such as it is, I make it at nearly all times and in nearly all places—on my bed at night when I suddenly awake, on the streets when I mingle with men, at my desk when I am working, between the pauses of a conversation. No, men are not dead because they seem so. On the contrary, their sad days and sadder nights are filled with the thought of Him and the desire for Him; and life is one long hell because they cannot lay hold of Him as they surely, after some sort, desire to do. Their "deadness" is due to quite other causes—the soul hiding its depths and despairs under the show of indifference. Let the eyes of all good people be opened to the real situation, and they will see multiplied thousands in this city like me—dumb souls crying: "Men and brethren, what must I do to be saved?"

It was the cry of men like me that brought Christ from heaven. Can it bring no help or sympathy or comprehension from his followers? At least I hope their prayer will be for me.

SOCIAL

Kappa Sigma Fraternity Initiates Candidates.

After First Feasting Bountifully at the Dining Halls of the Bon Ton.

On last Saturday evening the Alpha Epsilon Chapter of Kappa Sigma was banquetted by the initiates, in the spacious dining halls of the Bon Ton Cafe. A large number of the alumni were in attendance and enjoyed the bounteous repast served in seven courses.

Robert Ricketts acted as toastmaster, and under his direction there were many responses in toast and song. Among the toast-makers were Mr. Charlton Alexander, Dr. Galloway, Joe Baker and Willing Ramsey responded in words that would do honor to Chesterfield. At one end of the banquet board the songsters were gathered and entertained the banqueters in great form by singing everything from "Sweet Adeline" to "The Old Oaken Bucket." The yoedling by one of the guests was rivaled only by the sweet singing of the canary perch in the cage nearby.

Lively conversation continued throughout the two hours spent around the festal board and the alumni showed by their enthusiasm that their love for Kappa Sigma had never died.

They pronounced the banquet the best ever attended and the entire assembly departed in great merriment to the Chapter halls where time-honored "Billy" awaited the initiates.—(Clarion Ledger).

Phi Zetas Entertained

By Misses Linfield and Henderson

A most delightful evening was spent last Saturday when the Phi Zeta Sorority was entertained by Misses Mary and Janie Linfield and Bessie Henderson.

The chafing-dish was the center of attraction where Welsh rarebit and other delicacies were soon in preparation. The old saying that "many cooks spoil the pie," certainly did not prove true in this case, for all agreed that everything was of the best possible quality. Later a delicious ice course was served.

Merriment always makes the time go faster, but it went unusually fast Saturday evening, and twelve o'clock came all too soon.

Henry Marvin Frizzel, former vocalist of Millsaps College, whose favorite tune was "Be ye Reconciled," was on the campus recently shaking hands with friends and frat-mates. "Friz" is a valuable member of the Winona High School faculty. We are glad to know that he is meeting with marked success in his chosen profession.

Boys, try Doxey's High-Class Tailoring. Suits made to order, $16.50 and up. Steam cleaning a specialty.

Luther Neill, the business man of last year's class, was on the campus a few days last week.

Fellows, there's going to be a big sale on at Sistrunk's every day this month.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL

THE TRACK MEET.

Who are those fellows so scantily dressed that pass every day across the campus trotting slowly and breathing heavily? Only candidates for the track team. They are getting ready for the preliminary track meet that will take place on our new athletic field some time in April and hope to win a place on the Millsaps track team that is to take part in the meet of the Mississippi Intercollegiate Track Association that will take place in May, when and where the Mississippi Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Association meets this year. They have not begun training any too early for they have the record of last May to reverse and overcome if they can do so. Besides all this they have the proposed high school track meet to take care of this spring, a thing new, but fraught with much possible good to our institution. It ought to give our track fans a line on the promising material so they can secure the best for future inter-collegiate meets.

As Prof. Noble has so aptly and forcibly said, last year's Greenville meet revealed to us exactly where we stand. He also points to the one thing absolutely necessary to better this standing among the colleges,—training. With thorough training we can hope to do something, without it we would be foolish to attempt anything. So the students should forget not the track and should make the most of the approaching meets.

This, too, although we are all interested in baseball and wish to see Coach Peters develop a strong team. There is little doubt that baseball is the greatest American game today. Yet we should remember that a great runner may have a Marathon race open to him, and this serves to place track honors in a class unsurpassed.

The coolness, the self-control, the hard work, and physical training, gained on the diamond will prove valuable we admit. But we see no good reason why the ability to run fast and to run a long time should not prove valuable in war or even in peace when great emergencies arise. This ability can be developed on the track and Millsaps men should make the most of their opportunities along this line. If we have a good track team we must pay the price. Boys, don't give up the track!

Last September we dreamed of inter-collegiate athletics and it later came to pass that the privilege was granted us. Then we dreamed of a winning basket-ball team. One game smashed that dream.

Dreaming has served its purpose for us. Let's get busy and do things on the track and diamond this spring! Boast not, but boost the teams, believe in them and let them know it.

Our new athletic field is fast being graded. Soon it will be a "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

Soon the echoes will be stirred by our orators. Like the athletes they must train, too. In their rooms, in the halls of the dormitory, in vacant halls, everywhere, even in the woods around the campus, at all hours of the day and the greater part of the night they may be heard swaying imaginary audiences, getting imaginary applause, stirring their true hearers to flight or madness. Squirrels, birds, rabbits, rats, mice, must move on if they do not love oratory.

All members of the Honor Council and all students interested in college affairs in general ought to read "Individual and College Honor" in the Theta Delta Chi Shield for February, which may be found upon the catalog table of the Library.

Scene: Hall of Representatives at State Capitol. Professional license exam.; Mr. Beasley conversing interestedly with Whitworth girls.

Prof. Huddleston (in stentorian tones): "Mr. Beasley, this is not a courting arrangement!"

Rev. T. W. Adams, popular minister of the Methodist church in Lumberton, was on the campus Thursday.

Miss Park (pensively): "I think I'll die young."

Miss Smith: "Well, then, you'd better do it now!"

Miss Janie Linfield, writing Latin: "What is the case of the ablative of cause?"

J. F. Godbold, who was in school two years ago, and who has since been teaching at the Methodist Orphanage, has re-entered school. Godbold is a good student, and we are all glad that he has been able to come back.

The friends, and especially those who are taking an A. B. degree, of Dr. Swartz are glad to know that he is able to take up his work again. Dr. Swartz has had an operation on his knee which was hurt sometime ago.

Dr. Kern, in Sophomore English: "Mr. Chichester, what does this mean, 'I will drink life to the lees'?"

Fatty, "Drink to the ladies, I guess."

We understand that on election night Fred Smith made a mighty good run for chaplain.

Jim Powell, one of Mississippi College's most popular seniors, was on the campus one day last week.

Bill Ferguson, a member of last year's Freshman Class, paid us a short visit some time ago. Bill says that while he would like mighty well to be with us this year, he would hate to give up that good job he has at home.

Wirt Williams, an alumnus of this institution, paid us a visit one day last week. Williams is principal of the Edwards High School, and is making quite a success over there.

Campbell Yerger, a senior at Mississippi College, and also one of the popular young society men of Jackson, was a welcome visitor on the campus one day last week. Mr. Yerger says that there is a likelihood of his doing M. A. work at Millsaps next session. Let us hope that this probability will develop into a realization.

Remember, Doxey's High Class Tailoring. Suits made to order, $16.50 and up. Steam Cleaning a specialty.

Prof. Burton, absent-mindedly walking down the side-walk with one foot off the curb: "Well, I declare, I can't at all remember when I became lame."

R. D. Peets and S. E. Williamson were elected from the Lamar and the Galloway Societies respectively to represent Millsaps in the Hendrix College debate.

Senior—"A University boy told me that after the Thanksgiving game he was going to hibernate."

Prep—"Hibernate? What is that?"

We are glad to say that Blondy Mitchell, who was ill a day of two last week, is well again.

Fred Smith: "Why the bare idea—"

Collins—"Of what, Smith?"

"Telling the naked truth!"

Fellows, why do you pay car fare to town and then pay 35 cents for a hair cut when Hobbs will do it for 25 cents. Patronize the College barber!

A letter from A. D. Bell, one of our last year's Freshmhen, brings to us the news that Douglass is now teaching a rural school way out in Oklahoma.

Dr. Sullivan says that there are all kinds of antes these days, such as ante-whiskey men, ante-dates, and anti-dotes.

Millard Jumper, an old Millsaps student now working in Greenwood, was on the campus a few days ago.

Boys, the Big Sale is still on at Sistrunk's. Come and see!

Somebody ask Cabell why he missed his dinner last Friday?

Say, have you seen those Gastropods that were brought back from Byron?

"Bill" Phillips, the handsome man of last year's class, was here for a few days recently.

Basil Witt, the flirt of the class of 1909, was also on the campus a few days lately.

Sam Osborne was a recent visitor to friends. Sam reports a flourishing law practice in Greenwood, Miss.

Street K. Hinds, of Tupelo, better known as "Sug," spent several days with his brother last week.

Mr. Rogers says the further you go South to the pole, the hotter it gets.

Miss Henderson (discussing remark of a Freshman who said that "Catherine de Medici married Philip II, of Spain," killed him and married Lord Darnley")—Well, that's not so bad—it's just wrong!

Co-ed (reading Hernaini)—He retired in to the corner to polish his glass eye.

A student from McComb, came in on Sunday night recently with a hole torn in his trousers, that might suggest running into a wire fence of some kind.

Jim Blount, '08, who is now the Principal of the High School at Charleston, Miss., was on the campus recently to see his many friends.

Some Millsappers are going into politics this year before their constitutents. We wish them great majorities, one and all.

Say, fellows, before you buy your shoes, see Butler's ad. on the last page.

Broom—"You should be satisfied with what you have."

Beasley—"I would if I had anything."

Hear Dr. Leathers when he addresses the students some time later on. He will tell you something worth hearing and heeding.

Literary Societies

PRENTISS LITERARY SOCIETY.

Entertaining Program Rendered—Newton Convicted of Heinous Crime—Punished Severely for Same.

President Gilmore called the Society to order Friday evening, at eight o'clock. The program for the evening was then taken up.

The Declaimer, Keister, being called for, walked out with a dignity becoming a Cicero and delivered a beautiful poem, entitled, "An Orphan's Death." The Essayist, Mooney, read a very nice essay, "A Wizard's Grave."

After this, the Secretary read the question, "Resolved, That the boll weevil will do the South as much good as harm." Two speakers being absent on the negative, Phillips and Newton were appointed to take their places. The affirmative was thoroughly discussed by Clark, Spinks and Lauderdale, while Whitson, Phillips and Newton upheld the negative.

The judges after a long and serious review of the points made, rendered the decision in favor of the affirmative. Under the head of voluntary remarks the doorkeeper, Newton, was found guilty of neglect of duty, and had to take the oath of office again. After the second roll-call the President declared the house adjourned.

GALLOWAYS CONVENE.

Zung Presided—Witt Figures in the Role of An Acrobat.

Last Friday evening at the usual hour, the Galloways were called to order by President M. U. Zung. On account of the lights being out of commission in the regular hall, this session of the Society was held in the Y. M. C. A. room.

We regret that the inclemency of the weather prevented so many of our members from being present, as we had an exceptionally good program.

Mr. Savage delivered an excellent declamation in eulogy of Henry W. Grady which showed an unexcelled nicety of choice and carefulness of preparation. All appreciated the Society spirit which prompted Mr. Russell to entertain us with an oration, especially when they considered that this budding young orator had been pressed into service at the previous meeting.

The question, "Resolved, That the trunk railroads of the United States should be controlled and operated by the Government," was ably discussed by J. M. Morse, N. B. Harmon, Jr., and "Prep" Wasson on the affirmative, and H. C. Henderson, Flurry, and Witt on the negative. There were many interesting points brought out on both sides, but the judges awarded the laurels to the affirmative.

The irregular debate was taken up by Mr. Daniel for the affirmative and Mr. Savage for the negative. The affirmative also succeeded in winning this debate.

The impromptu debate was dispensed with but the acrobatic stunts of Mr. Witt were highly entertaining. He showed himself especially proficient in tumbling upon the place where his chair should have been.

After the election of certain offirces and the transaction of other business, the house was adjourned.

INTERESTING PROGRAM FOR Y. M. C. A. NIGHT.

Dr. Kern Will Discuss the Negro Problem—Students Cannot Afford to Miss This.

The program of the Y. M. C. A. meeting is to be different from any which we have had so far this year. The subject, as shown on the blotters, is to be a discussion of the "Negro Problem in the South.' and Dr. Kern is to lead the meeting, but that is only a small part of the intersting program which is to be given. Not only will Dr. Kern speak, but his talk will be followed by several short speeches from the best speakers of the student body who have been well prepared for the subject by a close study in the class which Dr. Kern has been conducting.

Interspersed among these short talks will be music produced by the Victor Talking Machine. The best and most appropriate thing about the music is that it will consist entirely of negro selections, the very best in the entire stock of the Victor Company. An effort will be made to secure records made by the Fiske Jubilee Singers,, the finest group of negro singers in the United States—and probably, for that matter, in the world. They have traveled all over this country and have sung before all the crowned beads of Europe. The most enjoyable, laughable, side-splitting, house-moving numbers will be "Billy Golden and his 'Yaller Gal,' " you simply can't afford to miss it.

The committee in charge has planned a program every man will enjoy to the utmost. Let every man of us be on hand promptly at seven o'clock. Don't forget the hour.

PHI DELTA RECEPTION.

On Thursday evening, Feb. 9th, the Phi Delta Fraternity entertained a host of their friends in a most charming manner; the occasion being an elegant reception givin their halls.

With Dr. and Mrs. Hull acting as chaperones the enjoyment was intense from the start and continued without cessation until the hour of departure had fully arrived.

An interestiing game of hearts was indulged in by everyone, which proved to be enjoyable as well as entertaining. A handsome prize was justly awarded to Miss Otis Read for being able to capture the greatest number of hearts.

A delicious course of refreshments was served; after which the guests reluctantly bade farewell to the hosts of the evening and departed feeling truly grateful to the Phi Deltas for their hospitality.

Those present were: Misses Mary Borum, Ruth Reed, Barry Offutt, McGee, Crisler, Otis Reed, Stern, Virginia Borum, Calvin Offutt, Bradford, Smith, Enochs, Flora B. Lewis, Rogillis, Barnett, and Eleanor Lewis; and Messrs. Rew, Collins, Stirling, Peets, Thomas, Steen, Morse, W. T. Harkey, Smith, Summers, S. F. Harkey, Cifford, Clark Livingston, Wroten, Cameron Garroway, and Bufkin.

SUPERINTENDENT POWERS UNABLE TO FILL ENGAGEMENT.

Foster Speaks on Character.

The student body felt quite disappointed on last Friday night when it was announced that Hon. Jos. N. Powers could not, because of circumstances which hindered, speak, but this feeling soon passed away as the man who filled the place of Mr. Powers began to speak. This man was no other than one of our own number, Mr. Foster, who is pastor of the Christian Church in West Jackson. Mr. Foster has just recently entered school and, therefore, made as it were, his maiden speech before the membership of the Y. M. C. A., but he showed himself to be a close thinker and a strong, definite, concise speaker.

The scriptural basis for the discussion of the topic, "Character," which was chosen, is to be found at the close of the seventh chapter of Matthew, where Christ tells the story of the men, one of whom built his house upon the solid rock and the other on the sand. Taking up the subject then Mr. Foster applied the analogy of the house-building to character-building, showing that where the house had the principal thing to be considered, so character had the same thing, namely, first, a foundation, and, second, the material of which it is to be made. As the foundation of the house must be strong and sure in order that the house may stand so character, to be able to weather the storms which assail it, must be founded upon Christ.

After making sure that the foundation is sure, then the material which forms the character must be carefully selected, and chief among these materials must be cheerfulness and love, a love which reaches up to God and out to one's fellow men, and forgetting self, strives to make the world better.

Not only did the Association receive a treat in this earnest talk, but also in the musical number of the program. Mrs. Lorenz was the charming vocalist of the evening, and her exquisite rendering of the selction held every hearer until the last sweet note had died away. It is the hope of the Association that it may have the privilege of hearing Mrs. Lorenz again. The soloist was accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Powers.

TIFFANY ABDUCTED.

Each came out of Brittany,
With his wife Tiffany,
And her maid Manfras,
And his dog Hardigras.
—Old Poem.

Tiphaine (musing)—
Behold me now, Oh, Manfras,
How changed is my estate—
Mine who once in pride of strength
Did go aloof my unhedged way.
In bonds am I who late
Did fill the slow and peaceful length
Of rain-wet days in early May
With dusty tomes of ancient days,
Whose golden rhymes and merry lays
Mingled with the muffled rain
Flicked against the mullioned pane.
Drowsy April passed in tears,
And brighter hours of happy dreams
As when our lovely flower gleams
Growing fair by shallow mere,
In low, dank grass and molded sedge
Along the stagnant, slimy edge.
And after these came June,
Fragrant with the breath of roses—
Month of brides and hopes complete.
And from the burning noon
Till night her myriad eyes uncloses,
Through long fields of yellow wheat,
Adown the narrow, shining bayou
Slid my boat, between the lines
Of bordering trees and waving vines
And prone within I watched them pass,
And watched the lacing leaves above,
Green, in graceful patterns wove.
And once beside the shining bayou
Came heavy steps upon the grass;
And dark eyes looked with sudden love;
And yet again and oft again:
My forefelt doom was come.
Once beneath my window rang
The hoof-struck paving stones.
And once I heard a voice that sang
In soft, seductive tones:
"The summer days have come.
Oh, belle Tiphaine, joli Tiphaine,
Come walk with me the winding lane."
Then down the cold stone stair I went,
And to the court my way was bent.
And there I found an armored knight.—
Manfras—Sieur de Bretagne, Oh, lady!
Tiphaine—And there a dog as black as night—
Manfras—Dog Hardigras, Oh, Lady!
Pages (singing from court yard below)—
Oh, he waits, and he waits for thee, fair maid.
Long has he waited in the plane tree's shade,
Swinging his heels,
Until he kneels
To aid thee to thy steed, dear maid!
(Manfras exit).
Tiphaine (musing)—
Yet have I felt in this short space,
Cold disdain evolve from hatred hot
Indifference disdain efface;
Indifference to a liking grow;
And now it buds and flowers so,
I wonder, in the end, liking will be—what?

THE FRESHMEN'S EVENING.

You sing a little song or two,
You have a little chat,
You make a little candy fudge,
And then you get your hat.
You hold her hand and say good-by
As sweetly as you can,—
Now ain't that a h—l of an evening
For a great big healthy man?

LOCALS

A. B. Campbell, editor of last year's Purple and White, an enthusiastic athlete, and leading member of class '10, was on the campus recently among his many friends, who were glad to see "Boyd" again. Campbell is now the Principal of Mathiston High School, and is meeting with merited success in his work. The people of Mathiston are to be congratulated upon securing the services of Campbell.

There were something less than three hundred candidates at Founders' Hall, and politics was a lively business there last week. This political activity is, no doubt, but a little object lesson for the many candidates all over Mississippi this spring and summer.

The political tendency of some members of the law class is causing them to look with longing eyes upon the jolly good fellows who are beginning to hand out their cards to their friends now and intimate that votes and influence would not be unwelcome. No doubt there will prove to be some able attorneys and legislators in the class, which is the largest of recent years.

The improvement of the athletic field in getting the attention of the boys now. Almost at any time groups of students may be seen watching the good work go on. They are realizing that it is a great thing for Millsaps College.

Sophomores at Washington and Lee are trying to frame rules for the good of next year's Freshman Class. That first year men who "bust" shall wear caps all the year instead of discarding them at Christmas; that a Freshman curfew hour be established and that Freshmen be barred from pool rooms—these are some of the rules under consideration.—The Hustler.

Millsaps men would do well to be formulating their plans for next year's Freshies.

Miss Fay Gass, assisted by Miss Annie Davis Powell, entertained the Kit-Kat Club Monday evening at an elaborate dinner at Battle Hill.

We regret very much to have to publish the fact that one of our ministerial students, Brother Rutherford P. Burks by name, is hopelessly in love with—guess who!!!

There are 252 students of the University of Pennsylvania who have never attended a class on the campus. Instead of going to the professors, the students have the professors come to them. The students are taking what are known as Extra-Mural Courses. Ten such courses are being given in seven towns near the University.—Vanderbilt Hustler.

How would you like to take one of these Extra-Mural Courses? It would be very nice to have the faculty visit you, wouldn't it?

Mr. Chadwick, the Mississippi College Coach, was a welcome visitor on the campus last Sunday.

Wanted—By "Blondy" Mitchell, one good cook. Only light housekeeping, hence the place will not be hard to fill. Apply at Northwest corner room of Mrs. Whitson's boarding house before nine o'clock Saturday morning. Don't crowd the stairway.—Come one at a time.

Mr. R. P. Hentz, of Schlater, was the guest of C. E. Johnson last Sunday evening. Mr. Hentz is the Principal of the Schlater High School, and is a well known man in school circles of North Mississippi. He is at present a candidate for County Superintendent of his county. We wish him great success.

Boys, see Peets' Big Clothing Sale on today and tomorrow.

We are glad to hear that G. A. Baker who has been confined to his room with measles for some time is able to be up and about his work again.

Why is it that every time Sample hears a Cat-Squall he immediately pulls down all the shades, bars the door, gets old "Betsy," and calls for his landlady to aid him?

The Detective Bureau of the Purple and White is making investigations and will report the result later in another issue.

Fellows, there is going to be a big sale at Sistrunk's every day this month.

Mr. Jones, of the West Publishing Co., paid a visit to the law class one day last week. From what we can learn, we judge that the purpose of his visit was to relieve innocent law students of all their surplus cash.

Boys, try Doxey's High-Class Tailoring. Suits made to order, $16.50 and up. Steam cleaning a specialty.

"Fatty" Chichester spent the week-end at his home at Edwards, Miss., and reports a very pleasant time.

Olin Ray left school for a few days to go to his appointment near Grenada, Miss. They tell us that Olin is preaching them some "big-uns" up there these days.

They say that Brother Paul Daniels fears that he has been elected the biggest flirt in College.

We were glad indeed to see Joe Baker's smiling countenance on the campus one day last week.

Mr. Denman from McComb City, was a visitor at the dormitory last week for a few days.

Fellows, why do you pay car fare to town and then pay 35 cents for a hair cut when Hobbs will do it for 25 cents. Patronize the College barber!

The Alphonzo-Gaston Farce Comedy is now being enacted by one of our enterprizing law students, assisted by one of the budding members of the Junior class. Each begs the other to run for Representative of the grand old county of Wayne, and each in turn refuses. Some one has prophesied that they will play the Happy Hooligan act, and both "butt in."

Jack Brewer, the popular and handsome brother of the well-remembered Ed Brewer, is up from a severe attack of the measles. Jack says that the only way in which it hurt him was that it deprived him of his "zip."

The latest novelty on the campus is Oliver Shell's pompadour.

OUR APPROACHING DEBATES.

Millsaps College has an enviable record in debate and oratory. This record is well worth retaining, and should be enhanced whenever an opportunity is offered. If we cannot improve upon it, then we should add to it as many more victories as we can. But we see no absolute reason why it cannot be improved. The men who have the responsibility of upholding our reputation along this line have no light task. Their work is important to them. to the student body and factulty, and to the fair name of our beloved institution. They have the opportunity and the high privilege of making the "fame of our dear Alma Mater . . . cherished wherever we go." With this privilege goes the duty of giving their best talent and energy to the great institution that has honored them. They must make good if we make good for they are on the firing line, as our champions.

We wish to say a word of encouragement to the men on whom this responsibility rests. We know that their task is difficult, that the way to victory is straight and narrow and beset with many difficulties, and that the way to failure and defeat is broad and easily followed. But the fate of the defeated is to be avoided and the reward of the victorious is more precious than gems. It is none other than the gratitude and love of their institution and the thrilling joy of seeing our purple and white banner flung triumphantly to the breeze. This is what they strive for, and surely it is well worth their greatest and highest effort.

To the mid-session debaters we would say simply, "Get in the game!" Our commencement debaters should remember their Societies look to them as champions and justly expect the best that is in them. The men who face the enemy from Greensboro and Hendrix Colleges have a more important work, and should go forth armed to the teeth and with strong heart and good courage. Their success means much to them, much to their friends, and much to the good name of their College. For an institution of learning certainly "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." The worst injury that one can do Millsaps is to injure her fair name; the highest service is to uphold, keep spotless, and add to her good name. She will appreciate and honor the man who labors for, defends, and protects this good name. She stands today demanding of the men who represent her in debate that they do their part to make good and on her part, ready to crown their success with their love and gratitude.

Again the man who does his best deserves from us, gratitude and honor whether he fails or succeeds. We should not deal gently with a man who "lays down on us," but for the man who does all he can, we should have words of encouragement and confidence and expect him to win. The belief that Millsaps stands by and depends on him should be an inspirtation.

THE Y. M. C. A. INCREASED ATTENDANCE.

New life seems to have been breathed into the Y. M. C. A. During the present session no doubt there has been a quickening of every college activity, due to the new administration and the era of college athletics that dawned just prior to the Christmas holidays. It is but natural that this new life should manifest itself in the Y. M. C. A. work, in fact, it should be led by our Y. M. C. A. workers, so that the inevitable activity of the students be directed in proper channels. This important organization has always been a source of great strength and power in Millsaps life, and former cabinets have made records in the work that are a source of pride and inspiration.

The work of the Y. M. C. A. can not succeed unless its meetings are well attended. The students are to be congratulated on the increase in attendance. The devotional committee is doing its work well, and many good speakers have been secured and excellent discussions given. Yet the attendance is still not what it might be,—not what it would be, if all the students realized the importance of this organization in their own lives and the campus life. Judging the future by the past one can attend every meeting with the assurance that he will be benefitted and that his thoughts will be drawn into channels that lead to higher ideals and nobler living. No student should fail to hear Dr. Kern's discussion of the problem tonight..

SOME THINGS THAT WE WILL NEED AS WE GROW.

First, the best athletic field in Dixie. Great teams that can entertain all comers on this field.

More Co-eds.

The best law school in our great commonwealth.

A new, spacious dormitory, fitted with every modern convenience.

An up-to-date gymnasium which has been needed some time.

Our campus made as beautiful as heart could wish.

Inter-collegiate football.

The scalps of other colleges in oratorical contests and debates.

The scalps of the athletic teams of other institutions.

Founders Hall over-hauled and made new.

A library open all the time.

Scouts to get athletes.

Advertising of the right kind.

Better science equipment and assistants in this department.

The James Observatory refitted.

A stronger tie between our Alumni and the student body and faculty.

Unity and perfect co-operation between faculty and students.

Every man at any time, a Millsaps student, always busy for his College..

A well equipped medical school.

Separation of the preparatory school from the college department.

To be well known and justly esteemed by every man and woman and child in Mississippi, and well known elsewhere.

Our Alumni in positions of influence.

These are some things we will need. But above all high ideals are absolutely essential. The management of the institution is, and always has been controlled by the highest ideals, the ideals of such men as Major Millsaps, Bishop Galloway, Bishop Murrah, and President Hull.

As wants arise they must be satisfied; as demands arise they must be met for the Mississippi Conferences, the management of the College, the students and Alumni, our friends everywhere, look forward to a greater Millsaps. The foundation has been laid broad and deep. Let the structure be great and strong.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE.

The baseball manager, we are told, has not yet finally secured more than one game. We hope that this will not be true when this appears in print, for the simple reason that the time is ripe for a completed schedule if it has been possible to complete it.

It is true Millsaps is young in such matters, and this might reasonably account for some delay. But too much delay will discourage the pro spective players and cause them to lose interest in the practice necessary to get out a good team. Hence it is important that there be all possible certainty about the schedule at this time.

It is of course, entirely possible, even probable, that we will not get the scalp of every ball team in sight our first season. But for the players to know what they have to go up against is better than to have them training for windmills. Once get some certain games, even tho' they be hard ones, and the players will do better than they could be expected to do otherwise. So, though we realize that the schedule is no easy thing to arrange, wa would be glad to see it complete and printed at the earliest possible date, and the players, no doubt, will endorse this sentiment. We believe Coach Peters can do something for us with his squad, but he can do more when his team knows what is coming, what it has to meet.

Fellows, there's going to be a big sale on at Sistrunk's every day this month.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

There is one room in the dormitory in which mice are scarce, bedbugs extinct, and mosquitoes annihilated. The atmosphere is continuously charged with forensic eloquence. The visitor often wonders whether it is "Teddy" Roosevelt, William Jennings Bryan, Booker T. Washington, or Theodore G. Bilbo, and is always completely astounded to hear that it is only a Gatlin (gun).

Those present at the Y. M. C. A. last Friday night enjoyed a great treat in the form of a solo by Mrs. Lorenzo. It is the hope of those who heard her that she will be with us again soon.

It is with much regret that we learn that the three Cain boys are unable to come back to school. These boys are good students, and, as I said, we regret very much to lose them.

Judge "Darling Tommy" Ruff, who a few days ago was forced to go home on account of physical condition, has now returned to the campus and has taken up his regular work. The judge is to be congratulated, for he is holding up exceedingly well in his old age.

Charles Galloway, who for the last few days has been suffering from an attack of measles, has resumed his regular work.

We regret to state that Mr. Stuart a member of the Sophomore class, has been compelled to leave school permanently. Stuart was one of the best men in the Sophomore class. We shall all miss him.

Messrs. Ross and Morse, of the law class, attended the basketball game which was played between the University and Mississippi College last Monday.

Although we were disappointed that Supt. Powers could not address the Y. M. C. A. last Friday night, we were certainly charmed with the lecture on character-building so delightfully delivered to us by our fellow student, Foster.

The Lamar Society enjoyed a visit from Dr. Sullivan last Friday night. He gave us a short talk, the advice in which, if heeded, will redound very much to our good.

Dr. Hull—Mr. Collins, what is a kangaroo?

Collins—A kangaroo is an Australian inhabitant which lays eggs just like any other fowl.

Willing Ramsey, Dan Clark and Fred Smith are the Millsaps boys who attended the University-Mississippi College basketball game last Tuesday.

Dr. Swartz left Jackson last Thursday for New Orleans, where he is to remain for an indefinite length of time.

Does McDowell object to sitting on the same bench with a Co-ed in chapel?

The grading is progressing splendidly on the athletic field.

President Hull spent a few days of last week at the A. & M. College.

They say that Lin Witt and Cook Selby are going to be the stars on the track this year. Come on, boys, we are expecting great things of you.

Do you know who the busiest man on the campus is?

Deliberative Man—What is the most deplorable thing that happens to Millsaps?

Wise Man—For a man to graduate who doesn't know how to speak correct English.

A paper handed to Prof. Burton by a member of the Sophomore mathematics class, contained the following valentine:

"Roses are red; violets are blue;
Grade me easy on this and you are too."

Following is Mr. Lester's:

"Roses are red, violets are blue,
Analytics is sweet, and so are you."

Mr. Davis (curiously)—What's this here in here?

Mr. Welsh (wearily)—I don't know what that there in there is.

Who was it that got an invitation to a Hallowe'een party to be given on the 14th of February?

Mr. Boykin (reading Virgil)—The cave-like hells resounded with female shrieks.

THE WINNER.

He came thro' life and its prizes won,
Yet was not tired when his task was done;
Into the shadow with face aglow
He went the way that we all must go;
And with no regret, nor with tears nor pain,
But as one coming into his own again.

G HARE AND HOUND CHASE

On last Friday evening quite a number of the boys took an hour off and took a big hunt. Two hares, Selby and Whitson, who had been penned up for some time fattening, were turned loose, and immediately headed for Pearl river swamp. After giving them some start, Prep. Noble loosed the impatient dogs, Jones, Colmer, Whitson, Selby, Cifford, Bailey, Keister, Reynolds, Harkey and Adams, and the chase began.

The dogs soon caught the trail and a hot chase was given the cotton tails. After an hour or so of trailing the dogs decided that the hares had escaped to regions heretofore unexplored, so they returned in chagrin to the dormitory. This is fine practice for track men, especially Marathon runners, and we hope that the bunch of hounds will be much larger on the next chase.

PI KAPPA ALPHA ENTERTAINS.

Last Saturday evening the Pi Kappa Alpha Hall was the scene of an informal chafing dish party.

It is useless to attempt to enumerate the lot of eatables which the fair cooks produced, because we simply put away what was passed around, knowing it was all good,—and asked no questions.

Everybody helped—even Sis Williamson—but how he managed to beat the eggs without spilling them is a mystery still. The piano was never allowed to rest, but each performer was allowed time out for olives and things.

Several articles were lost in the final scramble for belongings, preparatory to departure at a late hour, but everyone seemed happy and expressed themselves as having enjoyed the occasion.

Those present were:

Mrs. Swartz, Misses Ruth and Otis Reed, Lillian Williams, Hortense Smith, Rena Bell Anderson, Ella Hunter Jumper, Vida Gilleylen, Stella Byrd, Henrietta Yerger, Anna Crisler, Hattie Wooten Harmon, Effie Lee Galloway, and Nettie Rogillis, Prof. S. VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, MARCH 3, 1911 NUMBER 6A

TRACK WORK BEGINS.

Light, Cross Country Runs Indulged in First Week---More Candidates Needed.

Interest in track athletics have greatly increased during the past week since Professor Noble has taken things in hand preparatory to putting the men on the training table. Only light work such as distance trotting and games of hare and hound have thus far been attempted showing the headwork of the coach as the men must gradually work up to the really hard training. We will certainly have to work hard this year to win anything as A. & M. is going to put extra stress on her track team in preference to baseball and both the University and Mississippi College are putting out fine track squads. We may not be able to pull many first places in the events —this being only our second attempt but we can at least take one or two firsts and several seconds which will make quite a respectable showing. But to do this we must put in much hard regular work as wind and endurance can only be secured in this way. If we go in at all we should go in to make good and be willing to give all the time demanded by the coach to practice. If we do not do this we will lose out entirely as the candidates from the other schools are working steadily, so that the contest will be one of equality, one between trained men; so if our candidates are not in excellent trim, if they are deficient in physique, then neglect of practice —the result is inevitable, they will not stand a ghost of a show. At present we stand a fair chance at the laurel pulling having a good coach and a competent squad of enthusiastic men. So it's up to you. In your hands are the successes or failures moulded.

Fellows, see Clifford for the Saturday Evening Post, Success Magazine, etc. He has them every week.

DR. SULLIVAN ADDRESSES Y. M. C. A. TONIGHT.

Subject: "God's Call to Man"—Solo by Mrs. A. F. Smith.

The Y. M. C. A. will be addressed tonight by Dr. J. M. Sullivan on the subject "God's Call to Man." Dr. Sullivan never fails to give his hearers something well worth listening to so that a full hall is expected.

The soloist of the evening will be Mrs. A. F. Smith. As a singer Mrs. Smith is well known more especially in the East where she has given concerts for a number of years. She is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music and ranks as one of the best in the musical circles of Jackson. The Association is quite fortunate in being able to have Mrs. Smith on its programme.

Bishop W. B. Murrah was an appreciated visitor on the campus last week. We hope that the Bishop will come out to see us frequently. The boys all have the kindest regard for him and the work that he has done in the past, and is still doing, for Millsaps. He is always a welcome visitor.

Millsaps is going to get out the best annual in the history of the College. If you haven't subscribed for one, do so at once.

MANY STUDENTS ENJOY SPECIAL PROGRAM OF Y. M. C. A.

Program Exceedingly Good and Well Prepared.

The program as planned for the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Friday evening was in every way a success. Nearly every seat in the hall was filled, in fact a number of men had to stand. The program as presented was rather unique. It dealt with the negro from the beginning to the end in the short talks which were given and in the music which followed each discussion. Each talk was limited to five minutes and was therefore of necessity concise and to the point. Each man showed that he had studied his topic well and had gotten the main points contained therein. The committee cannot be too highly praised for its selections for the graphophone. They could not have pleased the audience better if they had searched everywhere. The negro dialect poem "When Malindy Sings," delivered by Rev. J. A. Myers deserves special mention.

The program in full for the evening was as follows:

"Possum Supper at the Darktown Church"—Victor Vaudeville Company.

O. M. Reynolds—"Why Study the Negro Question."

"My Yaller Gal"—Billy Golden.

W. N. Thomas—"Economic Condition of the Negro."

"Little David Play on Your Harp" and "Sing All Over God's Heaven"—Fiske Jubilee Quartette.

R. J. Bingham—"Health and Housing of the Negro."

"Old Black Joe"—Fiske Jubilee Quartette.

R. E. Steen—"The Education of the Negro."

"When Malindy Sings"—Rev. J. A. Myers.

A. A. Kern—"Some Solutions of the Problem."

"Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray"—Fiske Jubilee Quartette.

LOCALS

R. W. Gulledge a prominent member of the Law Class spent the week-end with his home-folks in Lexington Miss. "Judge" is making a hot race for County Attorney in Holmes. We wish him all success.

W. M. Colmer was called home last week on account of the death of his mother. We extend our deepest sympathy to "Bill" in his great sorrow and hope that he can be back with us again in the near future.

Dr. A. A. Kern attended Mardi Gras at New Orleans this week and reports a very pleasant trip.

President D. C. Hull made a short trip to Starkville, Miss., last week. He was shown quite a hearty welcome by his friends in both the Faculty and Student-body while over there.

Bryant Lewis; anold Millsaps student, was on the campus shakings hands with friends and fratmates last week.

President Hull reports quite a pleasant trip to Hazlehurst Miss. last Sunday. He delivered an address at the First Methodist Church of that little city at eleven o'clock Sunday morning.

The energy with which the new Baseball Manager, Willing Ramsey, goes about his work is indeed refreshing. He looks like he means business and he does mean business. If Ramsey's plans mature we will have all the games that we are looking for when the season opens up.

The Literary Societies suspended exercises on last Friday night. The ministerial students went to hear Vardaman —those who were not broke, where did they go? To "Dockstader's Minstrels" or to the Miller Bros. Show?

Boys, come out and see Sistrunk's line of new groceries.

GALLOWAYS' MEETING LIVELY.

Woman's Suffrage Discussed Before a Large Audience.

(This article was intended for last week—issue of Febrruay 24.—Editor.)

On Friday evening last, the Galloways came together at the sound of President Zung's gavel with the full intention of putting things on the move. This was undoubtedly the best meeting we have had this session. There were quite a number of visitors out with us.—the always welcome faces of the fair ones lending an unusual charm to the assembly. We were also glad to have the members of the Prentiss with us.

After roll call, at which nearly every member was present to answer, the regular program was taken up. Mr. S. L. Crockett opened fire with a declamation, delivered in his usual forcible style. The appreciation of his audience was expressed in long and loud applause.

The orator being absent, the question, "Resolved, That the State of Mississippi Should Grant the Right of Suffrage to her Women," was next read, and a heated debate was entered into. Messrs. Thomas, Flurry, and Savage on the affirmative brought home to us the need of purifying politics in our State, advocating the granting of the right of suffrage to our women as the means of accomplishing this end. History was reviewed to substantiate this opinion and such oratory indulged in presenting it that we were kept flying high for quite a while. Messrs. Wroten, Cameron and Broom on the negative ably set forth facts backed up by reference to the Garden of Eden on down to the present day statistics. These tore down the arguments of their opponents and compelled the judges to decide in their favor.

The irregular and impromptu debates were dispensed with, the hour being late,. But we had a treat from Dr. Sullivan, which was genuinely enjoyed by all, as shown by the repeated applause. His remarks were brief but to the point. We are always glad to have any of the faculty with us in our meetings, and we hope this visit of Dr. Sullivan will not be his last.

P. F. D., '14.

LAMARS HOLD FIERY SESSION.

Vote to Expel Members Who fail to do Duty.

(Crowded out of last week's issue.)

The regular literary program was carried through without incident last Friday night; but under the head of "New Business" a hot discussion arose as to the legal status of those members who have been negligent of duty.

The question for debate, "Resolved, That a Deeper Waterway from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico would be of more advantage than the Panama Canal," was won by Messrs. Clark, W. S., and Peets, who defended the affirmative. The negative was ably upheld by Clifford and Tynes.

Dr. Sullivan, who was present, announced that the Hendrix College debaters had submitted to the Millsaps men the following question: "Resolved that the Initiative and Referendum is a Good Policy." The debate is to be held at Hendrix College this year.

Inasmuch as there is always, about this time of the year, a tendency to grow lax in Society work, a result, no doubt, of the numerous other obligations which the students sometimes find more interesting, some of the Lamars have decided to attempt to make things interesting in the Lamar Hall during the remainder of the year, and especially on next Friday night. By unanimous vote, it was decreed that all those men who do not pay their dues or fines by next Friday night shall be suspended from the Society. It was voted further, that all men who have legal excuses for absences must either appear in person and present their excuses to the Society, or pay their fines.

It is plain to see that these men mean business, and those who do not will do well to tender their resignation as members of the Society immediately.

R. E. S., '12.

What irreverent spirit thus paraphrased Tennyson's famous lines:

"Many a night,
When the moon was bright,

Shine like seven blisters
On a fevered lip."

COLLEGE JOURNALISTIC COURSES.

Should Be Offered by all Colleges.

The attention of the press generally has been attracted to the efforts of various universities, by special departments for that purpose, to teach journalism. At the present time fifteen institutions are offering journalistic instruction in their courses of study. These colleges are: University of Michigan, Ohio State University, University of Illinois, Indiana University, Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, Univesity of Kansas, Massachusetts Agricultural College, University of Minnesota, University of Missouri, University of Nebraska, Columbia University, Miami University, University of Oregon, University of Washington, University of Wisconsin.

This effort on the part of the colleges is in keeping with the modern tendency towards an eminently practical education, and although the instruction offered varies greatly in length of courses and the detail to which the work is carried, in almost all cases practical methods of teaching are followed, and actual newspaper work is done.

At the University of Missouri the students of the School of Journalism conduct, without University support, a small, but well-balanced daily afternoon paper, the University Missourian. This is a general newspaper, covering the entire field of news. It is maintained out of its own receipts for advertising and subscription, while the work on it, other than mechanical, is done entirely by the students in the School of Journalism. They cover assignments, occupy desks, edit, telegraph, exactly as the press requires.

The University of Michigan offers "a general course in journalism, leading to the bachelor's degree, with special courses for the benefit of those who desire to prepare for a particular kind of writing on a special department of the newspaper." These courses include rhetoric, English, foreign languages, history, government, economics, sociology, philosophy, law, science, international law, and music. Here, too, the student paper—the Michigan Daily—is utilized for practical experience.

At the Ohio State University, in response to a demand for specific instruction, a practical newspaper man has been added to the faculty as an assistant professor of English, with the understanding that he will give courses in Journalism.

The work at Wisconsin includes lectures, practice in the preparation of articles, editing, proof-reading, reviewing, and practice in photography for the press. Practical editing is taught in connection with work on the Student Farmer, a local periodical. Here the course is designed to meet the needs of students who wish to become contributors to or editors of agricultural journals. or bulletins.

Of course, it is not expected by these schools of journalism to make newspaper men any more than a lawyer can be manufactured by a law school, or a doctor by a medical school. While it is possibly true, in the last analysis, that a journalist is not made but born, he can be trained for his work by adding to natural fitness the intellectual attainments and resources of the student.—Exchange.

CHOW - CHOW PIE.

The More You Eat the More You Want—Try Your Hand at Making This Delicious Dish, Boys!

After having procured a Dill pickle cut it into halves, the halves into quarters, having previously saved one of these quarters to procure the other necessary ingredients, divide these quarters into eighths, and so on, allowing the pieces to approach zero as a limit.

Now get some flour and dump it into the middle of the floor; sprinkle it with sifted water until you have some dough—some of this dough having previously been saved in case the quarter wasn't enough. Now, pull this dough out into a long string and make an angle of 45 degrees, 32.6 seconds. If the string is too long, bite off about a foot, or apply some lard to shorten it.

Now cut this string into bits; having previously saved "one bit" as a liability fund. Pull these bits until they become cool; spread them in the coal scuttle and over them dash the pulverized pickle.

Season with coal oil, gasoline, benzine, curried powder and Prof. Tankersley's pink pills, according to taste.

Stir constantly and rapidly until everything inside becomes nauseated. Now stick the poker into it and if it comes out clean the pie is done. Run the whole thro' a funnel, and then it is ready to serve.

Before serving, however, tell the guests to breathe out of their mouths. Of course they will be polite and won't eat it all, but don't let that worry you. What they won't eat the puppy dog will.

But in case the puppy dog should happen not to like it, why it makes excellent fertilizer.

Try it!—Exchange.

QUINTUS HORATIUS FLACCUS.

Oh, Horace, thou who hadst so various loves,
Who flittedst far, from flower to flower,
As the bee, inconstant, honey-seeking roves,
With changing fancies every hour.

How couldst thou hope to sing of love,
Or sound the depths of passion,
When to each fair thy songs were wove,
When that fair was the fashion?

THE SONG.

Beneath the summer stars
I have sung out my heart
In love to you.
Against yon window bars
The curtains do not part,—
Oh, where are you?
Is there no rose for me—
No kiss from dainty finger-tips,
To float down to me?
That dreams may come of rose-red lips,
And slumberous eyes,
When I am gone.

The Guerdon.

But see! The lattice slips apart!
And there is she.
A rose, as golden as her heart,
She gave to me.
And one look—warm and long,
From dusky eyes,
As guerdon for my song.

SPECIAL COURSES.

The matter of a special course is one that deserves more careful thought on the part of the man who elects it than it gets at times. It seems that consideration in the light of the experience of others, as expressed in their most reflective moments tends away from special courses for the under-graduate. But many able well meaning students elect a special course of study in their first, second or even third year. Various excuses are given, almost all of which would not be considered valid by a man who desires to get a thorough college training. One's ideals should demand that much at least. There may be exceptions but we believe it is generally true that no student is justified in specializing before he graduates from some good reputable college or university.

As to the poor man he can get an education of a high standard and he frequently does get it. The man who needs his training to aid in securing the means of living will naturally look out for him self to the extent of finishing his course. He needs no special attention for he is moved by the great motive of self-preservation and of such a man we need only to say that he deserves the highest respect and he sets an example worthy of emulation.

But those who have not received the enlightening knocks of experience, who fancy they are too poor to remain in college long enough to complete the course on account of age, debt, impractical training, as they think, should weigh the matter well. The short-sighted man is usually the first to pronounce a college education impractical. He is swayed by commercialized public opinion and is not a safe guide. The student who can not find time and money to get an education will very likely some day admit that he has been "penny wise and pound foolish." The grind for four years is not so bad as it seems anyway.

Some special students are fond of pointing to some self-made man as evidence that a complete course is not necessary. All honor to the self-made man, but we cannot all be such men and our chances for success will likely be better with four full years in college. A boy sees his old friends plunge at once into business and a feeling similar to that which comes with seeing them go fishing is felt and many a sage reason is dug up to overthrow the wisdom of the ages in his particular case. One substitute, the special course, is chosen often by a boy who should get the full training.

We have known the gentle woo-ings of the way that leads through specialization but others wiser than we pointed to the right way and we are grateful. It is now clear to us that a Freshman cannot select a better course than colleges and universities offer. True, the courses offered are imperfect, but their weak points are more than balanced by their strong ones. The student who knows he is able to select a better course than the regular one may safely do so perhaps, but in this matter of selecting all his work he runs counter to some very wise men. He should be sure of himself before he does it. Aside from the danger of his failing to improve things he might later change his mind and want to complete the regular course, which specialization frequently renders very difficult. For these and other obvious reasons the special course can seldom be justified and should be discouraged.

LOCALS.

Our former President, Bishop W. B. Murrah, preached an exceedingly able sermon at the First Baptist Church last Sunday morning. A number of the students were fortunate enough to hear him.

We regret very much that "Private" Nevilles was forced to leave school for a few days on account of sickness.

Dr. Walmsley spent several days of last week in Mobile, Ala., in attendance on a call meeting of the Directors of the Southern Educational Association.

Wanted—By the members of the Soph. Latin Class a first-class secretary to help them remember what the lessons are.

We learn through the columns of the New Orleans Christian Advocate that Rev. T. W. Lewis, formerly connected with this institution, is making a fine impression on his congregation at the First Methodist Church of Memphis, Tenn. We are always glad to hear anything good about Brother Lewis as he has always proved a strong true friend of the College. We can assure him that he has many warm friends at Millsaps.

We hear good news from "Bish" Rainey's work over near Brandon, Miss. They say that the people are highly pleased with both his preaching and the general sincere interest which he shows in the work. We are not surprised, however, to hear good things about "Bish" as he is always very enthusiastic in whatever he goes into.

"Rip" Peeples was seen on the baseball field several days lately. It is rumored that he expects to enter school again soon. He will be a welcome addition to our student body.

Misses Flora B. and Eleanor Lewis were in New Orleans this week for the Coinus ball and other carnival functions.

Dr. Hull (in Freshman Bible): What does this mean, "Some fell among thorns and were choked"?

Mr. Rogers (wonderingly): They fell in a briar patch, I reckon.

Dr. Swartz—"What is the matter with Miss Lewis's scanning, Mr. West?"

Mr. West—"I think it is exactly right, Doctor.

Tommy Lewis spent a few days at home last week.

Miss Mary Louise Gibson, one of last year's co-eds, was on the campus one day last week.

The friends of Dr. Swartz are glad to see him perfectly well again.

Sam Osborne, of the Law Class of '10, who is now in Greenwood, spent Saturday and Sunday in Jackson attending to some important business.

Moss spent last Saturday night and Sunday in Clinton Miss. with his friends at Mississippi College. He reports a pleasant stay.

Reward offered for the man who says that Hobbs is not the best barber in Jackson.

C. E. Johnson the able and efficient editor of this publication, spent a few days at home last week. Everyone agrees that the Purple and White has been better this year than ever before in its history. It is also conceded by those who are in a position to know that its success is due to the industry and practical good sense of its editor.

The friends of Prep Phillips will be glad to know that he has at last gotten well of his severe spell of sickness. He will soon be able to resume his work.

Jim Hand '08 is taking post-graduate work in Chemistry at Cornell University. Those who knew him have no doubt that his work there will reflect credit on Millsaps.

That Bill DeCell is married is news that will interest everyone. Bill, the little, jolly, good natured, friend of everybody is married. Bill's wife weighs only two hundred and fifty pounds which is just one hundred and twenty-five pounds more than Bill weighs. Bill has a great concourse of friends here and they all hope that his troubles will be few.

Marvin Geiger, an old Millsaps student, is doing post-graduate work in chemistry at Cornell University. For the last two years Geiger has held the position of Assistant in Chemistry at the A. & M.

Miss Mary Leggett, of the Whitworth Female College, was a visitor last week at the home of Mrs. Quin. Her visit was enjoyed by everyone at Mrs. Quin's. We hope that she will be able to visit us again soon.

Several of the Millsaps boys were entertained royally at an Epworth League entertainment out on Industrial Heights on last Thursday evening from eight to eleven.

John W. Hollyfield, one of our most learned Seniors, has announced as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Education of his native county, Jones. It has been our wish to maintain a strictly non-partisan line but we cannot help but say we think that Hollyfield is by far the best man in the race and here is hoping that he will be elected by an overwhelming majority.

At a meeting of the Athletic Association last week, Tommy Lewis resigned the management of baseball and Willing Ramsey, the man whom he had chosen to be his assistant was, elected in his stead. Lewis reports over-work as the cause of his resignment. While the Association dislikes to lose his services it feels sure that it will find in Mr. Ramsey all that it could expect of an efficient manager.

And, one of the students who entered since Christmas, has gone home for an indefinite length of time.

Miss Mitchell, sister of Hendrix Mitchell, has come to Jackson to organize an elocution class. We hope for her all kind of success in her undertaking.

If you want to get a good hot argument on your hands just ask John Boggan how Vardaman compares with Bilbo and Booker T. Washington in his method of speaking. We would advise you to borrow an airship or a pair of wings though before going into the subject with John.

P. F. Daniel visited Monticello last Saturday and Sunday.

W. F. MURRAH
Makes Fine Record at Vanderbilt.

It is seldom that a man goes thro' two institutions with a fine all-round record, being as prominent in a large student body as in a small one, but such is the career of William F. Murrah, of Vanderbilt, formerly of Millsaps. Although not having passed his majority he has already taken two degrees, his A. B. at his original Alma Mater, and his Master's degree at Vanderbilt, and is well along in his second year of law. As indicated, in both institutions, he has made a mark for all-round effectiveness. At Millsaps, he carried off, among general distinctions, the following: President Athletic Association; captain football team; Senior oratory medal, debate medal, manager and player baseball team; manager Collegian, college paper; editor-in-chief College Annual; President Mississippi Oratorical Association and college representative. He graduated at eighteen, being then held back a year on account of his youth, and entered the graduate department of Vanderbilt in 1908.

His collegiate record at Vanderbilt is as follows: Master's Degree; Vice-President Students' Association; Debating Council; Glee Club; Young Medal in Oratory; sub on 'Varsity football team; editor-in-chief Commodore, University Annual; Phi Delta (law); Dramatic Club, playing the part, with great success, of Hiram Blow in the College Widow recently. Inasmuch as he has a year and a half more at Vanderbilt, he may expect to add further honors to his list. He is a son of Bishop W. B. Murrah, of the M. E. Church, formerly President of Millsaps College. He expects to practice law in Memphis. —Kappa Alpha Journal.

There are still many students who remember "Bill," and who are glad to know that he has achieved distinction at Vanderbilt as at Millsaps. Of class '10, E. C. Brewer and J. G. Johnson are students at Vanderbilt.

A VALENTINE PARTY.

(Should have appeared in last issue.)

The home of Miss Bailey, on High Street, was the scene of a merry throng last Monday night, the occasion being a Valentine party given by Misses Bailey and Bradford in honor of the Phi Zeta Sorority. These popular young ladies had bidden quite a number of their friends from the College and also from town to meet their honorees.

Several interesting games were played, and then an envelope was passed to each one which was found to contain a heart cut into a number of small bits. This heart, pieced together, spelled his for-tune.

The refreshments were very unique, being white cream with cherries in the center, and white hearts with arrows upon each for cake; while the place cards were two hearts with an arrow linking hem.

OUR EXCHANGES.

The Co-ed edition of the "Crimson and White" which came to our desk last Saturday, is exceptionally good. Some features of it show marked originality on the part of the young ladies.

"The Erie," from Meridian College is an excellent little bi-weekly. There is but one criticism that we would pass upon it, and that is that the editorials should not come on the front page.

It is always a pleasure to us when we receive the "Ring-Tum-Phi," from Washington and Lee University. Every edition of this publication is alive with breezy college news.

We are in receipt of the "Clark Collegian." The February edition is the first that we have received. The make-up of this publication is good.

The last issue of the "Spectator" showed improvement over the former issues of that magazine. The Spectator is numbered among the best that come to our desk.

The Birmingham College paper is a lively weekly. We have but one suggestion to offer in regard to it. It contains too much poetry and too many jokes for a college weekly.

We acknowledge receipt of the following exchanges: "The Scribbler," "The A. & M. Reflector," The "Varsity Voice," The "Hustler," "Mississippi College Magazine," "The Hendrix Mirror," The "Centenary College Magazine," and "The Cardinal and Cream."

THE STOLEN SWEET.

The sun upon those golden plains
Is not more hot than were thine eyes,
When by the temple's shining fanes
I took from thee that rose-red prize,
A kiss, Oh, Lotu!

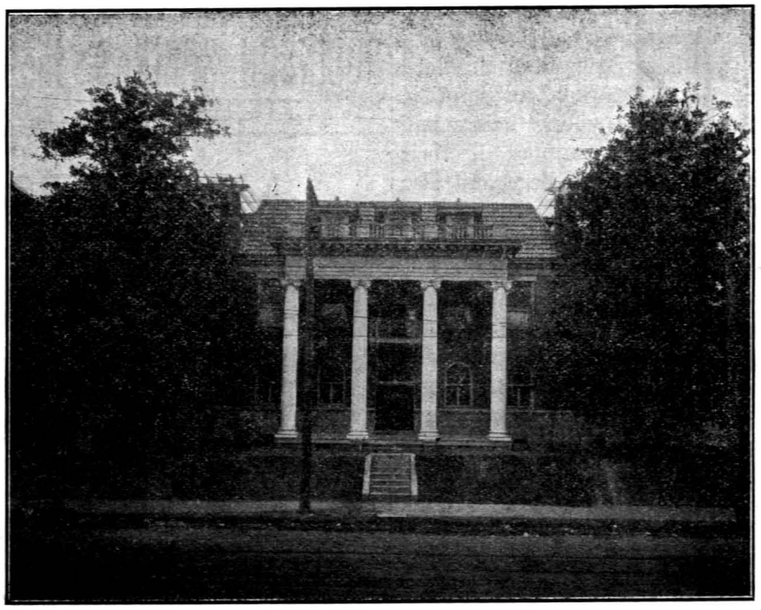

Yet ice upon a winter sea
Holds warmer light than held those eyes,
When, kneeling, I did offer plea
In that fair prize—that rose-red prize—
A kiss, Oh, Lotu!

When I had touched those scarlet lips,
And looked within those gray-green eyes,
More cool than thy slim finger-tips,
Glowing rose flesh seemed prize—
I kissed thee, Lotu!

THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION MEETS.

Reconstruction Policy Adopted. Ramsey Appointed Baseball Manager.

At the meeting of the Athletic Club Thursday last, a reconstruction policy was adopted and everybody decided to put their shoulders to the wheel and help coach Peters get out a winning team. During the past week baseball practice has been taken up again with renewed vigor and is progressing fine. Coach Peters is doing his part and those who wish to make the team will have to do theirs, as he positively states no man shall make the team unless he attends practice regularly and works hard. Mr. Peters thinks we have a fine chance for a good team and is pleased with the interest the men are showing in their work, and above all, with the ability and efficiency shown. The infield is especially good and the pitching staff and the outfielders are doing excellent work. We seem to be slow to grasp the idea that we are going to have a brackerjack team. But let this soak, we have got a team that's going to mop up, and make some of these old moss-backs sit up and take notice. We have been inactive and out of it for so long that it seems rather unnatural for Millsaps to be on the diamond again and we don't seem to realize that in a very few weeks our team will begin its schedule. Wake up! Get next! Get the live wire spirit and boost. Here is where Millsaps makes her debut into athletics and we must help to make it successful and joyous.

Games are being secured with Tulane, Louisiana State, Centenary and other colleges. Mr. Ramsey is going to keep right behind these schools until he gets games as well as all others in our sec-

MILLSAPS STUDENTS TO TOUR EUROPE

Profs. Burton and Noble to Conduct a Party Abroad.

Dr. Kern, assisted by Professors Noble and Burton, is organizing a small party of Southern students to tour the continent during the coming summer. They will leave New York on June 21 by the Hamburg American S. S. "Batavia" and return to Boston on August 21 on the Leyland line "Winifredian" sailing from Liverpool. The itinerary will include Gibralter, Naples, Pompeii, Herculaneum, Vesuvius, Rome, Florence, Venice, Milan, St. Gothard Pass, Lucerne, the Rigi, Swiss Lakes, Interlaken, Jungfrau, Berne, Strassburg, Frankford, Weisbaden, Black Forest, Cologne, Liege, Paris, Versailles, Brussels, Antwerp, The Hague, Schevingen, Amsterdam, Isle of Marken, London, Chester, Liverpool. The tour will take in practically everything worth seeing on the continent, and in case the members desire it, will be extended to include the lake district of England and the Burns country.

Not the least pleasant feature of the trip will be the fact that the party will sail on the same boat with the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority tour, which comprises twenty-four college girls from the north and west. Millsaps will be represented by the three professors, A. A. Green, Jr., I. C. Enochs, Jr., and probably others. English students are looking forward with much pleasure to the recitations that they will miss next year while Dr. Kern holds forth on "When I Was in Europe," for he has promised to bring back with him this time a full-grown edition of the celebrated "Post Card Trip to Europe." Professors Noble and Burton will probably return with "Trip-lets."

Upon being interviewed as to his reason for going abroad, Green hinted something about representing the Hickory Ridge Golf Club at a tournament to be held on the St. Andrew's links in August. Enochs said that the call of the land of Virgil and Horace had proved irresistible, or words to that effect; upon being questioned more closely, however, he confessed that Kappa Kappa Gamma proposition "might have something to do with it."

There is no better way to spend the summer from the point of view of pleasure, health or culture, and for a student a more enjoyable method of seeing Europe could scarcely be devised. "The Purple and White" wishes them the best of luck and a bon voyage.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Only a Partial List—Many More Games on the String.

After an interview with the baseball manager the following was ascertained:

Home Games

April 12. Mississippi A. & M.
April 14. Chamberlain-Hunt Academy.
April 15. Chamberlain-Hunt Academy.
April 17. University of Miss.
April 18. University of Miss.
April 19. University of. Miss.
May 5. Mississippi College.
May 6. Mississippi College.

The above is only a partial schedule and many more games will be secured. These games are not all of the games we will have at home by any means. Manager Ramsey assures us that he has practically secured two good trips away from home for the team. The remainder of the schedule will be furnished in the next issue of this publication.

LOCALS

We regret very much to hear that a fearful calamity befell our Social Editor while he was in attendance upon Mardi Gras. Those who have ever gone through the experience of losing their purse can sympathize with him deeply. But worse still, it is reported that he lost his ticket also. How did he get home?

It has been brought out in recent investigations that Miss Annie Bessie Whitson has a peculiar affinity for blue eyes.

R. B. Burks, who has been confined to his room on account of illness, is able to go about his work again.

C. E. Johnson, who has been home for the past week, has returned to school and taken up his duties again.

R. J. Bingham was called away for a short business trip this week. His friends hope to see him return soon, and take up his usual duties.

J. E. Reed's many friends are glad to see him out on the campus again after a short spell of sickness.

We are sorry indeed to hear that Keister is confined to his room with the mumps. It is hoped that his head will soon resume its natural size and that he will be able to attend his classes at an early date.

In a communication from John Green of last year's Sophomore class, we learn that he is getting along famously with his Medical Course, and that his legs have not grown any shorter.

LAMARS CONVENE.

Huntington Shines as Declaimer—Amendments to Constitution Proposed.

President Bingham called the society to order at the regular hour. After the usual preliminaries had been passed over, the president ordered the secretary to dip into the program and see what he could find. The name of one "Button" Huntington of Pontotoc was called out first. Huntington was on as declaimer for the occasion and in a masterly way gave the society an example of how an oration should be delivered.

The regular debate was one of the best of the year, as some of the ablest debaters in the society were pitted against each other. The question was, "Resolved, that reciprocity with Canada would be beneficial to the United States." Collins was announced as the first debater on the affirmative. His discussion showed not only that he was a debater of the first water but that he had put a great deal of preparation on the subject. Montgomery, in one of the best debates ever delivered before the society, was the first man to uphold the negative side of this important question.

When John W. Holyfield was introduced as the next speaker on the affirmative, the members of the society began to sit up and take notice. Holyfield always has something good to offer on any question, and he did not disappoint the society on this occasion.

Ross, the last speaker on the negative, caught the spirit of those who had preceded him and wound up the debate with arguments that were not refutable.

Judging from the length of time which the judges spent in the committee room they must have had a hard time in deciding the question, and as they filed slowly into the society hall, every member of the society displayed their eagerness to learn what the decision was. It proved to be in favor of the negative. Taken as a whole the debate was excellent. The debaters are to be congratulated on the work which they have done and the members who were present should deem themselves fortunate in hearing this valuable discussion.

After the debate a number of amendments to the constitution of the society were introduced, which brought on a long and heated discussion until the adjournment of the society.

PRENTISS SOCIETY

Doing Good Work—Debate Decided in Favor of the Negative.

The Prentiss Literary Society held a very interesting meeting last Friday night, one of the chief features of which was the splendid address of the two declaimers, Edwards and Whitson. Both of these men are well known speakers in the halls of the Prentiss Society and on this occasion reflected credit not only on themselves but also on the society.

The question for debate was, "Resolved, that nature is more attractive to the human eye than the art of man." It is useless to say that the discussion of this broad question proved a source of great interest and pleasure to every member of the society. The first two speakers on the affirmative being absent, Bailey and Brewer were appointed by President Gilmore to assist Fred Jones in upholding this side of the question. Well did they carry out the part, in fact, if the secret had not been known anyone would have presumed that these learned gentlemen had spent much time in preparation of the subject.

The negative side was defended by three illustrious Prentiss men, Spinks, C. C. Clark, and W. S. Burks. These men were all well prepared for the contest and each in turn fired a heavy round of arguments at the opposing side.

Although the question was debated with interest and intensity by both sides and although both sides fought hard for every inch of ground, the judges after long and careful consideration rendered the decision in favor of the negative.

Baker was elected essayist for one month hence. Baker has proven himself a good speaker and those who have heard him have no doubt but that the society has something good in store.

Another feature of the meeting which was of great interest, was the presence of a number of ex-Prentiss men. Among these were noted ex-President Wroten, Thomas, Barrier and "Blondy" Mitchell. The society called upon each of these men for a speech and was rewarded by many expressions of good will and sage advice on the part of these former members.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

tion. He thinks he will in the next two weeks get enough engagements to fill out a fine schedule. March 29 is going to be college day in Jackson, they are all going to close, and everything and everybody is going to turn out for a joyous time. We are going to play the Jackson Cotton States leaguers and endeavor to show them a hot time and in the words of the Siren make them rustle for their rep.

In the meeting of the Athletic Association the following changes were made. Election of athletic managers was turned over to the executive committee, whose appointments are to be ratified by the association. Willing Ramsey was appointed to fill T. W. Lewis' place as baseball manager. Ramsey appointed as his assistant Mr. Boswell and as property manager Cook Selby. We are to be congratulated on the selection of these officers and feel sure they will make good. Professor Nobles and Ramsey were appointed on a committee to select baseball track and basketball letters.

KAPPA ALPHA RECEPTION.

A Delightful Evening Enjoyed by the Friends of This Fraternity.

One of the most delightful entertainments of the season was enjoyed by a large number of the friends of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity, Saturday evening, February the twenty-fifth, when the recent initiates of that fraternity gave an informal chafing-dish party in honor of their brothers and Kappa Alpha sisters.

The house was artistically decorated in the fraternity colors and numerous pennants, furnishing an ideal place for a reception of any kind. The punch bowl was a source of the greatest attraction, being presided over by those skilled in the art who dispensed the delicious beverage to all as they came that way.

About eight-thirty the guests began to arrive and soon the large circle of Kappa Alpha's friends filled the halls to almost overflowing. One of the most noticeable things that went to make up the success of the event was the informality of the occasion. After the guests were graciously received and given a most cordial welcome by those on the reception committee, the entire house was turned over to them for their pleasure and they were made to feel perfectly at home.

Soon the chafing dishes were turned over to loyal sisters and well did they display their skill along this line. Many tempting dainties were produced therefrom for the enjoyment of all.

In every sense it was an evening most pleasantly spent and one which the participants of its pleasure will never forget.

Those present to enjoy the evening were: Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Walmsley , Misses Frances and Marguerite Park, Enochs, Rymes, Montcure, Dorsey, Yerger, Henderson, Atkinson, Lucile and Clare Cadenhead, Ragland, Gass, Whitten, Neal, Lewis, Steen, Wharton, Knowles, Clingan, Rogillio, Ricketts, Hebron, Smith and Adkinson. Profs. Kern, Burton and Noble, Messrs. Roberts, Tom Phillips, Yerger, Davis, Dunlap, Peebles, L. A. and John Phillips, Potter, Irving, Cooper, Taylor, Welch, Branton, Cole, Trice, Rogers, Boswell, Berry, Ruff, Moore, H. C. and W. F. Henderson, Rip Peeples and Enochs.

"Prof." Mooney has at last gotten well of a severe case of the measles.

Homer Currie of Raleigh, one of last year's freshmen, was on the campus one day last week. He says that he hopes to come back next season.

See Clifford for the Saturday Evening Post, The Success Magazine, etc.

Don't forget, there is going to be a first class tailor at the dormitory tomorrow. Have your measure taken and get ten per cent off; also express paid.

What is getting into the boys at the Linfield House?

Robert Cleveland Edwards, who has been confined by a case of the mumps, is now up and at his work again.

Taking into consideration a fact or two that happened last week, eggs must be mighty plentiful aroud certain places on the campus.

Dan Clark spent the first three days of last week at his home in Laurel. His trip must have been a profitable one as he has been puffing ten cent cigars ever since he got back.

Boys, come around and get Hobbs to give you a haircut to go with your spring suit.

Miss Mary Bailey, an ex co-ed, and a Jackson girl, spent last Saturday and Sunday at home. Miss Bailey is teaching the high school at Sumrall, and from all reports is making a splendid success. It always gives us pleasure to learn of the success of our co-eds.

One of the noticeable signs that spring is almost here is that one can hear at almost any time the doleful, dulcet tones of our young orators. They practice on the grove just back of the Dormitory, in the Literary Society halls, and sometimes in the sacred recesses of their own rooms. The Purple and White will probably publish a list of the most dangerous ones sometime soon, in order that those who do not wish to be tortured may avoid contact with these young Ciceros.

Fellows, make Sistrunk's your headquarters. He is always glad to see you.

The attendants at chapel last Friday morning enjoyed an entertaining dramatic dialogue, acted by Dr. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Prof Rickets, head master of the preparatory department. It was all brought about by the failure of the boys to respond in sufficient numbers to the call for men to practice on the track. Dr. Smith and Prof. Rickets insisted that if the boys did not come out that they themselves would come out and do what they could to build up athletics.

ATHLETIC EYE-OPENERS.

Quit knocking, put up your hammer, boost the team, and it will be a credit to you and to the college.

There is in process of construction one of the best cinder tracks in the state, on our own athletic field. It begins to look like that the fellow that can run and simply won't, just for pure cussedness and lack of energy, ought to be exterminated from the campus.

We notice that the attendance at baseball practice has not been as large as at the first. Don't be quitters, fellows; wait until the coach tells you to "dust."

That quartet of pitchers that we have now looks mighty good, and that in-field—don't mention it! It speaks for itself.

After that talk which was made in the chapel by Dr. Smith last week, we cannot see how a man who has any athletic ability whatever can keep from showing up for practice.

Come clean, "Preps"! You know that you do not want Prof. Ricketts to have to do your running for you.

Ab extra, it seems that the "caput mortuum" of all baseball skeptics on Millsaps campus should be relegated to the precincts of the college graveyard.

Take this tip, fans! Get wise! Keep in mind the fact that the first game comes off on April the twelfth. On this day we will cross bats with the Mississippi A. & M., one of the strongest teams in the state.

Come all you fans if you want to see
Coach Peter's squad of sweet sixteen,
Pile up the score as high as the sky;
If we don't win, you know the reason why.
Round up your rooters, make up some noise,
Get on your war-paint, Millsaps
Let all the skeptics snub, snub,
Send all the knockers to the Annanias Club.

CLASS SPIRIT.

A great deal has been said on the campus and even through the columns of this paper on College Spirit and College Loyalty. There is another subject that might be appropriately dealt with, and that subject is Class Spirit and Class Loyalty.

We do not mean to say that class spirit does not exist at Millsaps, but we do mean to say that there is not enough good, loyal men who will stand up for their class in any kind of a crisis that comes along. We would not have the gentle reader to get mixed in his thoughts and say that class spirit does not tend towards College Unity, for by the term we do not mean in any sense class antagonism. There is as much difference between class spirit and class antagonism as there is between day and night.

There should be a kindly, brotherly, friendly feeling between the individuals of each class that does not exist among members of different classes. They have interests in common; they are constantly associated with each other from two to three times per day, and a feeling of good fellowship should prevail at all times between them.

BOBASHELA AN ASSURED SUCCESS.

It is now several months since the Purple and White announced the organization of the "Bobashela Boosters" and predicted the most successful annual in the history of Millsaps. Today we see that others have caught the spirit which prompted twenty men to put up their money as a guarantee financial success.

The members of the Bobashela staff are resting upon laurels justly won. At last after many a sleepless night of work and worry, their work is practically finished. The material has been sent to the publishers and the editor-in-chief has received not only the receipt for same, but along with the receipt came a note, congratulating the staff upon the excellent material, asserting that the material for the Bobashela was in better condition and better prepared than any which they had received. This opinion has also, without hesitation, been expressed by local critics who have passed on the work. We feel sure that this knowledge will indeed be gratifying to every student of Millsaps.

At the beginning of the session Editor-in-chief Savage and his able band of assistants determined to get out the best annual in the history of the institution. From present indications their dreams seem to have been realized. Not only will the annual be larger than ever before but the members of the staff have been so enthusiastic in their work and have striven so hard to get out the best of annuals that it will contain this year a number of distinctive features or eye openers of which it has never before been able to boast.

Aside from the fact that it will be a great success from a literary standpoint, we are particularly gratified to know that it is an assured financial success and that it will come out on time—about May the first. For the past few years the publication has not been a financial success, and Williamson, our business manager, and his assistants, deserve much credit for the conservative manner in which they have guarded over the financial end and brought the annual from a vague possibility to its present substantial foundation.

We cannot ascribe the success of the annual to any one man, but to the united efforts of each and every member of the staff. It is a success not because any one man has done his work well but because every member of the staff has put his best into it.

The "Boosters" have done their share of the work, the staff has done its part and now the matter lies entirely in the hands of the individual students. We feel sure that every student who has a spark of college spirit wants an annual. Most of them are taking two or three and the subscription list has already run up into the hundreds. Those who are lagging behind will do well to subscribe at once, as we have been informed that the managers will order only the number of annuals for which the students have subscribed.

They say one of our professors who was in New Orleans for the carnival found telephone poles quite convenient.

Mr. Clark discourses quite learnedly of the time when Adam built his ark.

Mrs. Mary Bowen Clark was on last Saturday afternoon initiated into the Phi Zeta Society. After the initiation five o'clock tea was served.

Miss Rosa Austin spent Sunday with friends on the campus. Miss Austin, who is one of our former co-eds, is making quite a success of teaching now, in Yazoo City. We are always charmed with her visits, which, however, are all too rare.

"Jake" Bingham has discovered a new kind of "nigger." This particular specie is known as a "colored darkie."

Prof. J. M. Burton attended Mardi Gras at New Orleans last Monday and Tuesday.

Some of the fellows have it out that Coggin and Grandma Noel are coming out to enter the political arena on the suffragette ticket this fall. It will no doubt be a vigorous campaign.

Thomas Haywood Phillips and his little brother, John, spent last Saturday and Sunday at their home at Belle Prairie. They report an enjoyable time.

Sam Osborne spent last Saturday and Sunday on the campus. He won his first big criminal case several days ago, and came to Jackson to—celebrate.

Misses Flora B. and Eleanor Lewis, two of Millsaps most popular and attractive co-eds, went to Mardi Gras last week. Both of them say that they had the time of their lives.

Frank Starr Williams, '10, was at home Saturday and Sunday of last week. Frank says that he has a hard time staying away from Jackson.

It will not be long before we shall know where the contest will be held.

They say the Ouija board told what became of the "old yellow hen." Ask Dan Clark about it.

Prof. Burton and Jerry Montgomery went to Utica on a surveying expedition one day last week. No, I didn't mean they went on a surveying expedition, they went to survey.

Ask Skeate Williamson what to do when you can't get a letter from your sweetheart.

An alumnus of Millsaps wrote to Dr. Sullivan some time ago telling him that he would give a gold medal to the member of the Sophomore class who makes the best all-round average in Sophomore Chemistry. Dr. Sullivan did not announce the name of the writer, we wish he had though, for we should like to publish the name of the man who shows such true loyalty to his Alma Mater.

The prospects of a good baseball team are getting brighter every day.

Dr. Walmsley was out of town last Friday and Saturday on a lecturing tour.

CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES.

The following amendments and changes to the rules of 1910 were made by the Inter-collegiate Rules Committee:

Rule 4, Section 2—There shall be two minutes' intermission between the third and fourth periods.

Rule 6, Section 7—If the ball strikes an official, it shall not be considered dead, but the play shall proceed.

Rule 17—All penalties under the rules relating to forward passes, which heretofore have been applied upon the spot from which the pass was made shall hereafter be applied upon the spot of the preceding down.

Rule 18, Section 2—Strike out the words, "and taken more than one step in any direction." This is the rule which forbade a player to tackle or block a player receiving a forward pass until the latter had caught the pass and taken more than one step in any direction.

Rule 19, Section 4—If the ball, having been passed legally and having been touched legally by any player, shall strike the ground before being actually caught, it shall be considered an incomplete forward pass.

Rule 25, Section 4—Only three men shall be permitted to walk up and down the side of the field.

Rule 30, Section 4—Time shall be called by the umpire.

A new rule was added to cover a defect in the present rules as follows:

If a foul is committed, following a first or second down behind the goal line by a player of the side in possession of the ball, while the ball is behind the goal line or in flight from a pass or kick delivered behind the goal line, the penalty shall be the loss of a down, the ball to be put in play by the offending side upon its one-yard line; if such a foul occur after a third down the referee shall declare a touchdown in favor of the offending side.—Ring-Tum-Phi.

We publish the above changes in the 1910 Football Rules, as they will be of interest to our enthusiastic football men.

MASQUERADE PARTY—KAPPA MUS HOSTESSES.

On the evening of February twenty-eighth, the friends of Kappa Mu were delightfully entertained at a masquerade party. Every one came in costume, masked, and ready to enter fully into the carnival spirit of the occasion. They were met at the door by the White sisters, alike in every particular, and invited into a hall made gay with the society colors, college and fraternity penants.

When all the guests had arrived, partners were chosen, a white-capped and aproned maid played the grand march, while the couples lead by Doctor and Mrs. Walmsley as bride and groom, went through with a number of figures. The variety and picturesqueness of the costumes made this a brilliant scene. There were sober nun and fiery Mephisto, gallant soldier lad, priest and Gipsy, Indian maid, Japanese girl, colonial dame, clown, Turk and robber, wooden-shoed Fraulein, and long-trained mademoiselle, Little Red Riding Hood, star-spangled knight, Little Bo Peep, baby and hermit. As they marched, each took one from a large plate of cakes. Mr. Potter got the cake containing the coin, Miss Walmsley the heart, Mr. Ramsey the bell; and were accordingly made king, queen and jester. The king the queen were crowned, and each of the merry company did obeisance to their majesties. This ceremony over, all unmasked, and considerable surprise was created at the discovery of who was who, for the disguises had been complete.

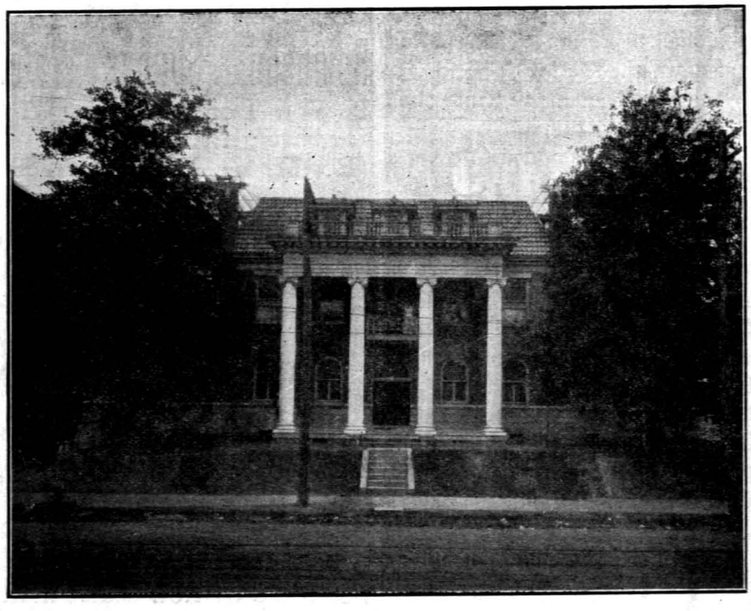

After the kodak girl had taken some pictures of the party, a delicious salad course was served. On each plate was a dainty white salad dish made in the shape of the society pin and tied with the green of their colors; an olive sandwich, also cut in the shape of the pin, and tied with green ribbon. In this as in every other detail the Kappa Mu girls showed their cleverness at entertaining. Later hot chocolate and wafers were served. The kodak girl took some more pictures, and the discovery was made that the hour was late, so the guests reluctantly departed.

Altogether the affair was a charming one. The Kappa Mus are rarely gifted hostesses and fortunate indeed are those who are numbered among their friends.

BASEBALL TEAM CHOSEN.

Clyde Irving Elected Captain—F. B. Smith Captain of Scrubs.

The past week has been a very profitable one for the team in the way of practice. The weather has been warm and the boys have been attending practice regularly. Signal practice has been indulged in and things are rounding to excellent shape.

"Rube" Peters, our energetic and efficient coach, has made the fellows stick to practice in a way that looks encouraging indeed. On last Friday afternoon the proposition came to a head, and the team was chosen.

Clyde Irving was elected Captain of the team. This choice met with the approval of the whole student body. Clyde is an excellent base ball twirler, and knows the game from beginning to end. Not only this, but he knows when a man is

TRACK.

A Call that Should be Heeded—Get on your Speed Clothes, Boys.

"Now is the time for all good men and true to come to the aid of their party." The time is fast drawing to a close for Millsaps to put out a fast and winning track team.

We acknowledge with bowed heads that Greenville proved last year to be a Waterloo. But that was our first attempt; we were in our infancy then. But now we are older at the game and it is up to the students to see that Gulfport does not become another Greenville, and to put out a winning team. And the general opinion of the students is that the Purple and White of Millsaps is to be carried to glory and victory this year. And there is no reason why the fullest expectations and dreams of the most enthusiastic "Prep" should not be realized.

Millsaps can now boast of the finest and best cinder track in the state, which is just now completed. Vaulting standards, poles, hurdles, shot and hammer, and all other necessary things for a track team are in readiness.

There are quite a goodly number of the students out taking advantage of these opportunities of preparing for the "Big Day" which is to be pulled off in Gulfport, where they will in all probability win fame and honor for themselves and their Alma Mater. But there is still room at the top for other good men. Every man who can run, hop, skip, or jump at all, should deem it his duty to come out on the track and "try out." If you do not make 'Varsity, you certainly have not lost anything. But have, at least, got the benefit of the exercises.

Plans are now on foot for a meet

PROF. RICKETTS MAKES ADDRESS.

Subject, "The Ideal Citizen."

Quite a large number of men were out to hear Prof. Ricketts last Friday night as he addressed the Y. M. C. A. on the subject, "The Ideal Citizen."

Prof. Ricketts, in his address, said that at present there is a greater need for a knowledge of what good citizenship is than ever before. He then read the fifteenth Psalm which gives to us a description of the citizen of Zion who is indeed the ideal citizen, the man who has come up to the requirements which God Himself has placed. Going then into a discussion of the qualities necessary to good citizenship there or four were named and discussed. The first of these is "clean hands and a pure heart," meaning the statement in its broadest and most impressive sense to take in purity and cleanliness of word thought, and deed. As a second requirement, and one which of necessity follows the first, is that of truthfulness and honesty; another a care for the reputation and welfare of our fellows, "he that back biteth not with his tongue nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor.". Another, and the last mentioned, was patriotism in the broad meaning of the word.

The note stressed throughout the whole address was this: "A bad man cannot be a good citizen, and a bad citizen cannot be a good man."

It is a thought which we may well carry with us and ponder often, and it cannot be stressed too much.

Prof. Ricketts' talks are always enjoyed and his words carry a great deal of weight with them because of the power of the strong and beauut ful life which he himself lives.

The Association is greatly honored in being able to secure as the speaker for tonight the Governor of our State, Mr. Noel. Gov. Noel needs no introduction to Millsaps

Literary Societies

MAN'S MIND STRONGER THAN WOMAN'S.

Prentiss Literary Society so Decides. Phillips and Bailey at the Bat.

The Prentiss Literary Society held quite an interesting meeting Friday night. The regular President, Gilmore, being unable to serve on account of his eyes, our able Vice President, Bailey, took the chair. Bailey proved himself master of the situation and conducted the meeting in a way that showed him to be a man of ability.

After the preliminary proceedings, the regular program for the evening was taken up.

William Phillips, commonly known among the boys as "Rough and Ready," was essayist. He, as usual, gave his hearers quite a good paper on music. The declaimer was Bailey. He apologized for his speech, but after he had finished, the Society felt that the apology was unnecessary, and gave him considerable applause..

The climax of the program was reached when the discussion for debate was announced. The question discussed was, "Resolved, That the strength of man's mind is greater than woman's."

The discussion was led by S. S. Sargent, on the affirmative. He took the position that a strong mind went with a strong body. He compared closely man's works with that of woman; emphasized the deep books written by man, and the things which he had conceived. He also called attention to the fact that it was through the genius of man that woman is supplied with some of the most important of household furnishings, viz.: sewing machines and patent churns.

The first negative speaker was Cleveland Reagan. He very dramatically referred to the spirituality of woman, saying that the stronger mind could more easily appreciate spiritual things. He hurled "hot shots" at the argument of his opponent, and closed by saying that the hand that rocks the cradle never gets justice.

Lauderdale, the next speaker on the affirmative, did well, and was followed by R. C. Edwards.

D. O. Mooney next came forward on the affirmative, and was followed by George Baker, whose speech was characterized by many funny expressions as well as some good reasoning.

In a five minutes rejoinder, Sargent called attention to the fallacies in the arguments of his opponents, and briefly reviewed the points made by his side. After this the judges retired to make up their verdict, and in a few minutes returned and announced their decision in favor of the affirmative.

After the second roll call the house adjourned.

Why does Dr. Kern hesitate to receive the compositions sent in by the Freshman Co-eds?

Dr. Walmsley (in Junior History Class)—The philosophers say we would never know the difference if everything in the universe were doubled in one night.

LOCALS

Boswell says he hopes the fellows will soon pay up their athletics' money; he wants some pocket change. Adams hopes the Lamars will soon pay up.

P. Friedman Daniels has the following roll:—3rd Floor Bible Class: Joe "Sphinx," Fireman and future Janitor; John Boggan, Vardaman the Second; Bro. Lauderdale, Circuit Rider; Bro. Baker, Professor; Crockett, Rounder; Bro. Daniel, Bishop; Howe, Trackman; Boykin, Student; "Flave," the "Weak-eyed;" Ben Rook, Genius; "Earnest" Reed, Football Star; Bro. Harmon, future Presiding Elder; Reuben W. Gulledge, Supreme Court Judge.

Prof. Noble says for the track team to eat hominy, "which will promote harmony."

Boswell (reading Latin)—The birds wobbled in the trees.

Clifford asked who is selling tickets for a certain high dive off the main building next week.

Miss Henderson—Who told that joke in chapel the other day about the tramp?

Student (watching Dr. Sullivan with an equation)—Say, Doctor, how do you know that's right?

Dr. Sullivan—Ah!—didn't I hear the bell?

Dave Glass was on the campus three or four days of last week on a visit to friends and frat-mates. Glass went through the Sophomore class here, and then went to the University where he graduates with honor this year.

BASEBALL TEAM CHOSEN.

loafing and when he is showing up good. With his wise leadership there is no reason why the team should not do things.

The personnel of the team consists somewhat as follows: Catchers, Hodges and Andrews; pitchers, Irving, West, and Ward; 1st base, Galloway, H.,; 2nd base, Morse, W. E.; shortstop, Truly; 3rd base, "Howson" Lott; outfielders, Trice, Butler, and Burkes. Utility men, F. B. Smith, Galloway and Weilenman.

The two backstops look good to the fans and will hold up their end of the plank, without doubt.

The three "heavers" are, in the words of an enthusiastic prep, "peaches." Whether they are peaches or plums or what, for that matter, they are right there with "the goods" any old day in the week. Irving and West are spitball artists, while Ward has steam enough to run a locomotive. Let come what may the fellow who knocks the ball over the fence will haveto hit it first, and it is not written in the Lamb's Book of Life that every fellow who meanders up to the bat will ever tap the ball on the side of the cheek, much less full in the face.

Henry Galloway at the initial sack receives anything coming his way with the grace and ease of a Chesterfield, while "Little" Jean Morse catches many a drowsy runner at second.

The shortstop station will be taken care of in the proper fashion by the right Honorable Judge Truly, a future candidate for Judge of the United States Supreme Court.

"Howson" Lott, from Kilmichael, Miss., kills them whenever they come his way, and looks so indifferent and innocent thereafter that one would take him to be as gentle as "Bearslayer" Coggin.

The outfield, with three such men as "Fatty" Butler, Burkes, the Randolph-Macon rising star, and "Tupelo" Trice, is exceedingly safe.

Galloway, Weilenman and "Frederick" Smith are utility men of no mean ability.

A strenuous schedule has been arranged and it will not be many days before the men will be warming for the first game.

Major Frederick "Gosh-darn" Smith has charge of the Scrub Team and says that any high school that wants itself completely and totally annihilated only has to make this sentiment known to him to receive a good drubbing from the Millsaps Scrubs.

The fan fever has begun to rise and a grand rally has been planned for the opening game.

Fellows, make Sistrunk's your headquarters. He is always glad to see you.

with Clinton sometime in the near future and that, in addition to our annual Field Day, will give all who aspire to the "M" ample opportunities to display their skill in the fascinating art.

The fates have decreed, we trust, that Millsaps is to have one of the swiftest team in the meet this year. The question is simply: Are you going to be one of the victors? Come out and see.

W. M. C., Mgr.

ON THE CAMPUS.

In Defense of Enthusiasm.

No one feels in the wrong when he throws his hat up in the air and shouts when his team, in the last few minutes of play, carries the ball over for the winning touchdown. Nor do we think shame of the one who bears down the street in a great procession a transparent sign with the glories of the championship nine written big upon its shining sides. When some great man visits our college town even the most sober minded are willing to join in the demonstration and deeply feel that thereby they are contributing to the recognition of true greatness. Some of the recognized highest and best moments in the life of educated men and educated women are those characterized by a deep and powerful current of feeling. We are liable in these days in conversation, in public lectures, and in books to hear much depreciation of "emotional state," undertaken by those who pretend to look down from a cool and lofty mount of intellectual placidity; but we find that, practically, even the passion-haters are foremost in the defense of those whose very spring of power they profess to scorn. For in history those great events that have commended themselves to the intellect as significant in the progress of man's development, have not in general been occasions primarily distinguished by the phlegm of the principal orators. A moment's reflection is enough to show that without emotion, and powerful emotion, too, none of the great movements in the campaign for liberty would ever have gone forward; they would still be in the discussional stage. And the very freedom under which the modern critic is allowed to keep his unqualified scorn on "emotional religion" was purchased by religious men and women whose hearts burned with the pure desire to break the bonds of the body and of the soul. There have certainly been religious movements certain of whose manifestations it is impossible to defend, yet the wrong of excess does not carry the condemnation of moderation.

Patriotism may run wild sometimes and lead to an outburst of passion wholly horrible, and yet there are few who will say that there is nothing in true patriotism, but a bare intellectual appreciation of the good qualities of one's native land. The martyrs in the cause of freedom, the great patriots who have served their land, the powerful leaders of great and noble causes—all these have felt the power of a stirring enthusiasm that has made them proof against delay and disappointment and opposition, what is needed is more enthusiasm in the interests of the noblest, and the purest, and the highest. And on the campus there is a call now for men and women with a world conquering sense of gratitude that Jesus Christ came into our human life, a wild and stirring joy that a just and merciful God is in His heaven, and a glowing and imperial pride that man is immortal.—The Inter-collegian.

THE STUDENT'S SELF RESPECT.

A strange self respect it is that prompts a fellow to keep the folks at home from knowing what he does in school. Strange, but perhaps better than none at all. Some excuse is sought to get one's own report into one's own hands, so that it will not be read by the home folks and shock them, and perchance start trouble that, in nine cases out of ten almost, ought to be started, and at once, too.

A much better brand of self-respect is that which causes us to make possible a report we are willing for any one to see, which prompts us to conduct ourselves as gentlemen when our fellow students do not, simply because we respect ourselves. This ought to be a sufficient reason, and is for a man, in the virile sense of that term. Why be afraid to say straight out in plain English that we will perform our duties as students to the satisfaction of all simply because we have set ourselves a standard? Some will laugh: Yes; but are we not strong enough to just let the laugh go round and go right on? If not, we are vertebrates, without backbones. A poise growing out of conscious strength comes to him who will not do the dirty deed of college life because he thinks it unmanly and wrong. Some boys poke fun at a self-respecting student. We are told that an animal once claimed that tails were out of fashion because he had lost his own. So it may be that he who sneers at self-respect has lost his own.

President Hull's talk to the dormitory boys one evening last week was full of sound advice, and thro' it all it was evident that he can and does understand college boys, and has a sincere and sympathetic regard for them and their affairs. The boys themselves feel very fortunate in having such a President.

Students propose, and the faculty disposes.

The Scrubs should now get busy and lead the 'Varsity a strenuous life.

Cheer up, old boy! The track team is not selected yet, and maybe base ball just isn't in your line, anyway.

The Seniors are accumulating a sinking fund to pay for those final specials.

Our athletic field ought to stir the pride of the humblest of us.

Y. M. C. A.

ADDRESS TO THE Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Sullivan Makes a Stirring Address—Solo by Mrs. W. B. Murrah Highly Enjoyed,

The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Friday evening, was a most enjoyable one. After a song and prayer at the opening of the meeting, Mrs. Murrah, the wife of Bishop Murrah, our former President, sang "Hold Thou My Hand." It is needless to say that every note was enjoyed and appreciated by every one present. The Association hopes to have Mrs. Murrah on its program again in the near future.

The speaker of the evening, Dr. Sullivan, then took charge, and addressed the Association on the subject, "God's Call to Men." In his characteristic, concise way, he presented the subject under the heads of (1) why God calls men; (2) how God calls men; and (3) through what God calls men. In enlarging on the first head he spoke of the two main reasons for the call, namely, the greatly enlarged field, and, therefore, the necessity for more laborers, and the fact that the world is becoming, and even now is a neighborhood, because of the great inventions which have drawn the nations together.

God calls men through the preached word, through the needs of the world presented to them, through His own Word, through home and friends, through a Christian education, and through the press. The fact that the world is awakening to this great call is shown by the great movements among the business men organized into the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and the International Students' Volunteer Movement. The first of these organizations proposes to put up the money, and the second the men, by means of which the world is to be evangelized.

The call of God to the college man was then presented. The fact that the college man has great opportunities places upon him great responsibilities. The call comes first for preparation. God does not want men to attempt work unprepared. Then, after the preparation is thoroughly made, the call for consecrated service comes. A man's life is measured in a very great degree by what he does, and his final reward shall be not according to creed, but according to deed. A life consecrated to Christ and spent in His service is the life that God wants.

The Y. M. C. A. appreciates the privilege of hearing Dr. Sullivan. Such stirring addresses as the one he gave last night are needed to arouse us to a consideration of our purposes in life.

Ed Neville, who spent last week at home on account of general physical disability, has now returned and taken up his regular work.

It is with much regret that we announce that Ernest Davis has been called home for the remainder of this session. Davis was one of our best men on the athletic field, and we shall miss him a great deal there and elsewhere.

Those who did not hear Prof. Rickett's lecture on the "Ideal Citizen" last Friday night, missed an opportunity which will not come their way again soon.

"Doc" Welsh spent last Sunday at home.

Joe Beasley spent last week at home in Woodland. Joe seems much improved by his short recreation. In fact, he looks better than he has for some time.

Spring is here, boys. Bish Rainey has come out with his annual pompadour. It's a peach, too.

Dr. M. E. Tynes, of Gloster, paid a short visit to his son, Roy Tynes, one day last week.

Johnnie Roberson, one of the old Millsaps boys who is now at the University, was in town for a short time last week.

Our friend, Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, was in town one day last week.

J. N. Stuart of the University, was on the campus last week as a guest of Ernest Steen.

If you want to see the latest thing out just look at Zip Berauds' and Lanky Rush's pompadours.

Dr. Hull made an able address to the men of Jackson at the town Y. M. C. A., last Sunday afternoon. His subject was "The Ideal Citizen," and those who missed it missed something that every one ought to hear and know.

Mr. Chisolm, the Assistant Secretary of the Sunday School Association, conducted the chapel exercises one morning last week. Although it took Mr. Chisolm ten years to find out what he wanted to do, it seems that he has at last found the field in which he likes to work best.

Harry Ricketts, of Memphis, a nephew of Prof. Ricketts, has entered the school for the rest of the session.

Judge Jim Ross, a prominent member of the law class, made a business trip to his home in Gulfport, which extended through the latter part of last and the earlier part of this week.

GALLOWAYS BOMBARDED.

Gatlin Shoots Heap Big Gun—Lively Meeting all the way round.

(This article was intended for last week's issue.—EDITOR.)

The Galloways were called to order last Friday night by W. N. Thomas, Vice President, President Zung being absent.

Thomas held down the job like a second Joe Cannon. On account of the absence of other officers, several were appointed—Mr. Wroten Critic; Mr. Huddleston, Secretary; and Mr. Cameron, Vice President.

The regular program was taken up, and Mr. Gatlin was called to the floor for the declamation. The rapid-fire gun was in good working order, and for a while we thought the Main Building was sure to be unroofed. He ladled it out to us in quite an energetic style See that your priming is in good condition, our young orator, for we would like to press you into service again in the near future.

The question for debate was, "Resolved, That the present condition of the United States Merchant Marine demands a Ship Subsidy." This is quite a big subject for discussion, and a large number should have been out to hear it. S. B. Lampton and I. M. Reynolds upheld the affirmative, and J. H. Mitchell and P. F. Daniel the negative. The decision was awarded in favor of the affirmative.

Quite a weighty question was brought up for the impromptu debate, viz.: "Resolved, That the worst pun is the best." We are always glad to hear deep subjects ably discussed, so this time we listened to our heart's content eagerly garnering up the words of wisdom as they fell from the silvery tongues of the debaters. Garroway, on the affirmative, won the question from Wasson, on the negative. It was a hard fought battle, and a well earned victory.

Cain, our Corresponding Secretary, having withdrawn from college, Mitchell was elected to his place. Several committees were appointed, one being to see about the slack attendance of some of our members—to see if some of their Vardaman enthusiasm could possibly be turned into the proper channel.

After disposing of certain other business, the house was adjourned.

VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, MARCH 24, 1911 NUMBER 8

BALL GAME SATURDAY.

Manager Ramsey has completed Schedule—Millsaps vs. Jackson on Cotton States League Grounds Saturday, at 3:30 P. M.—Track Practice Progresses Nicely.

Ramsey, our efficient baseball Manager, has at last completed his schedule and from a glance you will see that we have an excellent number of good teams on the list. Ramsey has worked early and late to arrange these games and now it is up to the team to do something. If they do not win a goodly number of these games they will not have fulfilled their mission.

The team has one slight advantage over some other teams in that they have been practicing for about two months regularly. This should show up in results, and no doubt it will.

On next Saturday, the team will meet its first opponent, when it crosses bats with the Jackson Team of the Cotton States League. This game promises to be a lively, hotly contested battle.

A monstrous crowd will be on hand to witness this game and Millsaps will not be in the minority. Every man who has a spark of college pride or an atom of college spirit about him will be on hand in the rooter's stand. There will be enough noise and war-paint for all, so do not fail to use your share.

If there are any fellows, however, who are too timid or too "sissy" to chirp they should be prohibited from attending this game, by police force, if necessary. A fellow who is reticent and timid when his college team is battling for fame and victory on the diamond is beyond description. There is one thing certain, he cannot expect to stand high in the estimation of his fellow students.

Millsaps has no reason to be doubtful over her baseball prospects. They are exceedingly bright and reassuring. If a man is taken with a case of "mully-grubs," all that is necessary to bring a smile all over his cloudy countenance is just to mention that baseball team, and if that doesn't bring him across just take him out and show him that new athletic field, that cinder track, and last but not least the place where that 142-foot grandstand is being erected.

Baseball is not the only place where Millsaps men will be there "with the goods," however. The track outlook is getting brighter every day. A score or more men are contesting for places on the long distance race, and at least a dozen have shown up for hammer, shot, and discus throwing. As for the jumping end of the proposition, some of the fellows jump like they have springs in their heels. Looking at the proposition from all sides there will be a mighty smashing of records on Field Day this spring.

Let come what may, however, more men are needed on the track; so if you can throw the hammer one hundred yards, run the mile in two minutes, make the hundred-yard dash in 5 seconds, come forth and show us. Don't stand off and knock and talk about how great an athlete you are. We are from Missouri! cite us! Then we will believe you.

Miss Galle sang a beautiful solo at the Y. M. C. A. last Friday night. Her accompaniment was played by Miss Hattie Wooten Harmon. We hope that they will see fit to perform for us again at an early date.

Everybody get in readiness for the reception of the Seniors. They get in this morning at ten o'clock. You had better take a few ropes along to tie those animals that they assured us that they would bring back with them.

Boys, it's time we were getting up some spirit for the contest. Our man is going to win there this year.

Edgar Lancaster, of Bolton, one of last year's students, was on the campus Saturday and Sunday.

GOV. NOEL UNABLE TO COME

Dr. Reed and Secretary Pinson Address the Y. M. C. A.—The Music Delightful.

Instead of the address by Governor Noel which was scheduled for last Friday night, a change was made in order to take advantage of the presence of Secretary Pinson and Dr. Reed who were here in the interest of missions. Secretary Pinson is the Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the M. E. Church, South, and Dr. Reed is a returned missionary from China, where he spent a long term of years. The addresses by these two men of God were most inspiring as they spoke of the great awakening of the heathen world and the great need for men to meet the call which comes so insistently to those who have the gospel. To hear and see such men consecrated to the service of God and their fellow men gives us a glimpse of what is highest and noblest in life.

The special music for the evening in the form of a solo by Miss Galle was enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Miss Galle has a beautiful voice and she sang in the most exquisite manner. The Y. M. C. A. appreciates the privilege of hearing Miss Galle and hopes to hear her again.

Misses Park, Knowles and Johnson, Dr. Sullivan and Messrs. Berry, Bingham, Collins, Coggin, Enochs, Green, Hart, Hollifield, Lewis, Mitchell, Philips, Savage, Taylor, B., Taylor, Z., and Williamson, are just returned from a Geological trip to Columbus and A. & M. College, via Meridian. Many very valuable things have been learned and specimens found by them. They no doubt have recaptured that long-tailed schizapod which one Augustus Gus Kelly caught on the campus in 1910, A. D. A more detailed account of the trip will be given next issue. "H—— Roaring" Jake Bingham is said to have caught the schizapod.

MID-SESSION DEBATE IN APRIL.

Lamars and Galloways will Measure Lances, to the Delight of the Students—A Gold Medal to Be Taken by Some One.—Some History.

Friday night, April 7, has been agreed upon as the date for the Mid-Session Debate between the Lamars and Galloways. The debaters selected for this occasion have manifested a very keen interest in their task and seem determined to give the public a discussion well worth hearing.

R. E. Stirling and T. F. Scott will represent the Lamar Society and H. C. Henderson and T. E. Lott, the Galloway Society, on this occasion. They will discuss the following question: "Resolved, That the condition of the United States merchant marine engaged in foreign trade demands a ship subsidy." The Lamars will uphold the affirmative side. The ship subsidy question is a very live one, being the subject of much congressional debate and consideration by the papers and magazines of the country.

This question was agreed upon by the Millsaps-Southern University debates in 1910 stated as follows: "Resolved, That the present commercial conditions of the United States demand a ship subsidy." Because of an unfortunate combination of circumstances this debate did not take place last year, but a debate will take place this year in Jackson sometime this spring with the Southern University; F. B. Collins and D. D. Cameron representing Millsaps.

The Mid-Session debate has long been customary between the Galloways and Lamars. Interest ran to such a low ebb in 1907-08 and 1908-09 that although the debaters were chosen by the Societies, the debate did not occur. In the fall of 1909 the Lamar Society voted to dignify this debate by

Have You Made Arrangements for Work During this Summer?

If not it will be to your interest to call on CARTER & WEST, Seutter Building, Jackson, Miss., State agents for

The Volunteer State Life Insurance Company

As they have something good to offer you in the way of an agent's contract.

"Say, did you ever just get so excited that it almost made you sick," or oblivious of the fact that you were talking too loud? This seems to be the chronic state of the "P. E. G."

Why such solemnly sour looks among our faculty and underclassmen? Three words alone will give the key,—"Senior Geology Trip."

Last Friday a member of the faculty applied to a senior the epithet, "alligotar." The senior is in deep distress.

Adams (passing tennis court at a distance)—Say, old fellow, can't you do any better than that?

Prof. Burton looks up astonished, and Mr. Adams, also astonished, scampers away.

Mrs. Burton's many friends are glad to know of her return to Jackson after a long absence in Oklahoma. The Co-Eds are especially delighted to have her back.

Certain members of the Senior class didn't seem very enthusiastic about sodding the embankment until they discovered that cuts for that purpose were not counted.

MID-SESSION DEBATE IN APRIL.

offering a gold medal equal in value to that offered to the commencement debaters if the Galloways would agree to this. They readily did so and today this debate is a very important event on the Millsaps calendar, and to be a Mid-Session debater is as much an honor as to be a commencement debater, for the two debates are virtually on the same plane.

Last spring J. S. Savage and G. C. Clark represented the Lamar Society in this debate and J. W. Broom and S. E. Williamson, the Galloway Society. They gave a very able discussion of the following question: "Resolved, That immigration is detrimental to the United States." Savage and Clark won on the affirmative side, and J. W. Broom won the medal. Broom represents Millsaps in the M. I. O. Contest at Gulfport in May. Savage, Clark and Williamson have since taken high rank among the students, thus proving this debate a means of gaining prestige.

A large attendance is anticipated this year as the men have their subject well in hand and no doubt there will be a battle royal between the two rival societies. An effort will be made to properly advertise this debate and the boys will be out in a body together with many visitors from town. The chapel should be filled to over-flowing and college spirit should run to the highest possible pitch preliminary to the Southern debate and the State Oratorical Contest which will take place before very many weeks pass.

THE ORATORICAL CONTEST AND TRACK MEET.

With the oratorical contest so near at hand, it is high time that we should begin to bestir ourselves to work up some spirit for the occasion. Nothing will so much help our representative as the genuine support of every fellow in school. We can show this support in no better way than to work up some genuine, heartfelt spirit.

The contest, as is already generally known, will be held at Gulfport. This city put in the best bids and offered the college boys a better time in general than any other city in the state. Considering its nearness to us it is naturally expected that every Millsaps boy will be there to urge our speaker on to success.

Everyone believes already that Jim Broom is going to bring that medal back to Millsaps. This is just the confidence we have in him. He is recognized by all as a leader. He is not only our best speaker, but also one of our best man. He distinguished himself last year by winning the mid-session medal, and by making the best Y. M. C. A. President that this Association has had for years. This year he was elected Anniversarian from the Galloway Society, and in other ways has shown that he is a leader among his fellows. The thing for us to do is to show him that we are with him, that we firmly believe that he is going to win out at Gulfport. Millsaps is already distinguished by the fact that she has won more medals than any other college in the Association since it was organized, and we want to further distinguish her by adding one to her list this year.

There is yet another feature of this contest. That is the track meet. Let us not forget this, fellows, and let us strive with all our might to keep Gulfport from being a second Greenville. Gulfport is our track manager's home town, "Red" Colmer's, and let us not humiliate him by showing up punk among his home people. Since his last week's appeal for more material, there is a noticeable change for the better, but there is still room for improvement. There are still more boys needed for practice. The new track is now in splendid condition, and it will do a fellow good, looking at it from every point of view, to get out there and run. Let us support the track team, and above all, let us support our speaker.

The Pinkerton Detective Agency has found the leading barber at last. Hobbs is the man, and they keep him busy day and night.

The boys vaulting, hammers, shots and discuses, keep the air full in the region of Founder's Hall now.

Judges Gulledge, Hopkins, Hair, Horne, Hunter, Saxon and others of the Law Class, have gone away to take the Bar exam.

Sam Carruth, who was a student here in 1905, was on the campus Saturday among his old friends.

PRENTISS LITERARY SOCIETY.

Spinks and Jones Let the Silver Ring—Senators Should be Elected by Popular vote—"Little Jake" a Conservative.

On account of a lengthy program in the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, the Prentiss Society did not meet until 10 o'clock p. m. Some of the less enthusiastic members suggested that the program be moved up a week, but this did not meet the approval of some of our young orators whose oratorical cup was full to overflowing.

The usual preliminaries were hurriedly disposed of and the regular program for the evening was taken up.

Spinks, the man who never fails to respond to his name, came forward with a most excellent essay on "Literature."

Mr. Jones reluctantly responded to his name as declaimer, but cheers from the audience seemed to inspire him and soon bursts of oratory came pealing forth from the silvery tongue of this young orator. He displayed much old time Southern oratory on part of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech and was given rousing applause .

The question for debate was, "Resolved, That U. S. Senators should be eleced by the popular vote."

Keister, being absent, Sargent was appointed by President Gilmore to take his place on the affirmative side.

Mr. Clark, first affirmative speaker, made a splendid speech. He contended that the election of U. S. Senators by the people would be financial, political and moral economy. He called attention to the late "Secret Caucus" of Mississippi and explained the evils that were common in such elections.

"Little Jake" Bingham represented the negative side of the question and in a few minutes he threw back the curtain and as he usually does, made the Society feel that the side which he represented was the only side of the question. Without "Little Jake" to balance the extremes, the Prentiss Society would grow radical.

Sargent was the next affirmative speaker and was followed by Mooney who did well.

The question was decided in favor of the affirmative. It being late the Society adjourned.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES LABOR COUNCIL JACKSON

A LEADER SHOULD BE CHOSEN FOR OUR SONGS & YELLS.

Elsewhere is this issue will be found articles touching several miportant contests and events vital to the life and progress of Millsaps College, especially that progress depending on the student body as a potent factor. Such occasions should be a means ond no doubt will be a very effective means of cementing the various divisions of the students together in one great body of loyal Millsaps supporters, that will arouse all the latent college spirit and lead to delightful demonstrations of enthusiasm. These Rah, Rah! occasions may seem a waste of time to some cynical observers but they are invaluable in drawing together factions of the students, and students into close touch with the faculty, and arousing the spirit of common brotherhood in the breasts of all. They prove that we love each other very well, after all. This phase of college life should be encouraged and properly directed at all times.

But successful and beneficial modern activity is intelligent and the result of organization in college as elsewhere. To give the best expression to the spirit and joy that we must feel when our ball team wins or makes a creditable showing, or our debaters win, or our track men finish ahead, or when Jim Broom plucks that medal at Gulfport we must organize, practice and get ready. We will do ourselves no credit unless we prepare beforehand.

So we recommend that a yell leader be chosen in mass meeting or in some other suitable way and that he drill the boys in yelling and singing our college songs. Never before in Millsaps' history has there been a better opportunity for this, or stronger reason to do it well. Much valuable time has already slipped into the past beyond recall, for our first regular baseball game will take place on our new athletic field the first week in April. Surely this ought to be a capital chance to make a demonstration of the feeling of gladness because of inter-collegiate games on a first-class athletic field all our own. We must back our team, but we must do it in a way that will not make them ashamed of our unpreparedness. We must inspire our sluggers to hit over our new fence in the pinches if we can, and our orators to let the silver in their tongues ring as never silver rang before.

The present session is without doubt fraught with great consequences to our future, and we have a chance, unique in many respects, to set precedents and innitiate customs that students will observe for many years to come. But to do so, we must rise to the occasion and start right. If we do not, Millsaps men of the future will not follow us, for they are going to be men of sense. Therefore, let us act as a unit in the most intelligent way. Our athletic dreams have come to pass in a great measure. Let us now dream of, and work for, a Greater Millsaps. Yes, dream and work, but chiefly work. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, however. Hence, we should have a man chosen to lead our yelling and singing and making merry. Get ready for our games and Gulfport!

That sodding of the athletic field was REAL college spirit, and athletic enthusiasm on the part of all who took part. It is an easy step from this kind of college loyalty to loyalty to one's country called patriotism.

WE ARE MAKING HISTORY.

The session of 1909-10 brought to a close the long and remarkably succesful administration of Bishop Murrah as President of our institution. Much of his best thought and energy was given to the task of putting the youngest leading college in Mississippi on a firm foundation deep and broad enough for almost unlimited progress. How well he met the demands of the situation is shown by the great achievement of less than two decades of existence, such that Millsaps stands today a success with the most gratifying prospects for the future. But, however great his services were to Millsaps; however much we loved him for them, Southern Methodism had watched him and promoted him to the College of Bishops last spring.

The Board filled the vacancy caused by the loss of this great President, not without careful thought, and weighing of the qualities of the available men. President Hull was the logical man to guide Millsaps to greater things in the opinion of the Board. The major part of one session has passed since he was chosen and no one who knows him doubts the wisdom of the Board in their selection. All agree that the destiny of Millsaps is in safe hands, and that the new era in her history that began with his administration will be the most brilliant of all.

But much labor was demanded of him, even in the first year of his presidency. In addition to the regular affairs of the College, there was a great need for intercollegiate athletics; the students were a unit in asking the privilege, and a movement was already begun to get the Conferences to take the matter up and turn the management of such matters over to the Board and Faculty. He aided this movement. Major Millsaps favored it: Prof. Burton, W. M. Buie and many others exerted themselves to this end. Finally, the North Mississippi Conference at Sardis agreed to all except football, understanding of course, that the Board and Faculty would give us all that Conference would agree to when they were given the management of athletics. The same thing resulted at Hattiesburg, and today Millsaps can engage in intercollegiate games, except football.

Our magnificent athletic grounds were sadly in need of grading, a fence and a grand stand. Prof. Burton and Mr. Buie again got busy and interested our best friend, Major Millsaps, who consented to give us the best equipped field in Mississippi of its kind. The grading is already finished and the fence and grand-stand will be finished about the first of April. Our first regular base-ball game will very likely be played on the new field and a fitting celebration of this event will be had. Later track meets will take place, for we have a first class track also. The wildest enthusiast could hardly have dreamed all these things one year ago. But they are history now. Besides all these the usual routine has gone grimly on, without interference. Many other important things have happened. Truly we are making history.

For whom have all these things been done? The students themselves. Hence, it is up to them to make good. Athletes must make good on the athletic field; orators must win for us, our publications must be the best, and good scholarship mustbe upheld Fellow-students, shall we make good? Even now we are in the balances. Shall we be found wanting? No, we cannot afford it. Others have made good history for us. Let us make some history for ourselves.

There is a new organization being formed on the campus, the name of which is to be "The Midnight Crew." For further particulars apply to Boscoe Berry and Skeate Williamson.

H. C. Henderson, one of the most prominent members of the Senior Class, and the efficient Y. M. C. A. Editor of this paper, preached in McComb City last Sunday.

INSTALLATION OF NEW OFFICERS APRIL 7th.

Successful Year Closed—New Officers Will Give Y. M. C. A. Good Service.

The new set of officers for the Y. M. C. A. will be inaugurated on the first Friday night in April and with their inauguration will begin another year for the Association. This set of officers will have plans for the advancement of the Association, and we as members should bestir ourselves and prepare to stand behind and push with all our might to make the coming year better than the one which closes with this month.

A review of this past year will show that it has been an eminent success and that the Y. M. C. A has been a potent factor in college life. The officers with the wise and able assistance of Dr. Kern have done their work well. In the spring of 1910 soon after these officers were installed a protracted meeting was held, conducted by Rev. Paul B. Kern, which was very successful indeed. At the opening of this term of school a vigorous campaign for members was waged with the result that nearly eighty-five per cent of the student body were enrolled as members. An employment bureau was established with the view of aiding worthy students to secure work in order that they might support themselves while in school.

The Devotional Committee has done most excellent work. The very best speakers available, together with the best musical talent in Jackson have been secured for the meetings and every meeting has been well worth attending. These meetings have been advertised by blotters got'en out monthly and by blackboard notices and other means with the result that at nearly every meeting every seat was full and men who came late had to stand.

The Lyceum Course of lectures has been handled successfully by the Association.

At the opening of the session when opportunity was presented for the taking up of Bible study and mission study work quite a large number of men enrolled and classes were organized and the work of the year planned. Quite a great deal of good has come from these courses. Realizing that a broad field for home mission work lies within our very midst, quite a number of men have been doing their part in lightening the burden of those less fortunate than ourselves. Mr. Beasley has made weekly visits to the city prison and there has done good work among the prisoners with the result that a Sunday School class has been recently organized. The very best of literature has been placed in the hands of the prisoners and on Thanksgiving and Christmas their comfort was especially looked after in the form of a good dinner. Other men have conducted services at the Orphanages and at the Old Ladies' Home; services which have been beneficial to the recipients and those rendering it. This city mission work is something that should receive a great deal more consideration on the part of the Association members, and plans are on foot for a more thorough organization and extension of it.

This is but a brief sketch of the work of the Y. M. C. A., which might well be discussed at much greater length in speaking of the class of speakers which it has presented, and the special musical numbers which have been upon its program.

The new cabinet will announce its plans in a week or two, and it is certain that the good work already done will be continued with such additions and extensions as seem advisable.

The meeting tonight will be addressed by Rev. Dr. Borum, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Jackson, on the subject of "Personal Purity." Dr. Borum is one of the best and most popular preachers in Jackson, and is so well known that he needs no introduction. As the meeting is to be one for men only, the special music for the evening will be at the very beginning of the program. The soloist, Mrs. Smith, has been on our program before and needs no special mention. LET EVERY MAN BE IN HIS PLACE ON TIME!

We are glad to see that Keister, who has had a spell of the mumps, is able to be about again.

LAMARS MEET & ADJOURN.

Move up Program One Week—President Bingham Exerts Authority to Adjourn House.

Friday night, March 17, the Lamars were at least an hour late in collecting in their historic hall because of a protracted and interesting Y. M. C. A. meeting downstairs, for they are stanch Y. M. C. A. men.

When they did meet, some rubbing their sleepy eyes, some nearly on the brink of a snooze, and John Wesley Hollifield, as always, mindful of the accumulating mental burdens and physical strains of the morrow, it was evident that no feast of oratory was possible and that none of Jupiter's thunderbolts would be breaking the bleak monotony of the two-hour period during which they usually sit in august assembly on Friday night.

One gentle rap from President Bingham's gavel brought the rugged veterans to order and "attention" and tall and straight as the Washington monument, J. W. Hollifield arose up and moved that programs be moved forward one week. Amid a ground swell of "ayes" this prevailed, and the President, with no athority except unanimous consent, adjourned the house and into the vast and commodious expanse of history the meeting went pall mall.

Well could these Lamars take holiday for Savage and others had paid their long overdue dues.

G. N. Hodges, of Weir, Miss., has entered school for the rest of the session. We are all glad to have him. His reputation as a ball catcher preceded him, and we are glad to say that he has proven himself even better than we had expected him to be. We now have an all round good ball team, which so far as we can see, hasn't a weak point. There is no reason why we should not beat the best of them when the time comes to play them.

When you have time, go over and look at the athletic field. If you are feeling bad look at it a good while. It's bound to make you feel good.

L. E. Havens, of Carterville, has entered school as a special student for the rest of the term. We are glad to have him with us.

Miss Austin, an ex-co-ed, was on the campus one day last week.

QUAE FIANT, EX HOC COGNOSCES

VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1911 NUMBER

COACH PETERS' SQUAD LOOKS GOOD

TWIRLERS, CATCHERS, INFIELD AND OUTFIELD SHOW UP WELL---PROSPECTS GROWING BRIGHTER EVERY DAY.

The Millsaps team has just emerged from two months of steady practice under Big Rube Peters, the Cotton States twirler. Peters has the team in fine trim and ready to go up against all comers.

The team looks mighty good, it is fast, experienced and strong with the stick. Peters is some big smoke when it comes to whipping old men into shape and bringing out new ones, he is on to every trick of the trade and has a rather forceful way of expressing himself that puts everybody on his toes.

The team is unusually lucky in being strong at every point, the outfield and infield are both fast, snappy hustling and in good shape; the batteries are about the best we have ever had; Irving, West, Ward, Hodges and Andrews make up an experienced strong battery. Irving, the captain of the team, is a born leader and about the best college pitcher in the state. He caught the spit ball habit from Big Rube, and several other curves that he has in fine control. He is fast, a good batter and a sterling twirler. West, the second pitcher, has the speed of a big leaguer under perfect control, and his twirling form is perfect. He is also good with the stick and fast. Ward, the third pitcher, comes to us with the recommendation of having struck out twenty-two men in one game last season. He is long, lean and lusty, possessing a tireless arm and plenty of steam. He is also one of the best batters on the team.

Now for the catchers: "Duck" Hodges is the best amateur catcher in the state making allowances for no one. He is all around a good player, fast, safe, experienced with a peg like a big leaguer. He is a heavy hitter and is a man that can hold the team together, and inspire all to their best. R. A. Andrews, the second catcher, is a good fast little man who will be able to back up "Duck" in case of an emergency. Sack number one is held by Hervey Galloway, from C. H. A.; he is fast, snappy and nimble with the stick. He is solid, safe and makes a specialty of scooping up the low ugly ones and pulling the high ones down. Second bag is held by Jean Morse, one of the fastest men in the state. He is a renowned ground coverer and possesses a strong peg. Hon. Judge Truly holds down the third. Truly is experienced, fast and possesses a good head, and is a renowned slugger. Lott and West alternate at short. Lott is another old head, being safe, sure and fast. West is the pitcher with the ball-bearing delivery and the high gear speed.

The outfield is especially good, being held by Butler, Trice and Burks. They are all fast, snappy fielders and good with the stick. Trice is an old head and comes well recommended. Burks is an all around good fielder and led the batting average at Macon-Andrews training school. Butler is one of the surest and speediest in the country and has a peach of a wing. Weilenman and C. Galloway are the subs. Weilenman is one of the speediest ball players on the team, and should Galloway ever be out of a game Weilenman will hand out all that's needed in the first base line. C. Galloway is another fast classy little fielder and is not only handy with the stick but a good catcher. The team is in fine trim and goes into the field with well earned confidence and ability earned by the steady consistent training of the best college baseball coach in Mis-

EUTHUSIASTIC MASS MEETING.

Cheer Leaders Chosen, Bingham Crockett and Savage—Boosters Organized to Get Men Out and Back the Teams.

The mass meeting held Friday night in the interest of athletics, was without doubt one of the most enthusiastic ever held at Millsaps. The boys seem to be waking up to the fact that they are no longer compelled to play in their "own back yard"—that they no longer have to sit by, idly, and dream of what they could do if they were permitted to play other schools. They seem to realize that the hour has come and they will be given a chance to show athletic ability and try their metal against other colleges.

With this idea predominating, they flocked to the mass meeting in bunches and no one within a good half mile of the College will assert that they did not demonstrate their athletic spirit after they assembled.

Immediately after President Lewis called the meeting to order, "Judge" Tindall stated that the object of the meeting was to elect cheer leaders for the ball games and to boost the ball team, track team and M. I. O. A. speaker. "Judge" was feeling rather good over having recently passed the State Bar and this reflected to some degree in his speech. "H—Roaring" Jake Bingham was instantly elected by acclamation as the one man, pre-eminently fitted for the position of "Lord-king and high-devil" of the rooters club. Jake has been cheer leader for some time and handles the job in the manner of a veteran. "Pine Apple" Love Crockett, James S. Savage and Frank Scott were chosen as his assistants. These men are all strong-winded fellows and when it comes to rooting, will be on the job every minute.

Prof. Burton then came forward

MILLSAPS GEOLOGY TOUR.

Eutau Formation at Columbus and Selma Formation at Starkville Visited—Royally Treated by Both I. I. & C. and A. & M. College.

The Senior Geology Class report varied and marvelous discoveries as the result of their state-wide tour conducted under the supervision of Dr. John Magruder Sullivan.

On Monday morning, March 20, 1911, this jolly company set out on the still hunt for fossils. Between Jackson and Meridian many interesting facts were noted in regard to the Jackson and Claiborne formations. When the party neared Meridian many showed great interest in the Wilcox formation in and around that place.

Only one thing to cast gloom on the remainder of the trip happene between Jackson and Meridian. When the train approached the city of Newton, two very valuable specimens of pre-historic man escaped from the train through the window. These two specimens were considered highly valuable on account of their close resemblance to the long sought-for missing link. They had already been named by one member of the party, the corpulent one being called "Hop," and the long skinny one, "Timballs." This catastrophe seemed to worry Dr. Sullivan very much, but with the continued good cheer which was constantly emanating from all those around him he soon became reconciled to the loss, and his customary smile returned to his countenance.

At one-fifty sharp all was rush and hurry to make their way to the waiting train. The train was reached in comparative safety, though some of the fellows did have to hold "Jimmie" Savage to keep him from following a two-hundred and fifty pound girl off. One broad smile came very near proving fatal to him.

At Artesia a short geological

ENTHUSIASTIC MASS MEETING.

with a strong appeal to the ball players who had not succeeded in getting their names connected with the first team, not to be quitters, but to work like "Old Nick" and roll some fellow for his berth on the team.

Realizing that some organization of the students was necessary, Prof. Noble, after a strong and stirring speech, called for volunteers to make an Exhorting "Booster's Club". As soon as the words were said, every man in the house rose and offered himself as a charter member of this important organization. C. E. Johnson was unanimously chosen as "Chief Exhorter" of this club. Johnson, when interviewed, stated that although he had not as yet completed the plans for the work of the club, he was getting the matter well in hand and that any man who has not caught the athletic fever will do well to crawl into a hole and hide as they intend to run him down in the manner of the Pinkerton Detective Agency.

The meeting reached its climax when Dr. Kern, representing the Bobashela Staff, hurled defiance into the teeth of the Purple and White Staff, and challenged them to a ball game to be played as soon as the "regulars" took to the road and the grounds could be secured. With equal grace and defiance, Johnson accepted the challenge in behalf of the Purple and White Staff. The game will be pulled off at an early date and those who do not wish to miss the niftiest ball game of the season will do well to be on hand.

The boys were next given a chance to display their yelling ability, and soon the halls rang with the college yells and fifteen Rahs for the team, Millsaps and our Faculty Manager of Athletics.

MILLSAPS GEOLOGY TOUR.

survey was made and several remarkable fossils were located. H. Roaring Jake Bingham followed a schizzapod for a mile or more but failed to overtake him, and finally returned to the station out of breath just in time to catch the Columbus train as it pulled out.

When the town clock struck seven it was a tired looking bunch that unloaded from the cars at Columbus and slowly made their way through the crowd to the hotels and other places where they were to receive entertainment. The Co-eds were immediately taken charge of by Miss Bessie Huddleston and some of the I. I. and C. girls. From all reports they were taken care of royally and it has been rumored that it was a matter of great concern to Dr. Sullivan how he was ever going to get them to come back with him. Praise be to his great ingenuity! He did succeed after a long discussion in bringing them home with him.

One member of the party yet persists in believing however, that one Joseph Beasley was the instrument of persuasion that caused Miss Myrtle Johnson to agree to return. Hurrah for Joseph!!!

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock Dr. Sullivan's Geological Army marched to a point south of Columbus and made an attack upon the banks of the historic old Tombigbee. The contest was warm and finally resulted in the capture of several aminites and numerous members of the lignite family. The march of triumph then started for the city and a glorious celebration was pulled off. After this magnificent victory, "Bearslayer" Coggin expressed himself as having no fears for the morrow, when the decisive battle was to occur.

Wednesday morning it was indeed a lively party that left Columbus in wagons for Plymouth —about seven miles north of the city. The party consisted of the following young ladies from the Industrial Institute and College: Miss Martha O. Eckford, chaperon; Misses Maggie D. Campbell, Mary E. Golding, Lillian Bradley, Annie Perl Lauderdale, Eunice Stratton, Sadie Mae Rosenberry, Louise Leigh, Mallie Holmes, Grace Carlton Evans, Mary Etta Eichelberger, Sara M. Naugle, Mabel E. Paschall. Mary A. Anderson, Ada Belle Drane, Ruth Harmon, Bessie Edwards, Annie Leigh Parkerson, Bessie Huddleton and Mary Calloway. All of these, added to the already large party of geologians from the Senior Class of Millsaps, made the trip one of the most enjoyable occasions possible.

Having succeeded in losing the right road the party did not reach the main happy hunting ground until signs of hunger began to manifest themselves on the faces of some. And those who did not show any visible signs remained silent. Taking it for granted that "silence meant consent," the I. I. & C. girls spread one of the most delightful dinners that eyes have ever beheld. That feast would have made Belteshazzar ashamed of himself. No one appeared at all backward in partaking of it, but after all had eaten until further indulgence would have been not only useless but foolish, you could hardly tell whether anything had been taken off of the table or not, as it still remained loaded with delicacies of every kind. But it is useless for Millsaps men to try to express their appreciation of all the courtesies shown them by their magnificent hostesses, for words would be inadequate.

After this feast, the chase for fossils was renewed, which proved successful in the extreme. It is not within the powers of the writer of this article to enlighten the gentle reader as to the names of all of these, but we learn that among the collection were gastropods, mollusks, shark teeth, reptile teeth, cephalopods, Pelecypods, Brachiopods, Bryozoanes, Echinoderms, corals, sponges, aminite, lignite, etc., too numerous to mention.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES LABOR COUNCIL JACKSON

A CALL FOR TRACK MEN.

The student body has issued a clear, ringing call to the men who can do things on the new athletic field, more particularly to men who can uphold the honor and good name of the college on the track. There is no mistake about the call for it was made in mass meeting last week. The track should be crowded and certainly there is no excuse for the manager's embarrassment because of the little general interest manifested. All praise for those faithful and solid men who have been showing up for practice. They have the true spirit. But there must be more attention given to the track, if we make the showing we should, and by all means must, make.

This condition demands a response from all men fleet of foot, strong or active. Their friends long to cheer them to thrilling achievements. Classes want their representatives in the mix-up, and stand ready to back them. The whole student body will back them, cheer them, and feel proud of them if they come forth and do their best. Millsaps College calls for her best men today. Now, to get to work and make good records, to train for the track meet at Gulfport in May. The men who win over the other colleges there will be the heroes of the hour. The crack of the pistol must start some winners.

Mercury, the wing-footed, would lose if he sulked in his tent while the race was on. Track men your friends, your class, your fellow students, and Millsaps College call upon you for volunteers to carry the Purple and White banner to victory at Gulfport. Will you do it? We believe you will do your part and that a creditable showing will be made. If any man has a lazy friend who can do well and won't, let him get this friend out by all means to track practice. Unless the present indications fail there will be something doing down on the Coast in May. Millsaps has decided to take part in the melee and she calls for her best men to train for it and if they respond and do their best all will be well.

OUR GAME WITH THE BOBASHELA.

Greetings to the baseball fans! For Dr. Kern has unmasked a tomahawk and hurled a challenge into the teeth of the staff of this great publication to cross bats with the staff of the Bobashela, our beloved Indian comrade, on the new athletic field. Needless to say that this challenge has been accepted and the game is set for Friday. We promise to do all in our power to see that our friends get it in the neck on that day, and to tell the public about it—those of the public who are so unlucky as not to witness the game—even through we suffer in the isthmus between our noodle and trunk.

We regret that the 'Varsity team must be away at the time for it is seldom that we consent to show the public a really scientific, classy, spirited article of baseball and the team could no doubt learn some things about the art of boxing the symmetrical jaws of the popular little sphere with the big stick from us. We have no aversion to this great national game, for we have patriotism, but sad it is that in giving this rare exhibition the two Millsaps publications will so reveal the charms of this unsurpassed sport that the Hickory Ridge golf links will be deserted forever more and the Willie Howard opossum enthusiasts will take to baseball. Track events will suffer for the boys will tire of their scant dress and desert to baseball.

The Co-eds will challenge the Preachers' League to a game of baseball. It will become the summum bonum.

Fraught with grave dangers, this game will no doubt prove a lasting benefit to mankind. How? Come and see it and then if the rind is not too thick on your noodle you will know how. The Y. M. C. A. Editor of this paper will twirl for us. His record is unique. He has pitched a no-hit, no-run game once. Chris Matthewson never did such a stunt, for our twirler walked every man, and running was not necessary. Another time he struck out three men, two doctors, a visitor and a by-stander. O, you fans! Get your tickets, for the rush will be great. The game will be called promptly at 4:00 p. m., and if necessary at 6:30 on account of darkness, the score will be 0-0 in favor of the PURPLE AND WHITE, the umpire will be mobbed by the spectators. Come along and have a hand in it! The war whoop of the Indian has no terrors for us.

OUR BALL TEAM.

For the first time in many years Millsaps sends forth a baseball team to cross bats with Alabama teams this week. While it is always problematical what the luck will be, we have a good team which has done some steady, consistent practice, and we believe the men will give a creditable account of themselves. There is one thing absolutely certain, the students expect them to do their best to win all the games scheduled, this is the confidence they enjoy on the part of the student body.

Win or lose on this trip, when they get back home and the first game is called on Millsaps field the students will be there with the goods so far as backing the team and rooting for them goes. Systematic yelling practice is provided for and a real college spirit is rapidly taking hold of every man on the campus. Good support counts and the team must have and will have this when the first game is called on our new diamond.

All our friends are radiant when the athletic field is mentioned. We are all proud of it.

Broom and Havens are organizing a vocal class. We wish them much success in their undertaking. We are in need of just a few more real good singers. Their prices are reasonable, and we advise anybody who wants to cultivate their vocal capacities to go to them.

The friends of Doc Welsh are glad to see him back in school again. The old boy is looking a whole lot better, too.

Judge Hopkins, the big, fat man of the Law Class, having passed the Bar examination all right, has gone to his home, to Sullivan's Hollow, to take up the practice of law. The many friends which this genial, good natured man leaves behind hope for him all kinds of success in his new field of endeavor.

Prof. Burton, Jerry Montgomery and Lester, are very fond of canned shrimp while on their surveying expeditions. For further particulars, apply to them.

Miss Knowles, so the Seniors said, when they came back from Columbus, confesses to an extreme delight in tunnels.

The students of Millsaps College extend to Mr. D. A. Clark, of Laurel, their deepest and most heartfelt sympathy in his recent bereavement. Lots of us know how to sympathize when "she" marries another fellow. Cheer up, Daniel Ananias, maybe you'll have better luck next time.

Mr. Mitchell (conversationally): "This is a very fossiliferous formation, isn't it?"

Columbus girl (ditto): "It certainly is."

HARRIS DICKSON A MEMBER OF KIT KAT.

The noted Mississippi Writer Elected to Sigma Upsilon.

It is the custom in Sigma Upsilon for each chapter to elect annually one honorary member who shall have all the privileges of regular membership save that he must not be a matriculate of the college in which the chapter is situated. In accordance with this custom the Kit Kat Club at its last meeting elected Harris Dickson, Esq., of Vicksburg, as their first honorary member; Mr. Dickson has accepted the honor graciously and will doubtless be heard from at the next banquet of the Club.

The Club feels honored in having upon its roll the name of the leading novelist in Mississippi today. Mr. Dickson is the author of The Black Wolf's Breed, She That Hesitates, Gabrielle, The Duke of Devil-May-Care and other novels and is furthermore a well known contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, his articles thus far having dealt mainly with Southern questions and scenes. Other writers who are also members of Sigma Upsilon are James Lane Allen, John Fox, Jr., Frank Waller Allen, P. D. McCallum, Hubert G. Shearin, and Lawrence G. Painter.

HON. W. H. WATKINS TO SPEAK TONIGHT.

Subject of Address, "Nerve"—Other Notes from This Organization.

For various reasons the meeting planned for the Y. M. C. A. last Friday night was postponed. The address and solo will be had at some time in the near future.

The address for tonight will be delivered by Hon. W. H. Watkins. Mr. Watkins is considered as one of the best lawyers in the State of Mississippi and his ability as a speaker is surpassed by few. The subject, "Nerve," is a unique one and bids fair to be most interesting.

Music for the evening will be given in the form of a duet by Mrs. Thompson and Mr. Hamilton.

Mrs. Thompson is one of the leading sopranos and Mr. Hamilton the baritone in the choir of the First Methodist Church so that good music is assured.

Remember the time and be on hand promptly.

Judging from the spirit that was manifested at the mass meeting last Friday night there is going to be no lack of this vital substance for the remainder of the year. We can't have too much of it, though, fellows.

In the Freshman History Class the other day, Mr. Hunnicutt asked if the twelve hundred guns which Napoleon had with him on a certain campaign were cannon or pop-guns.

One of the most interesting specimens found on the S. G. T. was a Phoe-Fossiliferous Perle" found by "Skeate" Williamson.

Dr. Hull was out of town the latter part of last week.

W. B. Touchstone, a student at Mississippi College, was on the campus on a visit to Tynes and Stirling the earlier part of the week.

Dr. Smith, the pastor of the first Methodist Church, conducted the chapel exercises one day last week. Dr. Smith is very popular with the College boys, for he has shown in a great many ways that he is their friend. We assure him that his visits are always welcome.

The jolly crowd returned to Columbus "just as the sun went down" singing and chatting away as happy as a drove of larks, and it was with sincere regret that the parting came so soon.

At 10:10 sharp Thursday morning the cry went the rounds, "All aboard for A. & M." Reaching the A. & M. College, at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the class was met at the station by Dr. Logan and his geology class who took them out to investigate the Selma formation. An excellent collection was secured of these fossils before three o'clock, and after a look around the beautiful A. & M. campus, the departure was taken at 3:45 for Artesia.

The A. & M. boys treated the class so elegantly that they were loath to leave so soon. Indeed the three hours spent in their midst eemed almost as brief as so many minutes. Those fellows are certainly a hospitable bunch and know how to make the time pass pleasantly for anyone. It is the fondest wish of the Millsaps Geology Class that both the I. I. & C. and the A. & M. Geology classes could come to Jackson and spend some time making geological investigations here and at Byram, only a few miles south of here.

The Millsaps boys feel that they have put themselves under everlasting obligations to both of these nstitutions for their genial hospitality shown them while they were in their midst and sincerely wish that the time may not be far distant when they may in a small degree attempt to return it.

Arriving at Jackson on Friday morning the class proceeded to take up their daily round of work, and all felt that they had gained much valuable information through the instrumentality of this trip hich they owe directly to the wise forethought of Dr. J. M. Sullivan.

SCRUBS MAKE GOOD SHOWING.

Capt. Smith Wants Games—Some Facts About the Players.

'Rah for the Scrubs! They're winners. Anyone who is so pessimistic as to think that the Millsaps Scrubs are not ball players had better take a walk over to "Millsaps" field some evening and see what is going on. These men are what might be called our "Near-'Varsity." They field, hit and run bases in a fast, snappy style and if some of those "old-heads" who call themselves "Regulars" don't watch out, some "scrub" is going to give him a close call for his berth on the team.

Skipper Smith hopes to get some games in the near future in order to give his flock a chance to test their metal. Plans are under headway whereby the team will probably go over to Newton and take on Clark Memorial College for a pair of games. This would be a nice little trip for the boys and should be encouraged.

The personnel of the team is somewhat doubtful at present, but will probably look something like this:

Charley Galloway, c; Moss and Hairston, p.; Weilenman, first; Kirkland, second; Smith, s. s.; Graham, third; C. Jones, Dorman and Harkey, outfield; Welsh, Hill Wilkerson and Lassiter, utility men.

Galloway, the catcher, is regarded as one of the best ball-players in school. He not only does big mitt work in grand style but is a veritable son of swat. In the recent game with the high school he secured two singles and a healthy three-bagger.

Moss and Hairston are both regarded as good pitchers and give promise of developing into excellent 'varsity men.

When it comes to holding down the initial bag there's not a man in school who can put it over Dick Weilenman. Dick handles the bal, in the manner of a leaguer and as soon as he gets his batting eye in a little better shape will be ready for faster company.

Kirkland, on second, looks mighty good and accepts every chance that comes anywhere near his territory.

Captain Fred Smith is perfectly at home at short and will take care

MILLSAPS TAKES THREE STRAIGHTS

Snappy Game, Resulting 5-3, 2-1 and 4-2 Over Marion Institute.

Glory-leujah! Likewise, Selah! and also Whoopee!

Put on the smile that won't come off and whoop her up! Three up ---three down, and three to go. Lay down your hammers, ye pessimistic knockers and join the Joy-Crew and the Rooters Club. Big Rube's dream has come true, and now at last Millsaps will have to awake to the fact that we have got the speediest, mop-uppiest team in the country. Each pitcher won his game, backed by the best the team had in them. Irvin does some of the classiest twirling ever beheld at Marion. He handed out a line of assorted spit balls and greased benders that so completely fussed the Marion-ites that they were able to secure only two scores to our five. Our team not only out-played the others but almost batted their pitcher out of the box. The Millsaps aggregation, with the exception of a few errors would have held them down to one score instead of two. It is said that the hit that brought in two runs in the last of the fifth was enacted by Hon. Judge Truly, the near deposed third baseman. The support of the field and short-stop was exceptionally good. The Millsaps batteries, Irving and Hodges; the Marion, Lane and Johnson.

Our second mop-up was officiated by Ward, and was distinctly a pitcher's battle, in which the Millsaps man came out victor in a tough fought mill. Ward hurled a fast game, rich in steamy benders and marked by cool headwork. The team was steadier and played more consistent ball, and worked together much better than in the previous game, showing their steady rate of improvement, and that they are not yet at their best. Quoting King Pullen, in the Clarion-Ledger, "Millsaps out-hit Marion, which with Ward's brilliant hurling, won the game." It was a close score, two to one. The fielding on both sides was fast, while Millasps again showed strong on the bases. Good base running helped materially to win the game.

The third joy shock struck here late Saturday afternoon in the shape of a telegram to the property-manager saying, "West won his game, four to two." This intelligence almost set the rah, zah boys off their noodles for joy. Three straights was almost too good to believe. West completely baffled the Marion boys with his speed and assortment of curlers. His ball-bearing delivery and greased-lightning speed made the Marion bats superfluous, un-needed and uncalled for articles for any use at all. The bases again were particularly strong and the whole team showed marked improvement even on the previous game. The batting —the most essential fundamental of a ball-team—was decidedly strong and regular.

On Monday the team went up against the Southern University, where we expected to drag off a pair of games and give them an uneasy victory on the third. The Monday's game resulted in SOUTHERN-MILLSAPS DEBATE.

Will Probably Take Place at Same Time as Series of Games With S.U.

While the exact date of the Southern-Millsaps Debate has not been agreed upon, it is likely that it will be held about May 15th, just before the first baseball game of the series with the Southern University to be played on Millsaps field. The debate promises to be especially interesting this year as it will occur in this city where all the students will be permitted to reap the benefits of this great discussion.

F. B. Collins and D. D. Cameron, representing Millsaps, will uphold the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That American cities with a population of 4,000 and upwards should adopt a commission form of government." Collins and Cameron are both past masters in the art of debating and as they have been preparing for this, the students feel that they will be found not wanting on this important occasion. We hope to take the debate and the series of ball games also.

Looking back over the history of this debate we see that in 1908 Jeff Collins and Jim Blount carried the purple and white to victory.

At that time Millsaps had won two-thirds of these contests. In 1909, Bob Mullens and Bob Ruff lost, and last year the debate was called off on account of the illness of one of the debaters. Jones and Johnson were chosen for the debate and doubtless would have won if the event had come off.

MID-SESSION DEBATE POSTPONED.

Will Occur April 14th.

On account of unfortunate circumstances the Mid-Session Debate set for tonight has been postponed. It will occur Friday night, Apr. 14.

On the first day of April scientists were interested in a strange and terrible occurrence at the Linfield House. Knives and forks exhibited an unnatural tendency to cling to the table-cloth,—indeed by main strength alone were they persuaded to overcome their hesitancy to separate. And the multitude marveled at these signs and wonders.

..What is truth to a local editor!..

Dr. Sullivan's carriage of state seems to have joined a certain "midnight crew" mentioned before in these columns.

Dan Clark has taken a sudden and violent interest in society. He is an ardent student of the Terpsichorean art.

Weinstein's girl passed through Jackson on her way from New Orleans on the first of April.

Freshman Co-Ed (sadly): The world's the worst place on earth!

The seventy-fifth birthday of Mr. Carnegie was celebrated with a gift of $2,500,000 to the Carnegie Technical Schools. This makes a total of $20,000,000 given to this cause.

bleachers, clashed Big Johnson's "Bear Cats" and Jim Savage's "Bighting Bilboes." The same august bodies not being zoolites or wild animaliculae, but the representatives of the Purple and White and Bobashela staffs. These noted and skillful penjammers having tossed up, Sylvestus Pinapple Crocket, our armoured imp, unanimously decided that the Bighting Bilboes must take the field. At the early beginning of the first spasm the society editor, alias Dent Thompson, walked gently up to the pot and when the dim gray dust had raised was seen gracefully reposing on second base. At this, the Bob pitcher, Glow Worm Ginn Lewis put on a pained and hydrophobius look and determined to wholly exterminate and smear all over the scenery our special reporter, Boswell, who was next to the pan. But "Bos" waded in to an all steamy one, knocked it thru and passed the Bob's second baseman, who had his mind upon ulterior things and his learned eye cocked on infinity, and thus musing the foolish disk slid by. Then amid the roars of the grand-stand Thompson made the first score.

Two outs and Glow Worm Ginn Lewis, Bighting Bilboes' best bender grasped the stick. But Parson Henderson only allows him a bingle and thus died he on first. Dr. Kern next came up (to that which is vulgarly termed pot), and having intellectually and theoretically selected a striking instrument, took his position according to Spalding's "How to Play Ball." Then with ball in one hand and mile-book in the other he technically smote the ball to the outer garden. But his logic gave out and he was tagged on second. Capt. Savage went out on a fly and T. Haymaker Phillips gloriously fanned. Nothing of particular importance transpired during the second spasm except Hon. Cameron was struck on the tail of his glorious green Camony and the aforesaid garment nearly tore in twice.

In the next spasm Glow Gum Lewis ties score by a warm soak to the outer garden. Brother Wroten is next smitten below the posterior collar button and wends his howling way to first. Then the Club editor of the Bobs scores amid much tumultuous joy howling.

During the fourth spasm the action increased and both Galloway and R. Danderoff Peets made the circuit for the Bear Cats, while Judge Ben Tindall officiated in the circuit line for the Bob. In the fifth inning Frankfurter Scott made his heroic wade from first to second and Boswell and Galloway score.

Here ended the number of spasms agreed upon by the captains and Ump. Crockett announced victory for the Bear Cats 5 to 3. As a sequel to this three more spasms transpired resulting 3 to 1 for the Bob. During the first Boswell crosses home plate for the P. & W., and Lewis, Kern and Tindall do likewise for the Bob. Two more uneventful spasms ensue and then the grand relapse. The line-up:

Henderson	p.	Lewis
Scott	1 b.	Williamson
Boswell	2 b.	Kern
Peets	3 b.	Phillips

of every hot one that the opposing batters succeed in planting in his neighborhood.

The difficult corner, third, is in the hands of Graham, who is an all 'round athlete and fields his position well.

The outfield will be well taken cars of by Jones, Dorman and Harkey who are all fast, snappy fielders and handle the stick well.

Other men who are showing up well in practice, and are liable to oust someone for a job on the team are Welsh, Hill, Wilkerson and Lassater.

Welsh is an experienced ball player, but didn't show up for practice until this week, and Captain Smith says that he is sure of a position on the team if he comes out to practice. The other men are good ball players and should be encouraged.

Richard Baxter Alexander passed through Jackson one day last week on his way home from Cooper's Well, where he has been to regain his health.

Hon. Albert Augustus Green Will Represent Senior Class Patriot's Day.

At a meeting of the Senior Class last Monday morning "Bearslayer" Coggin presented his resignation as Patriot Day speaker. For a moment the class sat in silent meditation upon the method of electing a man to fill this honorable and responsible position. Some desired the secret caucus system while others feared the danger of electing a "black horse." Suddenly the monotony was broken and all became of one mind, and the Right Honorable Albert Augustus Green, Jr., was elected by a unanimous vote. Although he was not present at the election, when he appeared on the campus, the entire class congratulated him in a body and spoke of their confidence in him upon this great occasion.

He promises the class to reproduce one of his famous masterpieces on this occasion, and there will no doubt be a large audience out from town to hear this one great speaker, for it will be a rare treat to those who are fortunate enough to hear him.

POWER OF SILENT SERMON AND PERSONAL WORK.

The following statement from another college taken from "Association Men" should mean much to us in our consideration of our own Bible Study work: "Bible study among our dormitory men was uphill work, but out of it grew a few choice spirits and a few hungry men were found upon whom we began what we expected to be a small Bible class of fundamental study this year; but, instead of the small class it has been a busy organization for getting hold of the men and tying them up to religious interests. Two of the members of the class were anti-Christians eight months ago. It is revolutionizing the spirit of our dormitory. The genius of it is probably one man of great spiritual power who has simply needed a little sympathy to turn loose his Niagara of spiritual power. Another Bible class is being built on the personal effort of one young man who was found and found himself in the class last year. It is delightful to notice the growth of spiritual atmosphere as the result of these two groups.

Just ask Clifford about how he April-fooled the Linfield House boys.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES LABOR COUNCIL JACKSON

SUCCESS OF OUR TEAM.

Genuine, whole-souled, all-round rejoicing and gladness followed the announcement of each victory of our baseball team in Alabama. We have dreamed of and worked for the privilege of taking part in inter-collegiate games. It is ours at last. The students are being drawn together as they could not be before. We cannot all get together on class games as is natural. But we are essentially a unit in backing the 'Varsity team. We believe the only desire of the student body now is that we put out the best aggregation of baseball men possible. If there is a man on the scrub team that is better than a Varsity man the students want to see him on the Varsity team. Every man must show up best to hold his place. This is necessary for our college to make its best showing and the interest of the college should be paramount.

We must take every game that is played on Millsaps field if there is a ghost of a chance. Our team has had steady practice and has shown up well on the Alabama trip. We are going to back the boys here at home, and we are going to win or know the reason why not.

It is reported that there are two or three boys in school who don't know who is playing on our team. If there is one such the exhorters club ought to go to his room at midnight tonight and visit upon him the severest punishment that it has in stock, and, after it is through, call in the wildcats.

SIGNS OF TIMES AND FUTURE NEEDS.

That coat of paint has added greatly to the appearance of the James Observatory. Last summer the dormitory was greatly improved and no doubt it will later be further repaired and touched up. This spring the athletic field has been graded, is being fenced, and a magnificent grand-stand is about finished. Besides, we have a first-class cinder track. Surely Millsaps is taking on new life if outward and visible signs are any indication.

The plan of turning over the dormitory to the preparatory department exclusively, when executed will oust the college men and necessitate the erection at some future time of a thoroughly modern and well equipped dormitory for the accommodation of college students. It seems to us that this must come sooner or later, for there is no substitute for the dormitory in college life. It serves as a center of student-life, is a hotbed of college spirit, promotes the democratic spirit and feeling of brotherhood, gives the student a practical knowledge of men to be had nowhere else, and directly promotes unity and strength of the entire student body. Again, when properly managed, it promotes economy and effectively aids those students who must make their own way and the parents who send their sons to college only by the most noble self-denial. No institution that stands for education of a high standard for the poor as well as the rich youth of the country can fail to provide for the poor boy. Again no college that hopes to put out the strongest possible alumni can do so, for many of the greatest leaders of church and state, the greatest men, came from this same class of poor college boys. Perhaps the best way to cut down the ever-increasing cost of student living is to build and manage well a good dormitory.

Millsaps College was founded with the view of providing the best possible educational advantages at lowest reasonable cost. Therefore, we believe that a first-class, commodious, up-to-date dormitory for college students, will be erected to meet the demands of college conditions and supply the needs of the poor boy. We hope that this can be done in the near future, for it would be a sound contribution to the new life now being manifested.

POWER OF SILENT SERMONS

Men are coming to realize more and more that the silent sermon preached in one's everyday life is more powerful for good or evil than all the words that could be said when unsupported by a life in accord with them. The power of personal work and influence is clearly shown in the following extract from "Association Men."

"The goal of Jesus Christ was the hearts of men. His word to a palsied man 'Arise and walk' was great but His 'Thy sins be forgiven thee' was greater. . . When the disciples fed five thousand they did the biggest thing they had ever attempted. But He led them to a greater thing for the joy of which they were ready at last to lay down their lives. He gave them a passion for the hearts of men. . . And because of this passion, made practical in good works, but never lost in them, the record says, 'They were added to the church daily, such as were being saved.' Such an objective kept clear and such a passion, not only felt but lived, always means a harvest.

"A brakeman came into the office of one of our secretaries, and told him of the long illness and death of his wife in a distant city. Discouraged, he had left the city secretly with his debts unpaid. 'But there is something about this place,' he said, 'that makes me ashamed to have left things so, and today I sent the money to pay my debts. I'm going to be a straight man from now on.' The man whose objective is the hearts of men, will often find his office an inquiry room through which many a railroad man will come to know his Lord as this one did.

"Out of groups of men in shops, round houses, lobby meetings and Bible classes, the harvest is gathered daily. 'I've been a fool,' said a big machinist after a recent shop meeting. 'I follow Jesus Christ from today,'—and he kept his promise.

"A man can't work in these yards for twenty-four hours without having an invitation to become a Christian,' said a switchman in a big railroad yard in the Southwest. When asked if he believed in the type of Christian manhood he found about him, he said, 'Yes, I can't help but believe in them.' Both this switchman and his wife confessed their faith in Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord.

There is nothing spectacular about this quiet ingathering of men. Where an Association holds as its ultimate goal the heart of every man, for Jesus Christ, whom it touches, there is sure to be a harvest.

FACULTY CHALLENGED.

On behalf of the members of the staffs of the Bobashela and Purple & White, we challenge the faculty to a game of baseball to the played on the athletic field sometime to be agreed upon, our team to be picked from the staffs above mentioned.

Luther Neill, the efficient business manager of last year's Bobashela, was on the campus the latter part of last and the earlier part of this week. Luke, while he is not looking quite as rosy as of old, is nevertheless in a good state of health. While here he attended one of the A. & M.-Clinton ball games.

Well, we wonder what's going to happen next! George Hi Moore has taken unto himself a pompadour.

Columbia has the highest enrollment of any American University. The figures are 7,429, of which only 1,456 are undergraduates, the remainder being in the graduate or professional schools.

MILLSAPS-HENDRIX DEBATE.

Will Take Place at Conway, Ark.

The Millsaps representatives, S. E. Williamson and R. D. Peets will meet Hendrix in debate on May 5 or 9, at Conway, Arkansas. The question which the speakers have decided upon is, "Resolved, That the United States should have Initiative and Referendum." The Millsaps boys have the affirmative side and are going to debate the question with such intensity and vigor as to make some one sit up and take notice. As this is the first debate with Hendrix, considerable interest is manifested and the students expect Millsaps to give a creditable account of herself on this occasion. She already bears the reputation of putting out some of the best debaters in the South and this debate which will become an annual affair hereafter will give her additional chances of adding renown and glory to her already brilliant record.

Williamson and Peets are both 32d degree debators and if the determination and interest with which they have entered into the work is all indicative of the result at Conway, the students have no fears for the safety of the purple and white banner.

The Campus in Bloom.

Where Golden Spring has stepped upon the Crescent Hill,
And down the little valleys fled,
Uprise, all new, to see the day,—
A thousand blades of grass.
On every little slope the sunbeams,
sleepy, still,
Lie soft upon a fragrant bed.
Uprise to guard the path of May,
A thousand swords of green,
To drive cold winter far away,
To guard young Proserpine.

The sky is blue, oh, blue, deep blue!
And far away, yet bluer still.
A thousand bolts of illusion white,
Drawn long across the heaven hue,
Float high above the Crescent Hill.
The drowsy breeze and leafy shade invite
To sweet repose. The campus, all a sea of blue,
Looks up to its no bluer mirror in the skies,
Allures with sweets the bees and gorgeous butterflies.

Cole Burns will be glad to tell you about his adventurous experiences in Clinton the other day. Ask him about them.

How many hats went off and how many yells rent the air last Friday evening when the great throng of people who had gathered at the athletic field to witness the Purple and White-Bobashela game, saw Cook Selby come bounding across from the Dormitory with his hat in one hand and his handkerchief in the other while yelling at the top of his voice? Everybody knew what that mears,—Millsaps had won!

The Sophomore Chemistry Class made quite an extensive investigative trip last Friday. Led by Dr. Sullivan, they crossed from the campus over to Asylum stop. Here they took the I. C. road, and soon reached their destination, the Jackson Fertilizer Factory. After arriving there they learned that they had just been preceded by the Senior Class from Tougaloo University. Notwithstanding they immediately began their investigations. The feature of the trip was scored by one of the co-eds who threw a chunk of pyrites into an evaporator of boiling H_2SO_4. After learning the various intricate processes of making fertilizer they retraced their steps and soon landed back on the campus.

Dr. Hull (in Logic class): "What is 'definition'?"

Mr. Broom (excitedly): "It's to say all about a thing,—and nothing else."

"You, grin-with, so,
Two kin-with, row,
To Linlith-gow."

At the ball game last Friday afternoon one round, some-time white travel-stained hat was lost. Finder kindly subjected it to a treatment of aqueous liquid and saponaceous solid, and then returned it to the library. For further information, see Misses Steen and McGehee.

Mr. Adams, "Put this purple in the Local and White."

Dr. Swartz and the Sophomore Latin Class are growing musical here lately. During the first hour on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays melodious sounds are heard to issue from the main building as the said class regales its esthetic appetite with the Horation odes. They have intimated that they may be able to be persuaded to sing on the day of the formal opening of the athletic field.

Hurrah for the Millsaps baseball team! Three cheers, everybody!

Get in your hole, all you pessimists who say that there is no college spirit at Millsaps. Recent events and demonstrations have proved beyond a doubt that you don't know what you are talking about.

VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1911 NUMBER 11

MILLSAPS TAKES FOUR OUT OF SIX.—SPLENDID SHOWING MADE BY TEAM.

Loses Double-Header at Greensboro.

The showing made by our team on their maiden trip, is beyond criticism. The four games won would have been five, if it had not been for a bit of hard luck, and that the boys were nervous about missing the train.

The double header consisted of two seven inning games. The first was lost because it could not be helped, but the second was ours but for a piece of hard luck and too much over-confidence. The first game of the series was pitched by Irving, and was one of the prettiest, fastest games ever pulled off on Greensboro's diamond. Our boys played an almost errorless game, and batted like leaguers. The feature of the game was the way Millsaps Hodges presided at the fourth pan. One ball critic said that his pegging was the prettiest he had ever seen, and that his place in the fans' heaven was cinched. Uwing let loose some of his surplus steam in such a zippy manner that Southern timber was superfluous. The outfield work in this game was beyond criticism, all these fielded a thousand and batted well. The infield work was fast and pretty and showed marked improvement over the last game. The batteries for Southern were Lyttle and Lane; score five to four.

In the second game, Ward twirled for Millsaps, and the Plough Boy solid made a hit. His pitching showed marked improvement, and was right up to standard. His speed was fine, and his curves broke right. The fans predict Ward the coming pitcher for Millsaps.

The game was characterized by fast, cosistent playing and good batting. The fielders still hold their 1,000 average and batting qualities.

The feature of the second game was a ball that was impossible for anybody to get, but was hooked on to by Jay Butler in a most easy and highly indifferent manner. West also showed up well in this game. By the way, he fielded his position and a clean three bagger he pushed way out into the outer garden. Morse's fast work at second was top notch. He proved without a doubt that he was the fastest man on the team and a batter of no mean quality. The batteries for Millsaps: Ward and Hodges; for Greensboro, Brown and Lane.

The last game was pitched by Irving, but Millsaps right here entered into maelstrom casualties, hard luck, and more so. The boys did their best,—used utmost endeavors, but there was nothing stirring. They were too confident ofa mop-up and expected to make enough runs in the last inning to beat.

Landed Millsaps Hodges caught one of the best games ever played on Southern diamonds, and Solid kept up his record as the best amatuer catcher in the state.

The fielding still held up to the 1,000. Batteries for Millsaps: Irving and Hodges; for Southern, Lyttle and Lane.

On a whole, the team did well, desserving more games thanthey really got. Our pitching staff is good. Irving, to say the least, is "a peach." West fanned five men straight in one game, and Plough Boy Ward pulled out of eight holes successively in one game. Our fielding was 1,000 for the series. . He got one ball. Clyde snagged eight hard ones, and Butler five. Galloway got fifty-eight chances at first and missed one. The rest of the infield did well.

Manager Ramsey should be commended on the way everything worked without a hitch. We all owe a debt of gratitude for the work he has done for us. It may be truly said that he is a large part of the soul of athletics at Millsaps College.

DEBATE TONIGHT

GOOD ATTENDANCE EXPECTED — DEBATE AND ORATION WILL BE GOOD.

F. T. Scott and R. E. Stirling will represent the Lamars tonight against T. E. Lott and H. C. Henderson for the Galloways, in the Mid-session Debate between the two sister societies, though mid-session has long since passed. They will discuss the live question: "Resolved, That the condition of the United States Merchant Marine engaged in foreign trade demands a subsidy." The Lamars will affirm, the Galloways deny, this. Both sides have indulged in the midnight oil habit, and something good is in store.

W. M. Colmer is on the firing line as orator for the evening, and he always gives something good to his hearers. A large audience is expected as the old time rival Societies will lock horns and will make this an enthusiastic occasion.

The Conference was largely attended from all parts of the South, and numbered among its delegates most of the Bishops of the Methodist Church as well as a large number of the greatest thinkers and speakers of the country.

A certain college president who was addressing students in chapel at the beginning of the year, observed that the Freshman class was the largest in the history of the college. Without pause, the good man turned and read for the day's lesson, the Psalm containing—"Lord, how are they increased that trouble me."—The Hustler.

The two Jackson dailies have been full of Millsaps ball dope for the past week. The editors of these papers have extended us every courtesy, and if the students want to keep up with our doings they will do well to watch these pappers every day.

Osborne Lewis, an alumnus of this College, who is now preaching at Raymond, Miss., was in town a few days of last week to aid in the singing at the revival which is being held at the First Methodist Church. Lewis is a member of the famous Lewis Quartette.

Tom Mosely, who will be remembered as one of last year's most popular preps, was a recent visitor on the campus. Tom's present vocation is drumming. What he is selling or whom he is travelling for, we don't know. He didn't tell us this. But he did say that he was coming back to Millsaps next year.

L. C. Kirkland spent last Saturday and Sunday at his home near Ellisville, returning home Monday afternoon.

Mr. Moorman, General Y. M. C. A. Secretary for the states of Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama, led the exercises in the chapel one day last week. He explained at length the workings of the Y. M. C. A. outside of college, and ended by extending a cordial invitation to all Millsaps students to attend the meetings of the Tri-State Convention of the Y. M. C. A. which was then being held in this city.

G. C. Clark has been indisposed for the last two or three weeks, but we are glad to say, that he is now all right. It might be added that his anniversary speech is finished, and that it is a splendid one.

Report has it that a sympathetic friend pulled Cook Selby- out of Pearl River by the heels one half hour after the report of Wednesday's games reached him.

Judge Jim Ross is now a full-fledged lawyer, and left the earlier part of the week for his home in Gulfport, where he will immediately begin the practice of his profession. Those who know him are confident of his future success.

ly entertained in the home of M. L. Spencer, who showed him every courtesy. Dr. Spencer is one of the most prominent citizens of Montgomery, and is a former pupil of Dr. Walmsley's.

On Monday, Dr. Walmsley ran over to Greensboro and visited his old friends and college room-mate, Dr. Stedd, President of the Southern University. While there, he witnessed the game which Millsaps won from that Institution.

Dr. Walmsley is a prominent member of a number of very important organizations of the country, among which are the following: "American Historical Association," "American Political Science Association," "Mississippi Historical Society," and "The Mississippi Valley Historical Association."

Not only is Dr. Walmsley, a member of these select organizations but he is author of the following excellent contributions to historical literature: "Unpublished Correspondence of Burton Harrison," "Mississippi Politics before the War," and "Early History of the City of Jackson."

Since his coming to Millsaps he has been a very active and strong member of, and is now Secretary of, the Faculty. He is ever alive to the interests of the College, and has contributed greatly to its phenomenal growth and progress.

THE DEMAND FOR COLLEGE MEN.

At no time has there been a greater demand for college men who have a highly developed moral character, as well as mental proficienly. This demand is not confined to any one profession or trade, but in all business and other occupations this requirement must be met. The man seeking a position has not only to give satisfactory credentials as to his fitness, but also has to give proof of moral standing. The demand for men increases with the competency of the individual and his qualifications.

Such being the case, it is a practical question for us to find the means of fitting ourselves for filling such positions as we may desire, and to do this with the best results and advantage to ourselves, we must cultivate at the same time both our moral and intellectual faculties. It is hard to conceive of the one as distinct from the other for both are natural and essential constituents of the progressive man. Should we desire to cultivate one at the expense of the other, we would find that we were unprepared to cope successfully with the conditions and demands of life. The business or professionial man no longer takes in his employ an individual without good references as to ability to fill the position with credit to himself and employer. With the addition of each year, stricter and more thorough is the test you must submit to in order to secure good positions; and when secured, the real test has just begun, for you must now show your ability in executing the orders of your superiors, or in giving directions to those beneath you in position. Should you show aptitude and readiness in grasping the details and nature of your work, together with a high degree of competency in making plans, then advancement and success will reward you for your efforts.

We can find no objections to this system, since it tends to cultivate and encourage honor and honesty among the employes and employers and to place the business world in general upon a higher plane of usefulness and proficiency. At this day, while graft and corruption pervades the most sacred sphere of business relations, if it were not for a counteracting influence, the business world would be thrown into a state of chaos. But with the American people, who have such a high degree of vitality and stored-up energy, and the majority of whom, on all momentous questions decide rightly, it would be hard to conceive of such a disorganized state of affairs. And espceially is this true at the present day when the demand is for better men. The business world is continually weeding out the morally weak and supplanting them with stronger characters.

With such a progressive people as we are, with advanced ideas as to government in its broadest sense, the ignorant or unpractical can have no place, but are left to themselves, to work out their own ends, with but little hope of final success. This applies in a general sense to the college man, but his prospects are far greater in proportion to the uneducated. All college men are not practical, nor are they all intellectually moral, but their opportunities are grand and their ideals should be correspondingly high. With the advent and increase of denominational colleges and schools with Christian environment and influence the per cent. of morally educated men has increased. The weakling is not to be feared, for his influence is infinitesimal; but it is the cunning man whose views are not in accordance with the spirit of right, and when such men turn their energies with hostile intent againstthe integrity of business obligation, a shock or disturbance is felt in that circle. No less true is it' that the college man, should he be educated or instructed in vice or cunning, could exert a great influence for the worse on the average college boy, for the average boy in college is at that age where he is easily influenced for better or worse; but happily these men are in the minority and their proportion is on the decrease.

The increase of this higher class of college graduates and the positions to which they have risen have worked a wonderful change in the social activities of the country, and have caused men to think seriously on these subjects. Their thoughts soon matured, and we now see the results—an increased demand for better men, men of integrity and ability. The railroads refuse to employ drinking men, because drink dulls the mind and drunkenness robs one of responsibility. If we take for granted that these great corporations have no soul, but refuse to employ men who have bad habits because these habits make them less efficient in both mental and physical work, they are not to be criticised, but commended for the steps they have taken.

A man who prepares for his life work, knowing what is required of him before he is qualified to undertake its responsibilities, and fails to meet and master these requirements, works under great disadvantages. The system of education has changed in some respects from what it was, but the same principles and truths must be mastered. Life is too short and time too precious to spend too much time on subjects that will aid you but little or not at all in the great conflict of life. The boy when he enters college should specialize upon some one subject and give this subject his greatest attention, but in doing this he must not lose sight of his other studies. Let him be thorough with this subject and have an intelligent understanding with others. But in choosing the special subject let your choice be in unison with your profession. The man that devotes his entire time and energy to mastering a subject becomes narrow minded, as he lets his mind dwell only on it without thinking on other and different matters, and should he fail to make a special study of some one thing, he is liable to fall into that class of people who are not able to think intelligently upon anything, but have a confused idea of many things.—Millsaps Collegian, 1906.

CHEERING WORDS FROM OLD STUDENTS.

The PURPLE AND WHITE appreciates the good things the old boys say of it, and the Business Manager is constantly getting pleasant echoes. We give below extracts from two letters that speak for themselves.

Marvin Gieger, at Cornell, says: "Have just received my copy of PURPLE AND WHITE, and my sides are both actually aching. There is not one line in it, I have not read. I get more real benefit from that paper than I do from "The New York World." The Cornel publications are not in comparison, "The Cornell Daily Sun," "The Widow," "The Era," and the "Country-Man" with THE PURPLE AND WHITE

I would like to know who wrote "Coach Peters' Squad Looks Good." After reading that dope, and the rest of the athletic dope, I felt just like I could see those purple and white striped sox, going round after round, and those pitchers shooting in red hot micro organisms or something else to be feared, thus causing their opponents to stare and gasp with amazement and wonder how much material could be developed from a mere man. Just leave it to Big Rube to imagine; he is there with the goods."

"Richton, Miss., March 18, 1911. —Dear Dan, I have just received THE PURPLE AND WHITE, and I consider it the greatest college paper in the world. I think that all of the Alumni should show their love for dear old Millsaps by subscribing to it, for it reads like a letter from home.—Yours, for Greater Millsaps,—R. B. SHARBOROUGH."

THE FIRST MEET WITH MISSISPI COLLEGE.

As a reminder of the importance of track practice we have a trial meet with Mississippi College the 22nd of this month on our own field. Were it not for the faithful work of a few men, we would be in bad shape for this. These men will do something for us, however, and their good example should be followed by more men. It was made evident in the mass meeting last Friday night that we have a good number of men who can make records, and they are willing to train. They are true-blue, and we place our hopes in them, believing they will be there with the goods at the finish.

BOYS, PAY UP.

The Business Manager of this paper would be very glad to see his delinquent list wiped out with the long over due cash. This is not a charity publication, nor a free thing, and the small amount of the subscription price looks good to the Manager when coming his way. He is thinking of publishing a delinquent list. We would dislike very much to see him forced to do this, for some of the fellows who are be hind have copies mailed to that special friend back at home, who would not think well of their delinquency.

So, gentle reader, if you have not paid and have a good reason pay up now, and the Buiness Manager will accept your reason. A fellow who deliberately and wilfully neglects to pay is short, to say the least. We would prefer to say nothing of a fellow who would beat the bill, except his fel ow students should beware of him. They should rate him at his real worth, for he tips the scale of value the wrong way. Fellows, pay up, and do not wait to be dunned. We do not think a Millsaps man worth his salt will neglect this essential.

MILLSAPS AGAIN INDULGES IN A MASS MEETING.

Track Interests.

Mass meetings have been held at Millsaps ever since the institution was founded, but perhaps no one has ever been productive of as many strong and stirring speeches as the one held on last Friday night in the interest of the Track Team. This important phase of college athletics has been woefully neglected and everybody was ready and willing to give the neglectful candidates a sound "drubbing."-

Prof. Burton presided over the meeting and started the discussion by handing us a general "cussing out." This started others to talking and soon strong and effective speeches, intermingled with stirring appeals to the college spirit of the boys, were delivered by Prof. Noble, Savage, Manager Colmer, McGee, Bingham, Johnson, Broom, Gunning, and others. Much praise for the faithful candidates was heard.

The object of the mass meeting was to find out, if possible, why this condition of affairs existed; to admonish the boys for not doing their duty, and, if possible, to awaken a live and lasting interest in the track that would be productive of results in May.

Probably the meeting reached its climax when McGee stated that although he had been opposed to athletics, for the sake of the reputation of our school, he would don a track suit and do some running himself.

This is a college spirit that tells—the kind that makes a successful team possible and should be followed by a good many others.

"THIRTEEN CLUB" ORGANIZED.

Social and Literary—Dr. A. A. Kern Directed Organization—Steen and Boswell Officers—Reading Course.

What promises to be one of the most interesting as well as beneficial organizations of college life is the "Thirteen Club," which was organized Wednesday night, April 5th, under the direction of Dr. Kern. While the Club has its social features, its reading course will be the principal feature of the monthly meetings.

At the last meeting the biography of Lee was discussed and read.

Dr. Kern's father has very generously promised to provide the books which the Club reads this year, and the Club will take up a number of books before the end of the session.

R. E. Steen was chosen as President and H. H. Boswell as Secretary and Treasurer of the organization.

The membership is as follows: Dr. Kern, Steen, Beasley, Broom, Clark, G. C., Smith, Montgomery, Reynolds, Jolly, Bufkin, Scott and Boswell.

Millsaps in Politics.

Millsaps bids fair ere long to become a purifying force in the politics of the state. Her graduates can be found in the councils of the county, the state and the nation. At the national capital, we have Messrs. Curtis Waller and Harmon Thompson, who are private secretaries to Congressmen Harrison and Collier, respectively. W. S. Ridgway and E. J. Ellzey are running for the state legislature from Hinds county, and C. H. Kirkland and J. C. Ross are candidates for the position of county attorney for their respective counties. O. B Taylor is making a vigorous campaign for re-election as county attorney of Hinds, and Luther Manship, Jr., is making an equally vigorous Police Justice for the city of Jackson. And we cannot conclude this long list of distinguished men without properly chronicling the fact that C. O. Jaap, Jr., has been made a justice of the peace.

Miss Steen: "Dare to be a Daniel;" Miss J. Linfield: "Cicero's Oration against Melon Rinds;" Miss F. B. Lewis: "Go West, Young Man!" Miss Smith: "The Ice Monopoly;" Miss Rogillio: "Kid;" Miss Park: Dickens' "Sketches by Bos."

Fellows one visit to Sistrunk's makes a permanent customer of you.

Collins (to two Co-eds)—Let's go to the Dixie!

Co-eds (eagerly)—All right!

(Collins gets Adams to create a diversion, and in the interval fades away.)

The attendants at chapel last Thursday morning, were highly entertained by the Lewis Brothers quartette. This quartette, composed of the four Lewis brothers Jim, Barney, Henry and Osborne, is one of the best known in the state, and is altogether worthy of its reputation. We shall all look forward to the time when we can have them again.

Imagine if you can, the expression of horror which came into the face of "Bud" Huntington, when he read the following missive from his once was sweetheart: "Dear friend—Enclosed please find your class pin. Will you kindly send me my ring? You will, perhaps, be surprised to learn that I am now Mrs. ————".

The friends of Dan Bufkin, the efficient Business Manager of this publication, who has been indisposed for several days, ever since that trip to Columbus, in fact, are glad he is now getting along all right.

Charles Haskel Kirkland, '07, was a visitor to friends and frat mates during the earlier part of the week. Kirk is now practicing law in Laurel. If report can be depended upon, he will soon rank with the highest in his profession. It always does us good to hear of the success of graduates of Millsaps.

TRACK PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

Abundance of Good Material Out.

At the mass meeting Friday last, it was decided that Millsaps should put out a laudable pulling track team. We have an abundance of fine material in training and our prospects in several events are the best. We have the best cinder track in the State to work upon, and a good coach. Some of the men have already shown their ability and there is a goodly bunch of comers. Our high jumper, Lanky Rush, is doing good work and getting into fine form. We expect the tall boy to mop up at the contest. Nolan Harmon's pole vaulting record is 9 feet six steady, and he is in good shape for the 100 yard dash. Kid Boykin is doing good work at two miles. His wind is good and pulls out on a fine spurt at every eighth circuit. Edgar Gunning, the A. & M. representative and runner of the quarter of the 1908 Tri-State Meet at Nashville, will represent us in the quarter at M. I. O. A., and if anybody thinks he is easy they certainly will have to hump, Big Graham and Bailey are doing fine work at hammer and shot. They have solidly got the big-a-damus, and will give somebody a good run for their white alley. There are several men working on the discus, but at present it hangs between Applewhite and Graham as to who will represent us at the contest.

Manager Colmer is getting his men down to hand work now and in a few weeks will be able to pick the best men for the other events.

The material out this year is exceptionally good and plentiful, and we certainly expect to make a good showing at the contest. Jean Morse our half mile man, is playing baseball and running at the same time. He played football last winter and came right out of that to baseball, and track, so he is in fine trim. His wind is O. K., and he is one of the speediest men in college.

Professor Noble is steady on the job of telling how it ought to be done, and coaching the boys for their various events. With the work the men are putting into their efficiency and coaching, a good track team is bound to materialize, and the other colleges will soon find out that there is now a rival in the field that will bear watching.

"And the mouth of the H(e)avens opened and a voice descended, saying, 'Look out, Bellow!' "

MILLSAPS vs. A. & M.

Locals Defeated by 2-1 Score—Fast Game Throughout.

In the fastest and hardest fought game of the season Millsaps was defeated by A. & M. It has been considered the most brilliant game ever played on the local diamond. We out-pitched and out-batted them, as they got five errors to our two, but our two errors were at critical moments, and each let in a man. Irving pitched a magnificent game, his arm was in good shape and he had under his control all the steam and curves of a leaguer. The fruits of his pitching was fourteen strike-outs. He used his spit-ball to advantage, but what fooled the A. & M. batters were his all steamy under-hand inshoots and deep outdrops. The A. & M. pitcher, Faircloth, also showed up well, fanning eight of our best batters. He possessed a cool head, plenty of steam and a good assortment of curves.

Mr. Millsap Hodge's strong batting and sensational base-running was one of the features of the game. His catching and masterful pegging was as usual beyond criticism, and something strictly a la dog.

Besides the Millsaps batteries Morse on second, West at short, starred. The fast playing and ground-covering abilities of these two men were a source of much favorable comment.

On the whole, our infield easily out-played A. & M.'s Their pitcher and third baseman played fast, heady ball that is beyond criticism. Their field was exceptionally strong and made a fine showing. Our artists in the outer garden played well also and kept up to standard. The feature of the Wednesday's game was a double play made at a very critical juncture, with a man on third by Irving to Morse, and Morse to Galloway, who was holding down the initial sack.

The result of the game was highly satisfactory to the Collegians, even tho they really deserved more.

THE HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET

HIGH SCHOOLS SHOW MUCH INTEREST IN EPOCH-MAKING EVENT---DECLAMATION CONTEST WILL BE EXCITING.—MAY 4th, 1911.

In holding the first Annual Meet of the Mississippi Inter-Scholastic Track and Oratorical Contest, Millsaps shows that she is pursuing a vigorous and progressive athletic policy. Never before has a meet of this kind been held in Mississippi. The High Schools of the different counties have met at various times in local contests, but this is the first State-wide high school meet ever held.

The relation of the College toward the meet is that of patron. The College is responsible for the good management of the event, but gets no financial return from it. The Jackson Board of Trade has been generous enough to offer, at our suggestion, a splendid trophy cup to tbe awarded to the winning team. The Board also gives a fine gold medal to the winner of the Declamation Contest and bronze medals to the individual winners of track events. The Board is to be commended for its liberal financial endorsement.

Best Schools of State Have Entered.

The event has been heralded wide over the state. Many schools have applied for representation and were turned down because we were not able to accommodate so large a number of entries. We placed our limit at ten, but there will probably be twelve schools represented. The following schools will send teams: Meridian, Vicksburg, Hattiesburg, Newton, Canton, Greenville, Winona, Jackson, Laurel, Yazoo City, Chamberlain-Hunt Academy, and probably Brookhaven.

Great Interest Being Taken.

The meet will no doubt be more largely attended than any other athletic event for the entire year. The contest will take place on our new athletic field on the afternoon of May 4th. Our quarter-mile cinder track is in good condition, unquestionably the finest in the Gulf States. The new grand-stand with a seating capacity of more than 700 will be in commission. The State Teachers' Association will be in session at the time and the keenest rivalry between the pedagogues is anticipated on the occasion.

Reports from the Schools.

Reports from the different schools declare enthusiasm rife everywhere. If scholastic records are not smashed on May 4th, it will be surprising.

Greenville High School.

This is Greenville's first year at inter-scholastic track work, but our boys expect to make a showing that will surprise some of the experienced teams. The team is not yet picked, but from the candidates it seems that we have good material in several of the events. Our "old reliable" Lane is in his first year and is a strong man in nearly any event. Scheff, and Bowen, fourth year men, are entered respectively for the dashes and distances. Among the others are Cohn and Darnell for distance running; and Jones, Brining, Solomon and Rosella, for the jumps. Lane will take care of our interests in the shot put and vault. Sack and Davis may earn a place. Of these eleven candidates, two graduate this spring, three are third-year men, three are second year, three are first year. Thus our prospects for the future are in no way to be discounted.

Training is going on daily. The Mississippi levee makes an excellent running course for the track men, and the school-yard gives ample room for the field events.

LAMAR ANNIVERSARY TONIGHT.

G. C. Clark and R. E. Steen will Represent the Society—Excellent Program Looked Forward To.

Tonight in the chapel auditorium will be celebrated the Anniversary of the Lamar Literary Society. The program promises to be an exceptionally good one, with two such eloquent speakers as Grover Cleveland Clark and Robert E. Steen to entertain the audience.

Clark will serve the Society in the capacity of anniversarian and has prepared an exceedingly interesting speech on the subject, "The Young Man and the One Purpose." Steen will deliver an oration on "The Golden Age." Some prominent gentleman from the city of Jackson will act as outside speaker. Bufkin will preside over the exercises, and a rare treat is in store for all lovers of good oratory.

LOCALS

Dr. Borum, pastor of the First Baptist church, conducted the chapel exercises one morning last week. Dr. Borum has many friends among the college boys whom he has made by his friendly, genial ways, and by showing the boys that he is their friend. A visit from him will always be welcome.

The friends of Roy Tynes who was quite tsick for awhile will be glad to know that he is now well and attending his classes

Applewhite was the recipient of a visit from his father last week. The boys are always glad to see their fathers, especially toward the first of the month.

The Sophomore preliminary contest was held last Thursday, and the following contestants were selected to enter the final contest to be held Commencement, Wroten, Reynolds Adams Boswell, Jolly, Livingston, and Scott.

W. N. Thomas, of the Junior class, spent the week-end in his home at D'Lo, Miss.

Prof. A. B. Campbell, '10, was a visitor to friends and frat mates Thursday and Friday of last week. Boyd is the same old genial fellow that he always was, and every boy in Millsaps is always glad to see him. We understand that he has been doing some excellent work in the teaching line. His school is now out, and Boyd says he is uot too—to have a good time. He will be with us again commencement.

Mr. Logan, a returned missionary from Japan, conducted the chapel exercises one morning last week. He made a very interesting talk in which he told us of the peculiarities of the Japanese people, especially those peculiarities which go to make them one of the greatest and most enduring people on the face of the globe.

THE HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET.

pect to bring a winning team from the Delta metropolis.

Chamberlain-Hunt Academy.

Every day on the public highway and on the campus may be found track team candidates working out for the meet to be held at Millsaps College, May 4th.

Quite a popular manner of training for this contest has proven to be early morning cross-country runs, and several likely contestants from day to day work up an appetite in this manner.

C. H. A. will probably not be represented in the pole-vault, but does expect to enter men in nearly every other event. A series of preliminary meets will be begun shortly, and the coach hopes to have a winning team represent the Port Gibson institution.

The declaimer has already been chosen, a committee of judges choosing Mr. T. T. Williams, of New Orleans, as the speaker more likely than any of the four other prospective orators to bring back with him the laurel-wreath.

In general, there is considerable interest being taken in the meet, and there is no doubt that the hustling athletic directors of our capital city college have inaugurated a pleasing and practical plan of materially helping the high schools and preparatory schools of Mississippi.

Yazoo City High School.

Yazoo City's Track Team will in all probability consist of Hollingsworth, Bridges, Bradley, Pepper and Edgar. Practice comes hard and a series of mishaps has kept most of the team laid up for repairs. However, Yazoo City expects her opponents to remember that she was represented in the meet. Hollingsworth on the broad jump, Bridges on the high jump, Bradley and Edgar on the hurdles and dashes, and Pepper on the shot-put have showed up well. The vaulting-pole broke and two new ones are on the way. We expect to give and receive close competition.

Meridian High School.

An unofficial report is to the effect that this school is undergoing constant practice and is confidant of winning.

Newton Graded School.

Although one man is disabled, much interest has been aroused.

Vicksburg High School.

Vicksburg High School will be on hand with a good team.

Jackson High School.

Jackson has little material, but is making the most of what she has.

Canton High School.

Canton always has a good team and will give somebody a close shave for the championship.

Winona High School.

Winona has long been a formidable competitor in North Mississippi and will be much dreaded in the contest.

Laurel High School.

Much interest is being shown and there is promise of a good team.

Hattiesburg High School.

Hattiesburg is sure to show up strong.

Brookhaven High School.

If Brookhaven enters the contest there is not the slightest doubt that she will furnish a fine team. She is old and experienced on the track.

MILLSAPS vs. A. & M.

(Cont. from p. 1)

The fact that they clearly outplayed what is considered one of the best teams in the state is quite gratifying. The game was really earned by the collegians as their single run was netted by hard hitting and good running; while A. & M.'s two scores were made by two wild throws in the unlucky second. We are very grateful to A. & M. for giving us this game and we like the way they play ball, and hope we can arrange for a series next season.

Score:				R	H	E
A. & M.	0-2-0	0-0-0	0-0-0	2	2	5

Batteries: Faircloth and Mills; Irving and Hodges.

Umpire:

'VARSITY BEATS C. H. A. 6-1.

But Loses Second Game by Score of 5-3.

Millsaps defeated Chamberlain-Hunt Academy on the local diamond Wednesday in one of the slowest games of the season. The first three innings were right interesting, C. H. A. getting the only score and playing hard ball, but after that the collegians settled down to hard work. In the fifth Millsaps crossed the pan twice, then easily kept the Academy boys from scoring and after this juncture the game was solid cinched.

Again in the eighth Millsaps crossed the pan, this time to the tune of four. Old Plough-Boy Ward officiated in the hurling line for Millsaps and allowed the visitors only three hits. McKennon, for the visitors, did well, being fanned for only seven hits.

Galloway started out at the pan for the locals but hurt his hand and retired in favor of the all-puissant "Duck." Rothrock caught for the visitors, and played a good all around game. Millsaps batted well, as usual, both Butler and Burks getting two baggers. The fielding on both sides was good.

C. H. A.	0-0-1	0-0-0	0-0-0	1	3	6

Batteries, Ward, Galloway and Hodges; McKinnon and Rothrcok.

Umpire, "Chick" Magee.

The second game with C. H. A. on the local's diamond was decidedly bum, the most enjoyable part of the game was leaving. The locals expecting it to be a walk-over did not try at all, but C. H. A.'s speedy little team played their very best and mopped up. West hurled for the locals but was over-confident and did not near pitch up to standard, allowing the C. H. A. men seven good hits. Fox, for C. H. A. did his best and tho not near as good as West clearly outpitched him. West's support was weak and poor, the whole team seemed to be so absolutely infatuated with itself and so confident that they thought they could play indifferent ball and mop up. But the secret of baseball playing is to do your best all the time and the laurels will take care of themselves. Our boys can play brilliant ball and it's a shame that they acted such bone-heads and had to take a drubbing from C. H. A. The only real deserving features in the game were two double plays, the first made by Jean Morse, and the second, West to Morse, to Irving. Lott got a good two bagger that brought in two men. Jean Morse scored on a bunt by Trice. Ramsey, C. H. A.'s second baseman, and Williams, their short, played good ball and showed excellent materials.

Score:				R	H	E
C. H. A.	1-0-0	2-1-0	0-1-0	5	7	5

Batteries: C. H. A., Fox and McKinnon; West and Hodges.

Umpire, Dr. Kern.

OUR GAME TOMORROW.

Unhappy will be the baseball fan who does not see the game tomorrow between the Millsaps Faculty and a picked team from the staffs of this paper and the Bobashela. The Faculty has a great team and that there is class to our team is shown by the fact that we secured a game with the Faculty, —something which has never before been possible.

The opposing team will have science. Its captain and catcher have a vocabulary sufficient to whip his men into good form, he being master of languages, dead and alive. He will carry on a ball conversation in Latin and Greek with the pitcher, who can express himself in graceful curves of French, German and Spanish, while our batters will use the latest handy lit willow and inter-linear strokes to solve the puzzle of this unique battery. On the second sack throws and drives will be accommodated with rhetorical elegance and rare poetic appreciation. Nobility will have full sway at short stop. This infield will play not for the low, vulgar purpose of showing skill at baseball, though its members are past masters, but to show that much learning does not unfit them for the appreciation of our great national game.

There will be stirring times in the outfield. Some astronomical observations will be taken of the high ones in the right garden, while doomed is the slugger who rolls or flies one on the topography where the master of physics will by composition of forces corral the sphere. Our President will preside in the garden with his usual geniality and firmness. In spite of all this, we intend to play. We are from the free State of Missouri.

Approaching High School Track Meet and Oratorical Contest.

Present indications are that the Mississippi Interscholastic Track and Oratorical Contest, concerning which several articles will be found elsewhere in this publication, will be one of the biggest events of the year. We most heartily commend the efforts of Prof. Noble in organizing this event. Local track meets have been held in a number of the different counties but never before has one of such wide scope been held between the high schools of Mississippi. Oratorical contests have been neglected in the same deplorable manner. Many young Ciceros and Demosthenes have sprung up in high schools of the state, and, as it were, have "been born to blush unseen and waste their fragrance on the desert air," or in other words, to pour forth their eloquence only at the local contests.

This contest, however, will give these men a chance to show their athletic and oratorical abilities, and to test their metal against other schools. More than this, it will bring them before the eyes of the public and redound credit and honor, not only upon the individual contestants but on the school which they will represent as the winners of these prizes will be regarded as the best orator or track man, as the case may be, in the state.

As to the merits of these contests, we believe that nothing in the athletic line is more beneficial than track work. It calls forth all that is best in a man. Intelligent training is absolutely essential, and systematic practice on the track does more to develop every fiber of a man's body than any other form of athletics. A man's oratorical ability also ranks high in marking a man's school or college prestige and the training for this contest will be worth much to him whether he experiences victory or defeat.

We understand that Prof. Noble has the organization well under way and if the reports received from the different schools are at all indicative of the results on the track all the schools who have entered the meet will make a most creditable showing. We have been much pleased with the flattering reports and believe that with such schools as Greenville, Yazoo City, C. H. A., Jackson, Winona, Canton, Newton, Vicksburg, Hattiesburg and Meridian represented, the meet could not be other than a successful one.

Although Millsaps appears in the contests only in the role of host, our students by private and public expressions have put themselves squarely on record as endorsing the meet in the most enthusiastic manner and are taking a very keen interest in the approaching events and anticipating a gala day at Millsaps.

We believe that Millsaps is the ideal place for this important event. Not only are we situated in the capital city of the state and probably more easily accessible to all the schools concerned, but we have unquestionably, the best cinder track in the state and one of the best in the South. This track is a wonderful piece of civil engineering and one on which an important meet such as this should take place.

More than this, however, we want the honor of entertaining the participants of these events. We want them to come into our midst and see that the "sun shines brightest and the welcome is warmest" at Millsaps. We want them to know that we have one of the best colleges in the South; that our men are the best to be found anywhere, and that college spirit and loyalty is to be found here which is paralleled in no institution. We want them to know that while they are with us they will be treated as one of us and that we intend to do all in our power to make their stay with us both pleasant and profitable. We intend to give the boys every encouragement, to boost the meet, attend its events, add spice and interest to the occasion by songs and yells for the different teams. In short, to stand by the movement and do everything that lies in our power to make it a brilliant and glorious success.

ANNUAL TRACK MEET TOMORROW.

Many Entries Booked---Warm Contest Guaranteed — Tremendous Crowd Expected to Witness This Meet.

Owing to the postponement of the preliminary Track Meet with Mississippi College, the Annual Field Meet will take place tomorrow on the new Athletic Field.

Colmer, the Track Manager, has been very busy of late preparing everything in connection with this meet. Prizes will be given for each event, and it is hoped that great interest will be manifested by the student body. The merchants of Jackson and other business men have kindly furnished these prizes and the fellow who is successful in winning one of them can count himself exceedingly fortunate.

This Annual Field Meet has always been a red-letter day of each session, for the past few years, and there is every reason to predict that this year will not prove an exception to the rule.

The management is enabled to accommodate a much larger crowd than usual this year, owing to the new athletic plant, and it is hoped that at 2 p. m. tomorrow the seating capacity of the new grandstand will be taxed to its utmost.

Many entries have been booked for the various events and a warm contest is guaranteed for each winner of a first prize.

LOCALS

Prof. Rothrock, acting manager of the C. H. A. team, made a short talk in chapel last Friday morning. He thanked the faculty and student body for the kind treatment that he and his team had received from their hands, and assured them that they had made lasting friends of both himself and the Port Gibson boys. The students are glad to be as courteous as possible to all visitors.

Don't forget Hobbs, the old reliable COLLEGE BARBER.

Hon. Roscoe Conkling Berry spent last Saturday, Sunday and Monday in McComb City, in the interest of his application for the principalship of that city's high school. We have not learned the result yet, but we sincerely hope that he will get the place.

Dr. Brown, Mission Secretary of the International Sunday School work, made a short talk in the chapel one morning last week. Dr. Brown is a returned missionary from the Philippines. He talked to us at some length of the ways of those people He is quite a pleasing speaker, and was very much enjoyed by those that heard him.

All the lawyers are gone now with the exception of Judge Father Truly. We shall miss them, as there were in their midst some of the leading spirits of the campus.

Sam Osborne was in the city recently.

Albert Heidelberg was on the campus last Saturday.

Will Russell, of the Preparatory Department, has been forced to leave school on account of his eyes. It is hoped that he will be able to return next session and resume his college duties.

J. B. L. Rook, of Tyro, Miss., was called home last week to the deathbed of his mother. The "Purple and White" wishes to extend to him its deepest sympathy in his sad bereavement.

G. A. Baker, of Myrtle, Miss., has been forced to leave school on account of bad health. The students are sorry to lose Baker as he is a good student and has a promising career before him in his chosen profession, the ministry.

Clyde Irving, our efficient baseball captain, went home Saturday on account of the illness of his brother. It is hoped that he will be able to return soon.

Bill Bailey '09, who has recently been re-elected Principal of Woodville High School, was on the campus Saturday with friends and fratmates. He has met with merited recognition in his work which gives pleasure to his old friends at Millsaps who remember him so well.

Y. M. C. A. MEETS AGAIN.

Broom Conducts Meeting—Daily Prayer-Meeting to be Held in Preparation for Coming Revival.

The Y. M. C. A. met last Friday night for the first time in several weeks, as it has had to be called in on account of various other meetings elsewhere.

President Broom conducted the meeting and made a short talk. He discussed the ways and means for our meeting which is to be held within the next week or two and then threw the question open to the discussion of the members. Several suggestions were made and it was decided that a prayer meeting of a few minutes length should be conducted daily, which should apply directly to the preparation for the revival. Quite a large number of men offered themselves to do all that they could in whatever way possible for the preparation for and success of the meeting and a great interest was shown. The point was clearly and forcibly brought out that the success of the meeting depends upon the prayers and personal work of the Christian men of our student body. It is a thing which we must all think about and pray over. One of the greatest revivals that Millsaps has ever had really occurred after the minister who had conducted the services had gone away. Only one man had been converted up to the time of his departure, but in the prayer-meetings following between thirty and forty boys were led to right about face and lead strong Christian lives. With this experience before us it behooves us to do our part to aid in bringing about a great revival among the students this year. It will mean work and self-sacrifice, but the results to be gained will more than make up for our efforts.

For information on any subject apply to Clifford,—don't waste time on an encyclopedia. He can supply you with the desired information on any subject such as the theory of transmigration, baseball, and the entrance requirements of any female college.

Miss Maggie Redding, of Terry, was on the campus last Sunday.

Red Phillips spent Friday and Saturday in Vicksburg. He reports a general good time, but declares that he didn't cross over.

VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1911 NUMBER 13

GLALOWAY ANNIVERSARY TO-NIGHT.

Broom and Thompson will Represent Society—Hon Barney Eaton Outside Speaker—Will Be Delightful Occasion.

Those who were so unfortunate as to miss the excellent Lamar Anniversary will have the opportunity to made amends tonight by being present at the Galloway Anniversary, which will be without doubt, delightful to all lovers of good oratory.

J. W. Broom, the Millsaps M. I. O. A. representative in the coming contest at Gulfport, will let loose the flood-gates of eloquence in his masterly and pleasing manner, as anniversarian.

Fulton Thompson will be the anniversary orator. Hon. Barney Eaton, '01, will be the outside speaker, and all who know him know that as a speaker he has but few equals. A large audience is anticipated.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK MEET.

May the 4th—Oratorical Contest A Feature—Monster Crowd Expected.

As the time draws near for the big High School meet, a great deal of interest is being manifested in it. As has been previously stated, this is to be the initial advent of such a meet for Mississippi. And there is no reason in the world why it shouldn't be the greatest event in High School athletics ever held. This is to be no petty affair. If anyone has so erroneously construed it, it would be a wise policy for him to awake to the fact that there is to be held on the Millsaps Athletic Field some time in the near future, the greatest athletic meet ever held in this state among high school boys. It is to be the crowning event of the year.

Now this meet coming off as it does during the Teachers' Association, is necessarily a great event. On May the 4th, the day of the big event, Jackson is going to be literally overflowing with people. Everyone of whom is going to be deeply interested in his respective track team and orator. These teams are going to bring numerous supporters and friends. And I dare say that on the big day it will take several grand stands the size of our own spacious one to accommodate the friends and supporters of these various teams.

But the best thing of it all is that Millsaps is to be the host of this mammoth crowd. Every effort is being made by the management, under the direction of Prof. Noble to accommodate our guests, and Millsaps extends a hearty welcome to all visitors.

A splendid sterling silver cup thirteen and one-half inches high, is to be awarded to the school gaining the greatest number of events. While a handsome gold medal is to be awarded to the victor of the oratorical contest.

Beautiful plated medals will also be given to the individual winner of each track event. All of these handsome prizes will be on display in Richardson's show windows next week.

The oratorical contest consisting of an orator from each of the high schools represented is by no means to be a minor affair. This contest is to be managed similiarly to the M. I. O. A. contest, and much interest is expected to be manifested in it.

Taking everything into consideration, the fourth is to be a red letter day for high school athletics and oratory.

While Millsaps, as host of the occasion, extends a hearty and sincere welcome to all interested.

Millsaps Field Formally Opened.

MAJOR MILLSAPS THREW TH E FIRST BALL ACROSS THE RUBBER—LARGE CROWD PRESENT.

On Monday, April 17th, the magnificent new Milsaps field with its equipment complete in every detail, an excellent diamond, cinder track, 140 foot grand stand that will seat one thousand people, and many other conveniences, was formally opened for games and meets before a large crowd.

The field was presented by Prof. E. Young Burton on behalf of Major R. W. Millsaps, the generous donor, and received by Pres. D. C. Hull who in a few well chosen words expressed the appreciation of the student body, faculty and patrons of Millsaps College for this new manifestation of his generosity and love for the institution.

The three men most active in securing the field, Major Millsaps, Mr. W. M. Buie and Prof. Burton, then walked upon the diamond, and Major Millsaps threw across the rubber the first ball, while Prof. Burton officiated as umpire and called "strike" the batter fanned and Pres. Hull caught it.

GOOD FIELD DAY.

Some of Last Year's Records Broken—Kirkland Best All-Round Athlete—Miss Flora B. Lewis Prettiest Girl.

Saturday last was without a doubt the greatest Field Day in the history of the college. The large grand stand was filled to overflowing, while the lists were crowded with representatives from faculty, college, and preparatory school. The new cinder track was in excellent condition for the meet and, in fact, everything was in fine shape.

Several very good records were made and several back records

FIRST GAME EASY FOR "OLE MISS."

Millsaps Rallies in the Second Game and Takes the Third.

Millsaps debut on the new athletic field was far from joyous. Weakened by the absence of her captain and star pitcher, and by weak spots in the infield, Millsaps was badly beaten.

The game began under most favorable auspices, Major Millsaps and Dr. Hull starting things off, but that was as far as they could help; the rest was up to the team.

Plough Boy Ward was hit for many safe bingles and with the errors of the infield the was all to "Ole Miss." The University team pulled off some classy batting, getting twenty hits and most of them at opportune times. Austin for "Ole Miss" is credited with a peach of a two-bagger. The first two or three innings it was anybody's game, but after this "Ole Miss" took a lead and mopped up. Austin fanned seven men and Ward eight, but Austin was only touched for four hits, while Ward was soaked for twenty.

GOOD FIELD DAY.

broken.

The men were all in good trim and put up a meet that would have done credit to any college.

The pole vault, won by Nolan Harmon, was especially good, being raised three inches from last year.

The discus throw by Kirkland, 93 feet 4 1-2 inches, and Colmer one mile in 5:34, were fine.

Howe showed up well in the 220-yard dash; time 28 3-5; and in the quarter mile, Red Colmer sprinting was especially good, taking two and splitting one event.

Kirkland took five events which brought him the title of best track athlete in the college.

Fredington Jones, of the preparatory department, easily won the title to A. A. V. Chaw Champ, this according to current rumor was owed entirely to a limber under lip of the aforesaid artist.

The men on a whole showed up well. Big Graham and Bailey did excellent work with the hammer and shot.

We stand a chance to pull some laurels at the M. I. O. A. meet in several events. The record of the pole vault and running high jump were both raised this year, and we may win a good place in both of these events. The mile run is also much better than last year. The discus throw was a great surprise to everyone and will be indeed strong at the meet.

We can go to the contest this year with the assurance that Millsaps will make a creditable showing.

After the Saturday meet all the contestants were given a vote for the prettiest girl on the field. A beautiful bouquet of flowers was to be presented to her by the track champion, Kirkland. Miss Flora B. Lewis, one of our charming co-eds was unanimously elected to this great honor.

The officers of the meet were:

Referee,—A. A. Kern.

Judges—Profs. Hofman and Burton, E. Y.; Timekeeper, Mr. Longstreet Cavett; Assistant, H. R. Jake Bingham.

Millsaps Improves in Second Game—West in the Box.

In the second game between Millsaps and "Ole Miss," the locals showed up much stronger, and put up quite a good game.

West officiated on the hurling line for Millsaps, while Guess, the south-paw bender, twirled for the University. West pitched a good game for Millsaps and showed what he really could do. Guess, the University pitcher, hurled a brilliant game, allowing only four hits and fanning twelve men. Millsaps' infield was greatly strengthened by the acquisition of Charles Galloway on third. The infield still was weak, however, and allowed most of the runs.

The sensational plays of the game were two base hits by McCall and Tucker.

The game was much closer than the day before and showed marked improvement for Millsaps. The Millsaps fielding was good and catching was solid up to standard. Lefty McLain umpired a good game but was just a trifle off on balls and strikes.

CULTIVATE THE READING HABIT.

We have heard it said by good authorities that the man who did practically nothing during his college career but learn to play on the football team and form the reading habit, got more lasting benefit from his school life than one who clung tenaciously to the eternal grind of class-room routine. While we are not in any way advocating the abolition of the text-book, yet we cannot help but believe that there is a great deal of truth in the above statement. We believe that a man should take part in athletics because the human mechanism demands a certain amount of fresh air and exercise, and no man's mind can be properly developed unless his body is developed proportionately. In the same way, we believe that no matter how many text-books a man may have studied or how many ologies, or languages he may have mastered, his education is by no means complete unless he has formed the reading habit.

No one will question the benefits to be derived from the reading habit. Stevenson tells us in his essays that he learned to write by reading and imitating the style of others. Shakespeare, Keats, Burns, and so on through the list of all the great writers, were pupils of the same school. Nothing is more developing or broadening to a man's mind; nothing gives him a greater insight into the wonders and mysteries of nature; nothing brings him into closer touch with his fellow-men and nothing will be of more genuine pleasure and essential value to a man in any profession of life than the reading habit.

Reading gives a man the essential note and the right work. Whether he is writing, making a big speech or engaged in a conversation, he is hampered unless he has broadened his mind and increased his vocabulary and store of knowledge by having read a certain number of standard authors.

Did you ever notice how some people seem to know everything; seem to always have a good idea to advance on any subject; how they always seem to have the proper word for the proper place as if legions of words swarmed to their call, and dozens of turns of phrases simultaneously bid for their choice? We are sure you have; we meet these people every day. Next time you notice these qualities in a person, just find out if he is not a great reader. The odds are ten to one that your investigation will prove that he is.

But when should the reading habit be formed? We answer, as early as possible. By all means during the college career, for it is an accepted fact that not one man in a hundred forms the reading habit after he leaves school.

We are indeed fortunate in having at our disposal one of the best libraries in the South. Thousands of books have been purchased especially for us. They are ours to use at any and all seasons, and should be read until the covers literally drop from their sides. Yet statistics show that the number of books drawn out per capita by the students is exceedingly small and a number of our students never even think of entering the Library. What is the cause of this?

No doubt some will say that their studies take up all their time and they have no time to read, but this is worse than no excuse. Generally, the man who tells you that he has no time for anything but his studies is one who spend more time getting ready to do a thing than he spends in doing it. He spends as much time lighting his pipe and gazing out of his window as he does in preparing his work.

If you have not formed the reading habit, let us urge you to do so at once. Form the acquaintance of the masters of literature; become familiar with and learn to love and cherish the works of good authors; make books your friends; abide with them and you will find them not only a source of great pleasure and profit, but "a friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

MILLSAPS ATHLETIC FIELD.

The dedication of our athletic field on April 17th, marks the beginning of real athletics at Millsaps and with it a new epoch in the history of this progressive and growing institution.

When Major Millsaps threw the first ball across the plate, every student and friend of the college who witnessed it felt a thrill of joy and pride, because we now have one of the best fields in the South.

The wise and generous founder of our college realized that its best development and greatest usefulness could never be realized until it had the athletic privileges and equipment that other similar institutions have. He exerted his influence in the conferences to have the question of inter-collegiate games left with the Board of Trustees and Faculty. They consented to all except foot ball. He has supplied the need for grounds in his usual munificent way and we have a field any college or university could not fail to be proud of. Every student knows well that this is an almost invaluable gift and students, faculty and all friends of Millsaps feel deeply their gratitude for it.

The foundation has been well laid and the future is secure. The ideal of the founder will one day be realized. Having without doubt the best location in the great State of Mississippi for a college, and being controlled by wise leaders, Millsaps now has no serious obstacle in her path of progress. Her growth should be rapid and her contribution to the citizenship of Mississippi and the South will become more and more a factor in making it intelligent, virtuous and strong. As a valuable asset in her great work, the new athletic field and athletic activity should not be underestimated. Many have worked to get Millsaps on an equal footing with other institutions in this regard, and their deeds will always reflect honor upon them.

LAMAR ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

Excellent Program Rendered---High Class Speeches by G. C. Clack and R. E. Steen.

One of the most delightful entertainments of the season was that of the Lamar Literary Society on Friday night, the 21st. This was the occasion of the celebration of the 19th Anniversary of this organization.

The Society was represented by Messrs. Steen and Clark. These gentlemen both acquitted themselves in a most able manner, and the Society should be proud to boast of two such excellent speakers. The following is the program as rendered.

President D. W. Bufkin.

Music, by Century Orchestra.

Invocation, by Dr. M. W. Swartz.

Anniversary Orator, R. Ernest Steen. Subject, "America's Golden Age."

Music, by Century Orchestra.

Anniversarian, Grover Cleveland Clark. Subject, "The One Purposed Young Man and the Great Purpose."

The whole program was carried out beautifully and was highly enjoyed by all present as was shown by frequent and continued applause.

It is said that this was one of the most successful anniversary celebrations that the Lamars have held in years.

FIRST GAME EASY FOR "OLE MISS."

Stolen Bases—Austin 2, Shields Wilson, C. Galloway, Burke 2.

Left on Bases—University 3; Millsaps 2.

Struck Out—By Guess 12; by West 7.

Passed Ball—Miller 2.

Umpire—McLain.

Ward "Comes Back"—McCall Knocked out in Second Round.

The last game of "Ole Miss" was a glorious and well earned head up. "Plough Boy" Ward hurled a beautiful game for Millsaps, allowing seven hits and striking out eight men.

McCall, the University pitcher, was knocked out of the box and allowed four runs. Cahall, ascended the mound for "Ole Miss" in the third and pitched a good game.

Millsaps' infield was greatly strengthened by West at short. The whole infield played beautiful ball, while the batteries starred and the outfield still held the 1,000 percentage.

The features of the game was a three base hit by Wilson, and a sensational catch by West.

The result of this game shows very marked improvement in Millsaps' line-up and when Clyde Irving, the captain gets back, the team will be strong enough to go up against all comers.

L. C. Kirkland still has the cup.

The team certainly was scared in the first University game. Ward mistook the heads of Coach Moss's freshmen for full moons and went up in the air. Seven full moons in the broad daylight were too much for all our boys. Millsaps is glad they got used to the light and tightened up the second, and won the third, day.

The lectures on conscience were heard by many Jacksonians last week.

WELCOME GIVEN TEACHERS.

Dr. Hull, Vice President S. T. A.—Thousands in Attendance at Association Meeting.

One of the most notable conventions held in the city of Jackson at this season of the year is the annual meeting of the Mississippi Teachers' Association, which convenes here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Fully two thousand teachers are in attendance on the Convention, and a great deal of good is to be derived from its various meetings. It is of especial interest to students of Millsaps College, not only because the very best educators of the State are present, but for the fact that Dr. Hull, the College President, is Vice President of the Association. A majority of the members of the faculty are also members of the Association, and Dr. Walmsley has been asked to deliver an address at one of the meetings.

Olin Ray went to Grenada recently.

"Plug" Phillips has gone home and will not return this session.

Chichester spent the week end recently at his home at Edwards.

"Manners are not idle, but the fruit of loyal nature and of noble mind."—Tennyson

Track and Baseball ranks at Northwestern have been badly thinned as the result of recent mid-year exam.—Ex.

Judging from the number of letters that have come from ex-Millsaps students saying that they are coming to Commencement, we are going to have a regular home-coming. Boost it, boys, and let's have the biggest commencement n the history of the college.

Boys, see Clifford for the Saturday Evening Post, the Success Magazine, etc.

Rev. Jas. Percell Conducts Annual Revival.

The Students Are Spiritually Uplifted

The annual revival services of the Y. M. C. A. have been held during this last week and have resulted in a great deal of good to all who were present or took part in them. The time for the services was rather late, coming as it did at the very close of the school year when everyone is busy with the final work for the session, so that the attendance was not as good as it would have been otherwise, yet a large number of the students were present and all were strengthened and brought closer to God.

The revival was conducted by Rev. Jas. Percell, pastor of the church at Florence, and the preaching was very powerful, plain, and to the point. The sermons were such as will reach and awaken men and cause them to think, and they have had that result with the men at Millsaps.

Although the services lasted only from Monday night until Saturday, yet the Christian men of the College have received an uplift, and those out of Christ have been brought to see that the time for a change has come. May all the men who desire a still higher standard of morality and religion on the campus not let up in their prayers and work, but let all work and pray and live to that end during the closing days of this school year and in the years to come.

Rev. Jas. Purcell is an alumnus of this institution, and the results which he is reaping in his work are a credit to his alma mater

MILLSAPS WINS THREE.

C. H. A. Boys Could Not Come Back—Score 5-1, 15-3, and 3-2 in Our Favor

The first game played with C. H. A. on the C. H. A. diamond was fast and hard fought. Both sides were in fine shape and played good ball. The Millsaps line-up was changed because of Morse's bad shoulder, and Truly played second, Lott, third. Ward did the twirling for Millsaps and played his usual heady game. He allowed only two hits and struck out fifteen men. Hodges played errorless ball, batted heavy and kept up his record as champ pegger. The Port Gibson people say Galloway hasn't forgotten how to play first. He played errorless ball, got two hits, and netted the two baggers that brought in two runs. Father Truly, "the man that can do without," starred at second. Lott and West held down the left east corner of the inner garden to perfection. In the outer garden Trice and Burks played good consistent ball and batted well. Butler played good ball and got three hits.

McKinnon, the C. H. A.'s twirler, was beyond criticism, he pitched fine fast ball, but received but indifferent support. Rothrock, C. H. A.'s star catcher, held down the sack to perfection and possessed the peg of a Leaguer.

During the first two innings C. H. A. was nervous and allowed us three runs, but after this they settled down and played hard fast ball and allowed only two more runs. The game but for the exception of this was good, both sides showing up well and playing snatchy ball.

The second game of the double-header, the batteries remained the same on both sides as in the first. It was muchr lower than the first as the C. H. A. team was tired and went up in the air. Duck played his usual mop-up special ball, and netted two hits, till in the fifth an ugly foul smashed his digit. Galloway took his place behind the pot and Dick Weilenman ascended the initial sack. It took Ward all the first game to properly warm up for the second. His playing was characterized by splendid headwork and perfect control. Weilenman at the initial sack played fast pretty ball and covered his ground like a leaguer. Truly played good errorless ball, on second, netting two hits. Lott played good ball on third, with the exception of two errors which luckily were of no importance. West soaked two hits, and played a fast pretty game at short. All the fielders did fine and kept up their reputation. In this game Rothrock, the C. H. A. catcher, proved himself one of the best in the state. He held his team together and worked hard. The game on a whole was slow and uninteresting. McKinnon, the C. H. A. pitcher, was clodded hard, and the whole team seemed to be up in the air. In this game our boys showed their hard steady practice by not being weary in the least and playing good ball until the last. The score, 15 to 3 is indicative of the kind of game it was.

MILLSAPS WINS THREE.

The third was the most interesting game of the series. The batteries for Millsaps were West and Galloway, and Hodges; for C. H. A., Unger and Rothrock. Hodges relieved Galloway at the pot, his hand being much better. He hit heavy and played errorless ball. West was wild at first, walking six men, but settled down and pitched good ball, allowing only three hits. Galloway at first caught easy steady ball. Morse's shoulder being much improved, returned to second, played fast snatchy ball and covered his territory well. Lott was substituted at third by Ward, who played a good game. West's place was taken by Daddy Truly at shortstop. Trice batted well and Burks netted a three bagger and a single. The game was fast and interesting, remaining two to nothing in C. H. A.'s favor until in the ninth Millsaps tightened down and in a batting rally made three scores. Unger pitched a fine heady game for C. H. A. and was supported well. Rothrock caught a beautiful game. The game was C. H. A.'s but for an unlucky muff in the center garden which cost two runs

The result of this series shows the improvement and loss of overconfidence in the team. The infield problem has been now solved and as this was the weakest part of the team we are now pretty solid. The team is on its metal and in the best condition, with Irving back, that they have ever been in and if they don't skin the Greensboro boys will be something stirring.

PROPAEDEUTICS ON ORATORY.

In view of the fact that not many days from now there will be held in Gulfport, the Mississippi Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest, we do not deem it inadvisable to say a few words about oratory.

That Millsaps has been successful in these contests heretofore goes without saying, for she has won seven out of the fourteen of the medals awarded since the organization of this Association.

We notice with deep regret, however that there seems to be a comparatively small number of lower classmen competing for the declamation and oratorical medals this session.

Now, the only way to have good speakers is to make them, and the only way to make them is to train them by constant use of their talent. To encourage effort along this line there are gold medals offered every commencement for the best speaker in the Freshmen, Sophomore and Senior classes. This year there are only ten contestants in the preliminary contest for the Freshman Medal and even a smaller number are contesting for the Sophomore medal. There are about sixty or seventy-five men in the Freshman Class and forty or fifty in the Sophomore Class. It looks like criminal negligence on the part of the individuals of classes as large as these to let eight or ten fellows fight it out for a medal while perhaps there are many others who could beat any of those trying by exerting only a reasonable amount of effort.

Why not wake up, fellows, and get in the game? You say that your talent does not lie in this phase of college life. Perhaps you are right, but it never will and never does until you exercise it. No one can expect to develop into a W. J. Bryan or a "Teddy" Roosevelt on the first attempt.

If Millsaps is to hold her present standing in the M. I. O. A., you are the one who can and must help her do so. We have been well represented in the past and our interests will be well taken care of this year, but as to the future, that lies with you. What if every man were to fold his hands and say, "Let the other fellow do the speaking. I can't or I won't."—Where would Millsaps stand in oratory? We do not point to these facts in a pessimistic frame of mind. It is done in all kindness and with the interest of the College at heart. The fellows do not mean to bring any criticism on the school. They just do not look ahead and think what the result will be.

You have sat idle and let the preliminary contest go by without trying this year, but we would urge that you ponder over what we have said and make up your mind to try your hand at speaking next session when the time for preliminaries comes. Get you a speech now, or if you have the opportunity, write your own speech and whether you win the medal or not you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have done your duty towards your college and last but not least, towards yourself. You will accomplish more than you think, for you will gain experience if nothing else.

THE BOBASHELA.

We congratulate the Editor and Business Manager of the Bobashela and their able assistants upon the success of their labors. Millsaps owes them a debt of gratitude. We are not prepared to say it is the best annual yet produced here, for we are not familiar with them all; but one thing is certain, it is one of the very best. Those who have made it what it is have good reason to be proud of their work.

The best annual, it seems to us, is the one which reflects truly the life and we might add the good looks, of the student body, and is the product of its best talent. It should not be looked upon as the task of the staff alone to produce it. The staff should be the leaders in the work, but it would be far from complimentary to the student body if the board had in their number all the talent extant.

Just at this time when athletic enthusiasm is rife, there is danger that we neglect too much, literary work, for example. To play ball and root on the side lines is well, but college men should learn to write, and speak, and to do many other things of more serious value in life. How easy it is for a talented man to neglect to add his part to the literary excellence of the annual! It appears to be equally easy for this kind of man to bewail fancied weaknesses in its make-up. His lips should be sealed and his head hung in shame when he utters the biting criticism.

The world looks to results in making up its opinion. The annual is taken as an indication of the student character. When a student knocks on the work of others hoping that his unfortunate listeners will credit the college with his assumed ability to do better he reckons without his host. He has chosen the wrong method to reveal his talent The world knows and he knows too that his life gives the lie to his words, for he has had the opportunity to use his talent and did not. The annual is as much his as anybody's. What he has done or omitted to do is written in it, though between the lines perhaps. This is the best evidence as to what he is and the world does not err in judging him accordingly. He has been "weighed in the balances and found wanting."

The Bobashela is yours, fellow-students and creditable, too. If you gave it your best energy and talent you are proud of it. If you have not, you are in a glass house, and should remember what this means. If we were to offer any advice at all, which we admit is not our province, it would be simply this: Let each student give the annual his best talent and energy. It will reward him many-fold.

Co-Ed (appassionata) — Where you goest, I will go!

Mr. Barber, International Y. M. C. A. Secretary, was a visitor at chapel last Friday morning. He made a talk in which he gave some very salutary advice to the students which if heeded cannot but redound to their good.

Frank Starr Williams was a visitor to friends and frat-mates Saturday and Sunday of last week. It looks good to have the old men visit us once in awhile.

President Hull went to Jacksonville, Fla., last week to attend the Southern Educational Association. On his way back he delivered several sermons and lectures.

Rev. Robert Selby father of Cook Selby, lead the chapel exercises one day of last week. The students were indeed glad to have him and hope that he can be with us again soon.

The showing to date of our baseball team has been very creditable for our first year. If the team takes the remaining games it will improve on this good record. Rah! for the team!

Now is a good time to get ready to go to Gulfport. All the boys are going who can possibly leave the campus and by their presence and enthusiastic support do their part to win. We must make a clean sweep, for we have the Broom.

One of the most interesting facts in regard to colleges came to our notice only a few weeks ago. The news reached us through the columns of the "Crimson and White." It is said that about half the teachers of Columbia University may go on a strike. We have heard of all kinds of strikes, but a "walk out" by college professors is something novel.

SOCIAL

Baseball Reception Through Generous Forethought of Dr. and Mrs. Walmsley.

(Intended for last week.)

Dr. and Mrs. Walmsley have always been recognized as among the best and jolliest hosts and hostesses of Jackson, but never before has such good fellowship and flow of soul prevailed as was manifested by the happy little party that attended the reception given in honor of the baseball team on Thursday evening of last week.

The guests were received by Dr. and Mrs. Walmsley and made to feel perfectly at home by their cordial reception; their pretty little home had been recently remodeled and the spacious veranda and lawn formed an ideal place for this delightful event.

One of the most interesting events of the evening was a contest which ormed the means by which the couples were kept well mixed up and consisted in the attempt of each one to get the authograph of each person present.

Informality reigned supreme throughout the evening and the guests felt perfect freedom in going and doing just as they might please.

The hour of departure came all too early and the guests reluctantly took their leave just at the hour when ghosts begin to walk the earth.

Among those present were, Mesdames Walmsley and Culver; Misses Frances and Marguerite Park, Henrietta Yerger, Margaret Walmsley, Lucy Enochs, Flora B. Lewis, Effie Lee Galloway, Kathleen Randle and Christine Whitten; Dr. Walmsley, Messrs. Trice, Clifford, Weilenman, Morse, West, Ramsey, Burks, Hodges, Lott, Truly, Ward, Galloway, Butler and Boswell.

Seniors Entertained. Miss Annie Linfield a Charming Hostess.

One of the most delightful social events of the season was the entertainment given by Miss Annie Linfield in honor of the Senior Class on last Saturday evening. "Miss Annie's" delightful home was tastefully decorated with flowers, college and fraternity pennants and pillows. The front veranda, where was situated a bowl filled with delicious punch, proved one of the most interesting places for the happy couples.

Miss Annie was assisted in receiving by her neices, Misses Mary and Janie Linfield, and by Miss Bessie Henderson, and each guest on arriving was greeted with the brightest smile and the heartiest welcome.

One of the most important features that went to make the time pass so pleasantly was the charming way in which Prof. J. M. Burton acted in the role of fortune-teller. Many of the couples were amused and delighted by the witty and entertaining prophecies doped out in a manner exceeding the gypsies of old.

Delightful strolls, dancing and games of rook served to entertain a number of the others present and the cry that the last car had come, was raised long before anyone realized that it was near Sunday morning.

On the whole it was one of the most enjoyable and successful affairs which has been held at Millsaps in quite a while and one which the participants will long remember.

Among those present were Misses Mary and Janie Linfield, Frances and Marguerite Park, Flora B. and Eleanor Lewis, Rogillio, Stein, Ricketts, Clingan, Knowles, Bailey, Henderson, Johnson, Whitson, McGehee, Bradford. Messrs. Hart, Collins, Savage, Lewis, Burton, Rogers, Clark, Welch, Clark, Adams, Henderson, W. F. and H. T., Berry, T. H. Phillips, and Clifford.

GALLOWAYS WIN DEBATE.

(Intended for last week.)

The debate between the two Literary Societies on last Friday evening at 8:30, was a success from every standpoint.

The high class of argument produced by speakers on both sider was a source of much comment. Each and every one of these gentlemen acquitted himself admirably.

The Lamars were represented by Scott and Stirling, while the Galloway side of the question, "Resolved, that the condition of the United States Merchant Marine engaged in foreign trade demands a ship subsidy," was defended by Henderson and Lott.

The Galloways were successful in winning the question, but Frank T. Scott, one of the Lamar speakers, carried off the medal for the best speech.

W. E. Morse presided over the exercises in a manner that would have done credit to a Champ Clark.

A large and appreciative audience was present and expressed their keen enjoyment of the contest by frequent outbursts of tremendous applause.

The excellent oration by W. M. Colmer just preceding the debate was indeed a rare treat. Colmer deserves much credit for the able way in which he delivered his "Eulogy on Benjamin Franklin."

Baseball Team Given a Stagg Supper by Hunnicut.

Hunnicutt, one of our Theological students, whose home is on North West Street, gave a most delightful stag supper to the members of the baseball team on last Saturday evening at 8:30.

His hospitable home was tastefully decorated in a manner suited to the occasion.

The punch bowl was a source of much enjoyment to all, as was testified by the number of times that it was frequented. Two delicious ice courses were served in a most pleasing manner by Mrs. Hunnicutt, assisted by her daughter Miss Lavada Hunnicutt.

Good fellowship prevailed until a late hour and it was with wuch regret that the guests departed from such a genial host.

Hunnicutt is one of the mos enthusiastic baseball fans on tht campus and each and every member of the team reports a magnificent time at this reception.

VOLUME IV. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, MAY 19, 1911 NUMBER 15

DR. HULL CHOSEN PRESIDENT.

State Teachers Honor Him.—Good for Millsaps.

The students were glad of President Hull's election as President of the Mississippi Teacher's Association on Saturday, May 6. This is at once a proof that he is in close touch with the schools and teachers of Mississippi, and understands them, and that they recognize his merit and the eminent success he has achieved. His connection with this great body of school workers means much to Millsaps.

There was a distinct feeling of regret on the part of the students that the reception planned could not be given on the campus in honor of the teachers. Millsaps will do well to let no more opportunities like this pass unused.

RIVERS WINS IN CONTEST.

Hattiesburg Wins Cup — The High School Meet a Great Success.

The Mississippi Inter-Scholastic Oratorical and Track Meet was a success from every standpoint. A very excellent showing was made by all who participated. This bids fair to become one of the most important and interesting events on the Millsaps calendar in succeeding years. The students of Millsaps college join the faculty in hoping that the visitors were favorably impressed during their stay on the campus and that some future time each and all of them who attended and who enter college will come to Millsaps.

Rivers of Meridian won the medal in the oratorical contest. Abe Waldauer, of Vicksburg, won second place.

Hattiesburg won the cup in the track meet; Yazoo City won second, and Laurel, third place. The events and results were as follows:

Running broad jump—Laurel,

BROOM WINS IN M. I. O. A.

MILLSAPS JUBILANT OVER WINNING MEDAL.—LOSE IN TRACK MEET.—ONLY HARMON, RUSH, RYAN AND KIRKLAND GET PLACES IN MEET.

Fifteen rahs for Jim Broom and Gulfport!

The expected has happened and Broom has broken the hoodoo which for the past few years has surrounded Millsaps in the M. I. O. Contest. The contest was a glorious affair. All the colleges were well represented and it looked like a mighty tight pull. Especially was this so with Rand, the A. & M. speaker, who preceded Broom. When Rand sat down things looked mighty dark for Millsaps or for anyone else,—but right there is where Broom came in. Realizing what he was up against, he quietly and calmly determined to "tear up a few planks himself." Broom has a reputation of always rising to meet any emergency, and when he arose to speak every one began to sit up and take notice, for they realized that something was going to happen.

Something did happen, for Broom reached heights of grandeur and eloquence that have seldom been equalled by college men. When it was announced that Broom had won, the Millsaps men literally "brought the house down." Every hat was whirled in air, every handkerchief was waved, the welkin rang with hurrahs, and shouting cheer after cheer, as if wild with joy and mad with excitement, the multitude of Millsaps enthusiasts heaved up to the stand, placed the hero upon their shoulders and bore him away in triumph.

Broom has won for our college one of the greatest honors that she can win. He has achieved that which no other Millsaps man has been able to achieve for several years. His success is due to the months of study and untiring labor which he has devoted to the cause, and Millsaps owes him a debt of gratitude for the honor which has redounded on her through him.

Yet, after all he has only done that which was expected of him. All the year he has been acknowledged as the one man pre-eminently fitted for the place and when it became known that the reputation of the college would be entrusted to his care, no one expected anything but victory.

Yes, from an oratorical viewpoint Friday was distinctly Millsaps day, but not so at the track meet. Again she was compelled to be content with last place. Her representatives did well considering their number and lack of thorough training. The most creditable showing was made in the pole vault where Harmon tied with University for first place. Rush came second in the high jump and Kirkland won third place in the high hurdles, while Ryan secured third place in the two-mile run, totalling eleven points for Millsaps.

These men deserve credit and congratulations for working as faithfully as they have done when a majority of the students have neglected track work. No blame is due to Manager Colmer and Prof. Noble, for they deserve great credit for laboring under adverse conditions as they have done.

Jake Bingham went to Georgetown, Miss., during the earlier part of the week.

H. H. Bullock, a graduate of Millsaps, was on the campus a few days of last week.

S. U. LOSES TO MILLSAPS.

Collins and Cameron Win Debate Before a Large Audience.

On Friday night, the 5th of May, F. B. Collins and D. D. Cameron, as representatives of Millsaps College, locked horns with the Southern University, of Greensboro, Ala., in debate.

The subject discussed was, "Resolved, That cities of the United States of over 4,000 inhabitants should adopt the commission form of government."

While Ray and Smith, from the Southern University made a game fight they could not quite overcome the strong arguments produced by the Millsaps representatives.

Collins and Cameron have put much time and thought on this debate and deserve much credit for winning.

A good sized audience witnessed this debate and all went away highly pleased with the programme.

Next session our representatives will go to Greensboro and debate again with this school.

There are now two annual debates between Millsaps and other institutions, and it is hoped that in the near future one or two more schools may be added to the debating list.

LOCALS.

Lamar Neill, one of the strongest men that has ever been sent out from Millsaps, was here for the Teachers' Association. He is now teaching in Laurel, where he is very popular.

Robert Hammeric Ruff, one of last year's graduates, was on the campus several days of last week on a visit to friends and frat-mates. Bob is just as good looking as he always was, and his many friends were glad to see him.

Jim Powell, a prominent member of the Senior Class of Mississippi College, was on the campus one day of last week.

SHOWING OF TEAM: ATHLETICS FOR COMING SESSION.

Our baseball team the first year since we have been allowed the longed-for privilege of inter-collegiate games won nine out of sixteen games played, was blanked only once and in nearly every game made a creditable showing, considering the circumstances under which it was played.

Coach Peters gave universal satisfaction and developed a very good team from men not one of whom had played in inter-collegiate ball. If he could have remained with the team throughout the season there is little doubt that the majority of games that were lost would have been taken by Millsaps. It is true that the games lost were the hard ones, but his absence from the team from the time the games began explains this in large measure. On the whole, Millsaps has every reason to be satisfied with the showing made and to congratulate herself on her bright prospects for the future.

Systematic and persistent efforts should be begun at once to secure good athletes who will be good students and make good college men next year. Millsaps should put out good basketball and track teams as she is going to do in baseball, and can do it in the near future if every opportunity is seized and used. Much has been said about the value of athletics in strengthening a college. We have about all the athletics we can succeed in just now, and the advantage it gives us should be utilized to the fullest extent. Now is the time to begin. Players must be secured and coaches employed for the full time before Millsaps can win out.

MILLSAPS COMES BACK.

The success of our M. I. O. A. representative only serves to emphasize the fact that Millsaps has won first place in this contest eight out of sixteen chances. Her losing streak has at last been broken, and for the twelfth time she has gotten first place on manuscript, we are told.

There is no good reason why Millsaps men should not uphold the high standard set already. They can do it if only they avoid over-confidence and give the task the best that is in them.

Winning the Southern debate was all right, too, and means much. A little hard luck in Arkansas, but a good showing in all contests. We have a good man for Crystal Springs Chautauqua. The present year has been a successful one for us in oratory and debate.

FIVE HUNDRED STUDENTS NEXT SEPTEMBER.

No doubt there are many who would be very much surprised if we should predict that the enrollment of Millsaps College for next year would reach five hundred. Yet, despite what the skeptical may say, this is by no means an impossible feat. If the rapid strides with which our college has advanced during the present session are at all indicative of her success in the future, we might say that an enrollment of five hundred students for next session is not only possible but in fact highly probable.

We have indeed made marked progress during the present session. President Hull and his able band of assistants have demonstrated that the destiny of Millsaps College is in safe hands and that now as we near the close of the first year of the new era in her history, she is on a firm foundation, deep and broad enough for unlimited progress and with the most gratifying prospects for a brilliant future.

At the beginning of the present session the need of inter-collegiate athletics was felt and after a long fight this much coveted privilege was secured. Then came the need of an athletic field and as a result of this, Millsaps has today the best athletic field in Mississippi. This progress has by no means been confined to athletic lines, — we might mention any number of things that would demonstrate the success of the present school year. Suffice it to say that whenever the authorities in charge of Millsaps College see that she stands in need of anything, straightway, they provide the means and where-with.

So long as this condition of affairs exists, her progress will be unconfined. She is preparing well for a brilliant future.

Yes, Millsaps College is generously provided for, and we say to the boys of Dixie, "All things are now ready, come unto the feast." From the present time until the opening of school next session, the warmest campaign that has ever been waged in the interest of any school will be carried on for Millsaps. Dr. Hull and the faculty will do their part, but a few words on the part of each of the students will do much. Every student of this school should determine to assist in the good work. Every student, when he goes home this summer, should hunt up all the prospective college men and convince them that Millsaps College is the ideal place. We may then hope to open up on next September the twentieth with a register containing the names of not less than five hundred students.

Jeff Collins, one of the best men that has ever graduated at Millsaps, was on the campus two or three days of last week. Collins has been in the school work since he left here, but he has announced his intention of quitting this and taking up the study of the law. He will be either here or at Lebanon next year for this purpose. All hope that he will decide to come here.

President Hull went to Hermanville on Friday of last week where he made an address. The occasion was a high school track meet.

MILLSAPS HITS HARD LUCK.

In a Closely Contested Debate Millsaps Loses to Hendrix College. —Williamson and Peets Make Good Showing for Millsaps.

On Friday evening, May the 12th, while the Oratorical Contest was in progress at Gulfport, Millsaps men were waging another contest at Conway, Arkansas, against Hendrix College.

This contest was in the form of a debate on the question of "Initiative and Referendum." Millsaps lost the debate by a small margin. Williamson and Peets made a very creditable showing for Millsaps and the student-body is well satisfied with the efforts that they have put forth.

Both of the representatives report an excellent trip and from what they say, the students and faculty of Hendrix College must surely be hospitable a set of people.

It is hoped that this institution will send her representatives over here next session, and that Millsaps may be in a small degree able to reciprocate the many favors which they lavished upon our fellows while in their midst.

H. C. Henderson, of the present Senior Class, has been recently elected to fill the position of Superintendent of City Schools at Magnolia, Miss. Henderson is a strong man in college and an excellent school man and there is no doubt but that the Magnolia people have made a wise choice.

Prep Wasson, one of last year's graduates, was on the campus several days of last week. Wasson has many friends here, and they were all glad to see him. He has finished a successful year teaching.

LOCALS

Bish Terrell, one of the strongest men in last year's Senior Class, and President of that class, was on the campus visiting friends three or four days of last week. He has been teaching in the Prentiss High School, and has filled the place with great satisfaction to all concerned.

Work for the Home is work that will make two homes happy,—yours and the insured. Home Life Insurance Co., of New York, S. R. Whitten & Co., General Agents, Jackson, Miss. Special contracts to college men.

Rev. Randolph, a graduate of the College and a member of the North Mississippi Conference, led the chapel exercises one morning last week and made a very interesting talk in which he told of the changes that have taken place since his graduation.

J. T. Calhoun, an old Millsaps man, was on the campus last week, having come up for the Teachers' Association. Calhoun is Superintendent of Covington County schoo tendent of the Covington County schools, and has the reputation of being one of the best in the state.

MILLSAPS LOSES TWO GOOD GAMES.

Mississippi College Given Stiff Fight in Each Game.—Hodges and Butler Get Home Runs.

The first game with Mississippi College was lost to the visitors, though it was a good snappy game. Irving and Stringer each pitched a good game, the support given by Millsaps being rather below standard. Good batting by the visitors and slow fielding by the locals netted the Clintonians five runs. Hodges' batting was a feature, he getting a clean home run in the right garden.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

Flood Gates of Oratory Flung Wide. —Prof. Noble, Broom and Thompson All At Their Best.

The Galloway Literary Society celebrated its eighteenth anniversary Saturday evening, May 6th. A large and appreciative audience heard excellent speeches by Messrs. Fulton Thompson, J. W. Broom and Prof. S. G. Noble.

Thompson, the orator of the evening, spoke briefly but gave an excellent oration with the ease and grace of a veteran. Broom, the anniversarian, was master of his audience throughout, and with thrilling voice and graceful gesture held his hearers spell-bound, showing beyond doubt that he was Millsap's best orator for the M. I. O. A. this year. Prof. Noble, in his forceful and pleasing way delivered a masterful address on the subject of Education.

W. N. Thomas sustained his enviable reputation as a presiding officer on this interesting occasion.

The "Tennessee College Magazine" is always welcome to our desk. This magazine is put up on an excellent quality of paper and always has some good short stories.

"The Ring-Tum Phi" is as bright and newsy as ever. We are pleased to learn that Washington and Lee University has secured a chapter in the Phi Beta Kappa. This speak in the Phi Beta Kappa. This speaks well for the University.

ANNUAL TREASURER'S REPORT

To Millsaps Athletic Athletic Association, Submitted by E. Y. Burton.

To the Athletic Association:

I give below a Financial Report of receipts and expenditures for this school year.

At the beginning of the year, when I assumed the duties as Treasurer of the Association, I found a debt of $451.00 with a bank credit of $50.00.

A glance at this report will no doubt show a much larger amount of business than many would have supposed. I might say that it has not been our policy to see how little we could possibly go through the year on, regardless of results, but rather to do everything necessary to a successful year and get the money some where to pay the cost.

I wish to say here that Mr. Buie and Mr. Gunter stood by me in financing the season. They endorsed a $200 loan which was necessary in order to have money to advance on the season.

The following are some of the general expenditures:

1. The inter-collegiate campaign which included much literature and two trips; one to Sardis and the other to Hattiesburg. In this Mr. Buie did a great deal of typewriting and other work for which he made no charge. The entire cost of the campaign was $50.00.
2. A base ball coach, $100.00.
3. Paid on old debt, $100.00.
4. Work on washout on track and extra cinders and rolling, $150.00.
5. Uniforms, $84.00.

The following are some of the special sources of income.

1. Major Millsaps $50.00.
2. Special sale of $5.00 tickets by myself, $125.00.
3. Purple and, White, $50.00.

We are disappointed in the income from the inter-collegiate track meet. We fully expected to clear $200.00 on this occasion but at this writing we will do well not to lose any money.

All money paid to me direct is itemized in detail giving name of party paying same.

All money paid to Mr. Ramsey and assistant managers is itemized as far as possible. As you know there was a change in business managers and the new assistant managers did not get their instructions until after they had collected from some students.

Occasionally the manager paid ont money for base balls, carrying signs, printing, etc., from the receipts and turned in the balance. In such cases, the items do not appear in my report. Very seldom do you see a bill for for printing in this report. However, such things may be seen in the manager's note-book.

For a more detailed statement of some things I refer you to my day book of receipts and expenditures.

Probably a more elegant set of books should be kept in the future, and I suggest that the next treasurer be more business-like.

At the beginning of the season we agreed to redeem the base ball suits at the close of the season provided we had the money. As you can see we have no money for this purpose now. Had the Gulfport people lived up to their agreement we would have a nice balance on hand for this purpose.

We have a few outstanding obligations. We owe for some work on the field which can not be settled until the work is completed according to contract.

Considering the rainy season, the heavy expenses, and the poor returns from Gulfport, I think the Association has done well to pay out.

We have spent a great deal of money but have something to show for our year's work.

We are much in need of a bath house on Millsaps Field. This would cost $1500.00. In addition to this we need about $560.00 to spend on sodding, putting the cinder track in better condition and fixing up in general. And in addition to this we must provide for a doctor of base ball and track athletics.

We hope the trustees of the college will find a way to employ a first class man to direct all our athletic sports.

Our success this year is due to the hearty co-operation of every one connected with the college.

If we are a unit next year we can accomplish just what we start out to do. And there is a great work before us.

Respectfully submitted,
E. YOUNG BURTON,
Secretary and Treasurer.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Elects H. H. Boswell, President; D. D. Cameron, Vice President; and Prof. E. Y. Burton, Secretary and Treasurer.

On last Friday afternoon the Athletic Association of Millsaps College held the final meeting of the year.

The reports of the various officers and committees were submitted. The report of Prof. Burton, the Secretary and Treasurer of the Association was especially interesting.

The Chairman of the Executive Council reported that the following men had been nominated by them as managers of the various teams: L. C. Kirkland, foot-ball; L. W. Ramsey, base-ball; W. M. Colmer, track, and F. B. Smith, basket-ball. All of these men have shown their ability as managers and are recognized as the men pre-eminently fitted for the different positions.

H. H. Boswell, one of the leading men of the Sophomore Class, was chosen as President. Boswell has taken a great deal of interest in the work of the Athletic Association, and will no doubt make an efficient leader for next year. D. D. Cameron was elected Vice President by acclamation. Prof. Burton was re-elected Secretary and Treasurer by a unanimous vote.

The baseball team elected a captain for the ensuing year. "Jean" Morse, the popular second baseman, will fill that important position next year.

LOCALS:

Sam Lampton, who went home sometime ago on account of the death of his sister, has returned for his examinations. His many friends sympathize with him in his loss.

We were glad to hear that Miss Mary Linfield has succeeded in getting the Professorship of Latin in the Biloxi High School. Miss Linfield is in every respect capable of holding this position.

Flurry, who has been home on account of sickness, has returned to take the examinations.

S. E. Williamson has accepted the principalship of the Mozelle High School.

It's cruel to make a Freshman cut social stunts out for a few little exams.

Y. M. C. A. INSTALLS OFFICERS

Ends Very Successful Year.—Committees Appointed for Next Session.

At a special meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in the early part of the week the following officers were installed for the year 1911-12 President, R. E. Steen; Vice-President, H. H. Boswell; Secretary, D. D. Cameron; Treasurer, A. J. Beasley.

The president, Mr. Steen, has chosen the chairmen of his committees, and has appointed them as follows: Chairman of Bible Study, D. J. Savage; Mission Study, O. M. Reynolds; Devotional, J. W. Broom; Membership, Frank Scott; City Missions, J. E. Flurry; Advertising, P. F. Daniel; Music, G. C. Clark; College Night, W. M. Colmer; Employment Bureau, to be appointed.

The past year has been a very successful one for the Y. M. C. A. Something like eighty per cent of the entire student body was enrolled during the year, and a large number of men took part in the Bible Study and Mission Study classes.

The Devotional Department has been exceptionally well cared for by its able chairman, Mr. A. J. Beasley. Quite a number of very strong addresses have been given by the very best speakers that could be secured, and at the times when student leaders were in charge, good men conducted the meetings and made a success of them. The special music—a new feature added this year, has given more strength to the programs and has been a decided success. The very best talent of Jackson has been secured and each time has made the meeting a most enjoyable occasion.

The employment bureau, a new board, has done some fine work, having secured positions for at least twelve men. Next year it will be on a firmer basis and in shape to do a great deal better work. This board will be placed in strong and capable hands, as it is a very important part of the Y. M. C. A. work.

Our College Night, first instituted this year, resulted in much friendship and good cheer among all the fellows at the very beginning of the session. On this night everybody on the campus gathered in the College chapel where speeches were made, the different interests of the College such as athletics, Y. M. C. A., College publications, the Honor System, and the numerous other things which are important to all the fellows, were presented by the ablest speakers among the student body, and songs, yells, and a general good time were indulged in. This night always goes a long way in getting the new and old men acquainted, and in making the new men feel that they are at home. The new administration expects not only to continue this College Night, but to add new features to it where possible, in order to make it even more enjoyable.

The revival services of this year came at a rather inopportune time and therefore not as much interest was shown as would otherwise have been, but the sermons preached by Brother Percell were strong and powerful and resulted in a great uplift to all who heard them. The Y. M. C. A. owes Brother Percell much for the great work which he did while among us. The new administration has decided to change the time for the revival services to the fall term, and it is believed that this will be a better time from every standpoint.

The City Mission work, carried on by individual members this year, will next year be in the hands of a special committee, whose duty it shall be to look after this particular department. "A great door and effectual" is open to this committee, and the work offers opportunities for much good.

The incoming president believes in "hitching his wagon to a star," and he has chosen as the slogan of the Membership Committee, "Every man in Millsaps a member of the Y. M. C. A." The Bible Study Committee has set one hundred men as the minimum enrollment in its courses next year and the Mission Study Committee will not rest with an enrollment of less than fifty. The Treasurer proposes to continue the budget system, which has been used heretofore for the finances of the Association, and there is no doubt but that he will make a great success as he has always done in the different departments where he has labored in former times.

Several delegates will represent Millsaps at the great Southern Students' Conference at Montreat, N. C., this summer. This Conference is one of the greatest inspirations to a man that the writer has ever seen, and no man who possibly can go can afford to miss it.

President Steen is to be congratulated on the wisdom which he has already shown and a most successful year is predicted for him.

lists, and other data can be brouhgt before the public in a live readable form. And still better, a copy will be furnished free of charge to all students and visitors.

The following staff was elected at a regular meeting of the Senior Class on May the 8th:

H. C. Henderson, Editor-in-Chief.
T. W. Lewis, Associate Editor.
Miss Marguerite Park, Social Editor.
J. W. Holifield and A. A. Green, Jr., Reporters.
W. C. Coggin, Business Manager.
S. F. Hart, Assistant Business Manager.

In the hands of such a capable staff as this there is no doubt but that the publication, which is a new venture, will prove a great success from every standpoint.

GIVE CREDIT TO COLLEGE REPRESENTATIVES.

Not to assume to tell the Faculty its business, not to claim a grasp of the whole subject, not merely to fill space, we wish to call attention to the burdens that fall on the college man who is called upon to labor for his fellow students on the publications or in the various speaking positions where a man serves his college by the selection of the faculty. We speak not in our own behalf, for we get sufficient credit for the work done on this paper; but in behalf of the editor of the College Annual, the M. I. O. A. representative, and the men who take part in the intercollegiate debates, we wish to mention a few facts, and ask some questions. This could only benefit men in following years if heeded.

Usually, only a few men have the bulk of what is sometimes termed merely the "outside work" of college. These men have their regular work equal to other members of their classes; they must maintain a creditable class-standing, and also put their very best energy into the task of maintaining a high standard in publications or defend the college honor in oratory and debate. This involves much nervous strain in addition to the great amount of pure "boneing." Oftimes these men must neglect their regular work to cope with unforeseen emergencies. They dislike to plead the real reason and injure themselves with their instructors by not doing so at times. No regular provision is made for excusing them in such cases and they have to throw themselves on the mercy of the professor, besides being unable to arrange their work systematically. Hence, we ask, cannot some plan be devised by which, if they cannot be given credit on their degree, at least they may get some privileges that will

OUR LAST LONG SAY.

This being the last issue the present staff gets out, we cannot refrain from saying a few words to the generous and loyal faculty and student body, and the patient public, for being so good to us as not to knock or ridicule when there was every reason to do so. Our work is finished. We have done our best under the circumstances. We are well aware that there have been glaring weaknesses, mistakes, and blunders easily detected by practiced observers. Many of them we have seen ourselves too late to correct them. Perhaps in the whirl of college activity through which we have passed the worst faults escaped our notice entirely.

We offer no excuse now for our failures, nor shall we try to direct attention to any success we may have achieved. We believe that the public which has treated us so considerately in the past will judge us fairly now. We ask no more than this.

In the first issue last October we pledged our best efforts to make this a representative publication and one expressive of a true, clean cut, strong and creditable college spirit. This we have in our feeble way tried to do. It has been a high privilege and unmixed pleasure to do anything possible to promote the interests and welfare of the student body and our beloved institution.

The past year has been an eventful one and the happenings have been fraught with great consequences that are yet to unfold as time rolls on. A new President has come among us and won the respect and love of the student body. Millsaps has been given inter-collegiate athletics, and she has pledged, and insists that her games be of the clean, manly type. Major Millsaps has given us an athletic field that is the pride of all. The dormitory has been repaired and plans are made for further improvement fitting it for the use of the preparatory school next year. With an increased enrollment in every department activities have flourished and caught the spirit of progress. The Millsaps Science Association which Dr. Sullivan has so long desired has been organized. A new literary club has been formed. Millsaps Dramatic Club has made its appearance. A debate with Hendrix College has been added to our calendar. A commencement daily will be published this spring by the Senior Class for the first time. Our boys won the Southern debate and Broom won the medal at Gulfport. These and many other things, not the least of which is the arrangement for the Mississippi Inter-Scholastic Oratorical and Track Meet, go to make up this year's contribution to Millsaps history. A new spirit and life has appeared in our midst. We have learned to know each other better and love each other more.

To our lot it has fallen to write of and discuss these events. The editor has been given loyal and effective assistance by members of the staff and their labors have been greatly aided by the able contributions of others. Best of all the public has been long-suffering and kind. Our work under these conditions has been an inspiration. So many dreams we cherished a year ago have been realized that to keep pace with progress we must dream now of a Greater Millsaps.

What's the thumping, banging noise on the stairway? A trunk,—some fellows are leaving.

Respectfully submitted,
E. YOUNG BURTON,
Secretary and Treasurer.

Hollifield is soon to return home to begin his active convass for the position of County Superintendent of Public Education.

Jim Broom, who went by his home to spend a few days after the contest, has now returned for his examinations. He is looking mighty good now since he got that medal.

Dr. Sullivan went to Yazoo City to attend the District Conference which was held there last week.

Fred Wilkinson, after finishing his examinations, left last Thurs day for his home in Gloster. On leaving he said that he would be back next session. All his friends certainly hope that he will not be disappointed enable them to meet the extra strain on their energies? Should they be required to do this merely for the honor? They get practical training, at least as good and thorough as in their class-work. We speak from intimate knowledge and careful consideration when we say that the strain is too great for the honor alone.

We do not want any standard lowered, nor any favoritism shown. We know the demands made on a man's time and energies by this "outside work." and we speak for the men whom we know to be weary and heavy laden. True, they get the honor, this we admit. But they must guard the College's reputation, and it's unfair to expect them to neglect their own private interest unduly to do it. So, we ask again, is there no help, can the Faculty grant no relief? If there can be found a way under the conditions that exist, justice demands that it be given. Many of the men our students meet in inter-collegiate contests get either actual college credit or special consideration. Should our boys enter these contests with the handicap that they labor under when they work for honor alone?—Ed.

LOCALS

G. C. Clark, who has been at home for sometime on account of sickness has now returned to school and taken up his regular work. It may be interesting to say that he has his speech for the Chautauqua ready, and that it is a good one.

Dr. Hull preached a commencement sermon at Florence last Sunday, after which time he made quite an extensive trip through the Delta. Dr. Hull is working mighty hard for the College, and we have no doubt that his work is going to bear good fruit.

Some Seniors are taking all their "busts" now that time is short with them. The ten per cent rule ought to apply to exams., and it does,—a special costs just ten per cent of the thirty paid for tuition, see?

Bill Decelle, one of the jolliest boys that ever came to Millsaps, was on the campus one day last week. The fellows are always glad to see Bill, and extend him an invitation to come just any time he can.

"Bish" Rainey and Reed have been elected to lucrative positions in the Anguilla Graded School. They will no doubt have a good school next year.

VOLUME I. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 1911 NUMBER I

BISHOP W. B. MURRAH.

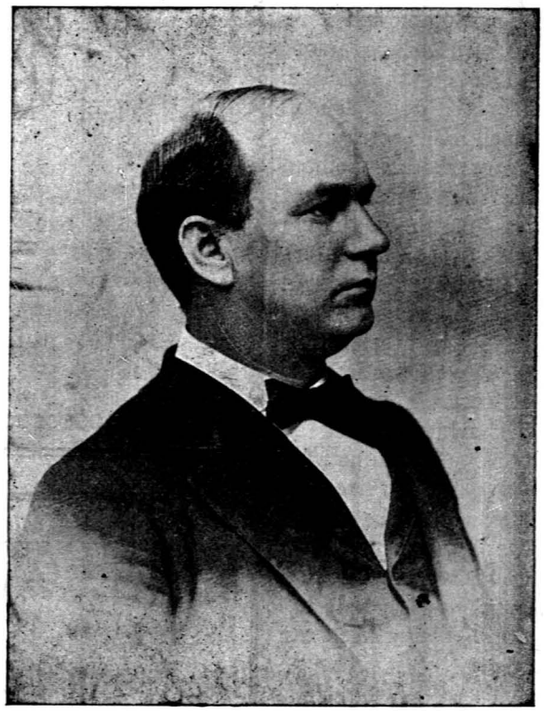

New President of Board of Trustees and Former President of Millsaps College.

The above is a cut of the new President of the Board of Trusetes, Bishop William Belton Murrah.

Bishop Murrah for eighteen years acted as President of Millsaps, in fact, was our first and only President until the year of 1910-11.

As President of Millsaps, Dr.Murrah placed the College on firm foundations and led it up to the point where it stood as one of the strong colleges, not only of Mississippi, but also of the South as a whole. The curriculum, always high, was raised gradually until now it ranks with the best schools and universities of the country. Today her degrees are recognized by such universities as Columbia and Vanderbilt and her students who enter these institutions for graduate work, always take high rank as well trained, capable men and women. Last year the church decided that it needed Dr. Murrah for a larger field of work and at the General Conference held at Asheville, N. C., it elected him to a place in its college of Bishops. Assigned to his field of labor, Bishop Murrah went to work with the energy and power which had characterized him as President of Millsaps College, and as he had won the love and respect of all the people of Mississippi in the first capacity so has he won the hearts of all wherever his work has called him.

Near the close of the session of 1908-09 Bishop Charles Betts Galloway, the President of our Board of Trustees, was taken from our midst, and Millsaps shared the sorrow of the whole world at his loss. The call came immediately for a man to fill the position left vacant by the loss, and feeling that no better man could be found anywhere than Bishop Murrah, the Board of Trustees at once elected him as its head. So it is that while the College has lost him as its President, it still has Bishop Murroh at the head of the Trustees, where he can go on aiding in the development and advancement of the Institution.

BISHOP W. B. MURRAH

KAPPA MU SORORITY ENTERTAINED.

One of the first social events of the commencement season was the entertainment of the Kappa Mu Sorority by Dr. and Mrs. J. E Walmsley, on Saturday evening, May the 27th, at 8:30 o'clock.

On this occasion the hospitable doors of the Walmsley home were thrown wide, and all who entered thereat found awaiting them a welcome from host and hostess that foretold the pleasure in store for them.

When all the guests had arrived and the usual lively chatter had held sway for some time, there were distributed among the guests pencils, and neatly folded paper that had all the symptoms of a guessing contest. When the papers were examined more closely, however, this diagnosis was found to be incorrect, for instead of questions there confronted each a most unpromising blank. All that could be seen was a girl's name at the top of each boy's paper. When the couples had in this way been arranged and all was settled again, the general suspense was then relieved by the announcement of the host that each girl and boy were to write a description of one another.

After some deliberation and much effort had been made to do justice to the inspiring subjects, the busy pencils had at last accomplished their tasks, and the papers were ready to hand in. Mrs. Walmsley read aloud each description to the intense amusement of all. Some were in most ornate prose, some in rhymic verse; all were works of art, unusually original and so accurate that it was an easy matter to tell "who was who, and why." Prof. J. M. Burton received a unanimous vote for the most excellent production. His was a rare blending of prose and poetry.

But this flow of soul was not all.

PI KAPPA ALPHA RECEPTION

The regular series of commencement receptions was opened in the chapter halls of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity on Wednesday evening, May the 31st, at 8:30. These receptions have been looked forward to, now, for some time, and if an estimate can be made so soon, judging from this first one, this year's program bids fair to excel all others.

The guests received from the Pi Kappa Alpha boys a most cordial reception. Ushered into the attractive halls, a scene of unusual interest met all comers. Excellent taste was shown in the decorations and the arrangement of pennants, etc. Here one was content to sit and watch the gathering throngs of maids and men. The conventional black and white and the delicate tints of evening dress in contrast; bright faces and merry laughter; all mingled in a lovely sight—a sight that cured many a heavy heart and exam-weary eye.

The evening was a warm one, but its oppressive heat was not felt here, for, by some one's thoughtful suggestion, there had been provided a plentiful supply of fans, which were a vast improvement on the filmy combination of lace and spangles that are usually supposed to furnish a breeze. Besides this, there was a spacious bowl of the coolest and most delicious punch within the easy reach of all. Its excellent quality was borne witness to by the many times it was sent in for replenishment.

The entire evening was given up to pleasant chats with friends and many and gay were the meetings with the old boys who had returned to their alma mater to enjoy the commencement season.

Delightful refreshments in the Frat colors were served, and when the time came for departing, all were loud in praise of the evening's pleasures.

OUR DEBUT.

It is with a great deal of pleasure, and yet with a sense of timidity that this new corps of editors present a new and untried experiment to the public.

Some years ago the then Junior class decided to organize and put out a weekly paper to be called THE PURPLE AND WHITE. Before this Millsaps had had only two publications, the Collegian, published monthly, and The Bobashela, the annual year book. THE PURPLE AND WHITE in a short time absorbed The Collegian, leaving again only two publications; but this time a weekly and annual, instead of the monthly and annual, as had been before.

From the very first THE PURPLE AND WHITE has been a decided success, since the very best men obtainable have constituted its staff. Today it ranks along with the weeklies of Yale and Harvard, and more than equals in every particular a great many papers from schools much larger than Millsaps.

It has fallen to the lot of the Senior class of 1911 to found our additional publication in the form of a four-page daily paper to be published during the days of commencement. After considering the matter carefully the staff, as given above, was appointed, and the success or failure of the, as yet untried, plan, placed in their hands.

It is, therefore, with a sense of great responsibility that the present staff takes hold and begins its new work. With the loyal support of every member of the class it is hoped that this, the first volume of THE COMMENCEMENT COURIER, may prove a success, and that it may with its success, become a permanent addition to the publications of Millsaps.

GREETINGS TO VISITING ALUMNI.

THE COURIER extends its greetings and welcome to the Alumni of the College as they gather again at our annual commencement exercises.

The closing of each year should be the time for a home-coming on the part of the Alumni, and a renewing of old friendships among all the old students of the College.

Nearly all of the boys' schools have an annual home-coming arranged by a committee appointed for the purpose, and a great deal of strong work is done to get the old fellows interested in the alma mater., and to keep them that way. An annual banquet is arranged, and plans made for a general good time on an evening devoted entirely to the Alumni. There is no reason why Millsaps should not work on just such a basis. The Alumni Association is organized and has been so for a long time, but the desired attendance has not been had thus far. The outlook for the College is, this year, brighter than it has ever been before. The whole state is waking up to the great prospects of the College, based on the strong and effective work which it has done in its past years,as shown by the men which it sends out. Now is the opportunity for the organized efforts of the Alumni to produce results. The student body has organized itself into a club with the avowed purpose of increasing next year's attendance to four hundred. Officers have been appointed and an active campaign will be waged during the summer. Why should not the Alumni back this club with efforts equally vigorous in order that Millsaps may grow in attendance as it has grown along other lines? Let us have a rousing meeting this year, and a strenuous effort put forth to develop the interest which all the Alumni of our Institution should love.

inated in the Preparatory Department.

The first speaker on this occasion was Samuel Simpson Sargeant, who spoke on the subject of "The Confederate Dead,." From the time he had spoken his first sentence until he closed everyone seemed intensely interested. Should Mr. Sargeant not be the winner of this medal, we predict victories for him in the future.

Next came Mark Judas Bailey, whose subject was: "The Unknown Speaker." By the time Bailey took his seat it was plain that the decision would be a close one.

The third man to speak was none other than Webster Hayne Newton. Subject: "Eulogy on Irham G. Harris." His voice seemed very much in trim, and he spoke with such a power that the whole audience was almost aroused to tears, by his beautiful tribute. Crowder Cleveland was the fourth speaker on this occasion, and proved himself truly a "Crowder." He spoke of "The March of Time." He spoke with such strains of eloquence that his opponents were made to shake in their boots.

The last man to appear before us was Fred Jones, from Sunflower County, Mississippi., whose ability as an orator cannot be enhanced. His subject was, "Regulus to the Carthagenians."

As the decision has not been rendered, we are unable to say who is the winner of this medal. We congratulate all the contestants, and to the four unlucky ones we just say, "Try, try again."

DR SULLIVAN SPRINGS A SURPRISE.

Refreshments Served Sociology Class After Exams.

At the close of the Senior Geology examination last week, Dr. Sullivan sprung quite a novel surprise. He was urging the class on to greater efforts in order that they might cover the questions well and do themselves credit in the way of grades, when there came a knock at the door, and in walked little Carruthers Sullivan with a freezer. The expression of anxiety which had rested on the Seniors' brow passed away like the mists before the morning sun, and a look of delightful anticipation took its place. The question at once arose in every one's mind as to how the contents of the freezer were to be served, for no dishes had been brought. Another unique surprise was in store here, too, for Dr. Sullivan, after searching 'round in the store room, brought out a number of evaporating dishes and the pineapple sherbet was thus served to the refreshment of everybody. Even those who felt that they had "busted" lost sight of everything but the pleasures of the moment and enjoyed the treat to the full.

The Senior Class wishes to express its most heartfelt thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Sullivan for this unique and delightful treat.

KAPPA MU ENTERTAINMENT

A course of most delightful refreshments was ample reward for the delightful efforts of the writers.

The evening was one that the "numbered few" present shall not forget. Not only will it be remembered for the genial hospitality of host and hostess,—of that the guests had partaken before,—but ti brought to light many a "Mute inglorious Milton," whose genius had been dormant year after year. Those whose privilege it was to enjoy the occasion were: Misses Bessie Huddleston, Carrie Wharton, Bertha Ricketts, Courtenay Clingan, Adele Knowles, Nettie Rogillio, Nellie Dodds and Margurite Park; Prof. J. M. Burton, Mr. Boswell, Messrs. Berry, Burkes, Enochs, Henderson, Williamson, andSavage.

The "'Varsity Voice" has shown marked improvement of late, both in the neatness of the paper and in the general quality of the articles published. We wish to congratulate the new staff on their excellent work.

VOLUME I. JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 1911 NUMBER 2

PRESIDENT HULL'S ADMINISTRATION.

A Success From Every Standpoint. —Popular Among Both Students and Patrons of the College.

Dr. Hull, the new President of Millsaps, has made a most decided success of his first year. As a man he has won the love and respect of every boy on the campus, and there is not a fellow who would not do all in his power to further his desires. That he is a man who has the ability to handle men is evinced by the standard of work which has been done, and the general co-operation of the student-body along every line.

Not only has President Hull reached the boys of the College, but he has also come into contact with the people all over the State in their high school commencement exercises and from the pulpit. As a public speaker and as a preacher he is recognized throughout the state as one of Mississippi's best.

Through an energetic campaign waged through all the year and more especially during the last few months of school nearly every part of the state has been reached by him and a large number of boys have decided to come to Millsaps that would not otherwise have made the decision.

Dr. Hull has already won for himself the name of "a maker of men," and there is no doubt that Millsaps so well and firmly started under the wise administration of Dr. Murrah, will continue to advance and develop under Dr. Hull's guidance and direction, and Mississippi's sons who are so fortunate as to become students at Millsaps shall indeed be made men.

SOPHOMORE ORATORY TODAY

PROGRAM IN FULL GIVEN BELOW.

The Sophomore Oratorical Contest for the Sophomore Medal, will take place in the College Chapel this morning at 11:00 o'clock.

This promises to be one of the most hotly contested struggles that has taken place in years for this prize. All on the programme are well trained speakers and a rare treat is promised to visitors.

The following is the programme in full:

F. T. SCOTT—"A Plea for Merchant Marine."

J. D. WROTEN—"Eulogy on Bishop Galloway."

R. I. JOLLY—"The Ideal Hero."

E. M. LIVINGSTON—"The Old Commoner."

O. M. REYNOLDS—"The Story of Sacrifice."

H. H. BOSWELL—"Eulogy on Bishop Galloway."

Music numbers will come at appropriate intervals.

COMMENCEMENT DEBATE

Progressive Income Tax Discussed.

For several years it has been the custom for each of the Societies to choose representatives who lock horns in debate on the first Friday night of each Commencement. Vital interest is always manifested in these occasions and much good results from this variety of friendly rivalry.

The debaters thrashed out the question as to whether we should have a progressive income tax or not. This proved to be a live, up-to-date question and interesting in the extreme.

Thomas and Wroten upheld the Galloway side of the question, while Smith and E. H. Green defended the Lamar side of the question. These gentlemen have all been members of their respective Literary Societies for several years and might be appropriately called finished products.

Great interest was manifested by the audience throughout the debate and all felt well repaid for having attended this "Battle of Wits."

FRESHMEN ENGAGE IN CONTEST FOR MILLSAPS DECLAMATION MEDAL.

One of the incidents to which we always look forward with pleasure during every commencement, is the Freshman Contest. This contest took place Friday, the 2nd, in the Chapel Hall. The speakers all came to us with an interesting message, having shown a great deal of the right kind of preparation. They not only had good speeches and spoke them well, but they succeeded in that one great purpose for which all speakers strive: that is none other than to hold the undivided attention of the audience.

There was not one of the speakers who took his seat, but was made to feel that he had done well by the thrilling applause that went up all over the house.

The first speaker to come before us was R. B. Burks. Subject: "Happiness and Liberty." Mr. Burks did not fail to put himself into the subject, and broke the ice without any hesitation.

The second speaker was Homer Wilson. Subject: "Eulogy on Grady." Mr. Wilson is a man on whom you can always depend when it comes to thinking on his feet.

KAPPA SIGMA ENTERTAINS.

Many Enjoy the Genial Hospitality of this Fraternity.

Last night the Kappa Sigmas entertained at their Annual Commencement reception. The hall was tastefully decorated with many pennants, skins, pictures, etc., and the colors, red, green and white were carried out with a pleasing effect. The fellows proved their skill as decorators and the result was enviable.

As hosts they covered themselves with glory and are due no small amount of praise for the success of the evening. The crowd was kept going from start to finish for everybody submitted cheerfully to the stirring process.

Almost the entire faculty and their wives were present. Many guests from other cities, alumni of the college, and visiting brothers of the chapter, came once more to enjoy such genuine hospitality. Old faces, which some of us remembered to have looked upon with awe years ago, made one think of prep. days.

The punch bowl was kept filled with a most satisfying beverage and occupied a very popular corner. The young lady officiating was kept busy quenching the thirst of a never-ending line of couples.

At the proper hour delightful refreshments were served and once more the company had reason to compliment the order of things.

The time of leave-taking came as a surprise to all, because such had been the pleasure of the occasion that no one dreamed of the lateness of the hour. The guests were unanimous in their praise of the unexcelled hospitality shown by the boys of Kappa Sigma.

Dr. W. T. J. Sullivan, one of the most faithful friends of the College has returned from a short visit to Grenada, Miss., where he has been in attendance upon the Commencement exercises of Grenada College.

DON'T BE A QUITTER!

Could a person stand off and view the world as a whole probably one of the saddest sights he would behold would be men who have the opportunity of getting a good and thorough education, and yet fail to take advantage of the opportunity and go out into life unprepared to meet its problems.

Probably nowhere are there more men who are found doing this than in our colleges today. Because this is an age of commercialism so many men who enter college feel that by the time they have completed their Freshman or Sophomore years they have enough knowledge to succeed in life, and that more is superfluous. They put up the plea that any further college work would not directly help them to make more money and that they therefore do not need it. A very fine example of the point under discussion may be seen in the history of the present Senior Class. The Freshman Class of 1907-'08 numbered about eighty-five and was one of the largest Freshman classes in the history of the College; but as the years have passed its ranks have thinned, and now as the Senior Class of 1910-'11, there are only twenty-one left. More than seventy-five per cent of this promising class have fallen by the wayside, and have gone out into different lines of work without the full college education which would have enabled them to become stronger and more capable men. Of course some of this number failed to stay with the class because of necessity, but quite a large number dropped out because they got tired and could not see the necessity for sticking to the job.

The call of the world today is for college men, men with broad and trained minds who are capable of advancement and whose limitations are not far from infinity. The lower positions in life are crowded because almost anybody can fill them; the positions of leaders and directors are vacant in a large measure and the demand for men who can fill them far exceeds the supply. Ask the honest conscientious man who has failed to complete his education at a college, and has gone out to meet the problems of the world without the needed training, and he will tell you that he feels sadly handicapped for the want of it.

The professional schools are realizing that to make a success as a professional man one must have not only training on one special line, but that a college education is almost an absolute necessity. The leading medical schools of our country today demand a college degree as one of their entrance requirements, and other professional schools are considering the same requirement. It has actually gotten to the point where a man must be educated to farm, and the great advance in the conditions of our rural districts is an argument for wise training which is unanswerable.

To those men who are undecided as to whether to come back to college or not, the editor would say come by all means. Come, even if it means a sacrifice and demands hard and persistent effort to make it, and when at last the goal is gained and the degree is conferred, there will not be even the shadow of regret for the time and money spent, but on the other hand, there will be a feeling of work well done and a preparation for the work to be done which is more than worth it all.

PERSONALS.

Gilbert Cook, of the Class of '08 spent a few hours on the campus some days ago. Cook is now one of the professors in Hargrove College at Ardmore, Okla., and is making quite a success of his work there.

The many friends of "Bob" Powell were glad to see him on the campus Wednesday.

Will Holmes, who completed his Junior work at Millsaps, was on the campus Wednesday and Thursday. Will is at present working in the bank in his home town. Every fellow is glad to see Will and to shake his hand

Campbell Yerger, a recent graduate of Mississippi College, was a pleasant visitor on the campus Thursday.

Robert H. Wright, a former student at Millsaps, now working in a wholesale grocery establishment in his home town, Grenada, was on the campus Wednesday and Thursday.

Will Holmes, of Tylertown, came up for a flying visit Wednesday.

Miss Annie Winter Harper who has been attending school at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va., has returned to Jackson, and will be at home during the summer at Miss Sullivan's on Park Avenue.

FRESHMEN CONTEST

He never fails to give you something good, and we are sure that all were thoroughly convinced of this fact from the attention given him Friday.

The third speaker was Victor G. Clifford. Subject, "Eulogy on R. E. Lee." Mr. Clifford came to us with much enthusiasm and interest. When he took his seat all knew that they were going to have a "close rub."

The fourth speaker was H. F. McGee. Subject, "Eulogy on Lafayette." From the first it was easy to see that this was not Mr. McGee's first attempt to make a speech. The expression on his face read, "If I don't win, I'll show them a good time."

The fifth speaker was J. C. Wasson. Subject, "Address of Gen Tayler to the Old Confederates' Reunion at Brownsville, Tenn." Mr. Wasson lived the days of the 60's over again for about fifteen minutes. Every hearer was interested in what he said.

The sixth speaker was A. W. Garraway. Subject, "The Dream of Man." Although Mr. Garraway was speaking of a dream, it is to be testified by all who were present that he himself was not dreaming.

The seventh speaker was W. M. Colmer. Subject, "March of the South." Mr. Colmer showed to the audience that he was a man of experience, and he seemed perfectly at ease from the beginning.

The eighth speaker was M. Ard. Subject, "Shakespeare." Mr. Ard did not let the number of speakers who came before him rattle him in the least. He spoke as if he had in his mind all the time, "All's well."

Last, but not least, comes the ninth speaker, Mr. S. L. Crocket. Subject, "Unknown Confederate." Dead." Mr. Crocket knew that he had a hard fight and he did not hesitate to put force into his speech hesitate to put force into his speech from the very beginning.

The winner in the contest will not be announced until later, and the medal will be awarded at the same time that those of the other contestants are delivered.

Kid Dorman and Jesse Halley, both of Itta Bena, made us a visit this week. They came through the country in an auto.

Tom Phillips's two brothers are here for Commencement to see the Honorable get his "dip."

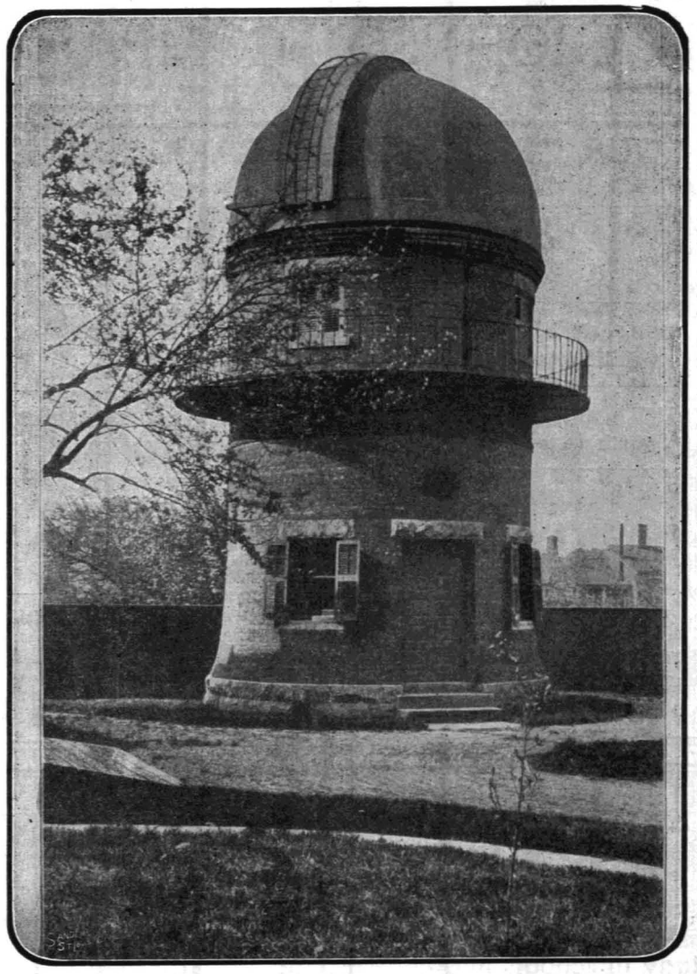

Mr. J. H. Stribling, of Philadelphia, is spending the week on the campus as the guest of Woodward Welsh.

Rev. Clifford of Yazoo City is on the campus visiting his son, Victor.

Hodgie Henderson, the efficient editor of this publication, is to be honored by the presence of his father and mother during Commencement.

Mrs. T. W. Lewis is the guest of her son for the week.

Lester Lewis sings (after having finished his exam under Dr. Swartz), "I'm going home to glory. Hallelujah!"

ODE TO THE OX.

Old ox, old ox, how came you here?
You've ploughed the farm for many a year,
With kicks and cuffs and much abuse,
You've now come here for college use.
Full many a year you've roamed the hills,
Thru sleet and snow and many ills;
Thru many years of younger life,
You roamed the prairie, free from strife.

We wonder in our inmost heart,
If 'twere your father played the part
And worked with Caesar in his train,
And needed not the guiding rein.

We know your forbears made much strife,
And caused the Stoic loss of life:
We get thee still, with all thy faults,
And shall till we're inclosed in vaults.

We work on thee with might and main,
And perspiration flows like rain;
We rave and swear like one insane,
But know you'll come in hash again.

His head was in a whirl;
His eyes and mouth were full of hair,
And his arms were full of girl.—Ex.

Who said to her lover named Priam,
To kiss me, of course,
You'll have to use force,
And the Lord knows you are stronger than I am.—Ex.

BISHOP DENNY PREACHES.

Commencement Sermon In Very Forceful Style.

A large and appreciative audience enjoyed the Commencement Sermon delivered by Bishop Charles Denny in the College Chapel on yesterday morning.

It was a masterful discourse, and all who heard it were inspired to nobler ideals and a higher plane of living. Seldom have the College, community, and people of this immediate vicinity, enjoyed the privilege of hearing anyone equal to Bishop Denny.

His sermon was especially prepared for this occasion, and was rich in thought and beautifully expressed.

It is hoped that the Bishop can see his way clear to pay us another visit when all the students may have the pleasure of hearing him.

PHI DELTA RECEPTION

Annual Event a Great Success.

Saturday evening was the occasion of much merriment in the hall of the Phi Delta Fraternity. Their annual commencement entertainment was a marked success from every standpoint.

More than an hundred guests enjoyed their genial hospitality and all lavished untold praise on the reception which they tendered their friends.

The halls were tastefully decorated with bunting and flowers in abundance.

The orchestra engaged especially for this occasion kept the air filled with beautiful strains of music, and a general good cheer and fellowship prevaded throughout the entire evening.

At the proper time delicious ice courses were served. In this as in all other features of the entertainment the delicacy of taste which the Phi Delta boys are noted for was evident.

The time for parting came only too soon and it was with reluctant tread that the guests made their way to their respective homes.

PROGRAMME FOR TODAY

SENIOR CONTEST.—AWARDING OF VARIOUS MEDALS.

The program for today promises to be a most interesting one. The Senior Oratorical Contest for the Carl J. von Seutter Medal which is always the last and best contest of the year will take place.

DR. SWARTZ WRITES NEW BOOK.

We note with a great deal of pleasure the publishing of a new book by Dr. M. W. Swartz, professor of Latin and Greek at Millsaps College. The title of the work is "On the Characteristics and Use of the Old in the Dramas of Euripides."

The discussion of the subject is taken up under two main heads, namely, I, "The Personal Characteristics of the Old," and II, "The Dramatic Characteristics of the Old." Under the first of these divisions, the religious sense of the old as compared with the young is thoroughly and clearly discussed and a great deal of light is thrown upon this interesting point. The religious sense of the young is especially well handled and is discussed at some length. The garrulity of the Old is considered also under the first division, and the causes, aspects and explanation of this trait are plainly and concisely considered. Other traits of the Old, such as conservatism, love of children, love of peace, and the other milder characteristics are also discussed.

Under the second division Dr. Swartz considers Euripides's uses of the Old in the dramatic parts of his plays. The poet has two uses here, the first being to engender a feeling of deep pity, and the second to enlist the sympathies of the audience. We quote these two passages from this section of the book bearing on these two points:

"Whenever Euripides desires to engender a feeling of deep pity in his audience or to portray sorrow profound and overwhelming almost beyond the power of humanity to bear, he makes an old person (or old people) the central figure in a scene or play."

"Whenever Euripides wanted to enlist and hold the sympathies of the audience in favor of any cause, he introduced old people as the

DR. H. G. HENDERSON DELIVERS Y. M. C. A. SERMON.

Dr. H. G. Henderson, formerly of Kentucky, now pastor of First Church, Columbus, preached a masterful sermon before the Y. M. C. A. last night. His discourse was along beneficial lines and was delivered in an attractive manner.

From the first, one was struck by the terseness of his English and his clear way of offering a truth. He advanced ideas of the serious nature of life and a simple conception of man's duties and obligations.

Throughout his sermon Dr. Henderson held the audience by his personality. His talk bore the impression of deep thought and sincerity. Millsaps shall always consider it a pleasure to welcome him, and in the future we shall expect his co-operation and help.

The quartette rendered appropriate music in an efficient manner. Their voices blended beautifully in the anthem, "Consider and Hear Me."

PERSONALS.

Mr. H. L. Whitfield, of Gulfport, is on the campus as the guest of Eugene Morse.

STAY TO COMMENCEMENT.

One of the most noticeable things which a visitor sees when attending our Commencement is the fewness of the students who remain for the closing exercises. The proportion of those men who leave to those who remain is entirely too large, and shows on the part of the general student body a lack of interest in the closing days of the session. Of course there are reasons why quite a number should go and it is perfectly natural that they should, but too many leave for no reason other than that they have completed their exams and personally have no part in anything further. The point is this, the man who has no part has himself to blame. There are contests for almost every class, from Preparatory to Senior, and the number of men who try for places has never gotten to the point yet where a choice had to be made as to the best speakers. Every man who has contested in the preliminaries has been put on for the finals. The conditions should be otherwise, for the number of men who can and ought to try for places far exceeds the number who stir up enough energy to contest.

Not only ought those who contest to stay, but every other man who can possibly do so should make it a point to remain for his own good.

A man leaving before commencement has really gone before he has gotten all the good from his year's course. The number of great and well known speakers who have been especially provided for the occasion expect to speak to college men, and therefore prepare their addresses especially for them. The opportunities given to hear such men are worth days of waiting. For instance, few of Millsaps's men who did not hear Bishop Denny yesterday will probably ever have the opportunity of hearing him.

So it will be with the other speakers. The opportunity of hearing them, once lost, will probably never return again, so that it behooves every man to take advantage of it.

A man should consider the matter long and carefully before he goes away and leaves so many good things, which will mean so much in his development and education.

This book is a dissertation presented to the Faculty of the University of Virginia as a part of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Doctor Swartz is also the author of "A Topical Analysis of the Latin Verb," a book which is used to great advantage in the early college Latin work. There is no doubt but that this new work will meet with great success among the lovers of good literature.

Clark Essay Medal—Miss Mary Linfield.

Political Science Prize — Miss Marguerite Park.

Seutter Oratorical Medal—R. C. Berry.

SENIOR SPEAKING AND ESSAY CONTEST.

It was with great interest that the audience assembled in the chapel Monday, June 5th. This was the Senior contest, in which there were only four contestants, two of whom were girls, put on by the faculty to read the essays which they had prepared in a contest for the Clark Memorial Medal. Notwithstanding the fact that there were only four in this contest, it was by no means a small affair. The young men had been engaged in several contests previous to this one, and it is needless to say that they showed on this occasion that all this work had not been in vain. The girls showed great preparation on their papers and held the interest of the crowd extremely well. The names of the speakers were as follows:

The first speaker was Jake Bingham, Subject, "The Power of Personality." Mr. Bingham came forward on this occasion with perfect ease. From the very first the audience was quiet and listened earnestly to his message. He not only did credit to himself, but to his class as well.

Next came R. C. Berry. His subject, was "A Plea for Civic Righteousness." Mr. Berry has been noted for some time for his good speaking, and at this time he did not fall short of the expectations of his friends and class-mates.

The next speaker was Miss Mary Barrow Linfield. Subject, "The Passing 'Quality Niggah.'" This subject well fits the excellent essay read and the delightful way in which it was handled does full credit to the long and careful preparation made.

Miss Marguerite Chadwick Park, the last essayist on the program discussed, "The Religious Element in the Negro Southern Dialect Poems." This topic, so rich in material for thought and pleasant reading was beautifully expressed and drew much applause from the audience. The award of the medal is mentioned elsewhere.

PERSONALS.

Bill Phillips, '10, has become one of those hard-working old farmers, but left his farm long enough to visit Millsaps.

R. P. Fikes, '05, is on the campus.

R. J. Mullins, '09, has just been given a month's vacation and dropped by on his way home. Bob is affiliated with a Y. M. C. A. in Iowa.

S. I. Osborn, '07, Law, '10, is here for the closing exercises.

J. D. Barbee, of Greenville, a trustee of the college, is with us.

Rev. S. M. Thames, of Minter City, is here today.

W. W. Woodard, of Greenville, is a visitor.

APPEAL TO ALUMNI.

On every hand signs of a healthy and substantial growth of Millsaps College are evident. Nineteen years for the life of a college might be expected to do little more than lift it out of the period of its infancy, yet this college has already taken front rank among educational institutions of the South, and at this very time is entirely upon a new period of definite progress and larger influence.

Throughout our own state Millsaps College has forced its way to an established place in the confidence of the people, not only through the generous aid of its benefactors but also by the high standard set for its operation, which has been maintained from the beginning.

There has been no retrogression in any particular, but a constant forward movement, until today those who are acquainted with the situation see evidence of a more rapid progress for the near futuore To depend on the magnificent generosity of the founder, Major R. W. Millsasps, or on the self-sacrificing loyalty of the Methodist ministry would be poor appreciation. Among the laymen there are those besides the founder who have responded nobly to the appeal of Christian education, yet in proportion to ability, opportunity and need, how little has been done, and what great things could easily be accomplished.

It is not the purpose of this article to appeal to its readers for gifts but for loyalty. President Hull has instituted a most energetic campaign throughout the state and wherever he goes friends are gained and loyalty stimulated. He and others will be canvassing during the summer, but our friends cannot do better than begin at once to fix students for Millsaps College. Larger results will be accomplished by systematic effort, and an appeal is therefore made for an organization of alumni and

WE PAY OUR RESPECTS.

This is the last issue of "The Commencement Courier" for the year 1911. We have tried to give you a paper that would supply a long felt need. Ne one is more aware of the fact that we have made mistakes than we are.

For our short-comings we make no apologies, for our merits we leave it to you to find them, if we have any.

With the material in hand we have given you the best paper that we could and hope that next year's class can give you a better one.

It is with regret that we leave you, but we feel sure that the present Junior class is worthy in every respect of your full confidence and will make excellent college leaders next session.

Adieu!

OUR FINALE.

The closing day of Commencement has come and with it the time to which every man looks forward from the very beginning of his college work, the day on which the degrees are to be conferred and the diplomas delivered. The seniors have at last by their hard and persistent efforts during the years that have passed acquired the privilege of receiving these degrees and diplomas which mark them as having completed their academic work at Millsaps College. The Juniors feel their hearts swell with pride and anticipation as they think that now they are prepared to take their places as Seniors of the year 1911-12, and at the close of that session which is to come receive their degrees and diplomas. The Sophomores and Freshmen each feel great pride in the fact that they have advanced a class and will next year be Juniors and Sophomores.

But while the Seniors rejoice that the final reward of work well done is so far as the college is concerned to be awarded today, yet there should be a feeling of responsibility as each man receives his diploma. There can be no doubt but that each Millsaps graduate is a marked man and that great things are expected of him and will be expected of him by all the people with whom he shall come in contact.

That quotation which says, "to whom much is given shall much be required," is as true here as anywhere. A good thorough training is what every man has received and the degree of the college marks it as such. Whether the graduate's reputation and that of the college shall stand depends on the record which the graduate makes after leaving college. As a man is careless and thoughtless of his work in which he is engaged, so will the college whose stamp he bears be graded as a school from which careless and poorly trained men are turned out. Millsaps's record today is almost unsullied by failures among its graduates, and today there is a demand all over the state for her men. The statement has been made by local school boards seeking teachers that the fact that a man is a Millsaps man is all the recommendation that is necessary for securing a position. The records made by Millsaps men at other schools where they have gone to take post-graduate work has been enviable.

The call then comes to the present Senior Class as it goes out to begin its work in the world is to uphold the record already made, and to advance the interests of old Millsaps wherever each member shall go. Do not forget the old days, but be loyal to the alma mater by word and deed.

ANNUAL RECEPTION BY KAPPA ALPHA FRATERNITY.

Seldom has a livelier party of young people gathered together than the one which shared the hospitality of the Kappa Alpha boys last evening.

Nothing that tended towards the comfort and entertainment of their guests had been left undone. So complete was every feature of the entertainment, in every detail, that had it not been known that the K. A. boys were the hosts, former students of Millsaps College in every county of the state. Begin such organization now. Plan for work and then work the plan. Further outline of purpose and plan will be given through various papers at an early date, but correspondence is solicited at once from all who are interested in the movement.

Former students, now is the time to show your loyalty and make your interest in this great institution active and practical. The editoral address to alumni that appeared in the first issue of the Courier was timely. Let us not only prophesy a great future for Millsaps College but make it a great college for a greater future.

KAPPA ALPHA RECEPTION

one might have been greatly surprised.

The color scheme was carried out with a delicacy of taste worthy of comment. Beautiful flowers and ferns lent freshness and life to the pretty parlors of the Chapter House. The refreshments were of the most delicious kind and here as elsewhere, the old gold and crimson, the frat colors were in evidence.

The fascinating music by an excellent orchestra was another thing that helped to keep all in high spirits.

Many alumni and visiting friends were present to enjoy the evening. All spoke in the highest terms of the delightful way in which the Kappa Alpha boys entertained.

The hour for departure came with such swiftness that no one could realize that it could possibly be so late. All departed singing the praises of K. A.
